The drawings of John White (1577-1590) include the earliest delineations of North America by an English artist. White accompanied the first colonizing expedition sent to “Virginia” by Sir Walter Raleigh in 1585. It was his charge to make a pictorial record of the country its inhabitants and its natural products. He was later appointed governor of the new Roanoke colony in 1587.

From this area, which includes the modern states of North Carolina and Virginia, White brought back numerous studies of Indian life, of North American birds, reptiles, fishes and plants, as well as the most reliable maps of the coastline of Virginia and North Carolina that would be done for many years.

The cover illustration for February is taken from White’s “Map of Raleigh’s Virginia” which shows the east coast of North America from Cape Lookout to Chesapeake Bay. His original drawings are preserved in the British Museum.
Doctor Rhea Seddon, Astronaut
(wife of Lieutenant Commander Robert L. Gibson, Astronaut)

Selected by the United States Navy to join the Astronaut Program as a pilot.
Lt. Commander Gibson participated as a pilot on the 4th flight of the Space Shuttle Challenger
The shuttle returned to Cape Canaveral for the first time following this launch.
Dr. Seddon, a Mission Specialist, is scheduled to participate in the August 1984 launch.
The Gibsons are the parents of the world's first "Astrotot", Paul Seddon Gibson.

Dr. Seddon is the granddaughter of Edward Charles Seddon who was presented a DAR ROTC Medal at Ohio State University as best Cadet in his class. She is a third generation DAR—member of the Colonel Hardy Murfree Chapter, Murfreesboro, Tennessee.

Sponsored by Dr. Seddon's family through the Colonel Hardy Murfree Chapter
DEAR DAUGHTERS:

The designation of February as American History Month continues as a challenge to our Society. Governors and Mayors throughout the country, at the request of State Societies and Chapters, will issue proclamations during this month. School children will participate in the American History Essay Contest, studying the past and acquiring inspiration and preparation for the future. Building responsible citizenship is the chief goal of our Society and the glories of our heritage will inspire young people to become America’s future leaders. We will honor the memory of two great leaders of the past, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, and we will emphasize the impact of the Treaty of Paris on the 207 years of our nation’s history.

The members of our Society, personally dedicated to the best interests of the future of our country, are writing their own records of achievement in the annals of history. Generations to come will profit by the examples of dedication to duty, personal responsibility, initiative and daring to reach for what might seem an impossible goal.

You will be interested to know that two of the 10 Outstanding Young Women of America for 1983, Janice Earlene Bolinger of Martinsville, Indiana, and Janet Kay Barnett of Heyworth, Illinois, are members of our Society. It gave your President General a great deal of pleasure and pride to present one of these young ladies and to be able to congratulate the other at the luncheon which honored them in Washington on November 28.

On February 1, the Society is honoring Clare Boothe Luce, one of the most outstanding women of our century and a member of the Society for 42 years, with the History Award. This Award, the only one which is made to a member of the Society, is presented to those citizens of the United States of America who have made outstanding contributions to our nation through study and promotion of American History. Mrs. Luce is currently serving as National Chairman of World Strategy Network. She is an eloquent speaker and will honor us with an address at a DAR Museum Event on that day.

Facing this page you will find a picture of Dr. Rhea Seddon, a physician and surgeon, who is a third generation member of the Society and one of the six women to participate in the astronaut program. If all goes as planned, she will make history by serving as Mission Specialist in the August 1984 launching of the Space Shuttle from Cape Canaveral.

There are many, many examples among our membership of those who seek the golden fleece of individual accomplishment and who through their efforts, make this country and the world a better place in which to live. Through our beloved Society, we will continue to produce generations of women who lift their eyes beyond the horizon and find new worlds to conquer. In the words of Robert Browning, "...a man's reach should exceed his grasp, or what's a heaven for?"

With gratitude,

Sarah M. King

MRS. WALTER HUGHEY KING,
President General, NSDAR.
The early Roanoke Voyages to the coast of what is now North Carolina between 1584 and 1587 represent the first efforts by the English to colonize the New World. The history courses taught in American schools deal at length with the 17th century settlements at Jamestown (1607) and Plymouth Rock (1620), while making only brief mention—or no mention at all—of the earliest 16th century attempts by Sir Walter Raleigh and his associate to establish an English colony on Roanoke Island.

After the death of Sir Humphrey Gilbert in September 1583, his half brother, Walter Raleigh [sic.] inherited both his claim and his desire to colonize land in the New World. His first expedition led by Philip Amadas and Arthur Barlowe sailed from Plymouth, England, on 27 April 1584 and arrived on what are now the Outer Banks of North Carolina on 13 July 1584. They claimed the area in the name of Queen Elizabeth. After two months of exploring the new area and trading with the Indians, Amadas and Barlow returned to England taking with them "two lustie men, the Indians Manteo and Wanchese." They also brought glowing reports of the new land. As a result of this expedition and exploration, Ralegh, who never came to North Carolina himself, was knighted on 6 January 1585. He was also given permission to name the new area Virginia in honor of Elizabeth, the Virgin Queen.

On 19 April 1585 Raleigh's second expedition, led by Sir Richard Grenville, with the first full colony with Ralph Lane as Governor, sailed to America; it arrived at Ocracoke Inlet on 26 June 1585. Because of the danger from the Spanish, the group chose Roanoke Island for the site of their settlement. Both Grenville and Lane led groups into the shallow sounds and rivers of northeastern North Carolina. Among the men on this expedition were John White and Thomas Harriot. The drawings made by White are the best evidence that we have on the Algonkian Indians and the plants and animals of the area. Harriot, a leading scientist of the period, also recorded his findings.

But all did not go well for the Lane colony. Supplies were limited and the English alienated the Indians by burning a village to force the return of a silver cup. Thery also used force to secure food because the supply ship due from England was very late in arriving. As a result of their many hardships, the disheartened group of men were persuaded to return to their homeland with Sir Francis Drake who called on the colony following his sack of St. Augustine, Florida. When the supply ship finally arrived from England, the men aboard found an abandoned fort. Leaving men and supplies to maintain the claim, the ship returned to England.

Ralegh, however, did not give up. On 7 January 1587 the Cittie of Ralegh was incorporated. John White was to be governor of this second colony which included women and children. The colonists sailed from Plymouth on 8 May 1587 and arrived on Roanoke Island on 22 June 1587. There they were supposed to pick up the men from the previous year and then move on to the Chesapeake Bay where they were to plant a new colony. The soldiers had disappeared and the pilot Simon Fernando refused to take them any farther; therefore they again tried to colonize Roanoke Island. They had, however, arrived too late to plant crops for that year's harvest and their own supplies were limited. Moreover, although the Indian Manteo remained a friend of the English, Wanchese had become their bitter foe. Yet, the colonists were optimistic. On 13 August 1587, Manteo was baptized and given the title "Lord of Roanoke," the first Protestant baptism and the first English title of nobility granted in the New World. Five days later, on 18 August 1587, Eleanor Dare, the daughter of Governor White, gave birth to a daughter who on 24 August 1587 was christened Virginia. She was the first child born of English parents in the New World.

By fall, Governor White was forced to return to England for supplies. In England he found the country preparing for war with Spain. White and Ralegh prepared a new expedition which was supposed to sail on 31 March 1588; however, the Privy Council would not let his ship leave port—all English ships were needed for defense against the Spanish Armada. Not until the summer of 1590 could John White return to Roanoke Island. He found his colony abandoned and overgrown. The word CROATOAN was carved on a tree to tell him where the colonists had gone. Yet, before White could go to Croatoan, now Hatteras Island, a violent storm, perhaps a hurricane, forced him to make a hasty departure. The colonists were never found and their fate has for nearly four centuries intrigued the world. None of the many theories concerning their fate can be either proved or disproved. All are speculation.

Although neither of these colonies was permanent, they were the spiritual beginning of the English America which became the United States. Here, Sir Walter Ralegh planted a dream which took root farther north at Jamestown and still later at Plymouth. Here, Elizabethan England made its first long-term contact with the New World. Here, the Church of England began its missionary activities and converted the first Native American. Here was the first English government in the New World. Here was the first colony which included English men, women, and children and here were born the first American children of English parentage. And here died the first of a long series of men, women and children in the struggle to bring English life to a New World. The colonists and explorers to this first Virginia—Sir Walter Ralegh’s Virginia—now North Carolina, helped to prepare the way for the later colonies at Jamestown and Plymouth.

America’s Four Hundredth Anniversary Committee is a committee of the North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources. The official period of celebration will begin on 27 April 1984, the 400th anniversary of the sailing of Amadas and Barlowe, and will last until 18 August 1987, the 400th birthday of Virginia Dare. Events will begin in England with special ceremonies in Plymouth, Exeter and London. Then on 13 July 1984 activities will take place on Roanoke Island to commemorate the arrival of the English. A sixteenth-century style ship has been constructed at Manteo. It was launched on 22 November 1983 with Mrs. James B. Hunt, Jr., the wife of the Governor of North Carolina, as its sponsor. It will become the newest State Historic Site. The British Library plans a major exhibit which will open in London on 30 April 1984 and move to Raleigh, North Carolina, to the North Carolina Museum of History in March 1985. An extensive publications program includes a series of folders, pamphlets and books. Among the books are David Stick’s Roanoke Island: The Beginnings of English America, published in 1983 and a book on the John White drawings now being edited by Paul Hulton, formerly of the British Museum. Extensive archaeological research is underway both in an effort to learn about the Algonkian Indians of the area and to find the Cittie of Raleigh. Each county in the state has a County Committee for the 400th Anniversary to plan local participation in the overall commemoration.

In Durham, the Office of Folk Life Programs, the Smithsonian Institution and Duke University are planning a British-American Festival to celebrate 400 years of Anglo-American relations. And Operation Raleigh will follow the immense success of Operation Drake, a two-year round-the-world expedition inspired by Charles, Price of Wales. Operation Raleigh will be a four-year mission “to circumnavigate the world, involving a maximum number of nations and young people in challenging expeditions, useful scientific exploration, and many worthwhile tasks of community service and environmental conservation.”

North Carolina is proud of its 400-year history as part of the English-speaking world and invites institutions and groups to participate in the commemoration. The Federal Judiciary: Problems and Proposals

By Phyllis Schlafly

The greatness of our American system of constitutional government is that it is based on a unique and ingenious system of interlacing checks and balances. Laws are passed by a majority of both Houses of Congress, but can be vetoed by the President, but can be effectively repassed by a two-thirds majority of both Houses. Similar balancing mechanisms exist for treaties, appointments, and constitutional amendments.

But where are the checks on judicial usurpation? Where are the institutional balances? Can democratic government survive? Must we endure government by judges appointed for life—or can we once again have government by elected representatives?

Over the past 40 years, the Supreme Court has set itself up as a super-legislature and handed down many decisions which offend the majority of Americans. These include ordering forced busing, abolishing prayer and the Ten Commandments from the public schools, unleashing pornography, putting handcuffs on the local police in their attempt to protect us from crime, interfering with the election process, inventing the "constitutional right" of a woman to kill her unborn baby, and dismantling our internal security.

Some lower Federal courts have become even more carried away with delusions of their own power. The Supreme Court itself had to overrule such extreme Federal district court usurpations as ordering the registration and drafting of women when men are registered and drafted (overruled in Rostker v. Goldberg) and ordering the payment of tax funds for abortions even though Congress had forbidden it (overruled in Harris v. McRae). Other tyrannical Federal district courts have gotten away with taking over the day-to-day running of a public school system, and of a prison system, and of the political reapportionment of legislative districts.

Although the Constitution assigns "all" Federal legislative power to the Congress, and reserves to the states and to the people all powers not delegated to the Federal Government, the Federal courts have presumed to legislate in a wide range of areas in which they have no proper authority or competence. After some judges are appointed, they seem to think they have been anointed. The problem is what to do about the activist Federal judges who have no respect for the restraints that are supposed to limit their power.

Public Opinion of Judiciary

A public opinion survey conducted by Sindlinger and Company of Media, Pennsylvania, for the Heritage Foundation shows that the American people are far ahead of the politicians on this issue. The people are ready and eager to cut the power of the Imperial Judiciary. Here are some of the startling results of the Sindlinger survey:

(1) 68 percent of Americans want Federal judges to run for election.

(2) 74 percent believe Federal judges should be reconfirmed periodically.

(3) 81 percent favor Congressional efforts to withdraw jurisdiction from Federal courts over cases involving issues such as busing.

(4) 62 percent would prefer to have a sensitive issue such as busing, abortion, and voluntary prayer decided in state court rather than in Federal courts.

(5) 86 percent believe that Congress should review the rulings of Federal judges to ensure that they do not go beyond the bounds of the Constitution.

(6) 80 percent believe that only a two-thirds majority of the Supreme Court should be permitted to declare a Federal or state law unconstitutional.

(7) 55 percent believe that Congress should be allowed to overturn a Supreme Court ruling by a two-thirds majority vote.

(8) 64 percent favor limiting the authority of Federal regulatory agencies to initiate lawsuits against businesses and citizens.

(9) 77 percent say the Federal judiciary does not represent their personal views.

The Problem of Life Tenure

In the election of November 1980, the American people brought about landmark changes in the executive and legislative branches of the Federal Government. But the judicial branch remains untouched, even though it is the Federal courts which have done so many of the things about which voters are angry.

The reason why Supreme Court justices feel free to hand down pseudo-legislative, unpopular decisions and then ignore public outrage is that all Federal judges, including Supreme Court justices, enjoy life tenure. They do not have to run for reelection; they do not have to be reconfirmed; they have lifetime job security no matter how unwise or unpopular their decisions are.

The American voters repudiated Jimmy Carter’s Administration and policies in the election of 1980. If the American people disapprove of Ronald Reagan’s policies they can throw him out of office after four years. We can change our Congressmen after only two years. But President Carter appointed 40 percent of the Federal court judges on the bench today, and they will be writing the Carter policies into our laws for the next 30 years.

President Dwight Eisenhower appointed Earl Warren and William Brennan as Justices of the U.S. Supreme Court. Later, President Eisenhower told friends that he regretted the Warren appointment more than anything he ever did. If Eisenhower had lived longer, he would have regretted Brennan even more. Eisenhower had only eight years as President, but Earl Warren spent 16 years on the Court and Brennan has been there 27 years, wielding tremendous power against almost everything Eisenhower stood for.

How did President Eisenhower get conned into making such important appointments that he would regret all his life? The Warren appointment resulted from a rash political promise made during the Republican National Convention (because California Governor Warren controlled the largest single bloc of delegates). Eisenhower appointed Brennan on the basis of inaccurate information about Brennan’s views.

Justice William O. Douglas was appointed to the Supreme Court because President Franklin Roosevelt wanted to replace what he called the “nine old men” with youthful liberal justices. Douglas outlived Roosevelt and stayed on the Court for 36 years (writing 1,200 opinions), through the fourth term of President Roosevelt and the terms of Presidents Harry Truman, Dwight Eisenhower, John Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson, Richard Nixon, and Gerald Ford.

Douglas’ prejudice against religion was so intense that he even questioned the constitutionality of chaplains in the armed services and the words “In God We Trust” on our money. His decisions and behavior were so objectionable that, at one time, Congresswoman Gerald Ford tried to have Douglas impeached because of his money dealings with Las Vegas gamblers. Ford’s proposal was unsuccessful.

Four times Justice Douglas took a wife “for better or worse . . . until death do us part.” He divorced three of his wives. Yet, the American people were locked in a judicial embrace with Justice Douglas on the Supreme Court, for better or worse, no matter how bad his decisions or his private life, until he was close to death.

A Litmus Test for Appointments?

What kind of persons should be appointed to the Federal courts, and whether some kind of a qualifying test should be applied, was one of the issues during the 1980 presidential campaign. Columns of newsprint were consumed in denouncing what was called the “litmus test” of the Republican Platform.

Carter required because of her advocacy, in briefs and articles, of judicial activism to achieve the most extreme feminist goals.

Coping With Judicial Usurpation

As the American people have been confronted with one decision after another involving judicial usurpation of legislative functions, the usual response has been to try to overturn them by constitutional amendments. That has not been a satisfactory remedy.

Amending the Constitution is a long-drawn-out procedure and requires supermajorities at each step of the process. Should the people have to shoulder this burden when the fault was the abuse of power by the Federal judges?

Furthermore, resorting to constitutional amendments to overturn wrong Federal court rulings implies that the decisions were legitimate exercises of judicial authority. The court decisions should not be cloaked in that mantle of legitimacy when often they do not deserve it.

Nor is it a sufficient answer to say that the Constitution provides a process for impeachment of judges. That is a political impotence incapable of impeaching every Federal judge, or even every Supreme Court justice, who abused his power. Congress would have little time left for anything else.

The short-term solution for the problem of the Imperial Judiciary is for Congress to withdraw jurisdiction from the Federal courts in those sensitive areas where decisions have offended either the separation of powers principle or the majority of the American people, or both. The long-term solution for judicial usurpation is to cut the power of all Federal judges by eliminating their lifetime tenure which (like Samson’s hair) is the source of their power.

Elect Federal Judges

The most effective remedy for bad Federal court appointments and decisions is to require all Federal judges and Supreme Court justices to stand for reelection as most state court judges do. This would require a constitutional amendment—but one amendment which (like Samson’s hair) is the source of their power.

The result of President Carter’s litmus test and quota selection can be seen in his four appointments to the Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, the second most important court in the country because it handles most appeals from Federal regulatory agencies. Patricia Wald spent 25 years fighting for liberal causes, starting with the representation of Owen Lattimore (whom the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee unanimously called “a conscious articulate instrument of the Soviet conspiracy”) and continuing later with her advocacy of “children’s rights” (such as voting at age 13).

Abner Mikva, a left-wing Congressman from Chicago, was promoted to this important court after achieving a cumulative rating of 96% from the Americans for Democratic Action. Hans Edward, a law professor from the University of Michigan, was a supporter of “affirmative action.” Ruth Bader Ginsburg, a Columbia University law professor, was appointed because of her advocacy, in briefs... rate), and the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942, (which withdrew jurisdiction over certain civil actions).

The Supreme Court ruled on Congress' power to withdraw Supreme Court jurisdiction in Ex parte McCordle (1868) stating, "We are not at liberty to inquire into the jurisdiction of this Court is given by express reference to any particular proposal to withdraw Federal court jurisdiction in a specific area (which most such legislative proposals try to do), Gerard showed that Congress' power under Article III to make exceptions to the appellate jurisdiction of the Supreme Court, and to all jurisdiction of other Federal courts, is, on the whole "reasonably clear —clear from constitutional language, structure and history, and from prior Supreme Court decisions."

Some legal writers have asserted that today's Supreme Court would not permit the Congress to interfere with what they call the "essential functions" of the Supreme Court. This "essential functions" theory is flatly contradicted by constitutional text and history, as well as by dozens of Supreme Court opinions.

Those who assert the "essential functions" theory usually invoke the holy name of "checks and balances." But, as Professor Gerard so aptly pointed out in his testimony, "it surely is ludicrous to argue that the system of checks and balances can be maintained only by reading out of the Constitution the only explicit check on the judiciary that the Framers deliberately put there," namely, the Article III power to limit jurisdiction.

If there ever was a time for that constitutional check to be used, the time is now because, as Gerard so eloquently stated, the Supreme Court today is "without allegiance to principle, except to the principle of being unprincipled. It regularly substitutes sophistry for logic, obsfuscation for explanation, and personal predilection for reasoned analysis in its opinions, wherein day becomes night, and up means down. What it delivers in many cases are peremptory edicts rather than persuasive judgments."

How Long The Carter Legacy?

The American people voted for a change in November 1980, but they won't get a change in the judiciary for many years, if ever, because President Carter's judges are locked into lifetime jobs. Yet it is the Federal judiciary, much more than the other two branches of government, which is principally to blame for the policies so offensive to the American people in the areas of crime and punishment, reapportionment, education policies, internal security against subversion, pornography, abortion, federal-state relations, land-use planning, and the environment.

Federal judges have more to say about the future of the United States, its laws, its schools, its morals, its internal defenses, and its culture, than Congress. Federal judges are accountable to no one and have lifetime jobs, free from the insecurities of elections, dismissals, and salary cuts.

Abram Chayes, Harvard law professor, summed it all up in a speech at Georgetown Law School. He said that "the legacy of [the Carter] Administration on the bench is superb, and... will live long beyond the 1980 elections."

That is precisely why, if our constitutional democratic republic is to survive, the Congress must devise a way to shorten the life of that legacy. The Sindlinger survey proves that the American people will support the President and Congress if they exercise leadership in reducing the power of the Imperial Judiciary and overturning its wrong decisions.

THE AMERICAN CHURCH IN PARIS CELEBRATES THE PEACE TREATY

The American Church in Paris observed the bicentennial of the Treaty of Paris at its Sunday service, September 4, 1983 and Mrs. Walter Hughey King, President General NSDAR was a participant. This historic church has the distinction of being the first American church established on foreign soil, according to the church’s brochure.

In 1972, the Silver Medal of the City of Paris was presented to the church in recognition and appreciation of the many activities held in the church that serve the people of the city. It was the first time that the Council of the City of Paris had ever presented such a high honor to any church.

This past June the church observed its 125th Anniversary and the minister, Dr. Thomas E. Duggan, summarized the significance of the celebration. "It marks a long period of involvement between the American community living in Paris with the people of France and recognizes the contributions—religious, social and cultural—many people have made over the years."

During that special observance, a telegram was received from President Reagan congratulating the congregation on the anniversary. "Religious faith is the essence of strength for free peoples. As guardians of this faith, our churches seek to continually renew the spirit of brotherhood, family and concern for one's fellowman as found in the Judeo-Christian tradition. Since 1857, the American Church of Paris has embodied these essential values."

When Dr. Duggan invited Mrs. Walter Hughey King to speak at the service to be held Sunday, September 4 on the significance of the Treaty of Paris, he wrote, "I shall be preaching on the subject that morning, but I think a statement from your perspective to American residents overseas would be appreciated."

Mrs. King readily accepted this invitation, but explained that most of the Daughters were leaving Paris that day to return to the states or to go on an extended tour of the Chateau Country.

The special service was attended by many dignitaries and the American Ambassador, Evan G. Galbraith, read the Old Testament Lesson from Micah VI 6-8. Then Mrs. King spoke on the Treaty. The Children’s Sermon by Rev. Ann B. Jahnes was on the subject, "Of Eagles and Doves," and the New Testament Lesson was read from Philippians II: 1-13. Dr. Duggan delivered the sermon "The Work of Peace."

FOLLOWING THE FOOTSTEPS OF LAFAYETTE 4-7 September 1983

Through the efforts of the Reverend Herbert L. Stein-Schneider and the Lafayette-Rochambeau Society, an extended tour was arranged for the DAR following the observance of the Bicentennial Treaty of Paris.

Members of the New Jersey Tour joined those of the official NSDAR Tour who continued to the Chateau Country for three additional days. They left the Concorde Lafayette Hotel in Paris early Sunday morning, September 4th, and traveled south by bus to Chartres where they visited the magnificent Cathedral. It is of medieval architecture with 13th century stained glass, renowned rose-windows and sculptured portals.

The group continued to Vendome for a special luncheon at the chateau of the Comte de Rochambeau, who conducted the tour members through the interior of the handsome castle, Thord-la-Rochette. The members admired the spacious home overlooking the Loire River. They walked to the grotto where the wine is stored and then climbed the hill to the grave of the great general and French patriot, Jean Baptiste Donatien de Vimeur, Comte de Rochambeau.

Mrs. Walter Hughey King, President General, announced the gift of fifty dogwood trees to the Castle grounds and placed a wreath on behalf of the National Society, stating, "The genius, the military expertise and the foresight of this great man made it possible for our country to win the Battle of Yorktown. It was his decision that the battle transpire on the peninsula in Virginia. With the support of the French Navy under the Comte de Grasse, victory was attained.

"Every American is grateful, especially during this celebration of the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Paris. We come today with humble hearts, with deepest gratitude for the contribution of Rochambeau to the liberties and freedoms which we as citizens of the United States of America enjoy. May God bless and keep you every one."

DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION
By Lillian Belk Youell, Vice Chairman, Treaty of Paris Bicentennial Committee

Mrs. King recalled the last sight of the precious family group—the Count and Countess, their son, daughter and her husband, and a little two year old grandson throwing kisses as the buses pulled away.

Next the group went to Chenonceaux, so often called “The Chateau of Six Women.” For more than 400 years these ladies played important roles in French history. Among them were Catherine de Medici, wife of Henry II and Diane de Poitiers, mistress of Henry II. The immense and impressive chateau bridges the river Cher and is furnished with fine furniture and tapestries. Gardens and moats surround the turreted castle.

The tour proceeded to Tours and stayed overnight at the Meridian Hotel, a 20th century first-class hotel which was built along the lines of an 18th century French country mansion.

On Monday, September 5, a morning drive brought the Daughters through the Loire Valley to Azay-le-Rideau, a beautiful renaissance chateau in a setting of woods and water overlooking the Indre River. This castle contains a remarkable Grand Staircase and splendid furnishings.

The drive through the valley provided views of many old chateaux, including Langeais where the wedding of Anne of Brittany to Charles VIII took place. One could view (at Chateau Villandry) 16th century French gardens—such as the Water Garden, Ornamental Garden and Kitchen Garden. A buffet luncheon was ready at the Meridien. Then the drive through the Auvergne region brought the group to Clermont-Ferrand, where they spent the night.

Tuesday, September 6, was a red-letter day for it marked the birthday of Lafayette and the First Annual Franco-American Celebration at Chavaniac, his birthplace. The trip took the group through the Cantal mountains through Issoire and Brioude to the historic chateau, which was built in the 14th century. Chavaniac was destroyed by fire in the 17th century but rebuilt in the original fashion of the old fortified castles with thick walls, secret rooms and underground passageways.

In 1917, Mr. John Moffatt purchased the Chateau of Chavaniac and founded the Lafayette Memorial, Inc. to maintain the castle as a permanent memorial to Lafayette and to the French, American and British soldiers, sailors and airmen who died in World War I fighting for liberty.

The Ceremony marking the 227th birth anniversary of Lafayette was held in the garden near the great stone placed there during the American Bicentennial in 1976. In placing a wreath, Mrs. King said, “Thank you for the privilege of being here with our loyal members who have made a pilgrimage of love and gratitude to Chavaniac, the birthplace of our beloved hero, Lafayette, who served as a Major General and Division Commander of American troops in the Yorktown Campaign. This wonderful patriot shared with the colonists the ideals of liberty, independence and the rights of man. He came to our shores to bring military expertise and inspiration. During this celebration of the bicentennial of the Treaty of Paris, it is meaningful to us to come to this beautiful place where he was born and where he spent his formative years to share with you who live and serve in this lovely Loire Valley this special day in your history and in ours.

“This great man left his family many times to come to our assistance, leaving alone his faithful wife Adrienne. Then Lafayette remained in captivity due to the orders of Robespierre for five long years. His wife escaped to Austria where she remained three years. We share with you this morning memories of Lafayette, of his accomplishments in France and in the United States. We express to you our love and undying gratitude for his and your contributions to our independence and to our history. Viva la France!”

The President General then announced the gift of 200 dogwood trees to be planted throughout the Lafayette Circuit. Then, Dr. Frederick Brigance, representing Governor Lamar Alexander of Tennessee and the Ladies Hermitage Association, made a number of presentations, including a copy of the Will of Andrew Jackson which bequested two pistols presented to George Washington Lafayette. These pistols were originally given to George Washington by Le Marquis de Lafayette. They were later given to Andrew Jackson.

The Marquise de Lafayette then told the story of Lafayette’s life from birth to death. The President General requested a copy of this enlightening lecture for the DAR Archives.

The group then returned to Versailles for the night for early departure from Paris the next morning. They left with renewed dedication to historic preservation and with a sense of accomplishment that they had perpetuated the spirit of the men who achieved American Independence.

A Vindication of Arthur Lee,
Pioneer Diplomat

BY ARMISTEAD M. LEE, PRESIDENT,
SOCIETY OF THE LEES OF VIRGINIA

Pierre-Augustin Caron, who purchased a certificate of nobility and assumed the aristocratic name of de Beaumarchais, was indeed a remarkable—if amoral—character, and his role as an intermediary in obtaining French aid for the American Revolution is a fascinating story. As a facile writer, Prof. M. Foster Farley has produced a very readable version of the Beaumarchais story in the March 1983 issue of the DAR Magazine. It is a pity, however, that his article, evidently based in large part on the discredited version of nineteenth century historian Samuel Wharton, should have involved such denigration of Arthur Lee, who, as secret agent in London of the Continental Congress, negotiated with Beaumarchais to obtain badly needed military aid from France. While mentioning virtues as well as the flaws of the other actors in the drama, Mr. Farley has nothing good to say of the physician-lawyer-diplomat who founded this country’s first intelligence service. At one point he uses the word “treachery” to characterize Arthur Lee’s role.

That Arthur should have fared badly at the hands of admiring biographers of Benjamin Franklin and Silas Deane is hardly surprising. Anyone who would dare to criticize the amiable sage of Philadelphia could have expected no less. And even Lee’s friends and admirers would admit that he could be testy and even haughty. All agree that he had a suspicious nature, a reputation he gained particularly from having revealed his belief that the mission in Paris had become a nest of British spies, for having shown disapproval for Franklin’s sloppy administration and a real distrust of the character of the third American commissioner, Silas Deane.

On the other hand, many of his contemporaries described him as genial and considerate. He must have had some attractive qualities to have become so intimate, in the years just before the Revolution, with such luminaries of the London scene as Dr. Johnson, James Boswell, David Hume, John Wilkes and, in particular, Lord Shelburne—who was later to preside over the British government which signed the treaty of peace with the United States. As a pamphleteer on behalf of the colonial cause, he did much to build understanding of America among more liberal Englishmen.

The real issue is not whether Arthur deserved his reputation as the most brilliant of the famous brothers of Stratford or even whether he was as witty and agreeable as a dinner companion as Franklin and Deane. All agree that as the years passed, those other two members of the triumvirate at the Paris mission found Arthur increasingly grumpy and suspicious. But what is more relevant to history is whether Arthur Lee’s suspicions were justified. Evidence now available shows, most persuasively, that they were. Publication of the voluminous files of William Eden, head of the British Secret Service during the Revolution, confirms that Deane’s assistant Dr. Edward Bancroft, was a paid British agent who, for eight long years, copied correspondence in the American mission for delivery to the British Ambassador, thus ensuring that a large number of ships carrying supplies and despatches from France to the former colonies were intercepted by the British fleet. George III’s own correspondence appears to confirm that Silas Deane was not merely feathering his own nest with public funds, but, towards the end of the war, shifted allegiance to Great Britain. Franklin was a true patriot, but to the austere Arthur Lee, whose moral standards were ahead of his time, he was guilty not only of nepotism and a shocking disregard for security but of allowing his quest for speculative profits on Western lands to interfere with his official duties.

Mr. Farley leaves the impression that the agreement for French aid was negotiated between Beaumarchais and Deane in the summer of 1776 and that the failure of Congress to acknowledge and reimburse Beaumarchais for those supplies “was the result of misunderstanding brought about by Arthur Lee,” Farley writes:

When Deane was appointed diplomatic agent by Congress, the contracts stated that Beaumarchais was to receive payment: however, Lee, who had previously conversed with the Frenchman in London, was convinced that the supplies were in fact a gift to Congress from the French Court, and that the contracts represented a conspiracy between Deane and others to defraud the United States. Lee was also miffed because he was snubbed by Beaumarchais and Deane.

They probably did snub him, and they doubtless considered him a moralizing prude. As one of America’s original “whistle-blowers,” he was a real kill-joy. But, once again, historians should inquire as to the facts in the case.

To begin with, it is something of an understatement to write that Arthur Lee had “conversed” with Beaumarchais in London. Starting in December, 1775, long before Silas Deane had crossed the Atlantic, Beaumarchais and Count Lauragais began spending days with Lee in his London rooms at the Middle Temple, listening to the Virginian expound his case for French covert assistance to the American cause. Mr. Farley mentions Beaumarchais’ celebrated memoir, “Peace and War” addressed to Louis XVI in February, detailing the reasons the King should overcome his scruples against such intervention. But he does not mention that this “eyes only” (au roi seul) despatch refers to “le sieur Lee” as the authorized agent of the colonies with whom he was negotiating. According to the foremost French historian of France’s role in the American Revolution, Henri Doniol, the memoir was actually drafted in concert with Arthur Lee.

Lee’s logic and Beaumarchais’ eloquence—with some help from Spanish Foreign Minister Grimaldi—were enough to persuade Louis and his own Foreign Minister, Count Vergennes. The French archives contain the Count’s letter of May 2, 1776, to the King, signaling his intention to remit 1,000,000 livres to Beaumarchais for aid to the American forces. The actual transfer took place on June 10, and the receipt of Beaumarchais, now in the French archives, should be sufficient answer to those who question Lee’s version and who would support Beaumarchais’ claim that he had advanced his own funds to buy the muskets and powder sent early in the following year by the cover form, Hortaile & Cie., to the West Indies for pickup by American ships. According to historian Burton Hendrick, Beaumarchais and Lauragais met with Lee in May to inform him of the King’s decision. (The word “bon” in Louis’ handwriting in the margin of Vergennes’ letter proves the King’s personal involvement in the decision.) And Hendrick mentions that the French subsidy was duplicated shortly by one from the Spanish court. He goes to some length to explain why both courts wanted their assistance to be on a grant basis, with no written documentation as would have been required with a loan.

Mr. Farley makes it appear that the French assistance was negotiated with Silas Deane in the summer of 1776. He mentions that Deane’s first meeting with Beaumarchais occurred on July 19 of that year in Paris. It is quite true that Deane had been sent to France... with authority from the Congress to purchase munitions—or to make commitments for their purchase. But note that the French court's decision to extend grant aid had been made in May, and Beaumarchais' receipt of that subsidy was dated in June. He and Deane almost certainly worked out the particulars of the munitions shipment in the months that followed. And it may well be that Beaumarchais overextended himself in maintaining the lifestyle he thought incumbent on a director of Hortaleza & Cie. Hendrick writes that he maintained, for his own use, eleven coaches and three coachmen. He adds that Beaumarchais embarked on extensive ventures of his own under the aegis of Hortaleza & Cie.

It is, of course, a matter of record that the Congress voted a cash settlement of 800,000 francs to the heirs of Beaumarchais in 1831. According to Hendrick, this was "a payment based not so much on the merits of the dispute, but intended as a recognition of the great service the dramatist had rendered America in difficult times."

Hendrick's conclusion deserves quoting:

"As to the dispute itself, the whole question is definitely treated in Beaumarchais and the Lost Million, by Charles J. Stillé, lawyer and historian, who irrefutably shows that the money was a direct gift from France, and that Beaumarchais had no basis for his demand. It is another case in which Arthur Lee was right, though his attitude of hostility to a lively genius, notoriously irresponsible in money matters, who deserved so well of the American Republic is regrettable. (Burton Hendrick: The Lees of Virginia, 1935, p. 321)"

When the three-man American mission to Paris was appointed in October, 1776, and Lee joined the other two commissioners, he was greeted by Franklin, who had been his chief, as senior representative in London of the colony of Massachusetts. Franklin expressed amazement that Lee should be willing to surrender a lucrative career as a barrister in London for this temporary assignment which would ruin any future prospects in the United Kingdom. Arthur thanked Franklin for his consideration but made it clear he had to follow what he saw as his duty.

The documentary evidence shows that Silas Deane, by contrast, came to Paris with the clear intention of building a private fortune along the model of Robert Morris, with whom he had entered into a partnership to profit from the shortage of consumer goods in America, due to the war. Deane was to receive one third of the profits made by Willing, Morris & Co. on the importation of such commodities. As Morris wrote him: "All sorts of Cutlery Ware, Copper, Tin, Lead, and every kind of goods fit for Winter Wear must bring any price." One can imagine their mouths watering!

It was not the criticisms from Arthur Lee which caused Congress to recall Silas Deane towards the end of 1777. (Lee had written critical reports, but because of the interception of the despatches by the well-informed British fleet, these had not reached Philadelphia. The downfall of Deane was triggered in part by Congressional concern over the lack of accounting for the public funds he had expended, some, it now appears on speculations, and partly by the indignation of General Washington over the arrival in America of a succession of unemployed European officers who had been promised field grade commissions by Silas Deane.

It really is a misleading oversimplification to suggest that the dispute between Arthur Lee and Silas Deane, which caused a major cleavage within the Congress, was simply the result of a contest between the friends and enemies of the Lee and Adams families, i.e., as to whether Virginia and Massachusetts should jointly dominate the Congress. It is true that the two families were close friends and allies and that the Deane affair became an issue on which supporters and enemies of the Lee-Adams "junto" took opposite sides. But this was a consequence, not a cause. The real issue was the conflict between corruption, only partly relieved by genial good humor, and austere integrity, only partially blemished by puritanical pride.

John Adams, who succeeded Deane at the Paris mission, was, to be sure, a friend of Arthur Lee. But he was one who saw the man with clear eyes and who acknowledged his lack of humor and his suspicious nature. His final assessment, written many years later after Arthur's death, seem an appropriate reply to Mr. Farley's charges of "treachery:"

Arthur Lee, a man of whom I cannot think without emotion: a man too early in the service of his country to avoid making a multiplicity of enemies; too honest, upright, faithful and intrepid to be popular; too often obliged by his principles and feelings to oppose Machiavellian intrigues, to avoid the destiny he suffered. This many never had justice done him by his country in his lifetime and I fear he never will by posterity. His reward cannot be in this world.

What is a Junior Member? She is a "full-fledged" member of the National Society who is between the ages of 18 and 36. She is no longer considered a Junior Member when she has her thirty-sixth birthday. She has the same rights of membership as a non-Junior member and may serve in any Chapter, State or National chairmanship or office as long as she meets the qualifications of the office.

One of the items on the Honor Roll, under the Junior Membership point, is the admittance, by application, of a Junior Member. It is extremely important to bring new blood into the organization, for the Junior Members are the future of the National Society. This is the time when these young women are learning the workings of our wonderful organization in preparation for their assumption of future leadership roles.

When a new Junior Member is admitted, make her feel welcome and get her involved. With the many committees which we have in the National Society, it is almost impossible not to be able to find something which will interest her. Give her a copy of the DAR Handbook and the Fact Sheet. Let her read about the different committees and ask her on what committee she would like to serve. When you have a change in administration, ask your Juniors to serve. Never assume that they are too busy. Remember, active Juniors attract new Juniors.

The Juniors are busy throughout the year raising money for their National Junior Membership fund-raising project, the Helen Pouch Memorial Fund, which was named in memory of the daughter of Mrs. William H. Pouch, Honorary President General and the first National Junior Membership Chairman. This fund provides scholarships, medical aid, and general financial assistance to the two DAR maintained schools, Tamassee and Kate Duncan Smith, as well as, the nurse's salary at Kate Duncan Smith. To raise funds for the Helen Pouch Memorial Fund, the Juniors sell jewelry, DAR Insignia notepaper, and other authorized items approved for sale by the National Society. In 1982-83, $44,333.00 was raised for the Helen Pouch Memorial Fund. The Junior Members work hard to raise this money, so please support their endeavors.

The Outstanding Junior Member Contest was begun in 1963 to recognize the achievements of Junior Members. The contest is conducted on the State, Division, and National levels, after each participating chapter endorses one of their Junior Members to enter the contest. The candidates must have made a vital contribution to DAR work in addition to being involved in community activities within the scope of our National objectives and our motto, "God, Home and Country." The candidates are judged on each level by three qualified judges with the culmination coming on the opening night of Continental Congress when the National Outstanding Junior Winner is announced and presented. It is a wonderful honor to be recognized by one's chapter. Show your Juniors that you appreciate them and their work. Let them know that the chapter thinks they are outstanding by entering them in the Outstanding Junior Member Contest.

Several chapters have asked how to involve their Junior Members when so many of them are employed. This problem does not pertain to only Junior Members. Chapters which meet during the week might consider having a few of their meetings either on a Saturday or in the evening, so that some of these women may attend. This will let them know that you want their participation and membership. One chapter, which meets during the week, had a special tea on a Saturday in honor of their 14 Junior Members who were all employed. The chapter reported that they had a wonderful time with eight of their Juniors in attendance. Another idea is to keep your working members informed of what is occurring in our organization. Send them the state newsletter and, if you have one, the chapter newsletter. Let them know about Chapter, State, and National events so that they remain interested.

Remember three things: Admit the Juniors; Involve the Juniors; and Train the Juniors for they are the future leaders of the DAR.

ERASMUS PERRY (Silver Spring, MD) sponsored three area winners of National and State DAR scholarships. In addition, each student has actively participated in extra-curricular activities at her respective school.

Erasmus Perry Chapter is extremely proud of the excellent achievements of all three young people. —Jane Shilt.

REPRISAL (Newport, NH) rang in the "Treaty of Paris" Bicentennial with all the area church bells participating. The local press and radio provided excellent coverage, preparing the townspeople for this community adventure in patriotism. A timely exhibit was set up in a local library, featuring a Currier and Ives print of the Marquis de Lafayette, who visited Newport in 1825, and a Peale portrait of General George Washington. Pertinent items were also displayed, including an antique inkwell and sander, American and French flags of the period, and a colonial militia hat. Books relative to the treaty period, including "Mon Cher Papa" and the "Peacemakers," were available to the reading public. The festival spirit was continued on the following Saturday when chapter members donned colonial costumes and attended their first regular meeting of the fall, which took place at the Newport Historic Museum. In this very appropriate setting, Mrs. Edward W. Hunt, State Public Relations Chairman, gave a well-researched address on the "Treaty of Paris." The refreshments included a "Lady Washington Cake," made from an heirloom recipe of the family of the Regent, Mrs. John H. Newman. A Constitution Week observance was also presented at this meeting.

BURKHALTER (Warrenton, GA). Flag Day was an appropriate date to unveil the marker placed on the grave of Revolutionary Soldier Adam Jones (1759-1830). The family cemetery is located in Warren County, Georgia, on land granted to Adam Jones for his services in the Revolutionary War. Burkhalter Chapter was the sponsor.

Mrs. Olin Wilson, Regent, presided at the service. Mrs. E. D. Ricketson, Sr., Chaplain, gave the invocation and ritual. Mrs. George Garrett, Historian, presented a brief biographical sketch of the soldier who was born in Virginia and served with the 2nd Virginia Regiment. He was one of the founders of Long Creek Baptist Church in Warren County, was ordained a minister by that church, and served as its pastor from 1807 to 1825. Miss Meg Garrett of Miami, Florida, youngest member of the Burkhalter Chapter, unveiled the marker.

ALEXANDER McCULLAR (Memphis, TN) celebrated the Bicentennial of the Treaty of Paris 1783—Henry Laurens—at its Founder's Day Luncheon.

The speaker was Dr. Richard L. DeSaussure who is a direct descendant of Henry Laurens, President of the Continental Congress and one of the Commissioners sent to Paris to negotiate the Peace Treaty. Other commissioners were Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, and John Jay. Mrs. William David Porter (Alexis DeSaussure) and Mrs. William M. Graeber (Denise DeSaussure), daughters of Dr. DeSaussure, are members of Alexander McCullar Chapter.

The luncheon was held at the Carriage House in Memphis.

Mrs. Anthony A. Aspero, Organizing Regent of the Chapter, was honored with other Organizing Members. The Chapter was organized in 1974 and is the youngest in this area. Mrs. Eda Clarke Fain is Chapter Regent.

FORT MAIDEN SPRING (Tazewell, VA).

An estimated 200 persons, many direct descendants, paid tribute to Thomas Witten, the first permanent settler in the area that is now Tazewell County, in ceremonies at Pisgah.

The Fort Maiden Spring Chapter honored Witten with the dedication of a historical marker on the grounds of the Historic Crab Orchard Museum and memorial service held earlier at the nearby Pisgah United Methodist Church. The marker was unveiled by two direct descendants of Witten, William Gordon Bottimore, and Miss Lucy Byrd St. Clair.

The inscription on top of the marker read: "Thomas Witten Patriot. He and His Family Were the First Permanent Settlers in This Area. Elizabeth Cecil, His Wife, Children Elizabeth, Susanna, Phillip, Jeremiah, Kiziah, Thomas Jr., Ann, James, William."

The front side of the marker bears the inscription: "Erected by Fort Maiden Spring Chapter DAR, Relatives and Friends."

As the color guard represented by VFW Post No. 7136 stood by, Mrs. Graham Landrum, director of District IV, Virginia, dedicated the marker.

A floral tribute was placed at the foot of the marker by Thomas Edwin George III.

Dr. Graham Landrum, professor of English, King College, Bristol, a direct descendent of Whitten, delivered the address at the memorial service at the church.

"With just pride," he said, "we acknowledge today our ancestor, Thomas Witten, Sr., who came to a wilderness and stayed... Was he not successful. Only look around you and decide."

Mrs. Nellie White Bundy, director, Historic Crab Orchard Museum, made a special presentation to Allen Jefferson Higginotham, a map depicting Tazewell County. She described Higginotham as being one person in the last 50 years who has continued the preservation of the heritage and conservation of the artifacts of the Witten family.

A number of distinguished guests attended, including Witten descendants from the Tazewell area, other parts of the state, as well as descendants from as far away as Michigan, Texas, North Carolina, Tennessee, and West Virginia.

THREE FLAGS (Lathrup Village, MI) received recognition with two National JAC Honorable Mention Awards and 27 State JAC Awards. In 1982 we received three National JAC awards and 34 State JAC awards.

Mrs. Thomas Nancarrow, Regent, feels the chapter owes a great debt of gratitude to Mrs. Robert Kirsten, State and Chapter JAC Committee Chairman, who has provided consistent leadership and guidance to young Americans. In particular, her efforts with Brownie Troop #583 and #3741 Larkshire Elementary School, Farmington Hills, MI, have enabled many young people to express their ideas of patriotism and love of America while becoming more knowledgeable about our country.

Sally has also served as Chapter Regent, State JAC Chairman, State American Heritage Chairman, Michigan Outstanding Junior 1979 and other chapter offices.

Mrs. Kirsten is pictured with Troop #583 at their Brownie-Girl Scout "Fly-up" Ceremonies (back row in front of the American Flag). The troop is displaying their award winning "Large Mural of Land Marks."

JONATHAN DAYTON (Dayton, Ohio) commemorated the Treaty of Paris ending the Revolutionary War by the dedication of a marker honoring Major David Ziegler. The ceremony honoring Major David Ziegler, Revolutionary Soldier and first Mayor of Cincinnati, Ohio was held at the beautiful mausoleum, Woodland Cemetery, Dayton.

The request to honor Ziegler came to the Jonathan Dayton Chapter at an overall Ohio State celebration of an old-fashioned Christmas at the historic homes and museum Waldschmidt House, Camp Dennison, Ohio, located near Cincinnati. Mr. William J. Miller, President of the German American Citizens' League mentioned to the State Regent, Mrs. Ann Kitzmiller, that Major Ziegler, Cincinnati's first mayor was buried in Dayton, Ohio, and that he was concerned that there was no plaque on his grave.

Major David Ziegler was born in Heidelberg, Germany in 1748. He migrated to America in 1775 to enter the Revolutionary War. In 1781, he served with General Anthony Wayne in the siege of Yorktown, Virginia. When General George Washington became President in 1789, he promoted Ziegler to Major. For a short period of time Major Ziegler was the interim Commander-in-Chief of the United States Forces. He resigned his commission in 1792 and settled in what is now known as Cincinnati, Ohio, which was at that time a village of wooden buildings and a garrison of soldiers. Ziegler had the distinction of serving as a pallbearer at President George Washington's funeral in 1799. He served as Mayor of Cincinnati from 1802-1804.

Ziegler was originally buried in the Presbyterian Church Cemetery at Fourth and Sycamore Streets in Cincinnati. However, he was later moved to Dayton, Ohio where he was reinterred beside his wife in Woodland Cemetery.

Participating in the commemoration ceremonies were: the State Regent, Mrs. Ann Kitzmiller, and State Officers, Patricia Coleman, Virginia Marlin, Jeane Randolph and Mary Ann Emrick. Also attending were: the Senior President, Ohio Society, C.A.R., the Presidents of the Richard Montgomery and Cincinnati Chapters, SAR and other DAR Chapters.

Other distinguished guests were from the German American Citizens' League, Cincinnati, Consul Emeritus of the Federal Republic of Germany, mayors from Germantown, Troywood, Union, Vandalia, and Xenia.

Immediately following the commemoration ceremonies at Woodland Cemetery, the two hundred or so guests attended a reception in honor of Mrs. Kitzmiller, State Regent, at the historical Patterson Memorial Center.—Emma Gholston Mack.

WILLIAM COCKE (Newport, TN) concluded its year with a memorial service for John Parrott, a Revolutionary War soldier, and the founder of Parrottsville. The theme used is that of our State Regent, Mrs. Dan.
C. Gary, “We are not embalmers of the past, but the enablers of the present, and an empowered people of a new age.” Present were State Representative Nathan Ford, Parrottsville Commissioner Charles Barger, City Recorder Mae Smith, Newport Mayor Jeanne Y. Wilson, approximately fifty descendants and twenty chapter members.

This service was part of our Regent’s Project which is threefold: (1) identify the Revolutionary War soldiers who lived in Cocke County, locate and mark their graves; (2) give local library data on these men; (3) obtain historical marker for the Swagerty Blockhouse. More than sixty soldiers were identified. Thirty-eight graves (thirteen marked, and three markers are ordered. We presented the library a plaque listing these men and the pension applications of all who applied.

Other highlights were: Yearbook won the State Cost of Printing Contest; received State, National Gold Honor Roll and Tri-Color Yearbook for the fifth straight year; tour of Tamassie; flag presentation to the scout troop; named our first Outstanding History Teacher, Mrs. Joan Britt; and our Regent, Mrs. Nancy L. O’Neill, was chosen State Outstanding Junior Member.

ZEBULON PIKE (Colorado Springs, CO).

One day past the 112th anniversary of the beginning of Colorado Springs, and exactly 107 years after Colorado became a state, a marker showing the spot where the city began was unveiled the morning of August 1, 1983.

The location was at the intersection of Pikes Peak and Cascade Avenues and the stone was a replica of the stone placed by Zebulon Pike Chapter with the inscription: “The First State of the Fountain Colony Was Driven Here July 31, 1871—DAR July 4, 1895.” Zebulon Pike Chapter invited Kinnikinnik Chapter to share in the Rededication of the monument.

The original monument was shattered in the demolition of some buildings in the area and pieces of it were put together and located in the Pioneers’ Museum.

Mrs. Frank S. Crane, Colorado State Regent, introduced the Color Guard from the United States Air Force Academy who presented the American Flag and the Colorado State Flag. She then spoke of the aims of DAR followed by introduction of the Honorary State Regents, the State Historian and Mr. Bob Graham, producer of “Inside Colorado” for KKTV.

Following remarks by Mr. Graham, he presented the participants in the day’s program. They were: Mr. Gar Puryear, president of the Colorado National Bank Exchange, who spoke regarding the location of the stone; Mrs. Rosemary Hetzler who gave a history of the stone; and Mr. Bob Watson, author of the book, “The Pikes Peak Pioneers—or Where Is the Cornerstone,” who told of the destruction of the monument. Mrs. Albert Swaim, past Regent of Zebulon Pike Chapter, Mrs. Robert Paul, past Regent of Kinnikinnik Chapter, along with Mrs. A. C. Rasmussen, Mrs. Charles Morgan and Mrs. J. W. Ditzenberger, Chairman of the Cornerstone Committee, were introduced by Mr. Graham.

The details of the 1895 ceremony had been preserved in the DAR Minutes of that year and Mrs. Kay Rasmussen, Zebulon Pike Chapter Historian, read from the Secretary’s minutes the program of the original dedication.

Mrs. Everett Upton, Zebulon Pike Chapter Regent, and Mrs. Walter Ganevsky, Kinnikinnik Chapter Regent, unveiled the marker before an interested group of Colorado Springs Citizens and guests.

SARAH SHARP BERRY (Volente, Texas) was organized October 13, 1979, with Mrs. D. W. Ashmore as the Organizing Regent, first Regent, and descendant of Sarah Sharp Berry. Sarah Sharp Berry, patriot, and others were captured and carried to Canada for the duration of the Revolution. While there it became necessary for her to make uniforms for the British in exchange for food.

Though a young and small chapter we have been quite active in several areas. Flags have been presented to schools and churches, and braile flags, made by members, presented to the State Blind School and a veteran’s group.

The chapter has participated in history essay contest and Good Citizen awards each year. A luncheon is given in February emphasizing American History Month and honoring our winners. This year has been especially rewarding in not only increased participation but with return invitations from the schools. The chapter members were invited to attend a patriotic program by one of our participating schools. We were delighted to notice our luncheon program being used by a student in leading the Pledge of Allegiance and the Star Spangled Banner. At a later date we were asked to furnish a speaker for the fifth grades. The theme was the DAR organization and why our ancestors fought in the American Revolution. Our annual program for the year was a picnic which included plans for a surprise birthday party for our Regent, Mrs. Ashmore. DAR members from several chapters and a few from out of state were guests.

EUNICE COBB STOCKING (Glastonbury, CT) has been fortunate in maintaining a steady growth in membership, which includes actively involved Juniors.

We have had an excellent representation at State Meetings and Continental Congress; returning from the inspired, enthusiastic and dedicated to implementing innovative ideas acquired. They have infused the Chapter with this spirit.

Programs offered reflect that spirit, with historic tours; speakers involved in Civil Defense, State Government, our local history, as examples; also meetings with our neighboring Chapters for exchange of ideas; plus special events to delight one’s sense of the aesthetic during holiday seasons.

As a fund raiser, through the gracious donation of her time and talent, Vice Regent, Mrs. Royal Scott, assisted by Mrs. Clayton Murphy, created a Bye-Lo porcelain baby doll, dressed in full Christening clothing. A complete hand sewn layette was provided by other members. Connecticut State Regent, Mrs. Robert Dains, presided at the drawing, held at Trumbull House in Lebanon, CT.

The chapter was invited by the Chamber of Commerce of Glastonbury to participate in its annual “Apple Harvest Festival,” where the public was made aware of the Bicentennial celebration of the “Paris Peace Treaty.” It is our hope to continue to grow in character and deed, and perpetuate the Objects of the Society.

MONONGAHELA VALLEY (Pennsylvania) held its annual Flag Day luncheon at the Holiday Inn, Belle Vernon.

Presiding Regent, Mrs. Donald Smith, conducted a brief business session. Flag Chairman, Mrs. James Schall, opened the meeting with an explanation of the words used to show respect for the flag of the United States, and led the group in the flags to Mayor Percy Cox. Also representing the city was Ms. Gail Meeks, City Librarian.

SUSANNA COUTANCH EVANS (Greenville, NC), organized in May 1979, has presented a message of true spiritual content in a highly entertaining, humorous manner. The luncheon speaker, Vonnie Kay Brough of Ellwood City, chose for her topic, “Grandma’s Attic.” Using a grandparents’ farm and home as framework, Mrs. Brough presented a message of true spiritual content in a highly entertaining, humorous manner.

The new Regent, Mrs. Bowers, conducted business concerning the chapter’s summer plans. Mrs. Soles offered the benediction, which concluded the meeting.

SUSANNA COUTANCH EVANS (Greenville, NC), organized in May 1979, has concluded another successful year with the chapter. In the Flag Day dedication ceremony held on the Town Common on the banks of the Tar River, Mrs. Donald C. McLane, Jr., Regent, presented the two flags to Mayor Percy Cox. Also representing the city was Mrs. Gail Meeks, City Manager. Chapter members taking part were Dr. Lois Staton leading in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and Mrs. Everett Ballengee offering the Prayer and Benediction.

Following the ceremony a dinner was prepared by members for members and HODARs. This traditional get-together has become an annual event for it is an expression of co-operation between members and their HODARs as well as an opportunity for the HODARs to visit.—Doris Ballengee.

SALLY DEFOREST (Norwalk, Ohio) is pleased to honor an unusual member, a centenarian. Mrs. Roy E. Tanner has achieved this distinction which was celebrated with an openhouse planned by her son David and wife Millie in observance of her 100th birthday. The reception was held in the parlor of Hillside Acres where Mrs. Tanner has resided since 1976.

Emma Mabel Price was born in Uniontown, Belmont County, Ohio on October 29, 1882, attended Franklin College, New Athens, Ohio and was graduated from Muskingum College, New Concord, Ohio in the class of 1905. In 1911 she married Roy E. Tanner (deceased in 1970), a pharmacist. They came to Willard to make their home. Their family consists of three sons, Alfred and twins Clarence and David, two grandchildren, Ila Kay Tanner (DAR) and James, and one great granddaughter, Lisa Tanner. Mrs. Tanner has been a faithful, active and life long member of organizations within the First Presbyterian Church, an ardent DAR of thirty years, National Number 420085 and Revolutionary Patriot James Boggs from Pennsylvania, a fine and highly respected citizen of her home community for seventy two years.

The picture was taken on Mrs. Tanner’s 98th birthday.

BERTHA HEREFORD HALL (Leesburg, Florida) recesses their regularly monthly meetings in May until October, but last summer, the chapter was busy. For the first time, the local chapter of the American Legion invited our DAR chapter to join them in Memorial Day services at Hillcrest Memorial Cemetery to honor the veterans of all wars. Then on Flag Day, June 14th, our chapter presented the beautiful new Leesburg Public Library with a large American Flag for the lobby of the lovely building. Our second Flag presentation, was on July 13th to the Lake County Senior Service Center in Leesburg, a large, outdoor Flag, flown over the Capitol, especially for the Senior Center. At each of the ceremonies there was a large attendance of city officials and chapter members. We then made plans for the commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the Treaty of Paris.—Mary M. Tichenor.

BETTY BONNEY (Arkansas City, KS) had a great year, with much enthusiasm from the members and great honors to two of our members. Verna Stuteville, long time Registrar of our chapter was chosen to the nominating committee for the State of Kansas slate of DAR officers. She reported that it was hard work, but that she had a lovely time, and thought that they had done a good job in making their selections.

Patricia Brooks, past Regent, and a DAR member since 1954, was selected as the Kansas State DAR Magazine Chairman.

Dixie Portland Flour Mills, Inc., Arkansas City, has been most helpful with its donations toward advertising in the DAR Magazine, and has three active members of our chapter as its employees.

Our new Regent, Erma Clark, is an excellent choice and she has done much to promote interest in DAR. She attended the Board of Management meeting in Topeka and accepted the Constitution Week Proclamation from our local mayor.

Our chapter has again contributed to our local Cherokee Strip Museum. This is the 90th anniversary of the greatest land rush in history, and one of the starting places was just three miles south of Arkansas City.

One of our most successful programs was given by Bea Boory on the history of our flag. She entered the room dressed as Betsy Ross and carried the flag she was sewing to present to our nation as its first banner. Mrs. Boory is a round-the-world traveler, and has told us of many of her varied experiences. Her latest adventure included a balloon trip. She is also an active member of our chapter and we all express pride and interest in one of our favorite members.—Mary Quinn Maxwell.
MARY LACY (Centralia, WA). Mrs. Will (Marion) Oliver is being given special recognition as a charter member of Mary Lacy Chapter, formed January 11, 1918.

Mrs. Oliver, 90 years old, has faithfully served the chapter these past 65 years. Several events honored her and the chapter's 65th birthday. Mrs. Oliver's sister, Mrs. N. L. (Susan) Witherow, was the Organizing Regent, but Marion has held many offices including Regent. She now lives at Rosary Manor, Chehalis, WA, and attends most meetings.

Mary Lacy Chapter was named in honor of one of Marion's ancestors, Mary Lacy, who was born in 1672, daughter of Edward Lacy and Abigail Gregory. In 1692 Mary and her grandmother courageously witnessed against witchcraft. Many of her descendants served in the Revolutionary War. The Lacy family, the first settlers in Lacyville, PA built their home in 1791. It still stands on the original site, a monument to the family.

Mary Lacy Chapter has had an active and rewarding year. Highlights include the annual Good Citizen Scholarship Luncheon in April, honoring Good Citizen winners from county high schools. This year scholarship recipient was Steve Edwards, Onalaska. The annual Holiday Bazaar provides money for the scholarship.

Programs this year have been exciting and educational. Regent, Mrs. Robert (Doris) O'Neill, and several members attended State Conference. Mrs. J. H. (Helene) Green went to Washington, DC for Continental Congress.

Several new members have joined and we are looking forward to another rewarding year.—Robert A. Woodman, ALLIANCE (Champaign-Urbana, IL) observed the Bicentennial of the Treaty of Paris by placing an exhibit in the Urbana Free Library during the month of September.

The Chapter purchased the Treaty of Paris Keepsake Collection featured in the June/July issue of the DAR Magazine, used the graphic arts from the collection for part of the display and presented the Treaty of Paris commemorative book to the Library. The book honors the Library's archives staff whose record in aiding the Chapter in genealogical research through the years has been outstanding.

The Library's contribution of several books from the Treaty of Paris Bibliography compiled by the NSDAR Treaty of Paris Committee added significantly to the exhibit and stimulated interest in this historic subject for the reading public.

Mrs. Victor G. Marty is Chapter Treaty of Paris chairman. Mrs. John J. Cobb is Chapter Regent. Mrs. Thomas D. Roberts, director of the archives staff, accepted the book on behalf of the Library.

Appropriately, the exhibit coincided with activities celebrating the Sesquicentennial of Champaign County.

Alliance Chapter also sponsored a unit in the community's annual Fourth of July parade. The Chapter theme saluted both the Bicentennial Treaty of Paris and the Sesquicentennial of Champaign County. The Chapter was presented a plaque for parade participation.

Later in the fall, the Chapter heard a report from Mrs. Charles E. Wallace, who attended Indiana Treaty of Paris festivities in Indianapolis.

Alliance Chapter, founded by the late Mrs. George W. Busey in 1904, looks forward to celebrating its own eightieth anniversary.—Georganne Marty.

GAINESVILLE (Florida). Shown in the picture are: Mrs. Norman B. Merkel, State Regent of Florida; Mrs. Frederick T. Boyd, Gainesville Chapter Regent; Mrs. Helen Cubberly Ellerbe, Historian and Speaker; Mrs. Ralph H. Lewis, Chaplain, Gainesville Chapter; Don Grooms, University of Florida Journalism Professor who spoke on behalf of Seminole Chief Jim Billy; Mrs. Lewis B. Smyth who represented C.A.R.; Mr. Ted Linne, Corrections Officer whose men prepared the site and Dr. Frederick T. Boyd, representing S.A.R.

The site was first marked in 1932 by Mrs. George E. Evans, then Gainesville Chapter Regent. Vandals stole the marker; therefore, in 1976, Mrs. Evans, then Honorary State Regent of Florida, replaced the marker. The bronze plaque stolen from this second marker, was replaced in November 1982 by the Gainesville Chapter.

This marker was erected near the sight of a battle between Seminole Indians and Georgia volunteers under the command of Colonel Daniel Newnan, beginning on Sept. 28, 1812. The Americans had come into Spanish East Florida in an attempt to destroy the Indian towns in the Alachua country west of the St. Johns River.

The two forces met by accident on the Indian trail and a battle followed. The Indians attacked several times during seven or eight days with the Americans pinned down behind a hastily erected barricade. Illness and wounds reduced their numbers and replacements who had been sent for, failed to arrive. Having eaten their horses, now being without food, and finding themselves short on ammunition, the Americans were forced to retreat to the St. Johns River.

The marker is located on State Road No. 234, near the town of Windsor, on one-half acre, donated to the Gainesville, Florida chapter.

TITUS TRAVIS (Dallas, Texas). The quilt in this picture is the result of a co-operative project of the Titus Travis Chapter and the Scriber Methodist Day School in Dallas. Ann Easley, American Heritage Chairman for 1982-1983, conceived the idea and executed the entire plan.

The children were in the age bracket of three to five years. They made the pictures with special fabric crayons on white paper. These were, in turn, ironed onto quilt blocks and each block showed the artist's name and age.

Ann and her mother, Mrs. Stanley Hahn, past Regent of the George Taylor Chapter of Easton, PA, assembled the blocks and did all the quilting.

The quilt has been donated to the DAR Tamasses School.

Ann, acting as American Heritage Chairman, won the State of Texas award as well as the South Central award for the Titus Travis Chapter. Many members displayed historical and unusual memorabilia at the meetings. We had a “ Forgotten Fashion” style show plus a bus trip to Ft. Worth to visit the National Archives and the Mills Collection of Glass at TCU.

We combined the efforts of the American community; Mrs. Joseph Dempsey who told of her involvement in the DAR; and Mrs. Jonathon Willson, Simon Stickney, Moses Stickney, Captain William Simonds, and Moses Oliver.

Participants in the tribute to the former member were Mrs. Eugene Fiegl, Chaplain, who conducted devotions; Mrs. Harold Chaffee, who spoke of the late Regent’s early life and her devotion to family, friends, and community; Mrs. Joseph Dempsey who told of her involvement in the DAR; and Mrs. Paul Canessa current Regent.

“Everyone of us ever touched by Phebe Pfuntner has gained from her acquaintance and association,” said Mrs. Canessa in summary. “To be sure, her example is a hard one to follow, but remembering her gives us added strength and energy to do that little something extra.”

A luncheon, attended by relatives and friends of Mrs. Pfuntner as well as chapter members, was held at the Ponce de Leon Restaurant in Hornell prior to the memorial service.

MOUNT ROSA (Littleton, CO). How clearly love has shown through the activities and concerns of our members promoting DAR goals.

History was served in commemorating George Washington’s 250th birthday with a tree-planting and a birthday cake; and in presenting “A Portrait of Molly Brown,” whose flamboyant style earlier made her the choice of Colorado Daughters for the Traveling Style Show. Our Regent, Mrs. William Cox, was chairman of that State Committee.

Education and youth were applauded with awards to three American History Essay winners, one ROTC medal recipient and four DAR Good Citizens.

Patriotic service to our community was embodied in a 645-page record of the Littleton Cemetery, completed after four years of summer field work and two years of intensive cross-checking and proofreading before the final printing.

A proud achievement was the National First Place Educational Division Award given to our Feature Story entry, “Researching at the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution,” written by our Vice Regent and former Lineage Research Chairman, Mrs. Eldon H. Brown, and earlier published in “The Genealogical Helper.” Overall we gained a total of 514 inches of publicity for the chapter this year. Pictured are Mrs. Bain, Mrs. Whitacre, Mrs. Cox, and Mrs. Brown.

Twenty-two ladies received aid from our Lineage Research Workshops. We welcomed eleven new members with pink silk roses, but were saddened by the deaths of three other members.—Mary Linke.

LIBERTY POINT (Fayetteville, NC) made a legacy quilt celebrating the June 1775 signing of the “Cumberland Association...” a solemn declaration by 55 patriots, pledging to resist British force and to sacrifice their lives and fortunes if necessary.

The purpose in making the quilt was to arouse interest in local history, particularly Liberty Point. In 1975 the rediscovery of the original manuscript, missing for 150 years and finally located in the Southern Historical Collection in the UNC Library in Chapel Hill, had been greeted enthusiastically, especially by members of Liberty Point Chapter, which had just been organized April 12, 1975, and named to commemorate the Liberty Point resolves.

The first display of the quilt was timed for the June 22nd anniversary through the Fourth of July. It is worthy of note that the Cumberland Association preceded the Declaration of Independence by a little more than a year.

The Liberty Point Quilt will be available for exhibit to various clubs, school classes, and other groups, with an accompanying program about the declaration and personal facts about the signers. Eventually it will hang in a permanent home, such as a library or museum.

LANSING (Michigan). For the past several years an automobile agency in Lansing has flown the American Flag above its place of business. This flag measures 20 x 30 feet, in size and is mounted on an eighty foot pole. It is lighted by flood lights at night and can be seen for miles around. It stands as a proud landmark for our country and the respect of the owners for this visible symbol of freedom and liberty.

A new flag costs the company $560.00.
Two of these flags have been stolen and were promptly replaced. The partners plan to continue this project as it was begun in the recognition of the American free enterprise system. This is the freedom of private business to organize and operate for profit in a competitive system without interference by the government beyond essential regulations needed to keep the nation’s economy in balance.

On Flag Day, Mrs. Clyde Campbell, Chapter Chairman of the Flag of the United States, and Mrs. Charles Renie, Chapter Regent, presented to the owners of Cook-Harriman Auto Agency, framed citations, signed by the President General, Mrs. Richard D. Shelby.

MERCY OTIS (Des Moines, IA) held a recognition program for Naturalized United States Citizens. This honoring event acquainted members and guests with foreign-born individuals, honored the new citizens and united all participants in a bond of appreciation for our nation's constitutional freedoms.

At a Naturalized Citizenship Ceremony in U.S. District Court, Des Moines, IA, 140 aliens received their United States Citizenship. The Honorable Harold Victor, Judge, presided. Regent, Mrs. David Ragner, welcomed the candidates for citizenship. Mrs. Joseph Allen, Historian, recorded the moments on film.

Each candidate had been provided the NSDAR Citizenship Manual, given by the Chapter and distributed by the Court, enabling each to attain his/her goal as a Naturalized American Citizen.

Those members unable to attend the court ceremonies had the occasion of honoring the Ganpat-Anderson family and learning of their past trials in Guyana, South America, and their good experiences in America. The seven children and their mother left Guyana after the father was assassinated because he tried to help the poor attain land ownership. They told members they experience privileges, freedom, little fear, and renewed faith each day in America. They are grateful for the opportunities the United States Constitution provides them. Mrs. George Wingert, Chairman of the Americanism and DAR Manual for Citizenship Committee, presented United States and State of Iowa flags as gifts to the family.

The family members have shown bravery and courage, as well as giving commendable community service. Two are American Red Cross volunteers. The mother and the 18-year-old daughter helped save the lives of two elderly neighbors in a house fire June 17, 1983.

Chapter members and the new citizens participated in a "Signers of the Constitution" action program that emphasized the personal views of the framers of this great working document that governs our nation. The fellowship opportunity for the members, guests and new citizens made each one aware of his/her many basic liberties and responsibilities. As American citizens we share the privilege to possess and the DUTY to employ these "Constitutional rights."

CLAVERACK (Clifton, NJ). Pictured left are Rose Marie Sinnott, Freeholder of Union County, NJ; Mr. Paul Angelo, Office of Veterans Affairs; Mrs. John J. Utech, Jr., Regent of Claverack Chapter. Mrs. Utech presented a Certificate of Appreciation to Mr. Paul Angelo of the Office of Veteran Affairs in appreciation of his assistance in locating American Revolutionary soldiers' graves for Claverack Chapter members.

Six years ago, Claverack Chapter had seventeen members and now there are fifteen Juniors, of which there are nineteen Juniors. For several years, the chapter has received recognition for having the greatest net increase in membership in New Jersey. Miss Susan Utech, Chapter Registrar, was the New Jersey Outstanding Junior of 1983. She is a third-generation DAR member with eleven Revolutionary ancestors.

One of our members, Mrs. Mildred Riske, donated her recently published book, "Salmon, Waples and Their Descendants," to the DAR Library.

Claverack Chapter meets on Monday evening to accommodate its working and non-working members.—Nancy Utech.

MANITOU (Rochester, IN) "Welcome! Daughters of the American Revolution," read the sign, as 60 members and guests followed the winding walk to the First Baptist Church. It was the 75th anniversary of Manitou Chapter, Mrs. E. V. Herendeen, Planning Chairman.

Special members recognized were Mrs. Frances Bergman, a member 61 years, and Mrs. Fred Rankin, 56 years.

Mrs. Fitzgerald’s topic was "History of the NSDAR," and Mrs. Edward Shadle, spoke on "History of Manitou Chapter," "Our Founding Fathers" by Mrs. Albert Jennens and Mrs. Harold Reese, in colonial attire, told of early patriots’ contributions.

The Regent closed by inviting guests to join NSDAR and Manitou Chapter, and remarked, "May the Indian ‘Heaven’ beads bring all of you a ‘Blessed Life’."—Maria Taylor.

CONCEJO VALLEY (Thousand Oaks, CA) also serving the communities of Simi Valley, Calabasas, Agoura, Westlake Village, Newbury Park, Moorpark and Camarillo, held a culminating event recently at the historic Stagecoach Inn in Newbury Park commemorating the 250th Anniversary of the birth of the "Father of Our Country," George Washington.

Those who have walked up the shaded lane to Mount Vernon can well appreciate the significance of a special Tree Planting Ceremony for this celebration. Vivienne Youmans obtained a lovely tree, donated by "Treenland," which will add to the beauty of this restored site, which was marked by the Chapter in 1978.

The program was planned and conducted by California State Society Vice Chairman of Americanism and Chapter Special Events Chairman, Shirley Marshall. Pat Allen, official "Historian of the Conejo," presented "Memories of Washington, the Man." Local dignitaries were in attendance. The Simi Valley High School ROTC Color Guard, and the Broadway Showstoppers added to the festivities.

Norma Stafford, President of the Conejo Valley Historical Society, accepted in behalf of the Museum and Tri-Village Complex as the tree was planted and appropriately dedicated. A poem, "George Washington, Patriot," was read ending the year long homage paid to this man, "First in War, First in Peace, First in the Hearts of his Countrymen." The program concluded with the assembly singing "America" and the benediction by State Chairman California DAR Scholarships and Organizing Regent, Marnie McCassy.

GOFORTH LEGEND: WAR TRAGEDY

The grave of Preston Goforth, Jr., Whig Private, killed October 7, 1780, by his brother, John Goforth, a Tory, in the Battle of Kings Mountain.

Dr. Lyman C. Draper states in “Kings Mountain and Its Heroes” that Preston’s wife, Nancy Elizabeth “Betty”, accompanied a negro man eight miles to the battlefield and brought the body home on a sled used for hauling stones, drawn by a mule.

Preston Goforth’s grave is on land adjacent to the Kings Mountain City Limits just off Highway #74 in the small family graveyard owned by his descendants. It bears a marker erected by the American Legion and the Colonel Frederick Hambright Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.
HUGH TORANCE HOUSE AND STORE

Believed to be the oldest surviving store building in Mecklenburg County. The original log structure was probably started in 1779. Built by Hugh Torance, a Revolutionary war veteran, who came to America from Northern Ireland in the 1760's. It is part of a complex located on Gilead Road near Huntersville, N.C. The building was given by Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Banks, descendants of Hugh Torance, to the Mecklenburg Historical Association and is being restored by the Hugh Torance House And Store Inc. When completed, it will be open to the public as an educational center showing the way in which Hugh Torance lived and worked. It is listed in both the National and Mecklenburg County Registers of Historic Places.

On May 20, 1768 Dolley (Payne) Madison was born at New Garden, N.C., now Greensboro, N.C. The log house, built by Christian Isley about 1788, is similar in architectural style to the Payne residence and some of the logs used in restoring the Memorial are from the original birthplace. The house has been placed in the Richardson Park on the grounds of the Greensboro Historical Museum, 130 Summit Avenue.

The Museum also has a large collection of papers and artifacts which belonged to members of the Madison family. Of special significance is the red velvet gown worn by Dolley while her husband, James Madison, was President (1808–1816). According to tradition, it was fashioned from the draperies which were removed from the President’s House (White House) before it was burned by the British in 1814.

Original building of WAKEON SCHOOL, constructed in 1909, entered on The National Register of Historic Places May 13, 1976. The structure, which features a front central tower, combines elements of the Italianate and Neo-Classical styles and employs a rich variety of materials—red brick, tan brick, stone, slate and wood—resulting in a building of distinctive character that is a landmark in the Town of Zebulon, N.C.

Among the first consolidated schools in Wake County, N.C., WakeIon School's district was established for Zebulon and the neighboring village of Wakefield. The school, whose first session was 1908–1909, occupied a building in Wakefield until its own was completed and opened its doors to students in January 1910. The heritage of WakeIon School is proudly remembered.

The House in the Horseshoe, 1772 River-front Plantation, home of Governor Benjamin Williams. Colonel Phillip Alston built the house and lived there during the Revolutionary War. Here during one of the battles fought between the Whigs and Tories, Mrs. Alston placed a table in one of the large chimneys and lifted her children upon it to protect them from the bullets being fired. The walls of the house bear scars and bullet holes of that early back-country battle. When the Tories were preparing to set the house on fire, Mrs. Alston gathered up her white apron, walked out into the yard, and waved it in surrender, saving the children and her home. Today visitors are welcomed everyday except Monday. It is one of North Carolina’s Historical Sites. Highway Markers on N.C. 24-27 near Carthage direct visitors to this eighteenth century plantation home.

Lineages Back to Early 1600s! |

Published by The Order of the Founders and Patriots of America and entitled “Register Lineage of Associates, Third Supplement, 1961-1980”, this volume contains over 600 pages of data. Included is the complete lineage of almost 1,000 men who joined the Order from 1961 through 1980 — plus data about the Patriot Ancestor who served the cause of the American Revolution and the Founder Ancestor who settled in this country prior to May 13, 1657. Wife’s names are featured, as are birth and death dates. Genealogical researchers will find this book a valuable addition to their library!

All this for only $22.00, including handling and shipping. Use the handy order form.

SPECIAL NOTE TO DARs: Your son(s) may be eligible for membership in Founders and Patriots! Identified as Associates, our members are lineally descended in the male line of either parent from an ancestor who settled in any of the Colonies now included in the United States prior to May 13, 1657; and whose forefathers in the same male ancestral line adhered as Patriots to the cause of the American Revolution. To receive a descriptive brochure about our Order, just write to LTC. Thomas P. Curtis, 758 East Day Avenue, Milwaukkee, WI 53217.

Dear Daughters:

The history of human experience takes many strange turns while traveling its course through time. John White is one man history chose to surround in mystery.

In 1586 Walter Raleigh sent a second colony to Roanoke Island. Most people do not remember that Governor John White was in charge of this second adventure.

John White the artist is even less remembered. (See front cover of this magazine.) Until recently scholars were not sure John White the Governor and John White the painter were the same man.

White may have been the First Englishman to capture the North American continent, her natives and her wildlife in water-color drawings. His drawings depicted a wide range of subject-matter and his technique was of high quality.

The real mystery that surrounds White is not why he was not remembered as an explorer and forgotten as an artist. The real mystery centers around his granddaughter.

Soon after landing on Roanoke Island White went back to England for supplies. His return to America was delayed by the threatened invasion by the Spanish Armada.
When White returned, the colony he had left on Roanoke Island had disappeared. Among the many Colonists missing was White's granddaughter Virginia Dare.

Enthusiastically,

In these times of fast-moving inflation and high medical costs, your family needs the supplemental protection of the NSDAR Hospital Benefit Plan. Because even the best health insurance plans haven’t been able to keep pace with hospital costs.

The NSDAR Plan doesn’t replace your regular health insurance. It works with your other coverage, providing you with an extra financial cushion when an insured family member is in the hospital.

Daily benefits of $40, $60, $80, or even $100 a day (depending on the option you choose) are paid directly to you from the very first day of hospitalization...for up to 365 days. You’ll receive the benefits regardless of any other insurance you may have, and you decide how the money will be spent.

Use it to help pay the portion of doctor and hospital bills your regular insurance doesn’t cover. Or the related personal expenses which can accompany a hospital stay: meals away from home, babysitters and housekeepers, prescription drugs, private nursing care. Whatever you need for full recovery.

This important benefit is available to all NSDAR members, their husbands, and dependent children, regardless of past health history. And no matter what your age, this protection can be yours at economical group rates.

For further information about the NSDAR Hospital Benefit Plan, fill in the coupon below and mail it to the NSDAR Insurance Administrator. There’s no time like the present to get valuable financial protection against today’s high hospital costs.

As the official keeper of 1.3 million cubic feet of federal records, the National Archives preserves extensive information on the individuals—perhaps your ancestors—who helped shape our nation's heritage. These records have taken on new importance with the rapidly growing interest in genealogy and local history. To help you use our wealth of resources, the staff of the National Archives has prepared a new Guide to Genealogical Research in the National Archives. This 320-page GUIDE expands and updates the original 1964 edition, substantially increasing the amount of information on the many federal records important to genealogists and local historians:

- Census records
- Military service and pension files
- Ship passenger arrival lists
- Federal land records
- and many more...

The GUIDE will prepare you to conduct effective genealogical research in federal records, your next step after learning all you can from family documents and other local sources of information. It is designed to help you make a systematic review and selection among the wide range of materials available in the National Archives. It will hasten that exciting moment when you discover documentary evidence in federal sources of your family's participation in the great American story. In addition it makes clear what records are not in the National Archives and frequently indicates where they might be found.

The GUIDE is an essential addition to any genealogy or local history reference library. It also makes an ideal, practical gift for both the sophisticated and beginning researcher.
