Lafayette Is Entertained by Congress At The WILLARD

With a brilliance typical of early American hospitality, the Colonial Congress entertained Lafayette at the old Willard (then known as "Fuller's") on his famous return visit to America.

Today—at the new Willard—representative American women gather once a year to carry forward the traditions that inspired men like Lafayette. Between these annual convention meetings, your personal visits to Washington will be made more pleasurable by the convenience, the superior comforts, service and modern accommodations of this historic hotel.

The Willard is the center of Washington's social and diplomatic life...two blocks from the White House, one block from the U. S. Treasury, convenient to Shopping, Theater and Financial Districts.

The President General’s Message

A CENTURY OF PROGRESS! Not only does the event invite, but the very words stimulate the imagination and whet one’s mental appetite—they are so declarative. One hundred years of advancement! A subject worthy of contemplation and study.

The miracles of Light—Color—the Arts and Sciences unfold in kaleidoscopic manner. Fast achievements lead up to an efficient present and bridge tomorrow’s promise.

Applied knowledge amazes the mind—eyes and ears—The Fair strikes the modern tempo—and in the daily rhythm of life all groups and societies must fall in step, march forward, face facts as they come—learn to evaluate them—discard the superfluous and embrace the essentials.

Step forward, not back; look up, not down; build character and seek truth; shun anything less.

Many National and State Officers attended the very successful June meeting in Chicago. With headquarters beautifully furnished and hospitably open to visitors in the Social Science Building—with one thousand members gathered at a luncheon on the fair grounds and with impressive Flag Day exercises attracting widespread attention, the National Society demonstrated its awareness of present-day methods.

True always to a glorious past—it is meeting immediate conditions with alertness, planning attractive programs for the coming year—assisting new members—urging the study of such subjects as will make members better informed on current topics. Contemplating congenial groups in chapters which, formed as committees, can become a contributing, as well as a social unit of a chapter. Constructive publicity and radio education and development demonstrate that the patriotic woman power of today will project its advancing radiance into the second half of its own life’s century.

National Board Convenes in Chicago

AMY CRESSWELL DUNNE
National Chairman, Publicity Committee

THE Century of Progress Exposition, we are told, has for its purpose the demonstration of the progress made by civilization since 1833, when Chicago was a straggling village of some three hundred inhabitants. In a remarkable and rather breath-taking fashion this Exposition has portrayed the advancement of the human race during the past one hundred years, during which time progress has been greater than in the preceding one thousand years. Those of us who remember our grandparents can perhaps in some degree comprehend the world of a hundred years ago—a hand-working world without electricity and without any of the inventions which have annihilated space and have remade the world. This unique exposition attempts to dramatize that progress.

Though not quite half a century old, the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, keeping step with the progress of the world, accepted the invitation of the Century of Progress Exposition to come to Chicago and take part. In the Social Science Building the National Society maintains headquarters in a room furnished in a beautiful and dignified manner in early American furniture. Here hostesses from the several states preside and answer questions and distribute literature relative to the work of the Society. The President General, Mrs. Russell William Magna, was invited to come to Chicago and deliver an address on Flag Day. She accepted the invitation and, as a matter of expediency, it was decided to hold the June National Board meeting at that time.

This was the first time in the history of our Society that a meeting of the National Board of Management has been held elsewhere than in Washington. In a crowded elevator in the Palmer House the evening after the meeting, some one interrogated a group of National Officers, wearing their wide blue ribbons, as to what organization they belonged and when told we were attending a meeting of the D. A. R. National Board, an interested gentleman, laboring under a fixed impression, declared that our society never met anywhere but in Washington.

Keeping step with the progress of time, yet holding fast to those ideals and standards which are our heritage, Mrs. Russell William Magna, our President General, and leader of a hundred and sixty thousand members of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, after an airplane trip halfway across the continent from her home in Holyoke, Mass., was met by Mrs. Charles E. Herrick, chairman of the Century of Progress Exposition Committee, and quickly whisked to her summer home on the Wisconsin lakes near Chicago, for a week-end visit.

The official program opened Tuesday morning with a meeting of the State Regents at 10 o'clock at the Union League Club, and was followed by a meeting of the National Board of Management at 2 o’clock at the same place.

At 1 o’clock Tuesday, Mrs. Herrick entertained at an elaborate luncheon in honor of Mrs. Magna, in the Union League Club. Mrs. Rufus E. Dawes, wife of the President of the Century of Progress, was also a guest of honor. The guests included the National Officers, the Vice-Presidents General, and the State Regents who attended the National Board meeting; Mrs. William Butterworth, Honorary Vice-President General, and the members of the Century of Progress Committee. The long oaken table was beautifully decorated with peonies and gladioli—the gladioli having come from the Georgia home of Mrs. Herbert Fay Gaffney, Vice-President General. Mr. Herrick dropped in and distributed Century of Progress playing cards as favors to the guests.

The Illinois State Organization gave a large and beautifully appointed dinner Tuesday evening at the Palmer House in honor of the President General and the National Board of Management. Mrs. Julian G. Goodhue, State Regent, presided, and was assisted in entertaining by the State officers: Mrs. Samuel James Campbell, Vice-Regent; Mrs. Loren B. Sackett, Recording Secretary; Mrs. Charles F. Pflager, Corresponding Secretary; Miss Helen McMackin, Treasurer; Mrs. John B. Tornof, Historian; Mrs. George M. Spangler, Registrar; Mrs. Lucien M. Lindsey, Librarian, and Mrs. B. C. Van Leer, Chaplain. Mrs. Ruth Braun, accompanied by Mr. Charles Lurbey, contributed to the pleasure of the evening with a group of songs.

In the calendar of the National Society, Wednesday was D. A. R. Day at the Exposition, with Illinois as hostess. A tour of the grounds for the President General and the National Board of Management began at 9 o'clock. A bus was provided with a guide to point out the spots of interest. At 11:30 the tour ended at the Blue Ribbon Casino, where a breakfast, attended by 976 guests, was given by the Illinois Organization in honor of the President General and the National Board of Management. The huge pavilion was filled with D. A. R. members who had come for the special Flag Day exercises. At 1:30 a procession was formed leading to the steps of the Federal Building. Heading the column three companies of the 6th Infantry, U.S. Army, escorted the procession, preceded by the Infantry Band.

 Immediately following were the sixty-one white-clad pages carrying the National Emblem, D. A. R. Banner and the Flags* of the forty-eight states as well as those of the countries in which chapters of the Society are located. Next in line of march were the Ex-state Regents of Illinois, the State Officers of Illinois, members of the National Board of Management, Mrs. Charles E. Herrick, Chairman of the Committee, and Mrs. Julian G. Goodhue, State Regent of Illinois, who immediately preceded the President General, Mrs. Magna, and her pages. Members of the organization brought up the rear of the procession which proceeded through one end of the Science Building to the west entrance of the Federal Building, where a hollow square was formed on the steps; there the first part of the ceremony was held, as the Flag of the Nation floated proudly aloft. First came the roll of the drums, Call to the Colors, "The Star-Spangled Banner," followed by the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. Mrs. Charles E. Herrick, Chairman of the Exposition Committee, presided. Mrs. Raymond G. Kimbell, Chaplain General, gave the invocation, which was followed by a short inspirational address by Dr. Allen D. Albert, Assistant to Rufus E. Dawes, President of the Century of Progress Exposition. The President General gave an original poem she had written for the occasion and the processional wended its way to the North Hall of States where the second part of the Flag Day program was held.

This Hall of States, decorated in the prevailing colors of the exposition, was christened by the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution in their Flag Day exercises, in the presence of an audience which packed the place to standing room. The President General delivered a spirited and appropriate Flag Day address, which was enthusiastically received by the large and attentive audience.

Music was furnished by Miss Hazel Eaden, former member of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, who sang a group of patriotic songs with Dowling Briggs, composer, at the piano.

At the close of the program the President General and the National Board of Management were entertained at tea in the Directors' Room of the Administration Building by the Committee of Hostesses for the Century of Progress Exposition. Mrs. Dawes had receiving with her the President General and Mrs. Leischam, a member of the hostess committee.

* The bunting flags of the States for use in outdoor processions were presented by the Illinois D. A. R. and are to be sent to Washington, our national headquarters, for the use of our Organization.
Tea was served on the spacious glassed-in veranda. After a brief rest, the various groups dispersed to look at some particular exhibit which had caught their attention.

Mrs. Raymond G. Kimbell, Chaplain General, was hostess at dinner to the President General, Mrs. Magna, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Herrick and the National Officers, Mrs. Joy, Miss Nettleton, Mrs. Dunne, Mrs. Dick and Miss Hazard in the Horticulture Building. The Vice-Presidents General dined together in the Casino, as did the State Regents, all to meet again at the Adler Planetarium.

In the interim, footsore but nothing daunted, the several groups scattered for last looks at the interesting objects. The President General and the National Officers formed a weird procession in wheel chairs to the Hall of Religion where Henry Stanley Todd's painting of the Christ forms part of one of the exhibits. After a brief stop, the procession wended its way to the Planetarium, one of two in the whole world. This is a permanent building whose huge dome is made in simulation of the canopy covering the earth and here again as guests the members of the Board of Management, listening to an interesting and instructive lecture, watched the sun, moon and stars put through all their paces. The constellations of both the northern and southern hemispheres were shown in their daily movements, as well as in their positions as time progresses.

Out into the bright light, and "so to bed," as the curiously fashioned structures in chromatic colors, blending in a strange medley that is somehow harmonious, faded in the distance. One can but wonder what chattering old Pepys would have written in his diary had he viewed all the "exciting scenery" it was the privilege of the members of the Board of Management of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution to enjoy.

A strange age and an overwhelming opportunity for service. To whom much is given, much is required.
THE FLAG

You are the soul of a nation.
The pulse that quickens thee
Gives breath and life and spirit
On to eternity.

You are the nation's anthem,
Music to young and old,
Envisioned choirs singing
Of promise in thy fold.

You are the nation's beauty,
Undimmed by time and age,
Standing for youth eternal,
With the wisdom of a sage.

Unconquered in thy glory,
Unfurled where e'er you are,
You speak with pride and honor
One word—America.

Oh flag of my own country,
How very dear you are,
A beacon light eternal,
A firmament and star.

The centuries are passing
Where history is trod,
But you are all enduring
For Country, Home and God.

—Edith Scott Magna.

D. A. R. Headquarters at the Century of Progress

MABEL H. HERRICK
Vice President General
Chairman, Century of Progress Committee

At the State Conference of Illinois, held in Quincy, in March, 1932, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolution No. 5

WHEREAS, The approaching Century of Progress Exposition to be held in Chicago in 1933 promises to be of world-wide interest and of great benefit to mankind, and
WHEREAS, The National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, in its infancy, was actively represented at the World's Columbian Exposition of 1893, and
WHEREAS, The custom of having headquarters and exhibits of our Society at such exhibitions has been universally followed, headquarters having been maintained at the Cotton State Exposition, at Atlanta, Ga.; at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo; at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis; at the Paris Exposition; at the Charleston and West Indies Exposition; at the Alaska-Yukon and Seattle Exposition; and at the Jamestown, Va., Tri-Centennial Exposition;
Therefore, be it
RESOLVED, That the Illinois Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, in State Conference assembled on March 16, 17 and 18, 1932, forward to the National Society which convenes in Washington in April, 1932, a reminder of this past activity, urging that measures for continuing the precedent established by our Society be actively taken.

MRS. ROBT. C. McMANUS.
MRS. T. HENRY GREEN.
MRS. GEORGE T. PAGE.
MRS. JULIAN GOODHUE.

A copy of this resolution was sent to the National Board of Management, and it presented the following resolution to the Continental Congress which convened in April, 1932:

RESOLVED, That the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, participate in the World's Fair, Chicago, Illinois, 1933, the expense not to exceed $2,500.00.

Following the Continental Congress, the President General, Mrs. Magna, appointed the following committee on Century of Progress Exposition: Mrs. Charles E. Herrick, Chairman; Vice-Chairmen: Mrs. Charles F. Bathrick, Mrs. James B. Crankshaw, Mrs. Henry Bourne Joy, Mrs. Raymond G. Kimbell, Mrs. Walter L. Tobey. Members: Mrs. Howard Bailey, Mrs. Joseph A. Branson, Miss Minnie M. Dilley, Mrs. Bessie C. Higgins, Mrs. James H. McDonald, Mrs. Asa C. Messenger, Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne, Mrs. David J. Peffers.

After the Continental Congress of 1933, one Vice-President General and two new State Regents in the Central Division were added to the Committee: Mrs. James Trottman of Wisconsin, Mrs. Julian G. Goodhue of Illinois and Mrs. Mortimer Platt of Missouri.

This Committee held meetings in Washington in October, 1932, and February and April of 1933, and made plans for the headquarters at the Century of Progress. These plans were carried out, and on May 27th, the first day of the Fair, the room was opened to the public, with Mrs. Raymond G. Kimbell and Mrs. Charles E. Herrick as hostesses.

These headquarters are situated on the second floor of the Social Science Building, where you are greeted by the sign "D. A. R." over double French doors, leading into a room 15 ft. by 35 ft. The room faces East. On the South wall there are two windows overlooking the Lake and the Electrical Group of the Fair. The walls are painted a warm old ivory, and the draperies at the windows are old gold and tan.

On the walls hangs a picture of our President General, Mrs. Magna; with a picture of our Washington headquarters on one side, and an interior view of Constitution Hall on the other. Another interesting picture group is that of Mrs. Mary Virginia Ellett Cabell, who presided over many of the early meetings of our Society; her home where meetings were held; and probably the only picture in existence of the members of the first Continental Congress. A picture of George Washington occupies a prominent place also; and a photograph of the exercises at the "Tomb of the Unknown Soldier" at Arlington.

The furniture in the room was loaned by Mrs. Harriet Prentis Bougearel, a member of the General Henry Dearborn Chapter. It consists of the following:

The walnut tip and turn tea-table, with snake feet, which was made about 1730. There is a table like this in the American wing of the Metropolitan Museum.

The pair of mahogany drop leaf-tables are Sheraton, and were made about 1780.

The cherry desk was made about 1780. It is from Philadelphia and shows a Hepplewhite influence.

The cherry chair with the rush seat in front of the desk is American. It is a transition between Chippendale and Hepplewhite, showing the influence of each. It was made about 1775.

The Constitution mirror hanging over the desk came from Baltimore and was made about 1780 or 1785.

The Chippendale bonnet-top clock was made by Nathaniel Brown, in Manchester, England, about 1760 or 1770.

The walnut Hepplewhite high chest was made in Philadelphia about 1780 or before. This is not a highboy; but a Hepplewhite high chest.

The fireside chair is from Maryland, and was used during the Revolutionary period.

The roundabout maple turned chair was made in the 17th Century. There is a chair like this in the American wing of the Metropolitan Museum.

The small mirror was made by Elliot of Philadelphia, an early cabinet maker.

The six Chippendale chairs are reproductions; but are perfect in style, and are the style of chair very popular during the Revolution and after.

The Duncan Phyfe sofa was made about 1820. It is the only piece of furniture in the room not in period.

Antique lamps and vases help to make the room homelike.

The following motion was adopted by the National Board on June 13, 1933:
That we accept the gift of a desk pen set from Mr. W. A. Sheaffer in memory of his wife, member of Jean Espy Chapter, Fort Madison, Iowa, to be used at the Century of Progress Exposition.

"How beautiful and restful" is the comment of many as they enter the doors. The modern folding chairs are comfortable and furnish extra seats for those who wish to rest for a while.

The room is put in order every morning by the Registrar of the Gen. Henry Dearborn Chapter, Miss Carrie M. Crowe. She greets the two hostesses who come to take charge during the day and evening. Each one of the eight States in the Central Division is responsible through its State Regent to provide two hostesses each day for 19 days—that covering the entire period of the Fair. These hostesses greet both members and guests, and make them feel at home.

June 14th will long be recalled as the day when the President General, members of the National Board of Management, and many Daughters visited headquarters. The pictures accompanying this article, except the one on this page, were taken then. The hostess for the day reports that at least 1,000 persons entered our doors.

Many were very glad to take with them copies of "What the Daughters Do"; "How to Become a Daughter of the American Revolution"; and the National Publicity Committee Bulletin: "National Defence Embodying Patriotic Education." Committee material is also there as well as the D. A. R. Magazine.

That the work of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be much better understood for having this headquarters, is the belief of the Committee.
The Hall of Religion
Century of Progress Exposition

EDITH SMITH KIMBELL
Chaplain General, N. S., D. A. R.

NO GREATER progress has been made in any field of mankind's thinking than in the interpretation of God. Spectacular advances in the material realm are displayed at the Chicago Exposition, to the never-ending wonder and delight of visitors; but equal progress has been made in spiritual understanding. And the call of Religion from this Hall beside the road, "where the race of men go by," is one of the significant features of this World's Fair.

The building is similar to its neighbors in appearance and construction, and overlooks the lagoon, just south of the 23d Street entrance to the grounds.

Over the doorway we read "Righteousness Exalteth a Nation." Through it we enter an octagonal rotunda, from which two great wings extend, north and south.

Eight religions of the world are represented on the upper walls of this rotunda, depicting the spiritual aspirations of peoples in differing ages and climes. These remarkable murals are the work of A. C. Rindskopf. The first of them, opposite the entrance, is a panel with symbols in the picture language of the American Indian, expressing his love of the rain and the sun, and the growing crops, guarded by The Great Spirit. Next to it is the classic simplicity of Greek design, a small temple, an urn, a strip of key border; and a thought from Cleanthes, the stoic philosopher, “For we are also His offspring.”

The Hebrews' outstanding faith in Divine Law is pictured most interestingly. Life as a great storm, with lightning and swirling Nature, is driven toward a tremendous rock, upon which the Tablets with the commandments are held, firm and immovable. A hint of Egyptian captivity, the desert tents, and a Hebrew quotation complete the story. The Zoroastrianism of Persia depicts the lion of Cyrus; fire on an altar symbolizes the aspirations of man's spirit; a quotation indicates a dignity of faith, and kinship with a great god, Ahura Mazda.

Buddhism in a Chinese setting comes next, its bright colors showing their conception of the festive nature of worship, while a Dravidian Temple against a flaming sky represents India, the birthplace of Hinduism. The Christian panel carries a great cross, towering over the words “Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.” A Gothic cathedral spire and a pew end indicate worship as we know it. And the last panel is the Mohammedan's, with his star and crescent, and quotation from the Koran.

In the center of the rotunda is the silver chalice from Antioch, a priceless example of the earliest Christian art. Constantly guarded day and night, it is being displayed for the first time to the public.

Entering the north wing, we find the co-operative exhibit of American Protestantism; their publishing houses' displays; the educational, evangelistic and philanthropic aspects of their church program. Twelve more murals by Rindskopf represent the worldwide scope of today's religion.

A great bas-relief, “Come Unto Me,” in ivory plaster against a soft black background, dominates this hall. It is the work of Lorado Taft, and is based upon Bloch's famous fresco in the Fredericksburg Castle, near Copenhagen. A massive figure of Christ, with outstretched arms, is surrounded by figures symbolic of seven types of humanity finding their comfort and courage in response to Him. Nearby is the lovely new “Nazarene,” by Col. Henry Stanley Todd, an American artist, in its first public exhibition, and already famous.

Old treasures are displayed in glass cases; a first edition of “Calvin's Institutes” in Latin, published at Geneva in 1597; a history of Presbyterianism by Peter Heylyn, D. D., Chaplain to Charles the First, yellowed with age; an old Congregational Temperance book; a letter written by John Wesley just a month before he died, dated February, 1791, and Conference minutes signed by Francis Asbury. Many, many books catch our interest and we wish we might leaf over some of them—the title “Hymn Book and Constant Companion of the Pious” is intriguing!

There is a plaster model of a Colonial Meeting House, with transparent side to show the interior; and a great contrast in another model of Methodism's Chicago Temple, a towering combination of church and office building, the only house of worship in the busy loop.

Back through the rotunda we see the American Bible Society's corner. Here is a first edition of the King James version of the Bible—published in 1611, a treasure indeed; a facsimile of Gutenberg's illuminated Bible, dated 1451, and a display of Braille most interesting. The first piece, a small sheet, dated 1833—just a few words of the Bible, but precious because readable to eager finger tips. And the 1933 Braille Bible is complete as yours and mine! Very clever are the dioramas showing translation of the Bible (935 languages and dialects), its printing and distribution, and Helen Keller with the first complete Braille Bible, which was in 12 red-bound volumes. There is a case with examples of one-cent portions in nine languages, and here, too, are interesting murals.

The south wing begins with a display of the Salvation Army, its founders and the scope of its philanthropies. The blessed helpfulness of the Near East Foundation is on record next to them. This is the extension of what we used to know as the Near East Relief. The children who were saved by its ministrations following the World War now are the young men and young women serving as ambassadors of the Foundation. A four-fold program of teaching Health, Agriculture, Homemaking and Spiritual Cultivation is carried to the neglected peasantry of the Near East. It is completely interdenominational and non-proselyting—truly a great forward step. This is the homeland of our own religion; these under-privileged people our spiritual kin. A huge map, colorful weaving and embroidery, pictures and slides tell the story, under the direction of Mr. Barclay Acheson, executive secretary.

The Hebrew exhibit holds ancient manuscripts and scrolls, ritual accessories and many precious symbols of their faith. Perpetual light over the Scriptures symbolizes the steadfast belief of the Jew in Eternal Truth; ten panels by Jewish artists picture fundamental texts of Hebrew Scriptures.

The Lutherans have a large and interesting display of their educational, evangelical, and publishing activities. The King's Daughters, the Christian Scientists, the Volunteers of America, the Episcopalians, the Federal Council of Churches and other groups have their headquarters with instructive exhibits.

Here is the smallest "Book of Books" in the world—so tiny that one printed page will fit almost three times on a U. S. postage stamp—so precious that its owner, Mr. M. H. Livingstone, sits right beside it, to watch you look at it through a magnifying glass. It was made in Glasgow, and represents nearly four years' microscropic engraving by David Bryce and his son. Closed, and ready for its tiny silver case, it is less than one-fourth inch thick; yet complete with every word, and perfectly readable. Here, too, is the newest advance in Bible publishing, the Analytical Bible; with such helps and charts and outlines and comparative translations that one feels a whole Bible library is there, compressed in one handy volume.

Outstanding is the Modern Ecclesiastical Arts Exhibit, brought from Germany and Austria under the direction of Dr. John O. Hall. This is the only place in the building where a fee is charged, but it is only fifteen cents. Miss M. Willisch interprets the display so clearly that a whole new concept of religious art opens up to the visitor. The contrasts between traditional and modern expressions certainly are thought-provoking. Just as medieval artists developed a type of architecture, forms of painting and carving, so present-day men and women make religion manifest by using present-day materials and forms. Churches of steel and concrete, without pillars, provide remarkable acoustics and unobstructed vision; ceramic figures of utmost simplicity, hand-wrought copper and pewter, tapestries, mosaics, stained glass, carved wood—all contribute to an interpretation of the change in expression of religious art. The names Müller-Orlinghausen and Hans Herkommer stand out as pioneers in this new development, and the significance of this exhibit is not to be missed by one who is awake to these changeful days.

Concerts on the organ by artists of reputation are a daily feature of this wonderful building; there is a tiny chapel alcove, where churchly pews offer a place to meditate; lovely examples of stained glass windows satisfy the craving for beauty.

Four years of preparation by a committee who dreamed dreams and saw visions are crystallized in this Hall of Religion. George W. Dixon, chairman, Dr. Allen D. Albert, vice-chairman, and Dr. Hugh S. Magill, director of exhibits, have guided their efforts. More than ever necessary is the emphasis on the realities of the spiritual realm, as 1933 humanity faces forward toward still greater progress.

The tramp, tramp, tramp of hurrying thousands sounds all over the Exposition of a Century of Progress: Byrd's Polar ship and a submarine are anchored in the same lagoon, where motor launches and gondolas and speed boats churn past this building. Overhead the Sky-ride cars move slowly back and forth, the dirigibles float along and the airplanes roar; nearby is the electric board where Arcturus was captured and harnessed.

Yes, this is Progress. And in the Hall of Religion is Progress, too. What a life is ours—rich and full, an abundant present, resting upon a fruitful past. And an ever increasing future will be ours if we but remember "Righteousness Exalteth a Nation."
Our President General, Mrs. Magna, receiving sword from Commander George L. Weyler, Secretary to Academic Board, which she in turn presented to Midshipman Richard Goodwin Copeland, of Malden, Massachusetts, who excelled in seamanship. The presentation took place at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, on May 31, 1933.
Real Granddaughters and Their Ancestry

Recounted by Chapter Members

D. A. R. Chapters, which boast Real Daughters and Real Granddaughters of heroes of the American Revolution on their membership rolls, point with pride to these women whose blood ties are so closely knit with that dramatic period of our history.

Alas, only five "Real Daughters" are still on the Society's pension list, as the "Grim Reaper" has depleted their ranks even within the past few months. Their history has been written in previous issues of this Magazine.

The sketches which follow are of the "Real Granddaughters" of Revolutionary soldiers as chronicled for publication by those intimately associated with them.

Mrs. George W. DeWald, of Waterloo Chapter, Iowa, tells us that her chapter is very proud to number among its charter members Mrs. Currence Van Benthuysen Brown, who, on June 22, 1933, celebrated her 90th birthday.

Mrs. Brown is the granddaughter of Samuel Griswold. Born in Connecticut in 1760, he served the patriot cause loyally and well for six years, part of the time under Colonel Meigs, having enlisted at Salisbury, Conn. His wife was Hannah Landen.

Their 8th child, Hannah Hubbell, married Garret Van Benthuysen in Pottsville, Warren County, N. Y., and there in 1843 their 9th child, Currence, was born.

On February 22, 1864, Currence Van Benthuysen, the subject of this sketch, became the wife of Charles F. Brown. In January, 1868, she and her husband moved to Vinton, Iowa, where they were pioneer settlers. In 1872 they removed to Cedar Falls, where Mr. Brown engaged in business. Fourteen years later they took up their residence in Waterloo, where he owned and operated an opera house. Mr. Brown died on June 8, 1931, at the advanced age of 94. He and his wife celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1914.

Mrs. Brown (National Number 26,806) was admitted at the National Board meeting on January 24, 1899; she has held important chapter offices, was formally presented to eight State conferences and attended the Continental Congress in Washington as a delegate in 1923. A Chair in Constitution Hall was purchased by Waterloo Chapter in her honor.

Another Iowa Chapter, according to Mrs. P. S. Whitely, proudly lists a Real Granddaughter, Mrs. Lydia Whitmore, in its membership—the Van Buren County Chapter of Bonaparte. Mrs. Whitely states that Mrs. Whitmore's Revolutionary grandfather was Moses Leavitt of Exeter, N. H., and that she was born on June 10, 1849, at Sanbornton, N. H. This Moses Leavitt, born July 12, 1759, died October 3, 1827, married first Ruth Leavitt in 1780, who was born January 22, 1757, and died November 26, 1803. Leavitt participated in the Battle of Bennington and fought with great bravery in other important engagements.

Her parents were John Sanborn Leavitt, born November 22, 1803, died June 4, 1864, married Lucy Ann Cheney on October 27, 1846. She was born April 12, 1823, and died September 1, 1912. When Mrs. Whitmore was still very young Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt migrated west by wagon train, settling in Iowa. In later years she and her husband, Hazard A. Whitmore, moved to Bonaparte and went to live in an attractive homestead about a mile from there. Recently a son and his family took up their abode in the old homestead.

In New England, to be exact, York Village, Maine, resides Mrs. Elizabeth A. L. Wood, an honored member of the Old York Chapter. Mrs. E. F. Robinson writes that Mrs. Wood became a member of her chapter on November 18, 1914, ten months after its organization. The latter was born on June 27, 1851, in Stratham, Rockingham County, N. H., the daughter of Hezekiah Smith, b. April 4, 1799, and his second wife, Eliza Jane Jewett. Mrs. Wood's grandfather, Ebenezer Smith (b. 1765), was mustered in the 8th Company, Continental regiment, on March 13, 1781, at the age of 16 years. His wife was Eleanor Hilton whom he married January 24, 1788.

On January 7, 1879, Elizabeth Smith married Charles J. Wood, who for over fifty years was a prominent merchant in Portsmouth, N. H. In that city they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1929. Mr. Wood died the following June; since then his widow has continued to reside at Portsmouth. She is a regular attendant at all chapter meetings and an enthusiastic worker in philanthropic activities.

Deborah Avery Chapter, of Lincoln, Nebr., has the distinction of two Real Granddaughters within its membership: Mrs. C. C. White of Pacific Palisades, Calif., and Mrs. William Rielly of Lincoln.

In speaking of them Mrs. George W. Kline mentions Mrs. Rielly first, stating that her grandfather, Andrew Gallup, serving in the artillery, was severely wounded at the massacre at Fort Griswold, Conn., September 6, 1781. He was born at Groton, Conn., June 26, 1761, and married Nancy Weldon, December 16, 1792. He lived to the great age of 93 and died at his home in Ledyard, Conn., March 16, 1853.

While lying helpless on the ground from his wound, Gallup witnessed the surrender of Fort Griswold. “Who commands this post?” demanded the British officer. Colonel Ledyard advanced and tendered his sword, saying: “I did, but you do now.” Whereupon the Englishman seized the sword and plunged it into Ledyard's body.

Believing Gallup to be dead, he was tossed into a wagon which was sent rolling down to the river. It hit a tree, however, and the next morning the Americans examined the bodies; discovering Gallup still breathed, he was taken tenderly away and nursed back to health.

Mrs. Rielly's activities and mental alertness bely her 79 years. She seldom misses a chapter meeting. She has pieces of her grandparents' wedding silver with their initials upon them, as well as some Revolutionary "script," part of her grandfather's pay.
In 1635, having learned the carpenter trade, Edmund Johnson, with his wife Mary, sailed from London on the good ship James, and settled at Hampton, N. H. It was their great-great-grandson, Benjamin Johnson (born in 1763 at Epping, N. H., died in 1846, at Thorndyke, Maine), who was the Revolutionary ancestor of Mrs. Olive Johnson White, "Real Granddaughter."

Benjamin Johnson was but 13 years of age when he became a drummer boy in Col. George Reed's regiment, Jeremiah Fogg's company, 11, New Hampshire militia. Records in the War Department, Washington, show that he received a pension for three years service in the Revolution.

Mrs. White, who was born in Maine in 1848, declares she has only a dim memory of her gallant grandfather "as my parents left Maine, going to Ohio for a few years, then on to Wisconsin, and we never saw our Maine relatives again."

At the close of the Civil War, Andrew Johnson, her father, with her brother, Rodney, both just out of military service, went to Nebraska and each filed claim upon a homestead on Oak Creek (now Valparaiso). In the spring of 1866 Johnson returned to Wisconsin and took his family back to Nebraska, traveling in covered wagons drawn by oxen.

In September of that year Rodney took his sister, Olive, with him on a trip to Salt Basins, the salt deposits which were doubtless the cause of the present location of Lincoln. There Olive met C. C. White. It was a case of "love at first sight," for by November 15 they were engaged, although the wedding did not take place until two years later in Judge Luke Lavender's log cabin.

White was treasurer of Lancaster County during the years 1873-1877, at which time they lived in Lincoln. A year later they moved to Valparaiso and in 1880 White served as senator from Saunders County. Still later they resided in Crete, where he engaged in extensive milling operations until his death, in 1895.

His widow and her family removed to Lincoln and about 1906 Mrs. White built "White Hall," the scene of much delightful hospitality. In 1925 Mrs. White left Nebraska for California, where she now resides, although retaining her membership in Deborah Avery Chapter.

The newly organized Sarah Stillwell Chapter of Ocean City, N. J., claims the honor of Miss Adah L. Chamberlain, Real Granddaughter, among its active members.

In her description of Miss Chamberlain, Mrs. Charles H. Vail states that she has a most magnetic personality and that her friends are legion. Miss Chamberlain, who was for 39 years a teacher in the public schools of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, retired about two years ago. She is proud to be a D. A. R. but is modest about her illustrious ancestors, among whom were celebrated poets, divines, inventors and educators.

Her Revolutionary grandsire was Nathaniel Peasley Moody (son of Humphrey and Abigail (Peasley) Moody, grandson of Benjamin and Anne (Bradstreet) Moody; great-grandson of Caleb and Judith (Bradbury) Moody, who married Olive Chamberlain—his second wife. He was born at Haverhill, Mass., on September 15, 1760.

When but 16 years of age, young Moody left Yale College and enlisted on an American privateer. His ship was captured by a British man-of-war, and he was pressed into the Dutch service and held nearly two years before being exchanged. He then immediately joined the American army and rose to the rank of major, seeing service at the Battle of Monmouth, Stony Point, at Valley Forge and participated in Cornwallis’ surrender at Yorktown—a gallant record of a gallant patriot.

Brattleboro Chapter of Vermont not only mentions a Real Granddaughter, Mrs. Frances A. Cheney-Bemis, as a charter member, but lists her daughter on its roster.

According to Miss Mary B. C. Tyler, Chapter Historian, the parents of Frances A. Cheney, born in Jamaica, Vt., February 4, 1840, were Samuel and Martha (Brown) Cheney, and her grandparents, Nathaniel and Hannah (Read) Cheney. She married Orland Bemis in Brattleboro in 1861.

Her grandfather, Nathaniel Cheney, came to Jamaica from South Wardsboro, Vt., about 1813. He joined the American army on August 25, 1777, when 18 years of age and enlisted for three years. He was in camp at Peekskill, N. Y., in 1779, and was discharged in January, 1780. In July of that same year he enlisted in a Worcester regiment for three months. He was discharged October 10, 1780, and went to Orange, Mass., to live and was town clerk for 11 years.
The Indiana Bell at Valley Forge

MRS. ROBERT B. HOUCHMAN
Regent of Alexander Hamilton Chapter

The realization of a happy dream came true for Indiana Daughters, Easter Sunday, April 16, 1933, when the Indiana bell was presented and dedicated to the Washington Memorial Carillon at Valley Forge.

More than fifty delegates and friends left Washington early Easter morning for Philadelphia where we were joined by many others who accompanied the party to Valley Forge for the services.

A thrill of joy and reverence swept over us as we entered the beautiful memorial chapel with its distinctive stained glass windows. The American Westminster, as the chapel is called, is a gem of art and a treasure house of history. President Wilson named it "the shrine of the American people." Happy, indeed, is the American who can visit the "shrine of the ages," can feel its influence and carry away its inspiration.

The processional was headed by a choir of young lads, whose voices were soft and sweet. Then came two pages, bearing the Indiana and American flags, followed by the State officers, the guest speaker, Hon. Frederick Van Nuys, United States Senator, and Rev. W. Burke, D.D., Founder and Rector of the memorial chapel.

"America" was sung by the choir and congregation, followed with prayer, offered by Mrs. Eugene H. Darrach, State Chaplain of Indiana D. A. R. Mrs. James B. Crankshaw, Vice-President General from Indiana, read a message from Mrs. Russel William Magna, our President General, who found it impossible to attend.

Hon. Frederick Van Nuys, United States Senator from Indiana, gave a most interesting address, depicting a new era and a greater America as the outcome of the present economic upheaval. The presentation of the Indiana bell was made by Miss Mary Hostetter, State Chairman, who gave generously of her time for several years to collect funds for the purchase and endowment of the bell.

Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne, State Regent, dedicated the bell and in a most inspiring message said it was Indiana's proud privilege to present this bell as a lasting tribute to the heroes of Valley Forge. The acceptance speech was delivered by Rev. Burke, Rector of the Washington Memorial Chapel, and this was followed by the reading of George Washington's prayer for the United States of America.

Our Indiana State song, "On the Banks of the Wabash," was sung and this brought to a fitting close this beautiful service. Everyone passed out of the chapel and the strains of the Indiana State song again were heard, this time played by the bells, as were several other old melodies, and the vibrations will long remain a vivid memory to those attending the ceremony.

The inscription which appears on the Indiana bell is as follows: "To the immortal Washington—soldier and statesman, peerless leader alike in military camp and Constitutional Convention—Indiana Daughters of the American Revolution affectionately dedicate this bell."

Around the rim: "Remove not the ancient landmark which thy fathers have set." Proverbs 28: 22.

Reforestation Is National Defense

Florence Hague Becker
Chairman, National Defense Committee Embodying Patriotic Education

The transforming of Fort Hunt from a Bonus Camp dominated by Communists into a Reforestation Camp between sun-up and sun-down is an example of the flexibility and usefulness of the Conservation Corps. Not more than six weeks have passed since Congress enacted the law that put this administration into the President's hands.

Radical influences in reforestation camps have been busy with little success. Radical literature distributed at Fort Knox, Ky., was brought by the boys to their Colonel Barney. New Jersey camps quickly dispatched agitators found among their number. Camp Roosevelt, Va., reports one radical chased from camp, and that two or three men too weak to stick were given dishonorable discharges. These may never again receive Government positions, and relief agencies are notified that they have failed to keep their contract with their Government. The contract calls for six months service by which time it is hoped there will be jobs on the outside for many.

It is considered probable that we will continue to have from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 constantly unemployed in this country. The Reforestation is a speeding up of a permanent plan for conservation of human and natural resources. Preventing forest fires, promoting flood control, constructing roads, trails, telephone lines, watch towers, fire breaks, range fences and emergency landing fields and planting and conserving trees is a large program.

It is also the building of morale, the housing, equipping, feeding and training of 275,000 men. These men come from every class and from every occupation and every degree of education—or none at all. Woodsmen, tradesmen and executives are all needed. Taking men out of the bread line, putting them into wholesome camps till better jobs are available, and training them in body, mind and spirit is a great undertaking. Five dollars, from the thirty which they receive as pay, is sufficient for pocket money, while twenty-five is turned over to a needy family— theirs or some other.

This pay is not an arbitrary amount and may be changed as conditions warrant it. The plan cannot be said to be a breaking down of wage scales, nor a competition with private business, for the conditions of contract, perquisites and relief make it an entirely different question. The assigning of a major portion to a needy family makes it differ from army enlistments.

The organization is under three different departments: the Labor Department through Welfare agencies selects the men; the War Department, through its army officers, examines and equips, houses and maintains, feeds and trains, and provides with medical aid; the Department of Agriculture through its Forest Service directs the work, and technicians from many Government departments contribute their skill. These are not military camps, but military command of the personnel assures freedom from destructive influences. For each one thousand men there is a captain, two lieutenants and three medical officers from the regular army. More than three times the entire continental strength of the regular army will be sheltered, fed, clothed and disciplined. More than four times the civilian component of the army are provided for. It may be a great building up of the national defense of our Nation. Drill is limited to calisthenics, but setting-up exercises are conditioning agencies, and assure disciplined bodies and minds. No pacifist objection to this same program has been voiced. A splendid civilian army seems in process of construction, a strength to the nation at all times.

The youths, who a short time ago were roaming the country, unemployed and exposed to every evil influence of idleness and propaganda, are now gathered in; also veterans to the number of 25,000 are provided for, and a wholesome atmosphere is created by useful constructive work and healthful recreation. Instructive lectures in the open at night have already been given with plans for classes to follow.

It is said that the little village of Moscow in Vermont was the President's inspiration. Here are farming and industrialism, city and countryside, and a restored balance between industry and agriculture. The President's book, "Looking Forward," portrays this vision, and now the camps are taking up the call from one end of the country to the other. State camps already established as relief centers, such as those in California, are the models for the present organization. Foresters from every State and Alaska met in Washington with the chief forester and laid excellent plans.

Director Fechner is general director and the country east of the Mississippi constitutes the seventh division. Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia remain the 3d Corps Area under Maj. Paul B. Malone. The quota of this area is 28,750 men plus World War veterans to be apportioned in each area.

Difficulty is being experienced in selecting the quota in some States, as the restrictions are such as not to include many who are really needy. Ages are 18 to 25, and the pay must go to a family securing aid from its community. Young men without families have been permitted to assign their pay to an unknown family, so the quotas will probably be filled, and those who need to will get in.

Maryland is organizing now, holding examinations for those who are to assist in the Governor's Unemployment Relief Committee provided for by Federal funds. They will enroll the men for the camps.

The American Indians are to have 72 camps under the director of the Indian Bureau where 14,400 Indians will work for six months. Their task will be mainly to improve the fire protection in extensive forest lands valued at $130,000,000.

At Camp Roosevelt in Virginia minds are being ministered unto. The first lecture was one on Russia by Capt. Henry B. Wilkinson. Instruction in the use of the ax, the pick and shovel have been found much needed. Instructors are the various forestry officials, officers on duty, and college men picked from the ranks. The Y. M. C. A. is anxious to provide entertainment.

The 400 right-wing veterans who came to Washington to join the Reforestation Camp were advised to return home, and join there in accordence with instructions, as veteran registration closed on Wednesday, May 31, 1933.

West of Luray, in the Massanutten Mountains, are two camps—one at Skyland and one Big Meadows. East of Luray there is a camp in the Shenandoah National Park. The District quota of 300 is at Fort Washington, having been selected by the Board of Public Welfare.

At Fort Knox, Ky., 6,000 youngsters are busy chopping, digging and hammering rock. Dressed in blue dungarees they may be seen marching over the 12-mile length on their long hikes.

Tennessee is urging a chain of State Forests, 20 or 30 miles apart, of 10,000 acres each.

Camp Hunt, a city of khaki tents, has room for 6,000 to 8,000 men. Here the Communists attempted to control the Bonus groups but were defeated and routed in the magic reorganization. John P. Dear, the field captain of the right wing, lined his men up for registration in the reforestation and the fomentors could only depart. They were assisted by being provided with passage home.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's suggestion that a camp be organized for women is being put into effect and new projects will be worked out. This we can follow with great interest.

To carry on this vast project, it is estimated that $170,000,000 a year is needed. Labor's share is $90,000,000 and $80,000,000 for all other needs. Money used to set this program in motion came from the unexpended Public Works fund, and was expected to last through May when new moneys would be available.

Three great national purposes are being worked out: the preservation and extension of forests, employment of 275,000 men, and restoration of morale to untold numbers. This great national economic project, patriotic in character, healthful, creative and social, entered into by volunteers, is bound to result in a better citizenry and a truly patriotic education.
Abigail Phillips Quincy Chapter (Wollaston, Mass.). A George Washington Memorial Elm was planted October 10, 1932, at Merrymount Park, Quincy, land formerly owned by President John Adams. The park was given to the city by Charles Francis Adams, 2d, as a memorial to his ancestors, both Presidents of the United States.

The exercises opened with the invocation by Rev. Clarence Hill Frank of the Wollaston Baptist Church. The presentation was made by Mrs. A. D. W. Prescott, Regent, and was accepted by Mayor Thomas J. McGrath, who paid high tribute to the local chapter, saying: "Nothing is more acceptable to commemorate Washington—nothing adds more beauty to a town than a stately tree, being a living memorial for future generations."

After greetings by the State Regent, Miss Nancy Hudson Harris, of Allston, an address on George Washington was given by Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, a former Regent of the chapter, closing with the poem by Mr. Ropes, "Hymn to George Washington."

Mrs. Russell T. Fisher read the poem, "Natal Day," by Margaret Sangster. The singing of "America" and the sounding of "Taps" closed the program.

There were present twelve State officers and committee chairmen, and also Mrs. Walter F. Jones, the founder and first Regent, as well as the ten past Regents who had served the chapter during the past twenty-two years of its existence.

The first memorial erected by the chapter in 1920 was placed at the water-front entrance to the park known as Black Creek, marking the spot where Captain Wollaston established a trading post with the Indians.

EDITH H. PRESCOTT, Regent.

Peggy Warne Chapter (Warren County, N. J.) held services on Sunday afternoon, October 25, 1931, in the historic Old Greenwich Church, near Bloomsbury, to dedicate a bronze tablet placed on the wall at the right of the church entrance, and bearing the names of nineteen American patriots who lie buried in the old cemetery there. Old Greenwich is quaint and beautiful, and is pre-Revolutionary.

The church was filled to overflowing and the chapter and visiting State officers were escorted inside by the Bernard J. Donovan Post, American Legion, of Phillipsburg. After the welcome by the Regent, Mrs. Wallis A. Cattelle, and greetings from the State Regent, Mrs. C. Edward Murray, the main address was given by Capt. Henry M. Prentiss, 213 C. A. of the Pennsylvania National Guard, Easton. Miss Adelaide Overstreet sang the “Recessional,” and Theodore F. Kennedy played a saxophone solo, “Patriotic Airs.”
ABIGAIL PHILLIPS QUINCY CHAPTER, WOLLASTON, MASSACHUSETTS

When the roll was called by William C. Kennedy, it was found that every “patriot” had descendants in the church.

Again under military escort, the chapter and guests passed outside to the tablet which, after the Flag Salute, led by Mrs. R. P. Cummins, Chairman of Correct Use of the Flag, was unveiled by our three past regents, Mrs. E. B. England, Miss Katharine Stryker, and Mrs. H. M. Riddle. Mrs. F. C. Hoffman, Chairman of the Grave-marking Committee, made the formal presentation of the tablet, and Chas. L. Overstreet, D.D., pastor of Old Greenwich, accepted the tablet for the church.

The Grave Marking Ritual was read, led by the Regent, Mrs. Cattelle, and the chapter Chaplain, Mrs. Raymond Hamlen. Then came the “Salute” and “Roll of Drums” by the firing squad, followed by “Taps” and the benediction.

Guests of honor were Mrs. Murray, State Regent; Mrs. Wentworth Harrington, Chairman of Preservation of Historic Spots; Mrs. Charles D. McCarthy, State Corresponding Secretary; and delegations from the Colonel Lowrey Chapter of Flemington and from the George Taylor Chapter of Easton, Pa.

Tradition has it that 174 years ago, at the close of an Indian summer day, four dark-skinned warriors came in sight near this spot, bearing the silent form of their dead chieftain, Chinach, of the Sagamoises. They buried him under the tamarack tree about 250 feet from the church. Such was the beginning of the old cemetery.

ELIZABETH COMLY CATTELLE, Regent.

San Bernardino Chapter (San Bernardino, Calif.). The golden years of our chapter's history aptly summarizes the years 1931-32-33, during which the wise and magnetic leadership of our Regent, Mrs. Fred Duffy, has stimulated our members to enthusiastic endeavor.

The messages of the President General in our monthly D. A. R. Magazine are read at chapter meetings as well as a Ritual service. Committees conform with those of the State, as nearly as may be. Chairmen use the proceedings of the Continental Congress as a guide for committee work, thereby insuring correct procedure and strengthening the interest in National committee achievements.

Twenty-two new members have been welcomed and several application papers are nearly ready to forward to Washington.

The program last year considered Communism, Pacifism, Socialism, and Internationalism as world problems. This year The American Scene is our theme. Three of the leading educators of Southern California have been our speakers, graciously giving their time and ability to present this program. They are: Prof. J. B. Griffing, president, San Bernardino Valley Junior College; Prof. W. W. Mather, department of political science and economics, Chaffee Junior College, Ontario; and Prof. Howland Merrill, history department of Redlands University.

The chapter observed the George Washington Bicentennial, beginning with a Reciprocity Tea, attended by officers of all neighboring chapters and special guests. Next was a memorable occasion. On February 22, at the request of the management of the 22d National Orange Show, held in San Bernardino yearly, the Chapter Regent conducted a tree planting ceremony on the Exposition grounds as a part of the day's program. A beautiful California Redwood- Sequoia Gigantea was planted and christened George Washington, a beautiful bronze marker was placed by our chapter and patriotic talks were given by Royal Mack, general manager of the Orange Show, and President E. D. Roberts.

Another special program of outstanding interest was the Third Annual Better Films Luncheon, bringing a company of one hundred to greet Mrs. Thomas W. Winter, distinguished leader of American Club Women and Associate Director of the Public Relations Department of the Motion Picture Producers Association. Mrs. John Stuart Bayless, Arizona State Chairman Better Films, was a special guest.
The chapter received its first recognition by State appointment this year when our Regent was made State Chairman of Radio and later appointed a member of the National Radio Committee.

We annually contribute food and clothing to the unemployed, assist the Home of Neighboring Service and the Tuberculosis Society with funds for summer camps for children, help the Indians, etc. We have met all National and State assessments.

The chapter is particularly proud of the work of the Chairman of Patriotic Education, Mrs. Warren Travell.

EVA GAGE TILTON, Magazine Correspondent.

Nikumi Chapter (Blair, Nebr.) unveiled an historic marker on February 23, 1933, and formally dedicated a ten-ton boulder in the Rhoades Park on Highway No. 30, commemorating the site of the Old Territorial Military Stage Coach Trail through the city; and also the site of the first log school house in this vicinity. The celebration started with a meeting of the chapter at 10 o'clock, at the home of the local Regent, Mrs. W. W. Wilkinson.

Mrs. Edgar Hilt Wescott, then State Regent, made her official visit, and talked very interestingly of the work along the lines of Patriotic Education, National Defense and Historic Research. This was followed by a buffet luncheon at noon. Several guests were in attendance, among them Mrs. E. J. Williams of Lincoln, State Auditor, who was a charter member of Nikumi Chapter; Mrs. R. H. Campbell of Columbus, State Registrar; and Mrs. A. A. Bald of Platte Center, State Chairman of Historic Sites.

The program began at 2 o'clock with a bugle call by Ernest Bartley, Boy Scout, and an invocation by our Chaplain, Mrs. Jennie Offen. Mrs. Wescott was the main speaker of the occasion, and dedicated the monument. It was unveiled by Emily Ann Allen, granddaughter of Mrs. Emily Bottorff Allen, first teacher in this log school house in 1866; and by Lucille Lowe, granddaughter of T. M. Carter, who took the first claim on this site in 1855. Mrs. W. W. Wilkinson presented the memorial to the city in behalf of our D. A. R. organization. Mayor P. C. Sorenson responded with a very well worded speech of acceptance in behalf of the city. The remainder of the program was carried out in the high school auditorium, where seated on the stage were our four State officers and seven pupils of the log school as guests of honor; also the young ladies who unveiled the marker, Rev. W. H. Jackson of M. E. Church and Superintendent Montgomery of city schools, members of Nikumi Chapter, and Mrs. W. W. Wilkinson (Regent), who presided. The high school band played “America” for their first number, while the crowd assembled. The invocation was given by Rev. Jackson. A very fine article, “History of Military Trail,” was prepared and read by Mrs. C. R. Mead. The following Indian numbers were then given by high school students, all in costume: “Tribal Flute Call of the Ayeaways,” rendered by Agnes Larsen; solo by Chief “To-He,” impersonated by Herbert Brown; and a dance to “The Great Spirit by Princess Nikumi,” interpreted by Charlotte Armstead. May Allen Lazure then told the history of the first school and introduced each of these “boys and girls of the old school”; also the young ladies who did the unveiling. The bell used... by the first teacher 67 years ago is a historic relic in the Allen family and was used at this dedication. Mrs. Wilkinson now introduced our State officers, each having a few words to say in greeting. Mrs. Wescott gave a fine address on "Peace" in her usual gracious manner. Superintendent Montgomery, in closing, paid high tribute to the pioneers who built this first seat of learning, and wove an interesting connection between the Log School House and our present new $132,000 high school building. "The Star-Spangled Banner" was sung by all, accompanied by the Blair High School Band.

MAY ALLEN LAZURE, Historian.

Sarah Bradlee Fulton Chapter (Medford, Mass.). The Washington Bicentennial celebration held by our chapter, June 4, had an appropriate setting, the courtyard of the Royall House, a well-preserved mansion of Washington's time.

As the guests pulled the latchstring of the door of the slave quarters they were welcomed by the hostess, Mrs. Katharine Van De Bogert, and her assistants, and conducted across the courtyard by pages in Colonial costume to the parlors of the Royall House where a reception was given to the retiring Regent, Mrs. Olive L. Hinckley. As the newly elected Regent, Mrs. Myrtle P. Norton, was unable to be present, Mrs. Hinckley presided and presented Mrs. H. Abbie Dearborn, ex-Regent and chairman of the Washington Celebration Committee, who took charge of the exercises.

Mrs. Ella J. Fuller, Chaplain, read a prayer which had been offered in the Episcopal Church at Alexandria where Washington worshipped. Mrs. Clara Jackson led in singing "Old Hundred." Mrs. Obear, State Treasurer, spoke, expressing patriotic sentiments. "High Lights in Washington's Life" was the subject of Mrs. Dearborn's address, with music of Washington's time interspersed. The "President's March," now known as "Hail, Columbia," composed and sung in his honor, was played.

The closing number of the program was the dedication of a panel suitably inscribed, and two arbor-vite trees, one on each side. This panel is built in a brick wall at the rear of the courtyard. The wall surrounds the entire grounds of the Royall House after the English fashion. The tablet was unveiled by Miss Rebecca Nichols, great-granddaughter of Gen. Samuel Lawrence. The dedicatory address was made by Miss Helen T. Wild, an authority on local history and author of a book, "Medford in the Revolution." Miss Wild gave a brief history of Isaac Royall and the Royall House. The panel is one of an octagonal summer house which stood at the rear of the courtyard to which it is said Washington withdrew to hold council of war with his officers. Mrs. Jackson sang the appropriate song, "Trees."

A silver spoon of Colonial design was presented to baby Amy Otis Morrissey, daughter of Mrs. Muriel Morrissey, a chapter member.

Refresments, including "Apple Judy" made according to an old recipe, were served at the Lilac Hedge by Mrs. Marjorie Nichols and Colonial maids.

The committee comprised Mrs. H. Abbie Dearborn, Mrs. Katharine Van De Bogert, Mrs. Marjorie Nichols, Mrs. Olive L. Hinckley, Miss Helen T. Wild, director, and Mrs. Grace B. Allen.

MRS. JOSEPH L. NORTON, Regent.

Solomon Juneau Chapter (Shorewood, Milwaukee, Wis.). The first meeting of women interested in forming a new D. A. R. chapter in Shorewood, a suburb of Milwaukee, was held July 24, 1929, at the home of Mrs. Sydney J. Lane who had been appointed Organizing Regent. Mrs. James F. Trottman, State Regent, was present at this meeting, and gave an informal talk on the work of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

At the second meeting held in September, 1929, names for the chapter were discussed and the name of "Solomon Juneau" was chosen and sent to Washington for approval. Solomon Juneau was prominent in the early history of Milwaukee and it is fitting that he should be honored by such an organization as ours. Mrs. Harry C. McDermott contributed $2 toward the bronze doors in Constitution Hall and Mrs. J. Louis Wolff gave the chapter a silk flag which her brother had carried in France during the World War.
The formal organization meeting was held December 12, 1929, with 17 members. This was a luncheon meeting and our State Regent, Mrs. James F. Trottman, was again our honored guest.

On October 31, 1930, Mrs. Sydney J. Lane was instrumental in having a bronze marker placed on the grave of her great-grandmother, Sarah Lucy Legge, daughter of a Revolutionary soldier.

The chapter participated in the marking of the grave of Betsey (Ferris) Rogers, daughter of James Ferris, Revolutionary soldier from Dutchess County, New York. She is buried in Forest Home Cemetery, Milwaukee. A granddaughter, Mrs. J. T. Greenwood, is the Chapter Recording Secretary. The date of this event was November 3, 1931.

On October 21, 1932, the chapter planted an elm tree in Atwater Park to the memory of George Washington. A beautiful bronze marker was placed at this time. The State Regent, Mrs. Joseph A. Branson, came down from De Pere for this occasion and talked to the chapter concerning the value and importance of tree planting. Mrs. Norman E. McBeath was in charge of the planting and program and Mrs. Harry C. McDermott, Chapter Regent, later gave a tea for Mrs. Branson and the chapter.

Our chapter has carried on many other D. A. R. activities, especially contributions to mountain schools and Ellis Island. Our Finance Chairman, Mrs. William Liefert, and her committee, have helped to raise funds to carry on special features of chapter work. The membership has grown to 31.

VELMA OGLE DAVIS,
Historian.

Santa Monica Chapter (Calif.) In lovely Palisades Park on Ocean Avenue in Santa Monica, on the afternoon of February 22, a simple ceremony was performed, when a bronze tablet was unveiled, commemorating the Bicentennial of the birth of George Washington. The memorial was presented to the city by the Santa Monica Chapter.

The exercises were opened by the Salute to the Flag and a prayer by the Rev. Wallace N. Pierson. Mrs. James Westervelt, Regent of the chapter, with reverent and eloquent inspiration, presented the tablet to the city of Santa Monica, and entrusted the privilege of its care to the Boy and Girl Scouts. Mayor W. H. Carter graciously accepted the gift, and Mr. John A. Morton, Commissioner of Public Works, spoke appreciatively as he presented to the D. A. R. Chapter the granite in which the tablet is set. This is a block standing 4½ feet in height, and more than 2 feet in thickness; it was presented to the city by Paul & Tompkins, contractors.

Mrs. John Westervelt, the chapter's Chairman of the Committee for the Marking of Historic Spots, spoke briefly of the chapter's pride in thus commemorating the 200th anniversary of Washington's birth.

Mr. Z. T. Walker, Commander of the Burnside Post, Grand Army of the Republic, Los Angeles, offered the benediction. "Taps" was sounded by the Boy Scout bugler.

Approximately two hundred persons were present, representing many of the patriotic groups of the community.

ELEANOR S. DAVIDSON,
Historian.

Commodore Richard Dale Chapter (Albany, Ga.), Mrs. W. C. Fripp, Regent, had a full attendance at the regular January meeting and the reports of the year's work were very gratifying.

The chapter has met all National, State and local obligations. In the local work might be mentioned the Student's Loan Fund, which is increasing, and has enabled us to enter two girls in business college and to assist another in college.

The chapter contributes typewriters to the local Opportunity School, and responds to all patriotic calls; in the Armistice Day parade there were three appropriately decorated cars entered by us.

The D. A. R. Colonial sitting room shown at the American Legion Benefit Fair won a $5 prize which the chapter donated to the Legion to be used for the underprivileged children's Christmas Tree.

The chapter offers a history prize each year for the best essay written by a senior student of high school. The subject chosen this year is "Colonial Georgia from 1733 to 1833."

The chapter recently sent a splendid box of material to Ellis Island, and has taken a D. A. R. membership in the American Merchant Marine Library Association.

Delegates were chosen for the Continental Congress and the State Convention.

Mrs. O. E. Waddell gave an interesting article about "The Spanish Invasion of Georgia” and “The Battle of Bloody Marsh.” Mrs. C. M. Strout read a message from the President General.

Mrs. H. H. Perry, director of music in the public schools, presented the high school glee club, who are being specially trained in singing patriotic airs.

MRS. WILLIAM C. TRIPP,
Regent.

General Samuel Hopkins Chapter (Henderson, Ky.). It has been my pleasure as Chairman of Research to present to the chapter the 13 new names that were enrolled and inscribed in bronze at the celebration on October 1, 1932. The tablet was placed on the granite boulder that stands in the corner of the Court House Square, and opposite a similar bronze tablet placed by the chapter 16 years previously. At that time 12 names of soldiers and patriots were enshrined.

The 13 new names were unveiled with fitting ceremony. A stirring patriotic address was given. “The Star-Spangled Banner” was sung, and as the flag was raised the band played “The Stars and Stripes Forever.” Descendants of these Revolutionary patriots assisted in the actual unveiling. State officers, past and present, witnessed the celebration.

The patriot names so honored were:

- Joseph Cabell, Jr., born January 6, 1792, in Va., d. in 1831.
- John Hart, born 1762 in Ga., d. in 1831.
- Nancy Morgan Hart, born in 1734.
- Abraham Hatchett, born February 2, 1752, in Amelia Co., Va., d. 1841.
- Capt. Blackman Moseley, Sr., born in Chesterfield Co., Va., 1825.
- Lewis Rouse, born in Culpeper Co., Va., d. after 1835.
- Capt. Obadiah Smith, born in Chesterfield Co., Va., d. in 1829.
- Thomas Smith, Sr., born in Westmoreland Co., Penna., d. in 1821.

Virginia having set aside for the officers and soldiers of the Revolution lands on the Cumberland, Tennessee and Green Rivers, this county, being bounded chiefly by Green River, holds the remains of countless soldiers whose services are to be proven and graves located. It is the determination of the Research Chairman not to rest until this work has been completed and every old patriot's name in Henderson County added to the Roll of Honor.

Some of the men whose graves have been located but whose positive Revolutionary service has yet to be proven are: "Col." Charles Davis, Mecklenburg County, Virginia; Charles Jennings of Virginia; Gen. Wm. Bailey Smith, North Carolina; Nathan Smith, North Carolina; Enoch Sevier, Georgia; John and James Hicks, Georgia; Joseph Butler, Virginia; Lawrence Roelieson, Sr., of Holland and Pennsylvania.

Soldiers who were in the county as late as 1847 and whose graves have not been located are Edwin Baldwin, John Ramsey of South Carolina, William Frazier of Virginia and many more too numerous to enumerate.

Should any of the particulars of these men's service be known by readers of this magazine, the Research Chairman of the Gen. Samuel Hopkins Chapter and State Historian of the Kentucky D. A. R. will gratefully receive such information.

LILLIAN WALKER THIXTON,
(Henderson, Ky.)
State Historian.

Howard County Chapter (Mo.). In the heart of a forest, on the crest of a high hill overlooking the Missouri River, Clark's Chapel, one of the historical old places of worship in Howard County, is surrounded by the graves of hardy pioneers and their descendants. The site of the chapel was donated by William Munro and his wife Jerusha, and on the southern slope of the hill is the Munro burying ground, where sleep those members of the family who were numbered among the earliest settlers of western Missouri. Here, on Sunday, July 7, 1932, were gathered descendants of Daniel Munro, a Revolutionary soldier, who served in the First Regiment of Foot of Maryland, to assist in the marking of his grave, and the unveiling of a bronze tablet, under the auspices of Howard County Chapter.

The little chapel was beautifully decorated with bunting and fresh flowers, and was crowded to capacity by visitors from near and far. The program opened with a prayer by the Rev. O. E. Lockart, pastor, followed by the Salute to the Flag and the singing of "America." Mrs. Morrison Hughes, as Chairman of the Committee for the Marking of Graves, in charge of the ceremony, gave a delightful introductory address on historical places and personalities of Howard County. Mrs. G. W. Dimmitt, Regent, extended a most cordial welcome, which was responded to very graciously by Mrs. Marshal Rust, State Historian. Mrs. Clifford M. Eustis, of New Orleans, La., a great-great-granddaughter of Daniel Munro, spoke on “The Munros in American History,” in which she outlined the services to State and Nation rendered by representatives of the family. Col. A. M. Hitch of Boonville, Mo., recalled the incidents of the landing of the first steamboat at Old Franklin, when a great gathering similar to this one had assembled in Howard County more than a century ago.

The assembly proceeded from the chapel to the Munro burying ground adjoining, the processional being led by Mr. George C. Edwards of New Franklin, Mo., Mrs. Miriam R. Green and Mrs. Clifford M. Eustis of New Orleans, and Mrs. Eugene L. Munn of Kansas City, Mo., descendants of the fourth, fifth and sixth generations, bearing flowers, followed by the band of Central College, of Fayette, Mo., and the two tiny flag bearers, Dorothy E. and Rebecca Ann Means. Other descendants present were Mrs. Laura Turner of Kansas City, Mrs. Josephine Russel Tarrant of St. Louis, Mrs. J. H. Cowley of Hamilton, and Miss Nannie Creason of Chillicothe, Mo. To the stirring strains of “The Star-Spangled Banner,” the monument and tablet were unveiled by Mrs. Eustis, and a beautiful prayer of dedication was offered by the Rev. Mr. Lockart. After the conclusion of the ceremony a bountiful basket luncheon was served, in which all present joined, the Munro descendants being guests of the Howard County Chapter for the luncheon.

The Memorial is of enduring Vermont gray marble, and stands just between the rough, hand-hewn stones which mark the grave of Daniel Munro and Sarah Frazier, his wife, Missouri pioneers. On the bronze tablet is this inscription:

DANIEL MUNRO, SR.
REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIER
ENLISTED MAY 3, 1777,
IN 1ST REGIMENT OF FOOT, MARYLAND, ENGAGED IN BATTLES OF
THE BRANDYWINE, GERMANTOWN, AND MONMOUTH.

ERECTED BY HIS DESCENDANTS
UNDER AUSPICES OF HOWARD COUNTY
CHAPTER, D. A. R.
1932.

MRS. GEORGE WILBUR DIMMITT,
Regent.

Report of the President General

This is a history-making event, for we, the members of the National Board of Management, are meeting away from Washington for the first time. The world moves. Progress is the pulsating urge to the artery of advance. This being true, it is eminently fitting that because the country is turning in the air, on the earth, and by sea toward a World's Fair that we—a modern Society—step...
During my recent travels to State Conferences I became decidedly air-minded, and as I took a modern plane, in the evening, to fly by night to you, I was thinking of a little group of women who organized the National Society, and what they would say if they saw the President General starting out on an event which is now an everyday occurrence for her, but what a few short years ago would have been considered a daring venture. And yet, those of us gathered here today, could we project our minds into an uncharted future sea, may soon find ourselves old-fashioned, old flogies, if we do not accept these things which are happening so fast in an age of progress. And those of you who were privileged to hear, on the radio, the opening of the Century of Progress, and the lighting of it by Arcturus, and the process of doing it, I am sure will never forget that thrilling narration. It is like the bag of tricks by the prestidigitator, who, when I was a little girl, I loved to see produce the rabbit out of my father's hat. I am sure the thrills are analogous.

We are a traditional society. But this word tradition has a root meaning, to give. Therefore, to be true to the traditions of our forefathers and foremothers means to be constant, to carry out the idea of giving means to give of ourselves. We, as officers, representing the members—who are the National Society—through them are lending our entire patriotic group to the Century, and, as an administrative branch we turn again to the roots of the word and of the Society. It comes from the old Latin administrare, meaning to min-ister to Denmark. This was held at the Hotel Commodore, New York, and it was a personal regret that I could not be present. I was very happy that Mrs. William H. Pouch, Vice-President General, could represent me. Here again the marvel of the radio made it possible for me to listen to the speeches and appreciate the tributes that were paid to the first woman Minister to be appointed in the future sea, may soon find ourselves old-fashioned, old fogies, if we do not accept these things which are happening so fast in an age of progress. As President General, and on behalf of all those present at this meeting, and those who will join us for the other gatherings and meetings while we are present, I wish to bespeak our grateful thanks to our Chairman of Arrangements, Mrs. Charles E. Herrick, Vice-President General, and her efficient and capable committee, to the State Regents, State Officers and Daughters of Illinois, under Mrs. Julian G. Goodhue as State Regent, who are our hostesses. During the week following the close of our Congress, several very interesting meetings of other organizations were attended.

On April 24, the American Red Cross held the opening meeting of its convention in Memorial Continental Hall and it was a pleasure to be present at its opening morning session. That same evening I attended the meeting of the United States Daughters of 1812, and also the banquet of this society the following evening; both of which were interesting and greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Robert J. Johnston, its President, presided in her usual capable and charming manner. The afternoon of April 25 by special invitation, I was the guest at the Girl Scouts' Little House, in Washington, when they were celebrating their Better Homes Week. This was a most interesting event and Mrs. E. G. Bowman was in charge of the ceremonies.

It was a sincere regret that I could not attend the meeting of the New England Women held at Rochester, N. Y., on May 1. I was delighted that Mrs. Frank H. Parcells, Organizing Secretary General, could represent me and give greetings.

On May 2, the Society lost by death another Real Daughter, Mariah Storts Allen, a member of the Elizabeth Sherman Reese Chapter, New Lexington, Ohio. I record this in my report because in losing these Real Daughters we are recording the history of the Society. To her chapter and to her family a message of sympathy was sent. Mrs. Benjamin L. Purcell, Chairman, Real Daughters Committee, sent flowers.

On May 9, came the farewell dinner to the Hon. Ruth Bryan Owen, prior to her departure as Minister to Denmark. This was held at the Hotel Commodore, New York, and it was a personal regret that I could not be present. I was very happy that Mrs. William H. Pouch, Vice-President General, could represent me. Here again the marvel of the radio made it possible for me to listen to the speeches and appreciate the tributes that were paid to the first woman Minister to be appointed from this country.

On May 10, being at home, I was glad to be able to attend a large and interesting meeting of the Eunice Day Chapter, of which Mrs. Clifford Stanley Lyon is the Regent. It was a regret that I could not attend the unveiling of a tablet in memory of the Patriots of Lower Cape Fear, in the Rotunda of the Capitol, Raleigh, N. C., on May 15, by the Daughters of North Carolina, but Mrs. Ralph Van Landingham was my representative, and took my greetings. I also was unable to accept the invitation of the Colonel John Proctor Chapter to attend the unveiling of the Kittanning Trail marker on the Plank Road at Altoona, Pa.

On May 14, I left for Cincinnati, to be the guest of honor at the Annual Convention of the Sons of the American Revolution, when every courtesy and honor was accorded to me, not only by the President General of the Sons, Mr. Frederick W. Millsbaugh, but by the Cincinnati Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and other organizations.

Arriving Monday morning in the Queen City for the convention, I was met at the beautiful new Union Terminal by Mrs. Lawrence J. Bradford, Regent of the Cincinnati Chapter, Mrs. Allen Collier, Vice-Regent of the chapter, and Mrs. Myers Y. Cooper. From this moment on, these ladies formed almost my personal escort.

The Netherland-Plaza was headquarters, and here I had the honor of being greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Millsbaugh and by our Honorary President General, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart. I was personally delighted to be a guest in her home State and home city at this time.
The opening of the conference was very impressive and greetings from the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution were extended by me.

After a delightful luncheon, I had the pleasure of broadcasting over WLW, the Crosley Radio Station in Cincinnati. Mrs. William M. Pettit, State Chairman of Radio, introduced me to the radio audience.

The same afternoon, the Cincinnati Branch of the League of American Penwomen gave a tea at the Arts Center in honor of Mrs. Millsapugh and myself. Mrs. Millsapugh is President of the Nashville Penwomen. Mrs. J. Stanley Orr was chairman of this delightful affair. Mrs. Lawrence J. Bradford, Mrs. E. Nelson High, Mrs. Myers Y. Cooper and Mrs. James Burton Doan accompanied me. Mrs. Bradford shared special honors with Mrs. Millsapugh and myself. It was an especial honor to have present Mrs. Coralie Keck Heflebower, President of the American Penwomen, whom it has been my pleasure to meet on many former occasions. Mrs. Heflebower introduced many of the distinguished guests who are poets, writers and women of note in their particular lines of work.

To my surprise, my poem, "The Well Known"—composéd and read incidental to the occasion of the D. A. R. Pilgrimage to Arlington during Congress, when our exercises were held at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier—had been put to music by Mrs. O. B. Kaiser of Madisonville, Ohio, a member of the Mariemont Chapter, and, after giving a personal reading of it, the guests were asked to adjourn to a small auditorium where Mrs. Kaiser played and sang the piece; after which I was asked to address the women for a few moments.

From this tea we returned to the Netherland Plaza where the visiting ladies attending the S. A. R. Convention were further entertained at a delightful tea.

That evening at dinner, I was the guest of the President General and Mrs. Millsapugh, together with Mr. R. C. Ballard Thruston, Past Vice-President General of the Sons. After a most delightful and interesting dinner, we retired to the Hall of Mirrors for the reception.

Mr. Jackson W. Sparrow of the Sons of the American Revolution was the general chairman to whom we were indebted for the arrangements and hospitality.

After the reception we were entertained by a concert given by the Orpheus Club, and following this there was dancing in the Pavillion Caprice, which was most enjoyable.

On the morning of the 16th, Mrs. Graham Lawrence, State Regent of Kentucky, her daughter and I were entertained at breakfast by Mrs. D. Este Weatherhead.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Millsapugh and I were the guests of honor at a very large, beautiful and delightful luncheon, given by the Cincinnati Chapter, D. A. R., at the Women's Club. Here it was my pleasure to have with me Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, Honorary President General; Mrs. Thomas Kite, Honorary Vice-President General; Mrs. Walter L. Tobey, Vice-President General; Mrs. Asa C. Messenger, State Regent of Ohio; Mrs. Graham Lawrence, State Regent of Kentucky; Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne, State Regent of Indiana; Mrs. Harold S. Dickerson, State Regent of China; and other distinguished officers of the D. A. R., also the heads of many other organizations. All State officers and all chapters in Ohio Southwest District were represented. One of the features of the luncheon was a beautiful centerpiece on the speakers' table, which Mrs. Hobart had assisted in arranging, which represented the National Old Trails and the spirit of the D. A. R. marked with the Madonna of the Trail at each end, with little covered wagons, fully equipped, traveling the distance between. The Club House was a veritable garden of flowers. After luncheon I welcomed the opportunity to address the audience in the auditorium adjoining, when Mrs. Bradford, Regent of the Cincinnati Chapter, introduced Mrs. Hobart, by whom I was honored to be introduced.

On Tuesday evening came the Annual Banquet of the Sons of the American Revolution when Hon. Harry Brent Mackoy, Deputy Treasurer General of the Society of Colonial Wars, and Past President of the Ohio Society, S. A. R., acted as toastmaster. Col. Edgar Erskine Hume, President General of the National Society of the Order of the Cincinnati, gave a most interesting history and talk on the "Development of Patriotic Societies in the United States." Just here let me say that I doubly regretted not having been able to accept the cordial invitation of his society to attend their one hundred and fiftieth anniversary dinner, held in New York the week before. Hon. Floyd E. Thompson gave a splendid address also on "Changing Foundations of Government." Mr. Millsapugh as President General of the S. A. R., and your President General likewise made addresses.

On the morning of the 17th I was entertained at breakfast at the Gibson Hotel, by the chapter board.

Immediately following the breakfast we adjourned to the chapter rooms in the hotel, which are the headquarters of the Cincinnati Chapter. It was not only a pleasure to visit these rooms, but to be able to talk informally about committee work and to answer questions.

Following this meeting Mrs. Bradford, Mrs. Allen Collier and Miss Caroline H. Collier, took me for a delightful drive to see the Taft Museum, Rookwood Pottery and many other interesting sights; then to the Netherland-Plaza to witness the final sessions of the S. A. R. Convention, the nominations and election of officers and finally the installation.

My warm thanks and appreciation on behalf of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution is tendered to the President General, Mr. Millsapugh, and to each and all for the many honors accorded our Society during their convention. With the close association between the two, it was a genuine honor to be able to be present through their entire convention, and to not only extend congratulations to the retiring President General, but to welcome into office Mr. Arthur M. McCrillis, of Rhode Island, as the newly elected President General, and to extend congratulations also to Mrs. McCrillis.
I had been invited to two luncheons, one given by Mrs. Heflebower, National President of the American Penwomen, and one by Miss Mary Florence Tanney, Organizing President General of the National Society, Daughters of the XVII Century, and Mrs. Henry Pogue, President General, National Society, Dames of the Court of Honor. As my time was so short, I could but visit each one, greet them, and bid them hail and farewell.

On May 16, came the dedication of two elm trees in Childs Park, Northampton, Mass., by the Betty Allen Chapter, D. A. R., Mrs. Charles E. Childs, Regent. These trees had been planted the year before, and dedicated in honor of your present President General and Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, Honorary President General. A large company attended, including Miss Nancy Harris, State Regent of Massachusetts, Mrs. Louis Wales Knight, Recent of Mercy Warren Chapter of Springfield, and Mrs. Clifford S. Lyon, Regent of the Eunice Day Chapter of Holyoke. I was delighted to send a greeting and very sorry that the confusion of dates precluded the possibility of my being present. These two trees each have a granite boulder with a bronze tablet honoring the respective women.

May 18, records another death in our depleting lines of Real Daughters, Mrs. Mary Priscilla Tillman of the Esperanza Chapter of Berkeley, Calif. It is with sorrow that I record this fact, and also that we have on record but five Real Daughters at this time. Messages of sympathy to her family and to the chapter were sent.

Early in the morning of May 22, I motored to Springfield, Mass., to meet Miss Nancy Harris, State Regent of Massachusetts, and later to Hartford, Conn., to the Town and Country Club to join other members of the Committee on Defining Work of National Committees, which committee developed from a State Regents' meeting held previous to the recent Congress. Their duties were to define and clarify the work of the various national committees, and to endeavor to eliminate some of the overlapping features. Those present besides Miss Harris and myself were Miss Emeline A. Street, State Regent of Connecticut, Chairman; Mrs. Frank H. Parcells, Organizing Secretary General, of New York; and Mrs. William J. Ward, State Regent of New Jersey. At this time we were very glad to receive a telegram of greetings from Mrs. E. H. Wescott, former State Regent of Nebraska, who had acted as chairman of the group of State Regents who met with the President General as a preliminary to the formation of the small committee made up of women who lived near enough to reach a given geographical point without much trouble. The day passed all too quickly, with every hour given to the work, and except for a brief time when we enjoyed a delicious lunch, as Miss Street's guests, the committee kept hard at work, going over the details of each national committee, with the result that evening came, and the President General had to return home. The committee met again the following day at the Ellsworth Homestead in Windsor, Conn., and devoted another entire day to this work. All this I believe will be of great value to the future work of the chairmen of the various national committees, as well as those who are carrying out their instructions. It is to be hoped that in the near future some combination of committees can be made whereby overlapping, interference with one another, and the number may be diminished.

It was a matter of much regret to me that I could not attend the meeting of the Daughters of the Union, held on May 27, at the home of Mrs. Eugene Alderman, at South Hadley Center, when the President General, Mrs. Leonard B. Nash of New York, was present.

I was delighted that Mrs. William H. Pouch, Vice-President General, and Chairman of Approved Schools, could attend the Reserve Officers Training Corps Exercises at the College of the City of New York, Dr. Frederick B. Robinson, President, since it was impossible for me to be present. These exercises were held on May 29 and Mrs. Pouch reported they were most interesting, impressing one with the feeling that such training was so worth while and so important. A number of awards of merit were made, among them one silver medal by Mrs. Pouch herself.

On Thursday afternoon, May 31, it was my privilege and pleasure to again attend the exercises at Annapolis when the awards were made. It was a glorious day and the field, with these splendid young defenders of America, made a very striking picture. I was met at the gate by Commander George L. Weyer and escorted to the grand stand where I met Rear Admiral and Mrs. Thomas C. Hart. Naturally it was a delight to me to present to a Massachusetts boy, Midshipman Richard Goodwin Copeland of Malden, the sword which is given by our Society each year to the one who excels in seamanship. I afterward met his father and mother who said they were more pleased to have him receive this than any of the other prizes.

The following day I was invited to the graduation exercises and attended, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Robert, Jr. The President and Mrs. Roosevelt were present and the former not only made the commencement address, but gave the diplomas to the graduates. I was afterward entertained at luncheon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert, in company with Mrs. Thaddeus M. Jones, Corresponding Secretary of the C. A. R., Mrs. Clyde B. Aitchison, Mrs. Llewellyn Edwards, and Mrs. James H. Harner, all active in the Daughters of Founders and Patriots; also Mr. Robert's sister, Mrs. D'Arrien.

Upon returning to Washington, many important matters were cared for, important interviews were held, and after all had been adjusted, I took a night train for my home, where busy hours have been spent in preparation for our part in this great Exposition.

Monday, June 5, I attended the Trustees and Corporation meeting of the American International College at Springfield, Mass., and on the evening of June 6 the distinctive honor was mine of presenting the degree of Doctors of Letters and Humanities upon our beloved Honorary President General, Mrs. George Maynard Minor. We were both delighted to have present with us Miss Katharine Arnold Nettleton, Treasurer General; Miss Emeline A. Street, State Regent of Connecti-
The graduation exercises at West Point were held on June 10 and it was a great disappointment to me that I was unable to accept the invitation of Maj. Gen. W. D. Connor to present to the winner, Cadet Kenneth E. Fields, of Elkhart, Ind., the George Washington Sabre. This award is made annually to West Point by the Society to the one who excels in Natural and Experimental Philosophy. Colonel Carter, head of this department, said that this is the third oldest department at West Point and was established in 1812. Of the nine awards offered, Cadet Fields won seven. He is held in high esteem by everyone, officers and cadets as well. Mrs. Frank H. Parcells, Organizing Secretary General, of New York, very kindly acted as my representative upon this occasion and I know it gave her much pleasure to bestow the Society’s prize upon this splendid West Point cadet. Every courtesy was extended to our Organizing Secretary General. She was met at the Hotel Thayer by Lyman F. Judge, Lieutenant of Cavalry, and shown many points of interest at the United States Military Academy, including the cadets’ mess hall. Ceremonies were also extended by Maj. R. L. Eichelberger, who escorted Mrs. Parcells when she presented the D. A. R. award and Maj. John F. Conklin, who acted as escort to Grant Hall, the cadet reception room. The impressive ceremony of lowering the Flag at sunset was witnessed and also the formal dress parade when the cadets were reviewed by Secretary of War George Henry Dern. Later Mrs. Parcells had the happy privilege of meeting the Secretary of War and Mrs. Dern. Many D. A. R. members were present, including Miss Page Schwarzwaelder, New York State Treasurer.

I am sorry Mrs. Parcells could not be with us today.

I can readily appreciate how happy you must be not to have to listen to a report quite as long as the one presented to you in April, this being due to the fact that it covers a shorter period of time and that there were no State Conferences to visit.

EDITH SCOTT MAGNA,
President General.

The Recording Secretary General, Mrs. Henry Bourne Joy, read her report.

Report of Recording Secretary General

Since the last Board Meetings and Congress this office has concentrated on the preparation of the Proceedings of the 42d Continental Congress. The work is progressing as rapidly as possible, with our limited office force, and much material has been sent to the printer and proof read. We expect to have the completed volume ready for distribution in July.

The resolutions adopted by the 42d Continental Congress were prepared and printed, together with the Amendments to the By-Laws, and delivered to the office of the Corresponding Secretary General for distribution.

The minutes of the Board Meetings of April 15 and April 22 were prepared for the Magazine and proof read. The verbatim is almost ready for delivery.

Rulings have been typed and delivered to National Officers, also typed for the Ruling Book. Resolutions as directed by the National Boards of Management and Congress were written and transmitted to the proper persons.

The minutes of the Executive Committee Meetings have been written and rulings specifically pertaining to the several respective offices were distributed accordingly.

Notices of this Board Meeting (June 13) were mailed to members of the National Board.

The usual indexing of verbatim and minutes, etc., has been delayed on account of devoting all available time on the Congress Proceedings. But this will be given attention as soon as the work on the Proceedings is finished.

The Certificate Department has issued the following: Notification Cards, 965; Membership Certificates, 968; Block Certificates 2; Reelection Cards, 15; Commissions to National Officers, 9; Commissions to State and State Vice-Regents, 38.

Many inquiries have been received in the office all of which have been given prompt attention.

HELEN NEWBERRY JOY,
Recording Secretary General.

Mrs. Joy reported having visited Kansas, California and Oregon since her last report, and having been delightfully entertained as one of the National Officers at Wichita by Mrs. Stanley and Mrs. Campbell, ex-Vice-Presidents General, and Mrs. Kirkpatrick, the newly elected Vice-President General; also visiting the Indian School and speaking to the pupils; at Los Angeles, by Mrs. Toms and Mrs. Stokey; at Oakland by the Bay Chapter; at San Francisco by Mrs. Whittaker, and at Portland by Mrs. Weatherford.

In the absence of the Corresponding Secretary General. Mrs. John M. Beavers, her report was read by the Recording Secretary General.

Report of Curator General

I have the honor to report three gifts to the Museum since Congress:

New Jersey: A needlepoint case made by Hannah Shewell of Pennsylvania, given by Mrs. F. D. Weaver, Moorestown Chapter.

New York: A handsome knocker used on the door of Lieut. Frederick Delesdernier, 1750. Given by Mrs. Eva C. Bellefleur, through the Knickerbocker Chapter.

Pennsylvania: Paper patterns used prior to 1820 in making designs for hand embroidered collars, etc. Given by Mrs. Charles M. Saeger, of Bowmanstown.

To the following New Jersey chapters we are indebted for the money that has enabled us to glass in a table for the exhibition of articles of handwork: Nova Caesarea, Princeton, Ann Wharton, Hackensack, Haddonfield, Hannah Arnett, Bergen and General Lafayette. Many schools and tourists are visiting us daily and seem most appreciative of our beautiful Museum.

Myra Hazard,

Curator General.

The Recording Secretary General, Mrs. Joy, stated there was no report from the Reporter General to Smithsonian Institution, Mrs. Frank Phelps Toms, but that a letter had been received expressing regret at her inability to be present and sending good wishes for a pleasant meeting.

In the absence of the Chairman of the Buildings and Grounds Committee, Mrs. John M. Beavers, her report was read by the Recording Secretary General.

Report of Buildings and Grounds Committee

Since the close of the Congress the buildings and grounds employees have been busy putting our buildings back in normal condition and in preparing for the summer. All curtains and draperies have been taken down and with the rugs, cleaned and stored. Most of our Flags have been packed away and the cupboards and cases in all the State Rooms have been cleaned, inspected and new gifts added to the inventory.

The large collection of gifts of silver vases, baskets, pitchers, plates and other pieces which have been presented to the National Society from time to time and only used on special occasions have been checked with the inventory, repacked and placed in the silver vault until needed.

The grounds show the constant care given them by our superintendent and this year the rose bushes presented by our clerical staff have made a fine showing and have kept the offices supplied with flowers, while some have been sent to those detained at home by illness.

The rooms in Memorial Continental Hall look cool and comfortable and every step possible has been taken to provide for the comfort of our clerks in the office rooms while they carry on for us during the long hot days of the Washington summer.

Many gifts have been accepted for the State Rooms during and since the Congress. The District of Columbia has placed in its room a picture of Marcia Burns, which is a copy of the miniature by James Peale now in the Corcoran Gallery of Art. This is a companion picture to that of Dolly Madison and has a duplicate of that frame. It was presented with a special ceremony by the Marcia Burns Chapter. A large leather bound scrapbook was given at the same time by Little John Boyden Chapter and will contain many pictures of historic spots in Washington. A beautiful china inkwell brought from England many years ago has been presented by Mrs. Clarence Weaver and Mrs. John Lester Barr and Mrs. Charles L. Dasher have provided modern vases to hold flowers when given for the room.

Indiana has received two interesting books for the Library, one a very old Catholic Prayer Book given by Mrs. Ernest W. O'Brien, Jr., and a volume of Travels, formerly the property of Jacob Bogardus, is the gift of Mrs. F. C. Brown of San Diego, Calif. Attractive flowered linen covers of an old-fashioned pattern have been placed on the furniture.

Mrs. J. T. Nielson has added historic spoon sugar tongs and 3 spoons to her gift of old china for the Illinois Room.

The Colonial Kitchen has been well remembered, a spoon mould has been given by Cayuga Chapter, N. Y., a coal lifter by Mrs. Howard Bailey, Vice-President General from Missouri; a butter bowl made in 1823 from Mrs. Helen Reynolds of the District of Columbia; wooden fire lighters and six handmade clothes pins from Mrs. James Humphrey Krom of Pennsylvania, two interesting old weavers reeds from Miss Mary B. Denny of Indiana and suitable handwoven curtains the gift of the fireside Industries Department of Berea College. Mrs. Krom also gave some tiny block tin kitchen toys for the Children's Attic.

It is most fortunate that the States have kept their rooms in such fine condition so that only a few repairs were needed at this time. The ottomans in the Maryland Room have been renovated and a table in Wisconsin Room repaired. Our own force goes over the rooms each year for minor repairs. Texas has ordered its room painted in a soft Colonial yellow.
Many favorable comments have been received on the special telephone service arranged by our office for the Congress. We are indebted to the telephone company for the special operators furnished in Constitution Hall, free of charge, who were of great assistance to our members and delegates. We appreciate the cooperation of the telephone company at all times and their constant effort to improve the fine equipment supplied in Constitution Hall.

A remarkable demonstration was given to music lovers in Constitution Hall on April 27th under the auspices of the National Academy of Sciences, when Stokowski, famed orchestra leader, conducted a concert over the telephone lines. His orchestra, the Philadelphia Symphony, was in Philadelphia and Dr. Stokowski in Washington, yet the listeners in Constitution Hall heard the music reproduced as accurately as though the players had been on the stage before them. This was the first time that an orchestra playing in one city was conducted by its conductor in another city.

In the month of May we had several of the Women's Sessions of the Northern and Southern Baptist Convention; the National Oratorical Contest, and the Annual Commencement of George Washington University.

In Memorial Continental Hall, we had the concert of the Interstate Commerce Chorus, the Annual meeting of the American Red Cross, the Commencement of the Washington College of Law, when a degree was conferred on Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Commencement Exercises of Southeastern University and National University and St. John's College. These have been held in Memorial Continental Hall for a number of years and we take pleasure in having them in our Hall.

It will interest you to know that our department has signed a two-year contract with the National Geographic Society so that all the lectures of the organization will be given in Constitution Hall.

HATTIE M. BEAVERS,
Chairman.

The President General commended the fine work of this committee, and at her request the Recording Secretary General, Mrs. Joy, described the appliances and fittings used in Constitution Hall on the evening of April 27, 1933, when Mr. Stokowski, the leader of the Philadelphia Orchestra, by remote control conducted his orchestra playing in Philadelphia at the time; an event in line with a Century of Progress.

In the absence of the Chairman of the Magazine Committee, Mrs. Jean Labat, the report of that committee was read by the Recording Secretary General.

Report of Magazine Committee

During the past year it has been the effort of your Committee to so reduce the cost of producing the Magazine that the decline in circulation might in a measure be met in this way.

On June 3, the new printing contract with Judd & Detweiler was signed, at a rate which will further reduce expenses. We received bids from other local and out of the city firms, and on presenting these to our President General it was decided at this conference to accept the offer from the printer who for over nine years has gotten out our Magazine. We can assure the same high standard in all departments of the Magazine and its typographical appearance—this in spite of an estimated cut of more than $500 for the issue of this July over July of last year.

During the coming year we are making a special effort to bring the Magazine out on time so that subscribers may count on receiving it at a certain date. This can only be done through the cooperation of our contributors. Holding production adds expense to our printing and makes correct proof reading almost impossible.

In August a letter will be sent out advocating a new plan for obtaining subscriptions and the cooperation of the National Board is sincerely requested. Let us arouse our members to a realization of the fact that loyal support of the Magazine will not only give a medium of expression but a means of revenue to our organization. We will give value received for every dollar spent for the Magazine and in addition put money into the Treasury of our National Society.

I regret not being able to attend this meeting and accept the hospitality the Illinois Daughters so graciously extend.

With all good wishes for the success of D. A. R. Day at the Fair.

MARIE STEWART LABAT,
National Chairman.

In the absence of the Editor of the Magazine, Miss Natalie Sumner Lincoln, her report was read by the Recording Secretary General.

Report of Editor of Magazine

The July issue of our Magazine will be a "Century of Progress" number containing articles by the President General, by Mrs. Dunne, the Historian General and by Mrs. Herrick, Vice-President General on the D. A. R. participation in the Exposition. We plan to have it an outstanding issue—even the cover will conform to the material published within its pages.

It will be a number valuable for filing as well as of current interest, and I beg of you to order extra copies at once and send in subscriptions without delay.

Other subjects which will appear in the August and September Magazines deal with Cartoons of the Presidents and a description of the stamps of the Confederacy. This latter article is in response to a wide appeal to follow up Mr. King's "Romance of American Postage Stamps" in our April Magazine, with further accounts of valuable old stamps.

And this leads us very naturally to another article which should answer the hundreds of inquiries from Magazine readers as to the value of old letters before the days of stamps, autographs, etc. I quote from one seeking such information:
“I write to ask if a letter signed by Gideon Wells, Secretary of the Navy in 1863, would have any value . . .; also have old stamps. . . . I am bedridden; my grandfather fought in the Revolution and my father in the Civil War. . . . Will you please help an old woman in distress?”

If the Magazine can aid these readers in disposing advantageously of their historic documents, it will perform a public service.

One of the letters to be used in this special article on “Old Papers and Their Marketing” was written by Edgar Allan Poe in 1836. Its owner has already refused an offer of $3,000 for it. She has graciously permitted us to be the first to reproduce the letter in the public print. It will prove of great interest to the vast Poe enthusiasts in this country and abroad.

Besides the material above mentioned, the Magazine will carry most interesting D. A. R. news, genealogical data, and I hope, articles written by our National Officers and National Chairmen.

It has been customary for the June Board to set aside a sum of money to pay for special contributions and photographs, and therefore may I ask that $400 be allowed the Magazine for the purchase of such material. It will be expended most economically and only when occasion arises.

I thank you, Madam President General, and the members of this Board for your loyal interest in and support of our Magazine which we strive to improve with each number.

Respectfully submitted,

NATALIE S. LINCOLN, Editor.

The Treasurer General, Miss Nettleton, moved That $400 be appropriated for the purchase of Magazine articles. Seconded by Miss Hazard. Carried.

Miss Nettleton moved That the Recording Secretary General be instructed to cast the ballot for the reinstatement of 36 former members. Seconded by Mrs. Dick. Carried.

The Recording Secretary General announced casting the ballot and the President General declared the 36 former members duly reinstated in the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The Treasurer General, Miss Nettleton, reported that the National Society had lost by death 432 members; resigned 745; admitted today 436, the June interest. Seconded by Mrs. Dick. Carried.

Miss Nettleton stated that the date set for dropping members for nonpayment of dues had been extended to December 1, 1933, in order to permit those now delinquent to pay dues and remain in the National Society.

Miss Nettleton moved That the Treasurer General be authorized to transfer $11,000 from the Current Fund to the Constitution Hall Fund for the June interest. Seconded by Mrs. Dick. Carried.

Miss Nettleton stated there was on hand over $23,000, and enough coming in shortly to total $24,000, and asked permission to borrow enough to pay $25,000 on the H. L. Rust note, the only note now coming 6 per cent. The Librarian General, Mrs. Dick, offered to advance the necessary amount as part of the $2,500 promised for November. The President General expressed deep appreciation of this generous offer and stated that would reduce debt to $402,000.

The President General read the following correction to her report as Chairman of the Constitution Hall Finance Committee:

In connection with my Report on Constitution Hall I wish at this time to record a correction in my report of October 23, 1929, as Chairman of Constitution Hall Finance Committee, concerning the gift of a library chair made by Tawasentha Chapter, of Slingerlands, N. Y.

At that time I should have reported that the gift was:

1 Library Chair  $100.00

Given in honor of Mrs. Fisher M. Joslin, first New York State Custodian, 1925-1930, by Tawasentha Chapter of Slingerlands, New York.

Through some misapprehension I failed at the time to note that the gift was made to honor a member of Tawasentha Chapter, who had given valuable service to her State as Custodian, Mrs. Fisher M. Joslin.

I am delighted at this time to add this notation as a matter of record.

The Chair stated that the National Chairman of Radio hopes to be able to make arrangements for a nation-wide coast to coast hookup on the evening of November 15, 1933, the date set apart as the Birthday Party to receive the penny-a-day contributions toward the debt on Constitution Hall, and urged the members to gather together to receive her message at that time.

In the absence of the Organizing Secretary General, Mrs. Frank Howland Parcells, her supplemental report was read by the Recording Secretary General.

Supplemental Report of Organizing Secretary General

It gives me pleasure to present the Aaron Miner Chapter of River Forest, Ill., for confirmation.

ELISE H. PARCELLS, Organizing Secretary General.

Mrs. Joy moved the acceptance of the supplemental report of the Organizing Secretary General. Seconded by Miss Hazard. Carried.

In the absence of the Registrar General, Mrs. Stanley Forman Reed, her supplemental report was read by the Recording Secretary General. (Telegraphic report.)

WINIFRED E. REED,
Registrar General.

Miss Nettleton moved That the Recording Secretary General be instructed to cast the ballot for the admission of 30 additional applicants for membership, making a total of 430 admitted on this day. Seconded by Mrs. Dick. Carried.

The Recording Secretary General announced casting the ballot and the President General declared the 30 applicants duly elected members of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The Chair reminded the members of the change in the name of the Committee Sons and Daughters of the Republic to Sons and Daughters of the U. S. A., and of the motion passed by the Board October 12, 1930, relative to the buttons to be issued to the club members, which had been found not in consonance with the need, and Miss Nettleton moved To rescind the motion of the National Board of Management of October 12, 1930, regarding the button to be worn by the Sons and Daughters of the Republic, now known as the Sons and Daughters of the U. S. A. Seconded by Miss Hazards. Carried.

Mrs. Bathrick of Michigan moved That the purchase of suitable buttons or pins for the Sons and Daughters of the U. S. A. Clubs be left to the National Chairman of that Committee and to the Business Office, holding to approximately present rates. Design to be left to the National Chairman. Seconded by Miss Dilley. Carried.

The Chair spoke of the confused interpretation given a motion passed by the Board making Annin & Company the official makers of the D. A. R. Standard, and after discussion as to whether the motion included the U. S. Flag as well as the standard, and the improper use of fringe and eagle, the Historian General, Mrs. Dunne, moved To rescind motion made by the National Board of Management of June 18, 1924 making Annin & Company the official makers of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution Standard. Seconded by Miss Hazard. Carried.

The Chair displayed copies of the preliminary report of the committee appointed to define the work of the national committee and asked that the members procure copies in order to make a study of the matter between now and the October Board meeting.

The Recording Secretary General, Mrs. Joy, read letters in reply to resolutions passed by the 42d Congress: from the White House, the French Ambassador, State Department, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, and the Hon. Clarence J. McLead.

Mrs. O’Byrne of Indiana moved that we go into Executive Session. Seconded by Mrs. Cranlshaw. Carried.

Mrs. Gaffney of Georgia moved that we go out of Executive Session. Seconded by Mrs. Higg’s. Carried.

Mrs. Higgins of Iowa stated that Mr. W. A. Sheaffer of Fort Madison, Iowa, had presented a desk set, in memory of his wife, a former member of the Jean Espy Chapter, for use in registering visitors to the D. A. R. Room at the Century of Progress Fair; a gift to the National Society after the Fair. Mrs. Higgins moved That we accept the gift of a desk pen set from Mr. W. A. Sheaffer in memory of his wife, member of Jean Espy Chapter, Fort Madison, Iowa, to be used at the Century of Progress Exposition. Seconded by Mrs. Randall. Carried.

Mrs. Herrick of Illinois gave instructions for the celebration planned for D. A. R. Day at the Century of Progress Exposition on Flag Day, June 14, 1933.

AVOID THE STRAIN OF CLIMBING STAIRS
INSTALL A SEDGWICK RESIDENCE ELEVATOR

One of the most common forms of over-exertion is stair-climbing, and it is particularly dangerous to those who have reached or passed middle age. Very likely you yourself sometimes feel weak or out-of-breath when you reach the top step. Physicians repeatedly caution their patients against stair-climbing, for they fully appreciate its hazards.

The Sedgwick Elevator is a boon to the invalid, and a comfort and convenience to all. It is specially designed for use in the residence, and is safe, smooth-running, and operated with practically no effort. January 1st prices are still in effect, so act now before increases are made. Endorsed by physicians—praised by users.
