There are two days in November on which Americans give thanks. Thanksgiving Day—a day of celebration for our country’s good fortune and Veterans Day—a day that remembers those sacrifices that have kept America’s good fortune.

The cover photo for November is of The Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, which rests upon a hill in Arlington National Cemetery, that overlooks Washington, D.C. This is to remind us of Veterans Day. A day on which we honor those who have served to defend our country. Let us remember that the life we enjoy, the advantages, benefits and liberties we possess as Americans would not be possible without our soldiers.

PLACE WHERE ARMISTICE WAS SIGNED—IN COMPIÈGNE

ARMISTICE DAY, 1924

I think of crosses white as snow that stand like phantoms, row on row, And at their feet the poppies red Blossom as symbols of the dead.

God grant us vision for the right, Letting love rule instead of might. They gave the best they had to give, They gave their lives that we might live.

So on this day set apart, Let us pray humbly from the heart That we may have within our ken Peace on earth, good will toward men.

DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION MAGAZINE
DEAR DAUGHTERS:

Patriotic Americans reflect with profound gratitude upon the significance of this 63rd anniversary of Armistice Day... November 11, 1919. The selfless heroism of those men and women who made the supreme sacrifice in our Nation’s efforts on behalf of Freedom and Peace throughout the world is mute evidence of their devotion to the principles laid down by our Founding Fathers. November 11 was established in the United States, Great Britain and France as a special day of remembrance and commemoration of the signing of the Armistice at the conclusion of “the war to end all wars.” In 1953, following the Korean Conflict, a movement began to include the dead of all American wars in the observance. On June 1, 1954, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed a bill into law designating November 11 as Veterans Day and proclaiming it an occasion for honoring Veterans of all wars. May DAR in every community continue to lead the way in honoring the patriotic service of all Veterans. Let us continue a fervent prayer that the day will soon dawn when all nations will come to know Peace and its manifold blessings.

The personification of the National Society’s patriotic objective: “to foster true patriotism and love of Country,” is acceptance of all responsibilities of citizenship. It is human nature to take an inheritance for granted. Unfortunately, this axiom will be evident by the apathy of approximately half of our citizens who will not exercise their inherent right and privilege to elect officials at the ballot box this month. The decisions to be made regarding vital issues of the day will affect all Americans. The choices we make, no matter how simple they may seem, will profoundly effect our destiny.

May DAR again set an example of good citizenship by voting and encouraging others to go to the polls, to ensure America’s traditions, institutions and ideals of our Constitutional Republic.

During this 250th Anniversary year of the birth of George Washington, let us note the words taken from the original Thanksgiving Proclamation by our first President on November 26, 1789:... it is the duty of all nations to acknowledge the providence of Almighty God, to obey His will, to be grateful for His benefits, and humbly to implore His protection and favor...”.

May your Thanksgiving Day be filled with Gratitude, Happiness and Love.

Faithfully,

PATRICIA W. SHELBY
MRS. RICHARD D. SHELBY
PRESIDENT GENERAL, NSDAR
In the April 1982 issue of the DAR Magazine, Mr. Phil Frazier, the former building engineer, discussed the need for the external repairs to the DAR buildings.

The need for repairs had been in evidence for some time and the 1981 Continental Congress voted to accept his work as the President General's Project for this Administration. Contracts to repair Memorial Continental Hall and the main entrance steps to Constitution Hall were awarded to the construction firm of Roubin and Janeiro, Inc. of Merrifield, VA. Due to health reasons, Mr. Frazier retired and was replaced by Mr. Frank Lewis, our current facilities Engineer, to whom the task of administering the repair contracts fell.

The repair effort was started on December 22 by the DAR Maintenance Staff who removed the flood lights that illuminate the east end of the building. Removal of these light units was not included in the original contract. The fixtures were removed and stored for reinstallation after the repairs were completed.

On January 5, 1982, Roubin and Janeiro workers started removing the floor tile from the North Terrace. These marble pieces were cleaned of the old mortar that held them in place and stored under the portico. Next the floor tile from the South Terrace was lifted, cleaned and stored. The balustrades were dismantled from both terraces and stored for future reinstallation. Roubin and Janeiro brought in a mechanized concrete breaking machine to remove the existing concrete slab bases on the terraces. After slab removal, the earthen subbase was brought up to the proper level and compacted. The original earthen subbase had settled over the years due to water seepage and had to be brought up to grade. Next a seven inch reinforced concrete structural slab was poured for both terraces. A membrane waterproofing system was next placed over the structural slab. This waterproofing system is tied into the side walls of the terrace and is designed to prevent water seepage through the concrete slab and affecting the earthen subbase. Next a four inch thick concrete slab floor was poured to receive the marble floor tiles. While the floor surface was being prepared, the large marble blocks that required replacing were removed and new blocks of marble were installed. One could spend hours watching the crane lift the large exterior marble blocks and the mason crew setting them in place demonstrating their expert craftsmanship. Each block weighed approximately five hundred pounds.

The reinstallation of the balustrades followed. The contract called for the upright spindles of the balustrade to be replaced for those portions located nearest 18th Street as these pieces had reached an advanced stage of deterioration. This fact was proven to be correct as the pieces crumbled when the balustrades were removed. After the balustrades had been replaced, the relaying of the marble floor tile began. The terrace floors contain a color pattern that includes white marble border with pink marble tiles separating the terrace floor into smaller squares approximately ten feet square which are filled in with gray tile. This pattern gives the floor a pleasant appearance that does not present a monotonous trend.

Concurrent with the terrace stone work, the National Restoration Corporation, a sub-contractor to Roubin and Janeiro, began cleaning the building. Water under a pressure not to exceed 300 pounds per square inch was used to accomplish the cleaning. Based upon sample panels demonstrating the cleaning process, chemicals were not allowed to be used on the building to remove stubborn stains. Rather, a hydraulic aggregate process was used under close supervision of the DAR Facilities Engineer. This process uses a fine aggregate, similar to that used in old fashioned hour glasses, fed into the water stream in limited quantities. About ten gallons of this fine aggregate were used for the stain removal on the entire building.

Removing the mortar that had failed (crumbled) between the marble blocks is currently being accomplished. These joints will be repointed (a term denoting replacing the mortar used to cement the marble blocks together). Repointing the building will result in watertight joints, thus removing one of the damaging elements of the building—water seepage through the walls.

The Memorial Continental Hall portion of the restoration was substantially completed about the end of September 1982.

During late May and June, 1982, the nine foot tall white marble statue honoring the Four Founders of NSDAR was given a much needed conservation treatment. The Founders Memorial, executed by the American sculptress Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney, was dedicated on April 17, 1929, and is located in a garden setting on the C Street side of National Headquarters.
Constantine L. Seferlis, a sculptor and stonemason whose projects include work at the Victorian Garden, Smithsonian Institution and at the National Cathedral here in Washington, was commissioned to restore and clean the statue. The treatment included—washing of the sculpture with a very light detergent, cleaning and removing stains, restoring one toe, and filling and smoothing various defects. At the same time, the nearby benches were cleaned. The National Society expresses gratitude to Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney for providing the funds for this important conservation treatment.

The second phase of the President General’s Project involves repairs to the 18th Street steps of Constitution Hall. This contract, which has also been awarded to Roubin and Janeiro, Inc., involves replacing the lower two steps which are damaged, replacing other damaged step blocks and replacing the sidewalk in front of the steps. The existing sidewalk has settled to a dangerous elevation presenting a tripping hazard to the many people that attend performances within the Hall. Roubin and Janeiro workers began removing the lower steps on Wednesday, August 18th. The schedule called for this project to be completed by the end of September 1982. One of the problems in repair of the steps is the requirement that fire exits must be maintained to allow egress from the Hall at all entrances. To meet this requirement the repairs must be made in sections always allowing one portion of the steps to be used. The contractor has taken precautions in the scheduling and is providing site barricades to provide this egress and block off the work section from the public.

After approximately nine months of the stately Memorial Continental Hall being in a stage of construction disrepair, it will once again take its place as one of the stately monuments in the Historic District of the District of Columbia landscape.

For those Daughters who would like a souvenir of the building, pieces of marble which could not be reused from the original building completed in 1905 will be available for purchase at National Board Meetings and during the 1983 Continental Congress.

Note: Additional items being sold to raise funds for the Project are: silver and gold filled charms (replica of Memorial Continental Hall), canvas tote bags and umbrellas with a drawing of the building on them (both are tan with building in dark brown).

Valley Forge—Who Cares About Valley Forge??
History And American Heritage

BY CONGRESSMAN IKE SKELTON, MISSOURI

The Bylaws of the National Society emphasize the fields of History, Education, and Patriotism. This coming year's National Theme set by our President General is "...to foster true patriotism and love of country." This reinforces the DAR second objective, taken from George Washington's Farewell Address..."to promote...the general diffusion of knowledge." With these two key goals in mind, the following article stresses the need to study history and to remind our citizenry of our fine, hard-won heritage.

Sir William Francis Butler, the noted British soldier and author of the last century, once said this: "The nation that will insist on drawing a broad line of demarcation between the fighting man and the thinking man is liable to find its fighting done by fools and its thinking done by cowards."

Sir William's words ring no less true today than they did in that bygone era. Indeed, it would seem even more important today that such a line not be drawn, for today's military leaders face a challenge that is far greater than military leaders have ever faced. The military leader of today must, first of all, have the technical skills to employ effectively the sophisticated weaponry and other equipment which he has at his disposal. Secondly, he must have the ability to manage these assets and the highly-trained, skilled manpower in his command. However, technical and managerial skills alone are not enough to make a military leader. Much more is required to meet the leadership challenges of the future. The military leaders of today and tomorrow must understand the importance of military history—the study of tactics and the strategy through the ages. Congress, which has the constitutional duty to raise and support armies and to provide and maintain a navy, must work with the Armed Services so that our nation can produce military strategists in the tradition of General Douglas MacArthur, General George C. Marshall, and Admiral Chester Nimitz. We need military tacticians who, like General George S. Patton, are students of the history of warfare.

It is said that "...no commander or military historian sufficiently dedicated to his profession could possibly be surprised about any development in warfare, whether it concerns strategy and tactics, methods and weapons, equipment and uniforms, discipline and morale, civilian and political attitudes." A study of history's pivotal battles shows that the great captains—Hannibal, Caesar, Napoleon, MacArthur—were in the debt of outstanding soldiers of the past. Stonewall Jackson's successful Shenandoah Valley campaign resulted from his study of Napoleon's tactics, and, Napoleon, who studied Frederick the Great, once remarked that he thought like Frederick. Alexander the Great's army provided lessons for Frederick, two thousand years before Frederick's time. The Athenian General, Miltiades, who won the battle of Marathon in 491 B.C. also won the battle of El Alamein in 1942; the Macedonian, Alexander the Great, who defeated the Persians at Arbela in 331 B.C., set the example for the Roman victory at Pydna 155 years later; the English Bowmen who won Crecy in 1346 also won Waterloo in 1815; Montgomery, Bradley or MacArthur, who won battles in the 1940's might well win battles a century or so hence. Thus, I believe that every truly great commander has linked himself to the collective experience of earlier generals by reading, studying, and having an appreciation of history.

Now, this doesn't mean that today's soldiers should copy from the past. To the contrary, those leaders who have merely copied from the past have nearly always suffered defeat. While the essence of major tactics can—and must—be learned from the past, the thinking student of military history will learn much more than that. He will learn how to apply his tactics innovatively, in all situations and under all conditions. He will learn how to be flexible and how to adapt rapidly to change.

Our leaders must be students of human nature under war conditions—how men react to discipline, fear, hunger, lack of confidence, and shock; and they must know about the minds and emotions of potential adversaries. Such examples begin with Gideon of the Old Testament who proved to be an early propagandist—spreading stories of his invincibility amongst the enemy Midianites. At night, Gideon's force of a mere 300 men, blowing trumpets and waving torches, caused panic to sweep throughout the Midianite encampment resulting in an easy victory for Gideon. Further, the student of military history must learn a profound respect for things which, like the weather, are beyond his immediate control. When the Germans invaded Russia in 1941 they failed to take into consideration the bitter and devastating winters on the Russian Steppes, which was experienced by Napoleon in the previous century. Thus, those who are aware of the element of fortune in warfare will be better prepared to deal with it when, inevitably, it goes against them, or exploit it when, just as inevitably, it works in their favor.

Don't get me wrong. Our military leaders of the future need to be able to manage the force and to handle the big, expensive and highly technical new weapons. But they should not be bureaucrats—they should be leaders. History teaches that it is difficult to translate technological advances into battlefield successes, that the consequences of new technologies aren't easily predictable in advance, and that even profound technological superiority is not a guarantee of success in combat. Our ability to prevail in any future conflict may depend less on the quality of our weapons than on the theories and strategies through which they are employed.

Above all, our military leaders should have a deep sense of our American Heritage. Recently, I accompanied my youngest son and his boy scout troop to Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, where we toured the scene of that decisive battle.
of early July, 1863, where General Robert E. Lee and his Confederates engaged General Meade and his federal troops. We walked among the battlefield monuments that stand as reminders of the determined courage of the men from the North and South who fought and died for their respective causes. The scoutmaster graphically told the scouts the details of that historic contest. The climax of the battle is known to history as “Pickett’s Charge”—a massive assault by 15,000 Confederate troops across a half mile of open field against the breastworks of the Union ranks. This final attack, which was repulsed, was to be the high tide of the Confederacy. It was remarkable for the courage, daring and heroism of soldiers from both armies. At the end of our lengthy walk through the battlefield, we stood near the monument to General Lee and read a historic marker denoting Pickett’s Charge. One young boy, seeing the marker, sarcastically remarked, “Pickett’s Charge, who cares about Pickett’s Charge?”

The boy’s words startled me, for I realized that his standing on the field of one of the greatest and bloodiest battles of our history meant no more to him than standing on a street corner waiting for a school bus. Maybe it was too much to ask that a 12 year old have respect—or admiration—for men who had bravely fought there and had given their “last full measure of devotion” over a century before.

President Abraham Lincoln gave a speech on that battlefield in November 1863, remembered as his historical “Gettysburg Address.” He said on that occasion: “The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but can never forget what they did here.” Was Lincoln wrong? Have we as a people forgotten those deeds that occurred on that field of battle? Will the glory we enjoy, the freedoms, and the prosperity we have been bought and paid for by the courage, daring, and faith of the men and women who in every generation have answered their country’s call—not only the call to arms, but the call to build and create—the call to develop character and moral ideas in the family and home, in church and school, in office and factory, wherever our people lead their daily lives.

We live under a Constitution that has been a shield of our freedoms since its inception. But there would have been no Constitution—not even a United States Constitution—had George Washington and his men not withstood the bitter winter encampment at Valley Forge. Would anyone dare say, “who cares about Valley Forge?”

Peace has its victories no less than war. In my hometown of Lexington, Missouri, there stands a statue, the “Madonna of the Trail,” erected by the Daughters of the American Revolution in memory of the pioneer mothers who, along with their husbands and children, moved westward into the wilderness during the 1800s. Indeed, the Westward Movement was what made our nation unique. The conquering of the western frontier was a different kind of struggle, a movement without parallel in world history. Nowhere else has an area of equal size been settled in so short a time entirely as a result of quiet courage and initiative of small groups. This achievement gave our people the characteristic of accepting the challenge of new frontiers. Our American Heritage is one of challenges met by a determined people. The spirit that charted the course of Democratic government for the world also challenged American men and women to great achievements in the fields of health, science, politics and space as reflected by names like Walter Reed and Clara Barton, the Wright Brothers, and Amelia Earhart, Andrew Jackson and Harry Truman, John Glenn and Neil Armstrong.

We could call the record of our history from our Revolutionary Days at Lexington and Concord to man’s first step on the moon and recount the story of America: acts of heroism and devotion mark every generation. The pursuit of freedom and justice has taken our flag to the far corners of the world and beyond—San Juan Hill, Chateau Thierry, Normandy, Inchon, Da Nang. It flew beside buildings at Ellis Island as millions of immigrants journeyed to our shores to escape poverty and political oppression, seeking freedom and opportunity in the land that became the “Last, Best Hope of Mankind.” It flew over courthouses and schools as our forefathers established the greatest system of government and the highest living standard ever seen on this earth.

This is the heritage which you and I have received. It is the heritage which we must transmit to our children. It is not just facts, figures and dates, it is a deeply rooted sense of loyalty to all that has gone before—the challenges, the trials, the stoutheartedness, the victories, the dedication of our past.

“Who cares about Pickett’s Charge?”

“Who cares about Corregidor?”

God grant that you and I care—and that our children care, and that our children’s children will care. For, if we as a people don’t appreciate the greatness of our heritage, the day could come when some youngster might remark: “America, who cares about America?”

A Reminder
National Society Dues—$10.00 for a member of a chapter; $15.00 for member at large—must be paid to the Treasurer General on or before December 1, 1982.
The President General spent July 2, 3, and 4 in Knoxville, TN, at the 1982 World's Fair by invitation of Fair Officials.

On July 2, the President General was interviewed by WTVK, Channel 26 atop the Sunsphere on the site of the Fair and by local newspapers regarding NSDAR participation, the Yorktown Bicentennial, energy and other activities.

On July 3, the President General participated in flag-raising ceremonies at Old White's Fort. Prior to a luncheon at the U.S. Pavilion honoring the National Society, she was privileged to review the recreated Yorktown Military Units in the Court of Flags, escorted by Rear Admiral Frank McKee, USN (Ret.), and Mr. John A. Parker, General Vice Presidents, Sons of the Revolution. The U.S. Pavilion Amphitheatre provided an impressive setting for ceremonies in the afternoon. The President General, on behalf of the National Society, presented the NSDAR Medal of Honor to Admiral McKee, the U.S. Navy's first woman line officer who, at her retirement in 1981, was Deputy Chief of Naval Operations. This is only the third Medal of Honor presented by NSDAR and the first to a woman. Other DAR participants were Mrs. James Andrew Williams, Recording Secretary General, Mrs. James B. Harrison, State Regent of Tennessee, Mrs. Woodrow Vinson Register, National Chairman of The Flag of the United States of America Committee, and Miss Jane Gray Sowell, National Chairman, Energy Ethics Committee.

An inspiring musical program was provided by the U.S. Naval Chorus, Pensacola, Florida. A special moment came when Rebekah DeVane Register, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Vinson Register, signed the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the USA for the deaf. The President General and members of the DAR party were graciously provided an indepth tour of the Fair following the ceremonies.

Appropriately, DAR wererepresented at this 1982 World's Fair by the International Energy Exposition. Ninety-two years ago NSDAR participated in the World Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893. In continuation of this tradition, NSDAR presented 25,000 4 x 6 inch American flags to the World's Fair for the "Star Spangled Spectacular" on July 4. The pageantry and thrilling fireworks extravaganza made the entire evening Star Spangled and Spectacular indeed!

The Energy Ethics Committee is a sponsor of the appropriate Community Technology Center on the Fair site. The DAR sponsored energy program, "Streamline America" narrated by the Curator General, Mrs. Joseph William Tiberio, is shown daily in ACT '82. Mr. David Pate, Director of ACT '82, escorted the tour of the DAR exhibit depicting alternate and renewable sources of energy.

August 24, the President General returned to Knoxville to attend "Southeast Connections: Energy and the Environment in the 80s." The Conference brought together 77 energy and environmental groups to establish an agenda for preserving and improving the quality of life and presented a forum for exchange of information of skills and ideas to strengthen and develop alternate energy options and policies. The President General was a guest at a reception and later that evening again visited the World's Fair. She attended the opening session of the Conference. Miss Jane Gray Sowell, National Chairman, Energy Ethics Committee, was keynote speaker.

Following the official visit to the 92nd Annual Congress of the Sons of the American Revolution in Portland, OR, Mr. Richard H. Thompson, Jr., President General, Mrs. Philip Van Velduzen, State Regent, welcomed the President General on her official visit to Alaska. The President General was guest speaker for the Alaska Chapter in Fairbanks, Colonel John Mitchell Chapter in Anchorage and Mount Juneau Chapter in Juneau. Another treat for the President General was to visit Kodiak where a chapter is organizing, Mrs. Peggy Dyson, Organizing Regent.

Mrs. Leroy W. Coffroth, Chairman, Units Overseas Committee, joined the President General to visit Calgary, Canada, where Mrs. Richard Harder, Organizing Regent, planned a luncheon with approximately 40 interested guests.

The President General attended the 85th Anniversary of Washington Heights Chapter in New York City, Miss Sue Beth Carter, Regent. She was welcomed to Fraunces Tavern, Headquarters of the New York Sons of the Revolution, by the President, F. Daniel Le V. Coleman. The historic Morris-Jumel Mansion was also visited.

On Wednesday, October 6, the dedication of the plaque honoring the Yorktown Bicentennial Committee of '81 was held in the Martha Washington Stone Hall of the Museum. The brass plaque lists all contributors to the Yorktown Committee of '81 and will be on permanent view.

OCTOBER 8: This was a memorable day for the National Society. In the morning, the Founders Memorial Monument, sculpted by Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney, was rededicated by her son, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney and his wife, Mrs. Whitney. The majestic statue has recently been restored through their generosity. Mr. Whitney spoke about his mother's life and accomplishments following the unveiling. The National Society appreciates their continued interest in the Daughters of the American Revolution.

A special loan exhibition, "Dutch and English DelFTWARE: A Puzzling and Befuddling Problem," opened in the DAR Museum under the gracious patronage of His Excellency, the Ambassador of the Netherlands and Mrs. Lubbers. The exhibition commemorates 200 years of Dutch and American amity and commerce and will be on view through December 15, 1982. Outstanding examples of Dutch delftware illustrate the variety of forms available to the serious collector.

The DAR Museum Antiques Show opened with a gala preview in the lobby of Constitution Hall. Over 40 dealers from across the country displayed treasures for the patrons to see. A buffet supper was enjoyed by the guests while a string ensemble played 18th century Dutch music. The Antiques Show was open October 9-11 and featured special events: a slide lecture by the Editor of The Magazine Antiques, Wendell Garrett, on "John Adams and Our Diplomatic Relations with the Dutch" and the DAR Museum staff members presented "Tea with an Unknown Object" giving verbal evaluations of interesting objects brought in by the public.

To honor the work and achievements of Allyn Cox, N.A., D.F.A., artist of the Capitol and those who made possible the program of beautifying the Capitol with historical murals.

Whereas Allyn Cox, muralist, has contributed his talents to the beautification of the United States Capitol over the past quarter century, and in particular to the completion of Cox's Capitol Hall and the Great Experiment Hall.

Whereas the art program in the Capitol was carried out under the sponsorship of the United States Capitol Historical Society; and

Resolved, That these and other tributes shall duly recognize the efforts of the United States Capitol Historical Society on behalf of the preservation and improvement of the Capitol in this the twentieth year of its existence as an arm of the Congress, the immeasurable artistic achievements of Allyn Cox, of New York City, and the generosity of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution.

On September 21, 1982, Mrs. Wakelee R. Smith (left), Honorary President General, whose Project, "A Bicentennial Gift to the United States of America," was the painting of the Murals, and Mrs. Richard D. Shelby, President General, are pictured during the unveiling of the plaque honoring the Project and Allyn Cox, noted muralist (center). Shown with them are the Honorable Fred Schwengel, President, United States Capitol Historical Society, and Mr. Dean Fawcett, President, National Society of Mural Painters. Below, Mr. Cox, often compared to Michelangelo, addresses the group. When questioned concerning this comparison, Mr. Cox replied, "Well, the ceiling of this corridor is longer than the one in the Sistine Chapel." Having fulfilled his childhood dream of painting friezes in the United States Capitol, Allyn Cox died on September 26, 1982.

Norman Rockwell's Portrait of America

By Nancy Staab

Where does one find lively grandpas playing baseball like youngsters, skinny-kneed children shooting marbles on the sidewalk, or a bobbed-hair cheerleader pinning a letter on a high school football player? These scenes are the baseball-apple pie aspects of a great nation—Rockwell's America!

Norman Rockwell, America's most beloved illustrator, was born February 3, 1894. I chose to do my essay on Rockwell because I admire the humor, optimism, and American spirit so evident in all his works.

Many artists dipped their brushes into vinegar and added to the bitterness of the times as America faced World War I and II. It was purely original for Norman Rockwell to dip his paintbrush into a honeypot of humor, warmth, and a zest for living. Rockwell chose not to emphasize the imperfections in our country, but rather to paint Americans as they would like to see themselves. This is a positive approach to America—a side that needs our attention.

Not only was Rockwell an illustrator, but he was also an historian. Through his Saturday Evening Post covers, Rockwell captured every new craze, invention and event of the times.

All of Rockwell's works center around the human scene. His characters are all the "Common Man," earthily American and homespun. The Common Man is a unique individual. He dedicates himself to the ideals of his country and in return receives his rights as an American. Rockwell's characters have had failures and triumphs and share the hope for an improving nation. They evoke the spirit of our country and tug at our heartstrings.

Norman Rockwell's eagerness to paint even the abstract aspects of American life is significant to his finest contribution to America, his Four Freedoms paintings.

When America entered World War II, Rockwell was ready to serve his country, but was too old to enlist. He decided that the best way to contribute to the war effort was to do combat with a paintbrush and canvas. Like the shattering of a hand grenade, an idea exploded inside Rockwell. He would do a war poster for the government! Rockwell took the noble language of the "Atlantic Charter Proclamation of the Four Freedoms" and put it into simpler terms by illustrating the freedoms with everyday scenes and everyday people. Thanks to Rockwell, Americans could now understand the meaning of their most valuable possession—freedom. Rockwell's illustrations were more than just posters; they were a statement to America of why we were fighting a war. Our soldiers overseas, with wives and children back home, saw the posters and knew that they had been part of a good cause.

Rockwell's Freedom of Speech depicts a common man expressing his ideas at a town meeting. Everyone else is letting the man have his say, whether they all agree or not. Is that not what America is all about? Freedom of Speech is a right the colonists sought and gained with the foundation of America. Rockwell, with a paintbrush, reminds us of this precious legacy.

In Freedom of Worship we see the profiles of men of varying creeds and races, each practicing his own kind of religion. Rockwell believed everyone should be allowed freedom of worship and freedom from discrimination. His works of art made it clear that there was no "right" or "wrong" religion in America, and no "right" or "wrong" race.

Freedom from Want portrays a typical Thanksgiving dinner. Rockwell's message was that no one should be in want of the basic necessities. The opportunity is there and free to any American. Americans need only to reach for it.

Freedom from Fear shows two parents tucking their children into bed. In America everyone can go to bed without fear, knowing that all are safeguarded by an army and protected by the law.

Rockwell has transferred to canvas so meaningfully, forcefully, and eloquently what Americans feel in their hearts. Rockwell's Four Freedoms evoke loyalty and pride in our country. All Americans can look at them, feeling a spark of patriotism in their hearts. The "Freedom" paintings were warmly acclaimed and quickly became the best-known and appreciated paintings of the era. The originals were taken on a tour of the nation and were instrumental in raising $132,992,539 in war bonds.

I marveled at the depth of feeling created in those pictures. They are great human documents in the form of paint and canvas. They have moved and inspired America. The Four Freedoms gave new confidence at a time when the war was going against America on the battlefront, and the American people were in need of inspiration. They contributed significantly to our final victory.

Norman Rockwell's paintings continue to serve as a source of inspiration and to strengthen our national character.

Frederick Douglass: Champion of Freedom

By Caitlin Long

I am nearing the end of my life at this time in 1895. What have I accomplished? What part did I play on the world's stage? I was born a slave and was mostly self-educated. As I look back upon my lifetime, I can say I was a Negro orator, writer and leader in the anti-slavery movement in the United States, a spokesman for the rights of black people. I visited President Lincoln several times and talked about slavery with him. I am also proud of the two Negro regiments I organized in Massachusetts during the Civil War. Buying my freedom, or manumission in 1847, I founded the North Star, an Abolitionist newspaper which was instrumental in rallying public opinion against the scourge of slavery. I was a spokesman for my people.

I made many famous speeches. In 1883, The Civil Rights Law of 1875, protecting the rights of Negroes, was declared unconstitutional. Denouncing this deed, I said:

DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION MAGAZINE
Month Essays

The topic for 1982 was
"A Famous American Born in February"

If the Civil Rights bill was a bill for social equality, so is the Declaration of Independence, which declares that all men have equal rights. And so is the Sermon on the Mount, and so is the Golden Rule—that commands us to do to others as we would that others should do to us. So is the Apostolic teaching that of one blood God has made all nations to dwell on all the face of the earth. And so is the Constitution of the United States, and so are the laws and customs of every civilized country in the world. For nowhere in the civilized world outside the United States, is any man denied civil rights on account of his color!

Chronologically, I was born in 1817 at Tuckahoe in Talbot County, Maryland. My Name was Frederick Augustus Washington Bailey. I was sent in 1825 to live with the Aulds, relatives of my master. My job at the Auld’s was to look after little Thomas Auld. Mrs. Auld taught me to read. Mr. Auld objected saying learning would spoil blacks and was against the law. Mr. Auld said I’d learn to write next and then run away. In 1833, I was taken to St. Michael’s, Maryland to live again with my master, Thomas Auld. I was teaching other of my people to read when I was discovered. Thomas Auld sent me to a slave-breaker, Edward Covey, who was my master for a year in 1834. I saw the tortures of slavery, the beatings and shootings, and strong black men beaten and killed. 1835-36 found me making an unsuccessful attempt to escape from slavery; then I was sent to Baltimore to become a ship caulker. All my wages went to Hugh Auld because I was his slave. I escaped from slavery in 1838, married Anna Murray and took the name of “Douglass.” In 1841, I spoke before an anti-slavery convention at New Bedford and went to work as agent of the Massachusetts Anti-Slavery Society. I lectured against slavery over the years, and in 1845, published Frederick Douglass’s Narrative. In 1845-46, I lectured for two years in Great Britain and Ireland. English friends there gave me money with which to buy my freedom and establish an anti-slavery newspaper, the North Star. It was one of the best of its time, I am proud to say! In 1848, I continued to lecture on slavery and took up a new cause, woman suffrage. In 1849, I helped fugitive slaves escape through what was known as the Underground Railroad. My home soon became a “station” and those of us who aided the runaway slaves escape to Canada were called “conductors.” In 1859, I went to Canada because I was wanted for being involved with John Brown who encouraged slaves to rebel.

I denounced the Dred Scott Decision in 1857, the Supreme Court case which said Negroes were something less than people and not entitled to the protection of the Constitution. I supported Lincoln for the Presidency in 1860, and spoke in favor of war against slavery. In December of 1865, the Constitution outlawed slavery in every state not covered by President Lincoln’s Emancipation Proclamation. The Fourteenth Amendment soon followed stating no state shall deprive anyone of life, liberty or property without due process of law. I helped to get the vote for freedom in 1866. President Grant appointed me Secretary of the Santo Domingo Commission. I was chosen in 1872 as a presidential elector in the State of New York, and was selected by the electoral college to take the vote to Washington. I delivered an address in 1876 at the unveiling of the Lincoln emancipation statue in Washington. I urged my fellow Negroes in 1879 not to leave the South.

My wife, Anna, died in 1882, and I married Miss Helen Pitts in 1884. I was appointed the United States Minister resident and consul-general to the Republic of Haiti and charge d’affaires to Santa Domingo. I am spending my last days at my beautiful home on Anacostia Heights, near Washington, D.C. I have had a good life, all in all. I hope I have left a legacy of freedom.

Epilogue:

Frederick Douglass fell dead at his home on February 20, 1895. His home is preserved as a National Monument. Theodore Tilton, Douglass’ personal friend for many years, wrote this in his volume of Sonnets to the Memory of Frederick Douglass:

I knew the noblest giants of my day,
And he was of them—strong amid the strong:
But gentle too: for though he suffered wrong,
Yet the wrong-doer never heard him say,
Thee also do I hate!...

I chose Douglass because he was of humble origin, rose to win high honors, the respect of people in many nations, and became known as one of his country’s greatest men. Douglass was a champion of freedom who became a symbol in the battle for human rights.

Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell,
American Pioneer Against Ignorance and Prejudice

By Amy England

Elizabeth Blackwell became the first woman doctor to set up practice in America. She began a long and difficult search for a medical school that would accept her. She refused to disguise herself as a man because she was determined to clear a path so all women could have an equal education. Finally, in 1847, Elizabeth gained entrance to Geneva Medical College in New York. She received the first medical degree awarded to a woman on January 23, 1849.

Elizabeth’s battles were not over. No hospital would accept her for internship. She willingly concealed her medical knowledge for the opportunity to train as a midwife at La Maternite in France. Elizabeth’s dreams of becoming the first woman surgeon were ended when she contracted ophthalmia while treating the eye of a baby. She lost the sight of her left eye but felt proud of this wound gained in a great cause and resolved more strongly to conquer the field of medicine for women. At last, Elizabeth was admitted as the first woman intern to St. Bartholomew’s Hospital in London.

Elizabeth Blackwell became the first woman doctor to set up practice in America. Her general practice in New York City was confined to women and children who were acquaintances or friends of her family. Elizabeth longed to treat the poor, and successfully opened the New York Infirmary on May 1, 1857. It was staffed entirely by women doc-

Susan B. Anthony was a rebel, a crusader, and a humanitarian. She has also been called "The woman who changed the mind of a nation." For these reasons, I chose Susan B. Anthony as the subject of my essay since I admire her actions to abolish slavery and to fight for the equality of women.

Born on February 15, 1820, in Adams, Massachusetts, Susan B. Anthony was the second child of Daniel and Lucy Read Anthony. Her father was a Quaker who resented slavery and tried to discourage the purchase of goods produced by slaves. This idea of the evils of slavery made a lasting impression on young Susan.

Susan and her sisters were educated by Deborah Latham, Jean Lee, Elizabeth Blackwell, Champaign, IL: Garrard Publishing Co., 1975.

Sponsored by Cooch's Bridge Chapter, DAR

San B. Anthony was the second child of Daniel and Lucy family which lived and fought for the rights of all people. I was impressed with Elizabeth's strength, initiative and perseverance to continue this fight and lead an active useful life. I chose Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell as my famous American because through her lifelong battle to conquer the medical profession and gain acceptance for all women physicians, she has greatly increased career freedom and equal educational opportunities for all women. Determined and courageously, Elizabeth advocated "Prevention is better than cure! Care must be equal for rich and poor alike!"

Elizabeth Blackwell was a real American pioneer—opening up minds long closed by prejudice and ignorance.

Moulson’s Friends Seminary in Philadelphia. Following her education Susan taught school for fifteen years. However, at twenty-eight years old, she had achieved the highest position she could as a teacher. Wishing to advance the cause of women and her own personal career, she organized the Seneca Falls Convention in July, 1848. The convention was attended by more than one hundred people including some male sympathizers. After the Seneca Falls Convention, she also involved herself in the temperance movement, founding the Woman's State Temperance Society of New York. During the Civil War, she was likewise an active supporter of the anti-slavery cause. After the war, Susan devoted herself exclusively to the fight for women's rights and became president of the American Woman's Suffrage Association.

In 1870, the Fifteenth Amendment was added to the Constitution. This stated that the right to vote should not be denied because of race, color, or servitude. Therefore, in the election of 1872, Miss Anthony and twelve women friends, registered and voted. Because of her actions, she was arrested, given an unfair trial, and was fined $100. The fine was later dismissed. This event made many women even more determined to fight for their cause.

Another step to promoting women's rights came about with the publishing of a newspaper called, "The Revolution." Susan founded this newspaper in 1868, with the motto, "the true republic—men, their rights, and nothing more, women, their rights, and nothing less."

In the years following, Miss Anthony traveled throughout the United States and Europe speaking on women's rights and tried to further her goals for women.

Death came to Susan B. Anthony on March 13, 1906 at the age of 86. However, it wasn't until fourteen years later that her dream of equal rights for women was realized by the passage of the Nineteenth Amendment.

Maine

The annual fall meeting of the Maine State Organization Daughters of the American Revolution was held 1981 at the historic Bar Harbor Club at Bar Harbor, Maine. A combination of the fall foliage near its peak, the natural beauty of the area, plus the gracious hospitality of the members of the Mount Desert Isle Chapter made for an occasion which will be remembered for many years to come. As reported to the Office of the Historian General. This alphabetical list will be continued in subsequent issues.

This task is continued yearly through reports compiled by each State Historian and submitted to National Headquarters. Previous Lists were printed in the annual Smithsonian Report which has been discontinued. A card file of these located graves is maintained in the Office of the Historian General.

Between March 1, 1981 and March 3, 1982 NSDAR located 110 graves in 16 States. Data on those graves are provided in the following tabulation:

GENERAL WILLIAM LEWIS (Morrilton, AR), established in 1969 with Jean Stallings as organizer and first Regent; has several things of which to boast. In our brief history we have been instrumental in founding two very active chapters: One under Eleanor Ryland at Choctaw and the second at Conway, Arkansas under Virginia Upton. However our real boast is that we have among our members one who is not descended from a Revolutionary Ancestor but an Ancestoress. She is Mildred Gray Bryan a descendant of Martha McFarland McGee Bell of North Carolina, a woman who rendered invaluable service as the eyes and ears to the struggling American Army fighting against the forces of Lord Cornwallis.

Martha McFarland McGee Bell was born September 9, 1735 in Orange County, North Carolina. Little is known of her parents but judging from the name they were Scotch Irish. In 1759 she married Colonel John McGee, a commissioned officer in the British Army and a widower with two children. Colonel McGee had come to North Carolina with his parents in 1753 and had been granted a large tract of land in Orange County where he established a Grist Mill and an Ordinary at the head waters of the Sandy Creek. He was the founder of the Presbyterian Society, one of the earliest religious groups in that area. To this union five children were born: John, Andrew, Jane who married John Welborn from whom our member is descended, William and Susanah. In 1773 Colonel McGee died leaving Martha to carry on the business.

In 1779 Martha married David Bell, an ardent patriot, and later first sheriff of Randolph County. David Bell operated a grist mill in the Deep River Community which later became Randolph County. His mill was the gathering place of the Whigs.

Traveling constantly over the country and through the British lines, Martha served as the eyes and the ears of the American Army under General Greene. Upon one occasion Martha and her family were attacked by British sympathizers called the Regulators. They were driven off with losses.

Martha died October 22, 1821, one year before her husband. They were buried in the Bell-Welborn family cemetery near New Market School in Randolph County.

At the site of the battle of Guilford Courthouse the Alexander Martin Chapter have placed a memorial which reads: “Loyal Whig, Enthusiastic Patriot, Revolutionary Heroine—Martha McFarland Bell”

MANHATTAN (New York, NY) celebrated the Yorktown Bicentennial with a gala tea at the English Speaking Union’s clubhouse. Fittingly, the proceeds from the tea bought gift Coupon Books for distribution to Veteran Patients in the Brooklyn, Manhattan and Kingsbridge Veteran Facilities. Mrs. Joseph T. McNulty, Regent, briefly described the events for the day at Yorktown, Va. It was most fitting that we honor our Veteran Patients, who like the Patriots of 200 years ago, gave of themselves for their country.

Mrs. Joseph P. Vecchiarelli, Deputy Representative to the National VAVS Committee; briefly described work done by Volunteer and made a plea for more Volunteers. Mrs. Collins, Chief, Volunteer Services at Brooklyn Facility, gave work being done, as did Miss Hasselberg, Chief, from the Kingsbridge Facility. She also made a plea for more Volunteers, as well as plans for the near future. After a brief question and answer period, all adjourned to the tea table, for a pleasant social hour.

All congratulated hostesses Mrs. Francis Kugler, Vice Regent and Mrs. Francis R. Wheeler, Treasurer for a most delightful celebration for those unable to be at Yorktown. Chapters represented were: New York City, New Netherland, Peter Minuit, Fort Greene, Mary Washington Colonial, Major Jonathon Lawrence, General Nathaniel Woodhull, Golden Hill, Battle Pass, Richmond County, Washington Heights.

In the subsequent months, coupon books were distributed to Veteran Patients in the three facilities by Mrs. Kugler, Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. John Towne and the Regent. Mrs. Kugler, well known artist Charlotte Livingston, painted a lovely card for each patient to whom she distributed a coupon book.

An outstanding program was given by Lt. Col. Holland, Intelligence Officer, who was one of the hostages held captive in Iran. His country and God were his constant strength to overcome the experiences of threat and mental torture throughout the time as a hostage.

The presentation by Mrs. Bruce W. Middleton, Citizenship Chairman, to twelve Seniors from twenty Chicago High Schools who received citizenship certificates and bronze pins was a gratifying culmination. Gifts of corsages and pens were also given.

GILBERT MARSHALL (Little Rock, AR). In keeping with the National call for more help for veterans, the Gilbert Marshall Chapter gave up its annual Christmas luncheon in order to present a silver tea, the proceeds of which would go toward the purchase of canteen books for veterans at the Fort Roots Veterans Hospital located in North Little Rock, Ar.

Governor and Mrs. Frank White graciously allowed us the use of the Governor's Mansion, decorated for the holidays in the Williamsburg fashion. Gracefully the head table was the magnificent silver tea service from the Battleship Arkansas. Arkansas citizens raised the funds for the tea service. Gilbert Marshall Chapter minutes of 1914 indicated the chapter members donated $225.00. Three thousand silver dollars were collected and melted to make the punch bowl alone. The Battleship Arkansas was sunk in the Pacific in an atomic test.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. White and chapter officers. Past Regents, one a fifty-year member, Mrs. J. D. Hammons, another the wife of former Governor Sidney McMath, poured tea and... served punch. Chapter members, Mrs. James R. Blacklock and Mrs. Robert D. Gibson, provided background Christmas music. This was an all-chapter project with members contributing time, food and money to make the tea a great success.

MOORESTOWN (New Jersey). Organized and hosted by the Moorestown Chapter the surrounding area chapters, Colonel Thomas Reynolds, Haddonfield, Isaac Burroughs, Nassau, Pinelands, Valley of the Delaware and Ye Old Newton, were invited to a joint meeting, lecture and tour of Burlington County's historic Smithville Mansion.

A reception with refreshments greeted the guests while early-American music was played by Dulcimer artist, Sylvia Mellon.

Mrs. Albert McCay, Moorestown Vice Regent, opened the meeting and following the regular ceremonies. Mrs. Robert Shirk, Artistic Director of the County-run Mansion, spoke on its history and of its delightfully eccentric owner, Hezekiah Smith.

Coming from Vermont in the mid-1800s, Mr. Smith became famous as a designer and manufacturer in the woodworking industry. His manufacturing complex was built on the Mansion grounds next to the Rancocas Creek. Probably his most famous product was the high wheeled "Star" bicycle and the "Bicycle Railroad" that he had constructed for his workers to commute from their outlying homes.

Moorestown Chapter has recently received a donation of 22 volumes of the New Jersey Archives collection from the New Jersey Historical Society. These volumes include the abstracts of New Jersey wills from 1751 through 1817; newspaper extracts from American newspapers relating to New Jersey from 1762 through 1782; and the Journal of the Governor and Council which begins with the Council of East Jersey December 1682 and goes through 1775.

Though this is not the full set of the series it is invaluable for those researching New Jersey. Moorestown Chapter, through their Registrar, Mrs. James D. Klaiber, has volunteered as a public service to check these records for persons without transportation to proper libraries, shut-ins and area historical society members.—Rowena Robinson Billos.

WAUPUN (Waupun, WI) was organized in October, 1901 but received their charter from NSDAR on January 31, 1902. In observance of over 80 years of service, it held a luncheon at Helen's "Bicycle Railroad" that he had constructed for his workers to commute from their outlying homes.

Their charter from NSDAR on January 31, 1902. In observance of over 80 years, the chapter which makes her a 70-year member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. S. H. Burnside, Organizing Regent of Major Francis Grice Chapter, was so happy that Mrs. Hyatt was able to become a member of DAR so that there would have enough members to charter the chapter. The chapter was named for a relative of Mrs. Burnside.

Mrs. Hyatt recalled that meetings were held in the homes of their members, primarily Mrs. Burnside's home on 7th and Scott Streets. They did not have speakers; the members wrote papers and presented them to the chapter.

The chapter's history states that Mrs. Hyatt was acting Regent for Mrs. Burnside. She was National Defense Chairman for many, many years. She had such a forceful, emphatic and wonderful way to present her National Defense reports each month. Mrs. Hyatt stated, "I reckon to always being a DAR member even though I miss coming to meetings and being with everyone."—Reported by Mrs. Charles Harrell.

A statuette replica of the "Madonna of the Trail" was presented to the President of the Waupun Historical Society, Mrs. L. Nagler, by the Regent, Mrs. James Drummy, Sr., to be placed in the Waupun heritage Museum. It is dedicated to the memory of all the pioneer women of Waupun. Mrs. Kenneth Bertsch, Program Chairman, gave an interesting program on the history of the statue and the Old Trails road from coast to coast.

Mrs. Robert Bießnick, Registrar, read the history of the chapter which was written by Mrs. Drummy from the secretary's records of 80 years.

The local chapter lists 19 members.—Minnie Drummy.

MAJOR FRANCIS GRICE (Wichita Falls, TX) celebrated its 70th Year in February.

Mrs. W. L. Herblin was 92 years old January 10, 1982, and Mrs. Cleo Volberding, Regent, and Mrs. Charles Harrell visited with Mrs. Herblin and her sister, Mrs. John Hyatt who is 95.

Mrs. Hyatt is a Charter Member of the chapter which makes her a 70-year member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. S. H. Burnside, Organizing Regent of Major Francis Grice Chapter, was so happy that Mrs. Hyatt was able to become a member of DAR so that there would have enough members to charter the chapter. The chapter was named for a relative of Mrs. Burnside.

The City of Buffalo has as its slogan "Talking Proud." The chapter is "Talking Proud" of its accomplishments this year under the leadership of its capable Regent Marie Herron (Mrs. Robert L.). It is the proud home chapter of the New York State Regent, Jane Carver Theobald.

Mrs. Edgar Vail, National Chairman

From the Desk of the National Chairman . . .

The following information has been received and as National Chairman of the Genealogical Records Committee, I would like to share it with you:

EASY/ACCURATE CEMETERY RECORDING: This system has been developed to accomplish two objectives: (1) save time "in the field," and (2) to ensure substantially more accurate/complete records than are obtainable by hand-copying. It is based on the disciplined use of portable tape recorders augmented by simple diagrams.

To achieve absolute accuracy it is essential that the ten steps listed below be followed meticulously:

1. Identify the source.
2. Read data into tape recorder in the prescribed format.
3. Type cards from tapes.
4. Proofread the cards and correct them to match the tapes.
5. Arrange the cards in alphabetical order.
6. Type book pages from the cards.
7. Proofread typed pages and correct them to match tapes/cards.
8. Refile the cards into a master file for preparing book index.
9. Prepare and insert non-text pages, and number all pages.
10. Type the master index.

1. SOURCE RECORD IDENTIFICATION. Always identify cemetery locations by State, County, and Township. Include addresses when available. Try to get the Legal Description and a copy of the plat for inclusion. Provide detailed directions from the County Seat or other nearby town, and draw simple diagrams showing how the cemetery is laid out.

When copying written records give the complete name and address of their location. Describe the records ("mortuary records copied from bound books belonging to the Island Mortuary, Vashon Island, King County, Washington.") Always include volume and page numbers and complete dates.

2. RECORDING. Let the tape run for a few seconds before starting to record. This will ensure that nothing is lost when it is transcribed in a different machine.

At the beginning of each side of every tape, identify the record being copied. Specify location in cemetery. If lot and space numbers are not available as in mortuary records, divide the diagram into sections that can be copied on one side of one tape; identify the areas in some fashion (number sequentially or use system of letters and numbers used on maps). Write that location on the side of the tape where the information from that section is being recorded.

Record as follows: Take your time! Speak slowly and distinctly. Let the tape run while walking between stones. Pause briefly between listing names, even when they are on the same stone (this gives the typist a chance to keep up). Read the surname (last name) first: "Jones, Arthur B. That is: J-o-o-n-e-s, A-r-t-h-u-r, middle initial B., Arthur B. Jones." Read dates twice. "1862 to 1915, that is: 1-8-6-2 until 1-9-1-5." Remember, 15 and 50 can sound the same. Dates MUST be identified digit-by-digit.

Read every word on the stone except long poems recognizable as having been copied from published texts. Specify when names are on the same stone. Identify the graves on either side ("Between John Jones and Bob Smith") and all burials in the same lot ("In same lot with Mary, Martha and John.") Where words do not suffice, draw simple diagrams to be turned in with the tape. Describe unusual stones. Do not forget that peculiarities of/on stones may be important. For instance, three joined circles = Odd Fellows Lodge, Crucifix = Catholic, hand pointing to heaven = Methodist, etc.

3. TYPE FILE CARDS. Omit nothing contained on the tape. If the price of cards is prohibitive, cut your own from typing paper and file them in a shoebox. Type every card in the same format.

4. PROOFREAD! Check every letter, word and date against the tape. Make completely legible corrections on the cards. If there isn't sufficient space on the card, staple another to it. Be sure the cemetery and location therein are included on the card.

5. FILE CARDS ALPHABETICALLY by surname, given name.

6. TYPE BOOK PAGES. Allow a wide left-hand margin for binding (1 1/4-1 1/2 inches) and a wider space at the bottom for footnotes. Double-space between people. Where material is to be included as photos (as for stones inscribed in foreign languages), list the name in the correct place in the text and give the cemetery location and place (in the book) where the photo can be found.

7. PROOFREAD! If you are checking the pages against the cards (rather than the tapes), it is better for two people to work together. Mark corrections in red on a checkprint so they won't be overlooked. (Use only non-photo blue when making any marks on the master pages.)

8. FILE CARDS IN MASTER INDEX (after book pages have been corrected).

9. PREPARE A TITLE PAGE. WRITE AN INTRODUCTION, being sure to give credit where deserved—particularly to non-DAR helpers; include any pertinent information which may be useful to researchers. If more than one cemetery (or other source) is included, COMPARE A TABLE OF CONTENTS. INSERT MAPS AND DIAGRAMS immediately following the cemetery they describe. NUMBER THE PAGES. ADD PAGE NUMBERS TO TABLE OF CONTENTS.

10. TYPE A MASTER INDEX unless only one alphabetized source is included. If book contains one large and one or more tiny cemeteries or isolated graves, list all names in the alphabetical sequence of the large cemetery but be very sure to identify where those people are actually buried and to reference the diagram (if any) on which the graves are shown. ("In Myers Cemetery. See diagram on Page . . .")

You are asked to please follow directions in the Instruction Booklet for Copying Source Records when numbering pages and preparing a Title Page. All work should first be sent to your State Chairman of Genealogical Records who in turn sends it to the National Committee in Washington, D.C.—Mrs. Edgar Vail.

When Mary Ann Bickerdyke was selected by the congregation of Old Brick Church in Galesburg, Illinois, to accompany a collection of weapons, medicines, invalid food, and clean linen to the Cairo Army Hospital, she willingly accepted. Conditions in the hospitals were deplorable, the only nurses were convalescent patients too weak to care for others, and civilian diseases took a staggering toll. The Army Medical Department was totally unprepared to cope with full-scale war.

Into this strode Mrs. Bickerdyke, a strong, determined farm woman who called herself a "botanic physician". Her first task as she followed General Grant’s Army was to inspect kitchen and laundry facilities, never large enough to suit her demands. Negro contrabands were pressed into service to set up huge kettles near a spring and woods to heat water for washing, baths, and a kettle of soup. Spotless cleanliness and nourishing food were vital for her patients’ progress. Soldiers everywhere called her “Mother Bickerdyke”.

Permanent military hospitals were new to the United States Army. The Chicago Sanitary Commission, a branch of the U.S. Sanitary commission, a forerunner of the American Red Cross, was supported by local Aid Societies. Mrs. Bickerdyke skillfully turned her patients’ female relatives anxious over the soldiers into useful channels—hemming sheets, canning soup, knitting bedspreads. She received the Sanitary stores and made them go farther than anyone could have expected. When she was appointed Sanitary Agent, she had authority to act without interference from Army surgeons and officers, who often resented her domineering ways, for she put the welfare of “her boys” first.

In Washington, Dorothea Dix was working on a nurses corps, with all nurses to be over thirty, and very plain-looking women. Mother Bickerdyke welcomed them, for she never had enough help.

It was not expected that an uneducated farm woman would anticipate antiseptics and vitamins a generation before science, but she knew the value of soap, scouring powder, and lye, and the need for fresh fruits from the Sanitary Commission to combat scurvy. The Army doctors came to respect her for the cleanliness and order she brought into hospitals. She left it at that, practicing her peculiar brand of “organic medicine” and healing over their noses.

She died Nov. 8, 1901, at 84 years of age, and is buried in Linwood Cemetery beside her husband and baby daughter.

ROCKFORD COLLEGE

In 1847 the State of Illinois issued a charter for Rockford Female Seminary, the forerunner of today's co-educational Rockford College. In 1882, Rockford College graduated its first class with the Bachelor's Degree.

Among the members of that first graduating class was Jane Addams, who became a pioneer social worker. She founded Chicago's Hull House, and in 1931 was the recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize.

The new recruit often came with his own homemade uniform, many fashioned by the ladies' sewing circle in whatever fabric was at hand. His weapon might be a muzzle-loading rifle or a breech-loading gun. Civil war took more lives than any other war in history, and disease took more lives than bullets. Men marched to war to the stirring music of "Dixie", "The Bonnie Blue Flag", "Lorena", "All Quiet Along the Potomac Tonight", "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Marching", "Rally Round the Flag", "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground", and "The Year of Jubilo".

On the edge of a bluff overlooking the Rock River near Oregon, Illinois, is the Black Hawk Monument, a 48-foot statue executed by Lorado Taft and presented by him to the State of Illinois in 1911. The statue was intended by Taft to depict an idealization of the Indians who lived in the Mississippi region. Popular fancy named it Black Hawk, and that name is now generally accepted.

The Dr. Anita Newcomb McGee Award Ceremony

91st Continental Congress

JANET R. SOUTHBY, D.N.SC
Lieutenant Colonel, U.S. Army Nurse Corps

I would like to express my appreciation to those who nominated me and to the DAR for the honor of being granted this award.

Although I have been a member of both the Army Nurse Corps and the DAR for some time, I have not fully appreciated the close historical relationship between the two organizations. The DAR played a significant role in the establishment of the nurse corps.

In 1898, Dr. McGee, then Vice President of the National Society of the DAR, was appointed by TSG to select graduate nurses for the Army at the onset of the Spanish American War. The nurses selected would serve at a monthly salary of $30.00 and a daily ration.

Dr. McGee proposed that the DAR act as an application review board for military nursing services. In turn, the DAR Hospital Corps was founded with Dr. McGee as director.

High standards were set for applicants and for the most part only graduates certified by approval of nursing school directors were accepted. Thus the precedent for a high level of professional competence was established early in the history of military nursing.

Two years later, at the request of TSG, Dr. McGee drafted a bill to establish a Nurse Corps (female). The legislation was passed in 1901. Due to her contributions to its development, Dr. McGee has become known as the “Founder of the Army Nurse Corps” and the corps became a permanent part of the AMEDD on 2 Feb 1901, an anniversary we still acknowledge.

The DAR has honored Dr. McGee by presenting this award annually since 1967. The first recipient was CPT Linda Bowman, a medical-surgical staff nurse at the 34th General Hospital in France. In 1970 the award was presented posthumously to LT Sharon Lane, the only Army nurse killed as a result of enemy action in Vietnam. BG Hays, the first nurse to attain the rank of general, was honored in 1971. Since then, I realize that each recipient has influenced my career. Some of those having particular influence on my clinical, educational, research, or administrative practice were: BG Johnson, COL Drusilla Poole, COL Mary Mulqueen, COL Patricia Miller, and COL Nan Borg.

In closing, I would like to share with you a summary of my beliefs about nursing as a profession:

THIS I BELIEVE ABOUT NURSING:

Nursing has traditionally been identified with the care of sick people. There is no doubt that nurses in the past have made significant contributions in this area and that they continue to do so. Rapid technological changes, advances in health promotion, illness prevention, therapeutic and rehabilitative modalities have placed additional demands on the clinical expertise and leadership skills of today’s nurses. Nursing’s unique contribution to health care lies in its ability to help people cope with their environment by providing holistic, continuous, and integrated care.

In order to fulfill society’s need for nursing care, there has been increasing attention within the nursing profession to at least four other areas in which nurses make significant contributions to the health and well-being of society. These areas are education, research, administration, and health policy.

Education is the essential means for providing practitioners with the scientific, theoretical foundation and intellectual orientation necessary for professional practice. Professional nurses must have the ability to make critical, independent judgments about patients and their care and they must be accountable for these actions. Through advanced and continuing education, nurses enrich their clinical competencies and expand the breadth and depth of their knowledge.

Research in nursing requires the merger of clinical issues and problems with systematic, scientific inquiry to develop further nursing’s body of knowledge and the structure of its scientific base. Nursing must be able to predict with accuracy the effects of nursing care on numerous variables including patient outcomes, cost of health care, length of hospital stay, and recovery rate. This will give nursing the ability to define better the cost effectiveness of nursing care, the role of nursing in health care delivery, and the impact of nursing on patient outcomes and quality of care.

Nursing administration is a field where nurses have the potential for making significant contributions towards advancing the effectiveness of patient care and community health. The importance of this area is highlighted by the fact that nurses constitute the greatest number of personnel in the health care system. Proficiency in administration is essential for controlling and assuring the appropriate allocation and use of these resources.

Nurse participation in policy making at local and higher levels has not been very evident in the past. Nurses are beginning to accept their responsibility for participation in the policy making process and are becoming more active in expressing their desires to make effective contributions to health policy debates.

“If nursing is to remain a self-directing profession, with the prerogative of determining the scope and nature of its practice, then it must anticipate the future and prepare for it. Only in this way will nursing be able to make its full, unique, and highly visible contribution to the well-being of mankind.” (Statement on Graduation Education in Nursing. New York: American Nurses’ Association, 1969, p. 1)

The Federal Brass Basket is an ideal showcase for bread, fruit, and flowers. Its classic handle is ingeniously notched, so it can be nested on either side of the basket. Standing 47/8" high and 135/16" long, it weighs approximately 6 pounds, and is cast in solid brass—heavy American-made brass, considered the world's finest. And who better than Phelps Dodge craftsmen, with a proud tradition in copper and brass dating back to 1834, can so authentically evoke in brass the classic essence of the Federal Era.

EACH PIECE BEARS FOUNDRY MARK. The Basket is cast in limited quantities and struck with a distinguishing foundry mark. Each piece is individually hand finished to a rich deep glow that will mellow more beautifully year by year, with no two pieces exactly alike.

Patriotism from the Wabash to the Mississippi

The Colonial Fife and Drum Corps of Alton, Illinois began in 1975 as a part of a Flag Day ceremony with one fifer and one drummer. With the impetus of the Bicentennial it has grown to its present membership of fourteen fifers, eight drummers and a color guard of eight persons. All members are between the ages of 10 and 18 - the age of Revolutionary War fifers and drummers. Uniforms are similar to those worn by the Continental Line in 1778, and are handmade, as are the fifes and drums. All music used is from the period of the Revolution.

The group travels about 7000 miles each year and gives 35 performances. In addition to winning prizes in numerous parades, the Corps has played for Prince Charles of England, for Presidents Ford and Carter and in 1981 was selected to represent Illinois in the first annual Independence Day Parade in Washington, D.C.

Commemorating its vanished first capital, the State of Illinois has built Kaskaskia State Memorial on Kaskaskia Island. The original town over the course of years was washed away by spring flooding on the Mississippi River. As part of the memorial, a small brick building houses the "Liberty Bell of the West." The old church bell was cast in France in 1741 for the Catholic Church at Kaskaskia by King Louis XV of France. It took two years for the 650-pound bell to arrive in Illinois. Shipped to New Orleans, it was then towed up the Mississippi River by men walking along the banks pulling by ropes the raft carrying the bell.

Ornamented with the royal lilies of France in relief, the bell bears the French inscription that translates to "For the church of Illinois - by the gift of the King." For two centuries the bell served under the flags of France, England and the United States. When Col. George Rogers Clark captured Kaskaskia from the British on July 4, 1778, the "Liberty Bell of the West" pealed forth.

with a little help, Mausumi Basu, 3, formerly of India, takes the oath of citizenship in United States Federal Court, Danville, Illinois NATURALIZATION ceremonies are held three times a year with the Honorable Judge Harold A. Baker presiding.

The applicants have studied The DAR Manual for Citizenship in preparation of becoming American Citizens. They have been examined by an officer of the Immigration and Naturalization Service and are presented to the court as qualified applicants. One by one they take the Oath of American Citizenship and all Pledge Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America. They receive certificates of naturalization.

A short program consists of Invocation by a local minister; a short talk on love of country by an honored guest; and children from area schools sing patriotic songs. Small American flags are presented to each new citizen by the Regent of Governor Bradford Chapter. The flags are purchased by the THIRD DIVISION of ILLINOIS in order that all chapters in the division may receive credit. Flag Code leaflets are presented by a representative of the Danville American Legion Auxiliary.

Refreshments are provided by the AMERICANISM and DAR MANUAL for CITIZENSHIP COMMITTEE.

Mrs. William O. Smiley, Regent
The boyhood home of PRESIDENT RONALD WILSON REAGAN, the 40th President of the United States, located at 816 S. Hennepin, Dixon, Lee County, Illinois, was built in 1891. In 1920, the Reagan family moved into this, their first rented home in Dixon. On Hennepin Avenue, Ronald attended grade school, made use of the Dixon Public Library, attended the Christian Church and the nearby YMCA.

The house has been purchased largely through the efforts and foresight of Mr. Lynn Knights, the area postman, and by donations of Dixon residents and other interested citizens. It is now known as THE RONALD REAGAN BOYHOOD HOME PRESERVATION FOUNDATION, a nationwide project to reconstruct, decorate, and refurbish the home, enabling the public to view the environment of Reagan’s formative years. It was in Dixon, a town of 10,000, situated in the heartland of America, where “Dutch” Reagan formed his basic ideals and religious beliefs which enabled him to achieve the highest position in the land. Living in Dixon from 1920-1932, President Ronald Reagan considers Dixon his “Hometown.”

Soldier, Justin Rust, in Bryant Hill Cemetery, outside Ellicottville, NY, in a dedication ceremony led by Mrs. Herron, Aileen Carroll and Grace Hecot. The Cemetery is on the property of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Siggelkow. The Veteran's Administration placed a granite marker on the grave, discovered and authenticated by Mrs. Siggelkow. Members of Salamanca Chapter assisted in a reception at the Sigelkow home after the ceremony.

September found members participating in the New York State Conference, held in Buffalo. Mrs. Herron was chairman of the banquet and Miss Eleanor Morgan was honored as a 50-year member.

In October, one of our members who had attended the Yorktown Bicentennial shared her experiences with us. November we proudly honored nine area youngsters as our DAR Good Citizens. ROTC medals were presented at local Colleges.

Two members, sponsored by the chapter, Miss Dorothy Dehn and Mrs. R. Donald Coppola, have compiled the records of St. John’s Lutheran Orphanage from 1864 to its closing in 1961 in a book, presented in ceremonies to the Buffalo and Erie County Historical Society, the Buffalo and Erie County Library and State and National DAR Libraries.

Buffalo celebrates its Sesquicentennial during 1982. Abigail Fillmore participated in the festivities held on Flag Day in downtown Buffalo.

In many of our meetings we have been privileged to have our State regent present and to hear her speak, giving us insight into DAR work. Our Chapter also has a large and active DAR Schools Committee, which meets a Saturday afternoon, each month, to work on projects for the DAR schools.—Grace Hecot.

COLONEL WILLIAM CRAWFORD (Ohio). The Wyandot County Fairground, Upper Sandusky, Ohio, sponsored a two-day Commemorative Program honoring Colonel Crawford who was burned at stake June 11, 1782 by Indians in one of the last battles of the Revolutionary War on the Western front. It was known as the Sandusky Plains campaign and was the only Revolutionary battle fought in what is now Wyandot County.

Mrs. Wilson Goodman, direct descendant of Colonel Crawford, and past Regent of the chapter bearing his name, was program chairman. Mrs. Edith Chaney, another descendant, was chairman of “The Colonial Belles” a group of ladies assisting in managing of program details.

The main features were: “Color Slide Story of Life of Colonel Crawford,” two-hour parade; service at Crawford monument dedicating new flag pole and flag, Adjutant General James Abraham, speaker. Sunday morning church service at Crawford Methodist Church with Rev. Russell Hoy speaker; during noon hour a family and group basket picnic at fairgrounds, reminiscent of the “Old Pioneer Picnics” that were held at Crawford monument site beginning in 1869 (when monument was erected at burning site). Sunday afternoon an “Old Fashioned Program” took place at the grandstand area with Attorney Fred Milligan, former Wyandot countian, as speaker. Congressman John Ashbrook, was present as was Ohio State Regent, Mrs. Ann Kittzmiller.

On display at fairgrounds during program was a quilt and coverlet display with awards given to 1st place winners. Also displays of arts and crafts from various groups and individuals.—Ann Goodman.

Bess Streeter Aldrich (1881-1954) stands on the steps of the house where she was born in Cedar Falls, Iowa. At the right are her parents and sister, Clara.

Two complete sets of her 14 books have been donated by the DAR to the Cedar Falls Historical Society and two sets to the Cedar Falls Library, a project which took eleven years to complete.

This house, located on South 16th Street in Clarinda, Iowa, was the birthplace of Glenn Miller, the bandleader, who was born here on March 1, 1904. He was the son of Mr. & Mrs. Elmer Miller. In 1976, to honor their native born Clarindian, the Glenn Miller Birthplace Society was formed with Dr. Jack Martin as the Charter President. The house was dedicated in May, 1976, and two bronze plaques were presented and are located in the yard, one by the Lions Club of Clarinda and the other by the National Music Federation. A Festival was held in 1976 and every year since around Memorial Day, sponsored by the Society. The Society has membership from 10 countries and 25 states, which supports the promotion of the society, plus 2 scholarships for $300 and $500. Students audition in April for these scholarships from all over the county, the only requirement being that they must be Seniors in High School. Also a Newsletter is published, which coordinates the efforts by fans of Glenn Miller. In May, 1982 in Glenn Miller’s honor South 16th Street was renamed Glenn Miller Avenue. The Society is now working on a commemorative stamp for Glenn Miller.

"In 1940 the newly-formed Nathaniel Fellows Chapter, DAR had a memorial marker dedicated to the only American Revolutionary soldier to die in the land now known as Johnson County, Iowa.

Indian Chief Poweshiek gave permission for the Fellows family to go into what was then Indian land to homestead. It is believed that Nathaniel Fellows was the first white man to die in the Indian dominated area. Years have long since passed and the city of Coralville has long-since annexed the land. The marker was moved to the Oak Hill Cemetery where it now stands."

Today Muscatine is a city with diversified industries, many of them depending on barges for shipping. Young boys watch as millions of tons of cargo go up and down the Mississippi. These boys have often heard the story of a young man who lived here in 1854, when the town was an important port on the river. Here that young man, age 18, heard stories of pirates camping on a nearby island; of runaway slaves; of good people and bad; and the constant chant as the steamboats kept their course—"MARK TWAIN". HOME OF LUMBERMAN PETER MUSSER

A small house, facing the Mississippi River, was built in 1845 by Judge William Woodward. Peter Musser bought the house in 1874 and remodeled it: building 18" thick brick walls; adding elaborate cornices; decorative ironwork on the turrets, and a front porch with Corinthian pillars. It became the social center of Muscatine, where he entertained the rich and famous visitors to the town. Legend says that, during remodeling, a manuscript of Mark Twain's was found in the walls. The house is privately owned. Photo: Courtesy of owner.

THE McKIBBEN HOUSE, BUILT IN 1866. On the National Register of Historic Places.

JANE LAMPTON CLEMENS

S.M. McKibben came to Muscatine in the 1840's and prospered as a lumberman and merchant. He built this double house in 1866, which was occupied by his family until 1940. Jane Clemens and her family lived in a small frame house directly across the street from the McKibben home. Although their frame house is gone, Muscatine remembers the time when they lived in the town. In 1980 the theme of Muscatine's Great River Days was "A TRIBUTE TO MARK TWAIN." SUNSET OVER MISSISSIPPI RIVER FROM MARK TWAIN OVERLOOK, MUSCATINE

SAM CLEMENS, Age 18, ORION CLEMENS

“I remember Muscatine for its summer sunsets. I have never seen any on either side of the ocean which equalled them.” Mark Twain. In 1853, Orion Clemens, older brother of Samuel, came to Muscatine as co-owner, co-editor of the Muscatine Journal. With him came his mother, Jane Clemens, and his youngest brother, Henry. During 1854, Sam lived with the family and worked at the Journal with his brother. Perhaps he saw the beautiful sunsets from this hill, which is now a popular picnic spot and overlook. Sawmills prospered as Muscatine became an important lumber town in the late 1800’s. Huge rafts of logs were floated down the Mississippi River from Wisconsin and Minnesota forests. By the time the logs dwindle from the northern pineries, it was discovered that buttons could be made from clam shells found in the river. In 1890 Johan Boepple, a German immigrant, invented a button cutter and factories started. Shells were gathered during the summer and shipped to factories in Muscatine, which became known as the pearl button manufacturing center of the world. Photo: P.M. Musser Library.

After the Blackhawk Treaty of 1833, white settlers crossed the Mississippi in search of new homes in what became Muscatine County. Here overlooking the river, they found Indian mounds on bluffs to the east of their village; a Ceremonial Bluff to the west; and many Indians living in the area. These Indians made maple sugar from the sap of maple trees near the village. They hunted, fished and farmed throughout Muscatine County. Sam Clemens must have heard many stories of these Indians. Announcing a glorious “call to the colors”....

STANDARDS AND COLORS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

by Edward W. Richardson

This remarkable book brings together the most complete array of military and naval flags of the Revolutionary War period ever assembled.

Everyone knows that many different flags flew proudly during the War for Independence, but few have ever realized how many—or how beautiful they were. Based on many years' research, Standards and Colors of the American Revolution accurately identifies and reproduces dozens of striking flags for the first time anywhere, along with complete histories of those surviving flags. In all, over two hundred flags are illustrated, many in new paintings done for this book. Also included in the 165 color and 195 black-and-white illustrations are insignias, seals, period paintings, and other source materials. The text describes individual flags of all forces and units involved in the Revolution, provides background on designs and symbols, and includes appendices on flag-related orders and flag-makers.

With Standards and Colors of the American Revolution, you can gain a true and lasting appreciation of the marvelous quality, imagination, and diversity found in our early flags. As a source of information and inspiration for people interested in the Revolution, early American art, or colonial artifacts, there is no book like it.

The “Molly Pitcher” Pitcher

With over 2500 pitchers sold almost exclusively to DAR members we continue to receive only compliments on our beautiful, one of a kind hand crafted product. Because each pitcher is assigned a serial number and can be registered in the recipient’s name, it becomes a very personal gift.

“EXCLUSIVE OFFER”
LIMITED EDITION—5000 PIECES

Molly Hays went to war with her artilleryman husband. During the historic battle of Monmouth (June 28, 1778—a fiercely hot day), she carried water to thirsty soldiers in the pitcher that was to change her name in history books.

Never before has a commemorative been more symbolic. Plates, coins, bottles have been issued to commemorate people and events, but this collectible is truly unique, since the pitcher alone, commemorates both person and event. This limited edition pitcher is mouth blown, as evidenced by the pontil mark.* It is hand crafted by the famed Clevenger Bros. Glass works of Clayton, N.J. exclusively for American Bison Corp.

The Molly Pitcher scene shown at right and George Washington at the Battle of Monmouth on the reverse side are embossed in the glass.

Because each pitcher is hand made, no two are identical; each one possesses a unique characteristic of its own.

WE GUARANTEE DELIVERY AND SAFE ARRIVAL

Note: If you are sending this as a gift directly to the recipient, we will include a gift and registration card. Include message you desire and any instructions such as “Do not open till Xmas.”

OUR GUARANTEE: You must be completely satisfied with your purchase. If not please return for full refund.

*Each pitcher must be broken off the metal rod which holds it during the process of blowing. This leaves a “pontil” mark which is the trademark of a mouth-blown pitcher. Each pitcher bears the pontil mark.

Place your Christmas orders now!

With each pitcher you receive a certificate of authenticity which includes your serial number, the raised seal of the glass blower and the history of Molly Pitcher.

George Washington Cutlery

“SPECIAL HOLIDAY OFFER”

Save 20% on Carver Hall Cutlery from Towle Silversmiths. The George Washington patterns shown below were so well received by DAR Representatives at the 1982 Congress, that we completely sold out. Now that we have restocked, we offer you excellent savings on this attractive, gift boxed cutlery. With the holidays approaching, these items make excellent gifts or can be used to do your own carving during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. We guarantee satisfaction or return for full refund.

The attractive, carefully-balanced carving set, with its classic pistol grip handle, was inspired by George Washington cutlery, originals of which may be seen at the Smithsonian Institution in the Nation’s Capital. The comfortable, well-fitting handle is triple plated to retain and preserve its sparkling luster. The knife blade is of costly surgical stainless steel to maintain its sharp cutting edge longer.

The George Washington Dagger is an official commemorative reproduction.

Note: Not pictured but also available in the George Washington pattern are 4 and 6 piece steak knife sets plus letter openers, see order form below.

HONOR ROLL FOR REVOLUTIONARY WAR ANCESTORS.

Again, the Hereditary Register comes to the DAR to present another one of our great projects for 1983. We will have a Salute to the Treaty of Paris and an Honor Roll to our Revolutionary War ancestors.

In the October 1975 issue the DAR magazine had a full page picture of the HR presenting a check for $2500.00 to President General Mrs. W.R. Smith for the participation of DAR members in that edition.

We hope to repeat this success again with the co-operation of the Daughters of the American Revolution helping us with this Salute to our Freedom.

1983 will be the bicentennial of the U.S.A. being recognized as a free Nation. This came about by the Treaty of Paris in 1783 and we Salute this great event in our twelfth edition of the Hereditary Register.

Further, we will have the most thorough and extensive Honor Roll to Salute our brave ancestors who fought in the Revolutionary War. It will be the greatest genealogical accomplishment ever made and will make an excellent reference book because of the detailed, genealogical format. It will honor your ancestors as well as yourself and family.

Send in today for the 1983 HR kit and join with us in this monumental Salute. Send your request NOW to:

974 DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION MAGAZINE
The issue has an advertising revenue increase of over $10,000 compared to the November 81 issue. Thank you! This increase in advertising, coming after the successful “A DAR Legacy” Issue, is outstanding. Thank you for your advertising support of The Daughters of the American Revolution Magazine.

A few reminders:

Please send back all proofs by return mail. We must have them immediately. Delays in returning the proofs can cause a delay in the printing of The Magazine or uncorrected errors appearing in the ads.

Also, before you send us ads, be sure that you know the difference between chapter and commercial ads. We are still receiving commercial ads at chapter rates. If you have any questions about what type ad you have, the Advertising Office will answer all of your question.

And when sending a co-op ad, include a list of the chapters in the co-op and the amount each chapter contributed.

Thank you, North Central Division, for your advertisements.

NSDAR Medicare
Supplement Insurance

A Special Message for Members Age 65 and Over

For most Americans over age 65, the Federal Medicare Program is the first line of defense against today's high cost of health care. But it isn't the only defense you need.

Medicare was never designed to pay 100% of your medical bills. You are responsible to pay a part of the charges made by your doctor and hospital for most services.

Even a short stay in the hospital can end up costing you hundreds of dollars out of your own pocket. The in-hospital deductible alone costs you $180.00 the very first day in the hospital. And the costs climb rapidly from there.

The NSDAR Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan can help you protect your budget and your savings from these unexpected medical expenses. It works with your Medicare coverage, providing benefits in addition to those Medicare pays. The NSDAR Plan pays the deductible and cost sharing charges in the hospital, including doctor and surgical bills, plus cost sharing charges in a skilled nursing facility following hospitalization.

The Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan is offered exclusively to Society members and their husbands at very economical group rates. What's more, your acceptance is assured regardless of age. And it won't be cancelled as long as you remain an NSDAR member...no matter how many claims you make in the future.

With medical costs so high—and going higher every day—no one over 65 can afford to be unprepared for the expenses Medicare leaves behind. Find out more about how the NSDAR Plan can help you. Just clip and mail the coupon below.

Do it today. You owe it to yourself to be more financially secure in the years to come.

The NSDAR Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan

Send me more information about the NSDAR Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan. I am an NSDAR member in good standing, over age 65, and eligible for Medicare. I understand that there is no obligation.

As the official keeper of 1.3 million cubic feet of federal records, the National Archives preserves extensive information on the individuals—perhaps your ancestors—who helped shape our nation's heritage. These records have taken on new importance with the rapidly growing interest in genealogy and local history. To help you use our wealth of resources, the staff of the National Archives has prepared a new GUIDE TO GENEALOGICAL RESEARCH IN THE NATIONAL ARCHIVES which will be available in December 1982.

This 300-page GUIDE expands and updates the original 1964 edition, substantially increasing the amount of information on the many federal records important to genealogists and local historians:
- Census records
- Military service and pension files
- Ship passenger arrival lists
- Federal land records
- and many more . . .

The GUIDE will prepare you to conduct effective genealogical research in federal records, your next step after learning all you can from family documents and other local sources of information. It is designed to help you make a systematic review and selection among the wide range of materials available in the National Archives. It will hasten that exciting moment when you discover documentary evidence in federal sources of your family's participation in the great American story. In addition it makes clear what records are not in the National Archives and frequently indicates where they might be found.

The GUIDE is an essential addition to any genealogy or local history reference library. It also makes an ideal, practical gift for both the sophisticated and beginning researcher.
