From three of many enthusiastic letters highly commending

The Land We Live In

THE BOYS' BOOK OF CONSERVATION

By Overton W. Price

Vice-President National Conservation Association

WITH A FOREWORD BY

GIFFORD PINCHOT

President National Conservation Association.

Mrs. John T. Sterling, Vice-President General of the D. A. R., says:

"I have read it carefully with one of my sons, and we are both charmed with it. As the mother of three sons, I think I know quite thoroughly what boys like, and I know that nature interests them deeply, and when given to them in the attractive form of The Land We Live In, it must certainly be an enthusiastic subject for them. Indeed, my own interest in Conservation was first aroused by my eldest son, whose love for nature led him to read stray articles on the subject, and since then Conservation has been a live topic in the household, with the names of Mr. Overton W. Price and Mr. Gifford Pinchot as its chief apostles.

"I shall gladly do what I can to bring the book to the attention of the D. A. R. and to any others who may be interested in the subject or who ought to be.

"As a product of the publisher's art the book is a gem, while the subject matter is so scientifically correct, so engagingly presented and so ennobling in tone as to be a triumph for the author and an inspiration to the reader."

James E. West, General Secretary of The Boy Scouts of America, says:

"I do not hesitate to recommend it strongly as a book which will be of interest and profit for every growing boy to have, especially those who have red blood in their veins, love nature and the great open. I feel quite sure that many of those interested in the Scout Movement will secure this book for the benefit of the boys with whom they are working."

Hon. Robert P. Bass, Governor of New Hampshire and President of The American Forestry Association, says:

"The Land We Live In serves a purpose which has hitherto been overlooked. It is only by the education of the young that we can hope to accomplish the purposes that lie deeply in the hearts of all those interested in Conservation. There is nothing more difficult than imparting knowledge to the young in an interesting way, so that the attention of the child will be fixed for a sufficient time to have the principle impressed upon his mind. It seems to me that this book has very happily met this difficult problem, and that it ought to interest the youth of the country.

"I think it will have very wide distribution not only in libraries, but also in the schools."

"Unquestionably the season's noblest gift for boys and girls"
