COVER STORY

Without the aid of Spain in the American Revolution, the cause of Independence would not have triumphed with such dispatch. When Spain declared war on Great Britain in 1779, the great Southwest was brought into the conflict taking place on the East Coast.

Bernardo de Galvez, then the governor of Louisiana, was instructed by the King of Spain to drive the British out of the Louisiana and Gulf area. His service in this cause plus the arms and provisions he provided offer the opportunity for women of the Southwest to become members of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Galveston Bay, an inlet in the Gulf of Mexico, and the Texas City of Galveston are named in his honor. His portrait, featured on the cover, hangs in the lobby of the Hotel Galveston. Photo by Ken Tiner.

February—American History Month. What is history? "History is the cement which binds the past, the present and the future together." (Emerson) "History is an advanced warning system." (Cousins)

History is now! Are you making history come alive for your children, your grandchildren and friends? We must be aware of the past, protect the present and prepare for the future. How thankful we should be for the examples set for us by the Presidents we honor this month—Washington and Lincoln. Thankful also for the wisdom of Mrs. Daniel Lothrop, founder of the Children of the American Revolution, when, in 1895, she said, "I think you will agree with me that the hope of this country is with her youth. All of us now convened, in a few years will pass from the scene; those to follow us will be the ones who are now in their formative state under our guidance. Into their hands will be laid the important trusts, the weighty responsibilities, the affairs of government, the whole executive and moral forces that make or mar the country. . . . What a tremendous thought that some of our boys and girls may be growing up in our very midst with no adequate idea of what it is to be an American youth, claiming a heritage of these American principles. Can we, as Americans, rest a moment while the impressible period is swiftly passing on with them? . . ."

We must not rest. It is our responsibility to set the example and alert our youth to their American heritage and the responsibility they have as American citizens.

Enjoy your meaningful American History Month celebrations. Remember, always, those who have kept us free.
Bernardo de Galvez was born July 23, 1746 in the village of Macharaviya, Malaga, Spain. He was part of a noble family that distinguished itself in service to Spain, and he chose a military career.

In 1765 he arrived in Mexico, which was then called New Spain, and in 1769 he was made commandant of Nueva Vizcaya where it was his duty to subdue the Apache Indians in the area that included Texas.

The first expedition he led contained about 135 men and took him all the way to the Pecos River in Texas. By the time the Indians were located it was November, the weather very cold and the soldiers tired and hungry. Bernardo urged the men to follow him as he plunged his horse into the cold river. They followed his courageous charge killing and capturing a great number of the Indians.

Galvez conducted other campaigns against the Apache. During one of these he was badly wounded while fighting five Indians by himself; he returned to Spain to recover. In 1776 he was sent to New Orleans and soon made governor.

Bernardo gave aid to the American colonies during their fight for independence by keeping open the Mississippi River for navigation.

Ammunition, guns, clothing, and other supplies were sent to George Rogers Clark in the northwest. Galvez and an American named Oliver Pollock were responsible for furnishing these provisions to Clark's troops. Pollock financed the purchase of the sup-

Unsung Hero

Additional reinforcements followed and on May 10 the British surrendered. King Carlos III made Bernardo a count with a promotion to lieutenant general. The king also gave him permission to put the “Galveztown” on the crest of his coat of arms with the motto “YO SOLO”—I alone.

Following the victory at Pensacola, the Bahama Islands were taken. Galvez was planning a campaign to attack Jamaica when word was received that hostilities had ceased.

In August of 1779, when Galvez first received word of Spain’s declaration of war, he sent a request to the governor in San Antonio, for Texas longhorn cattle to be driven to Louisiana to aid his campaign. During the time he was fighting the British, approximately 10,000 head of cattle were delivered to Galvez. The cattle belonged to the Spanish missions in San Antonio and Goliad. They were assembled at the presidio La Bahia, near Goliad, driven to Nacogdoches, Texas, and from there to Galvez. The use of these longhorns gives Texas a connection with the American Revolution.

Bernardo de Galvez deserves recognition for his part in helping the American cause and should be remembered as a patriot. He was, in fact, commended by the Continental Congress and received letters from Patrick Henry and Thomas Jefferson thanking him for his services to the United States.

Galvez was a brave, chivalrous and compassionate man who was very popular with the people. Because he was an able administrator Galvez was appointed Viceroy of New Spain following the war. He was given more jurisdiction than any of his predecessors. He arrived in Mexico City in 1784 to begin governing his new territory which was virtually all of Spanish North America. In the fall of 1786 Bernardo was stricken with a fever during an epidemic. He died on November 30 and was buried in Mexico City.

Galveston, Texas, and Galveston Bay are named for him, and Texans are proud that because of him, Texas made a contribution to the American Revolution.

This particular sampler was stitched by Patience Taylor (possibly in Rhode Island) in 1729 when she was but nine years old. As a river conforms to the contour of the land through which it flows, and as it is influenced by the obstacles it encounters in making its way to the sea, so great men are guided in their thinking and actions by those persons and events which continuously impinge upon their lives. In the course of history, however, individuals who may have exerted considerable influence upon great men are often forgotten. This is generally true of parents and of mothers in particular. In the United States of America, school children soon learn of Patrick Henry’s famous declaration, “Give me liberty, or give me death,” but how many know of his mother, Sarah Winston Henry?1 Throughout history, although there have been remarkable exceptions, great men seem to have been affected more by their mothers than by their fathers. Whether or not this was true of Patrick Henry is a matter of conjecture. His mother, however, was without a doubt a woman of excellent attributes who exerted a lasting influence upon her famous son.²

According to the best information available, Sarah Winston was born about 1710, the oldest child of Isaac Winston and his wife, Mary Dabney, in Hanover County, Virginia. Both the Winstons and the Dabneys were prosperous farmers whose ancestors had arrived in Virginia from England in the 1660s. They early earned a respected place for themselves in community life, especially in local political affairs. The Dabneys brought to America the characteristic traits which were necessary in clearing the wilderness and beginning a civilization. Sarah's maternal grandfather, Cornelius Dabney, for example, settled in an area which was inhabited by the Pamunkeys. He learned the language of this tribe and served as their translator to the Virginia authorities at Jamestown. "The Winstons were of Welsh stock; a family marked by vivacity of spirit, conversational talent, a lyric and dramatic turn, a gift for music and for eloquent speech, at the same time by a fondness for country life, for natural pleasures, for fishing and hunting, for the solitude and unkempt charms of nature."3

Very little is known about the youth of Sally, the nickname of Sarah Winston. With public schools almost entirely lacking, the Virginia school system was very simple in nature. At this time, teachers could become professionals by putting up a sign and cutting a switch. Those parents who were willing to pay for instruction by tutoring usually hired a person to come into their home. The children of parents who could not afford even to pay for a public education went without. In any event, it was customary that only the male offspring received tutoring; females of the household learned to handle domestic chores from their mother. In literate families, however, regular reading and study of the Bible were of great import for both sexes. Discussion of the Bible was a duty of all Christians as well as an instructive pastime giving rise to interesting interpretations and arguments. So it must have been for young Sally. From the only letter of hers in known extant, it seems that Sarah was a well-educated woman of her day.4

An English traveler of the time when Sarah Winston was a young woman, gave his impressions of the good wives and mothers of Virginia. He found them to be generally handsome, but seldom accomplished because they lacked educational advantages. He reported that they married as young as eleven, but that the average age at wedding was 14 or 15 years. They were excellent wives and great breeders, but seemed to lack the "sensibility" of English ladies. However lacking in delicacy of feeling, the Virginia women made up for it in robustness because it was necessary for them to attend the needs of their large families, servants, and slaves in a sparsely populated countryside. It was in this general environment that Sarah Winston became the wife of John Syme (pronounced Sim). A Scotchman, and colonel in the colonial militia, he was a large land holder, a member of the county court and of the House of Burgesses.

Colonel John Syme died in 1731, leaving a son, John Syme, Jr., and an attractive 21-year-old widow to whom he had bequeathed all of his worldly goods. In a new country, widowhood was a rather common state with both husbands and wives being highly valued. In a new country, widowhood was a rather common state with both husbands and wives being highly valued. During much of the colonial era in Virginia, women of marriageable age were not plentiful. Widows with beauty, proven social charms, domestic skills, or inherited estates were seldom without suitors. Indeed, news would be spread to swains far and wide, especially if the widow owned enough land to become a factor in the colonial economy. It also was not unusual for a new husband to present for probate the will of his predecessor, or for remarriage to occur before "grass had scarcely grown" over the deceased husband's grave.

On October 7, 1732, Colonel William Byrd II of Westover,5 having just completed an inspection survey of his estates, was directed to the Widow Syme's home for his night's lodging. It seems that Sarah Syme at first mistook Colonel Byrd for a new suitor; he gives me this intimate view of the young widow:

In the evening Tinsley (Thomas Tinsley, one of his overseers) conducted me to Mrs. Syme's house, where I intended to take up my quarters. This lady, at first suspecting I was some lover, put on a gravity which becomes a weed, but so soon she learned who I was, brightened up unto an unusual cheerfulness and serenity. She was a portly, handsome dame . . . ., and seemed not to pine too much for the death of her husband . . . He left a son by her, who has all the strong features of his sire, not softened in the least by any of hers.

This widow is a person of a lively and cheerful conversation, with much less reserve than most of her country-women. It becomes her will, and sets off her other agreeable qualities to an advantage. We tossed off a bottle of honest port which we relished with a broiled chicken.6

By William J. Bennett
U.S. Secretary of Education

My topic today is the teaching of values in our schools. This is an issue that has been getting much attention in the last few months. I am glad of that. During my tenure as Secretary of Education, and for years before, as a philosophy teacher and a visitor to the schools, I have been trying to encourage such discussion.

I must say, though, that I have never particularly liked the word “values,” in this discussion. The term “values” tends to suggest that judgments of right and wrong, noble and base, just and unjust, are mere personal preferences, that things are worthwhile only if and insofar as individuals happen to “value” them. As a friend once said, when he hears the word “values,” he reaches for his Sears catalogue.

Rather than reach for a catalogue, let me today reach for a new term, or terms. Because these issues are not matters of mere personal taste, let me propose that we reconsider the enterprise now known as “the teaching of values.” Let me argue that we relabel our enterprise the effort to help form the character of the young and to aid them in achieving moral literacy. The formation of character and the achievement of moral literacy—that, I think, is what we really should be about.

As Secretary of Education, I’ve campaigned quite a bit for a reaffirmation of the central importance of the task of the formation of character in the young. Eighteen months ago, in my first major address, I spoke of “character” as one of the “Three Cs” of education, alongside “content” and “choice.” I said then that forming character must begin in the home, starting in the earliest childhood years, but that afterwards schools must help—because as President Eliot of Harvard once reminded us, in the sentiments of Thomas Jefferson two hundred years ago. Listing the basic requirements for a sound education, Jefferson spoke of writing, calculation, and geography—and also of the important task of what he termed the improvement of one’s “morals and faculties.”

But despite the beliefs of the majority of Americans, no sooner does anyone begin to point out how important it is to “teach values” in the schools, than others immediately begin to raise the specter of awful complexity. As soon as someone starts talking about forming character at school, others claim that it just can’t be done, that we won’t find a consensus on what to teach or how to teach it. I have heard that complaint on and off, mostly on, in the fifteen years I’ve been writing on this issue.

Two weeks ago, for example, a New York Times columnist wrote that if the people urging schools to teach values—including, he wrote, Governor Cuomo and myself—we were asked to define those values, we’d probably find it hard to agree. And last month a Washington Post columnist, also writing about the Secretary of Education and the Governor of New York, gave us this analysis: “In the United States, the most heterogeneous nation in the world, one man’s values can be another man’s anathema. . . . Does it really make any sense to add still further to [our schools’] burden, to insist that they provide answers to questions of values upon which we mature adults cannot agree?”

And sometimes it is one and the same person who calls attention to the importance of teaching values, and then immediately reconsiders, thinks better of his suggestion and becomes less sure. So Governor Cuomo, in talking about his plans to bolster the teaching of values in New York schools, was reported as immediately cautioning, “You probably won’t be able to get a consensus view on values, so it probably won’t go anywhere, but we’ll try.”

Governor Cuomo is right to stress the importance of teaching values—but he shouldn’t be so doubtful that it can be done.
MORAL LITERACY AND THE FORMATION OF CHARACTER

I agree with caution. I agree with care. I agree there are hard cases. I agree there is not a consensus on everything. But nevertheless this task can be done, and should be done. It has been done for most of American history. While a certain amount of caution and prudence is of course healthy—no one wants to impose a moral strait jacket on children—we do not want to invite them to a moral vacuum either. There is no reason for excessive timidity, and the kind of virtually paralyzing caution that responds to any reminder of the importance of schools’ role in the formation of character. If there is an increasingly broad consensus today as to the importance of this task—as there is—my message today is that it can be done, and that we should de-mystify this subject so we can get down to business.

What Is Moral Literacy?

The first mistake is to say that we cannot agree on “values.” Well, we cannot agree on everything. There are hard cases. But we can agree on the basic traits of character we want our children to have, and that we want our schools to develop. We can expect our schools both to help acquaint our children with certain character traits, and to develop them. And we can agree that there ought to be such a thing as moral literacy.

What do I mean by “moral literacy”? As Professor E. D. Hirsch of the University of Virginia has pointed out, being literate entails more than recognizing the forms and sounds of words. It is also a matter of building up a body of knowledge enabling us to make sense of the facts, names and allusions cited by an author. This background knowledge Hirsch calls cultural literacy. For example, someone who is unsure who Grant and Lee were may have a hard time understanding a paragraph about the Civil War, no matter how well he reads. Likewise, a reader who isn’t familiar with the Bill of Rights will not fully understand a sentence containing the words “First Amendment.” Understanding a subject, then, involves not just the possession of skills; it also depends on the amount of relevant prior knowledge a reader has, on his cultural literacy.

So it is with “moral literacy.” If we want our children to possess the traits of character we most admire, we need to teach them what those traits are. They must learn to identify the forms and content of those traits. They must achieve at least a minimal level of moral literacy that will enable them to make sense of what they will see in life and, we may hope, that will help them live it well.

So the question is: How does education form character and help students achieve moral literacy? It seems that some have forgotten the answer. In recent years, although we have not over-intellectualized the school curriculum, ironically some have tried to over-intellectualize moral development. Some educationists have turned to a whole range of mostly dubious “values education” theories and practices, wherein the goal is to guide children in developing “their own values” by discussion, dialogue, and simulation. In some places, educators have acted as though they should be neutral toward questions of right and wrong. I believe these views are mistaken.

For example, late last year the New York Times ran an article quoting New York area educators proclaiming that “they deliberately avoid trying to tell students what is ethnically right and wrong.” The article told of one counseling session involving 15 high school juniors and seniors.

In the course of that session the students concluded that a fellow student had been foolish to return $1,000 she found in a purse at the school. According to the article, when the students asked the counselor’s opinion, “He told them he believed the girl had done the right thing, but that, of course, he would not try to force his values on them. ‘If I come from the position of what is right and what is wrong,’ he explained, ‘then I’m not their counselor.’ ”

Now once upon a time, a counselor offered counsel, and he knew that an adult does not form character in the young by taking a stance of neutrality toward questions of right and wrong or by merely offering “choices” or “options.” Aristotle knew, for example, that it is habit which develops good character, habit shaped by both precept and example. “It makes no small difference,” Aristotle wrote, “whether we form habits of one kind or another from our very youth; it makes a very great difference, or rather all the difference.” Contemporary psychology tends to support this view strongly.

It is now the case, as it has always been the case, that it is by exposing our children to good character and inviting its imitation that we will help them develop good character for themselves. This means our schools must have what the ancient Greeks would have called an “ethos”—that is, our schools themselves must have good character. And for the purposes of our discussion today, such an ethos depends on two crucial conditions.

Articulating Convictions

First, teachers and principals must be willing to articulate ideals and convictions to students. As Oxford’s Mary Warnock has written, “you cannot teach morality without being committed to morality yourself; and you cannot be committed to morality without holding that some things are right and others wrong.”

This statement is so obvious that it is hard to believe we have overlooked it in some places, even rejected it in others. Perhaps we would do well to remember that the Greek word "character" means enduring marks, marks that can be formed in a person by an almost infinite number of influences. But as the theologian Martin Buber pointed out, the teacher is different from other influences in one important way, and it is definitely not in his neutrality. As Buber wrote, "the educator is distinct from [all other influences] by his will to take part in the stamping of character and by his consciousness that he represents in the eyes of the growing person a certain selection of what is, a selection of what is 'right,' of what should be." It is in this will, Buber says, in this clear standing for something, that the "vocation as an educator finds its fundamental expression."

Now, I am not talking about browbeating students into accepting points of view. That is simply hard indoctrination, which we all deplore. Nor am I talking about moralism. I am talking about ethical candor. To put students in the presence of a morally mature adult who speaks honestly and candidly to them is not to violate their rights. On the contrary, it is essential to students' moral growth. And it seems to me that this is why many teachers entered the profession in the first place—because they thought they could make a positive difference in the lives of students, in the development of their character, to make them better as men and women, as well as to help develop their skills.

The second condition for a proper ethos in the school is this: We must have teachers and principals who not only state the difference between right and wrong, but who make an effort to live that difference in front of students. In this business of character, there has never been anything as important as the quiet power of moral example.

Recently I visited a class at Waterbury Elementary School in Waterbury, Vermont. I asked the students, "Is this a good school?" They answered, "Yes, this a good school." I asked them, "Why is this a good school?" Among other things, these eight-year-olds said, "The principal, Mr. Riegel, makes good rules and everyone obeys them." So I said, "Give me an example." And they answered, "You can't climb on the pipes in the bathroom. We don't climb on the pipes and the principal doesn't either."

Now I recognize that this example is probably too simple to please a lot of people who want to make this topic difficult, but there is something profound in the answer of those children, something educators should pay more attention to. You can't expect children to take messages about rules or morality seriously unless you see adults taking those messages seriously in their day-to-day affairs. Certain things must be said and certain examples must be set—there is no other way.

The Question of Curriculum

In addition, when it comes to character and moral literacy in school, there is of course the question of curriculum. What materials, texts, and books should schools ask students to read? The research shows that most so-called "values education" exercises and separate courses in "moral reasoning" tend not to affect children's behavior; if anything, they may tend to leave children morally adrift. So what kind of materials should we be using instead?

The simple answer is: We don't have to reinvent the wheel. And we don't have to add new courses. We have a wealth of material to draw on—material that virtually all schools once taught to students for the sake of shaping character. And this is material that we can teach in our regular courses, in our English and history courses.

Let me return here to the idea of moral literacy. As I said earlier, the vast majority of Americans share a respect for certain fundamental traits of character. Because they are not born with this knowledge, children need to learn what these traits are. As I have said, children will learn them most profoundly by being in the presence of adults who exemplify them. But we can help the grasp and the appreciation of the desirability of these traits through the curriculum. That is, we can invite our students' to discern the moral of stories and the moral or morals of events and lives.

Let me mention just a few examples. There are thousands.

Do we want our children to know what honesty means? Then we might teach them about Abe Lincoln walking three miles to return six cents, and, conversely, about Aesop's shepherd boy who cried wolf.

Do we want our children to know what courage means? Then we might teach them about Joan of Arc, Horatius at the bridge, Harriet Tubman and the Underground Railroad.

Do we want them to know about kindness and compassion, and their opposites? Then they should read A Christmas Carol and The Diary of Anne Frank and, later on, King Lear.

Do we want them to know about loyalty to country? Then we should want them to know of Nathan Hale, and to know about the Battle of Britain and the pass at Thermopylae. They should know that men have served their country willingly, nobly. They should understand the contrary examples of men like Benedict Arnold and John Walker.

We want our children to know what faithfulness to family and friends means, and so they should know how Penelope and Telemachus and even an old dog waited twenty years for Odysseus to come home. We want them to know about respect for the law, so they should understand why Socrates said: "No, I must submit to the decree of Athens."

We want them to know about persistence in the face of adversity, and so they should know about Christopher Columbus and George Washington during the Revolution, and Lincoln during the Civil War. And our youngest should be told about the Little Engine that Could.

We want our children to recognize greed, and so they should know King Midas. We want them to recognize vanity, and so they should read "Ozymandias" and learn about Achilles. We want them to know about over-reaching ambition, and so they should read about Macbeth and Lady Macbeth.

We want our children to know that hard work pays off, so we should teach them about the Wright Brothers at Kitty Hawk and Booker T. Washington learning to read. We want them to see the dangers of an unreasoning conformity, so we should tell them about the Emperor's New Clothes and about Galileo. We want them to see that one individual's action can make all the difference, so we should tell them about one man's discovery of a vaccine against polio.

We want our children to respect the rights of others, and so they should read the Declaration of Independence, the Gettysburg Address, and "Letter from Birmingham Jail."

And there are some other stories we can include, too—stories from the Bible: Ruth's loyalty to Naomi, Joseph's forgiveness of his brothers, Jonathan's friendship with David, the Good Samaritan's kindness toward a stranger, Cain's treatment of his brother Abel, David's cleverness and courage in facing Goliath.

These are great stories, and we should be able to use them in teaching character to our children. Why? Because they teach moral values we all share. And they shouldn't be thrown out just because they are in the Bible. As Harvard psychiatrist Robert Coles recently asked, "Are students really better off with the theories of psychologists than with the hard thoughts of Jeremiah and Jesus?" Knowing these hard thoughts is surely part of moral literacy and it does not violate our Constitution.

These, then, are some of the familiar accounts of virtue and vice with which our children should be familiar. Do our children know these stories, these works? Unfortunately, in many places, they do not. They do not because in some places we are no longer teaching them. Why should we go to the trouble of picking up the task again? Well, for several reasons.

Teaching Our Culture

First, because these stories and others like them are interesting to children. Of course the pedagogy will need to be varied for different students with different abilities, but you can't beat these stories when it comes to engaging the attention of a child. For getting children's attention, nothing in recent years, on TV or anywhere else, has improved on a good story that begins: "Once upon a time."

Second, we should be teaching these stories because, unlike courses in "moral reasoning," they give children some specific, common reference points. Our literature (Continued on page 94)

SARAH WINSTON HENRY

At Nine I retir’d to my Devotions, And then Slept so Sound that Fancy itself was Stupify’d, else I shou’d have dreamt of my most obliging Landlady. The next day being Sunday, the courteous Widow invited me to rest myself there that good day, and go to Church with Her, but I excus’d myself by telling her she wou’d certainly spoil my Devotion. Then she civilly entreated me to make her House my Home whenever I visited my Plantations, which made me bow low, and thank her very kindly.9

Sometime later, between January, 1733 and September, 1734, Sarah Winston Syme was wedded to John Henry, who was probably a kinsman of Colonel Syme. In 1727, John Henry from Aberdeenshire, Scotland had joined the Syme household to assist in the supervision of the estate and in the direction of plantation affairs. Colonel Henry had received a classical education at King’s College which had stressed both moral and intellectual discipline. As a member of the Church of England, he also was well versed in the King James Version of the Bible which was one of the greatest literary achievements of the time. Thus, he was a highly desirable suitor for the Widow Syme’s hand.

The Henry family continued to live at Studley Farm where all of their children were born. The first child was a son, William, named for Sarah’s favorite brother. The second child, too, was a boy christened Patrick in honor of his father’s older brother, the Reverend Patrick Henry, who also had migrated from Scotland to Virginia. A succession of daughters then followed—Jane, Sarah, Susannah, Mary, Anne, Elizabeth and Lucy—nine children in total.8

John Henry continued to acquire land as well as to become a respected community figure. He served as a chief justice of the Hanover County Court, county surveyor, vestryman of the Church of England, and a colonel of the militia. In addition to gaining power and respect socially and politically, he joined with his wife to provide an atmosphere of classic culture as well as the benefits of a Christian home.

Sarah Henry was described by her friends and family in many ways. Foremost, she was pictured as a woman of marked abilities and social charm. She was considered by her contemporaries to be both attractive and of pleasant disposition. There appears to be abundant testimony to the fact that Sarah possessed characteristics which set her far above most of her countrywomen. Of her, also, it was said that she was of a mild and kindly temperament, undeviatingly honest, had the flavor for easy elocution, united firmness and gentleness in the management of her family, and enjoyed notable intellectual gifts. She was, it was said, a captivating woman who often displayed an aptitude for drama. What is probably the most conventional summary of her life reveals that she “was charming, musical and gay. She had a gentle nature and a soft way of speaking, but she could be as firm as a rock.”9

It was noted often by contemporaries that Patrick Henry resembled his mother in disposition and was influenced greatly by her. One of the ways by which she guided his learning related to his religious education. Reverend Patrick Henry, young Patrick’s namesake, godfather, and uncle, was the rector of St. Paul’s Church of England. The Henrys also professed to be members of the Anglican faith. Sarah Henry, however, would often ignore the sedate and formal services of her brother-in-law and take Patrick to hear the powerful and stimulating sermons delivered by the youthful and inspiring preacher, the Reverend Samuel Davies.10 On Sundays, she would drive to the Fork Church of Davies “… riding in a double gig, taking with her young Patrick, who, from the first, showed a high appreciation of the preacher. Returning from church, she would make him give the text and a recapitulation of the discourse.” As a relative remarked, “she could have done her son no greater service.”11

For more than 20 years, the Henrys lived in the substantial house on Studley Farm, which consisted of several hundred acres. Tobacco was planted on the land and it was cultivated by a small number of slaves. Sarah Henry had been holding this estate in trust for her son by her first marriage, John Syme, Jr. When he became of age, the Henrys turned over the inheritance, and they moved westward in Hanover County. John Henry had bought several hundred acres on the Santa Anna River and named the small plantation “Mount Brilliant,” which was called later “The Retreat.” It was here that the Henrys watched their family grow into adulthood and become a source of pride.

Following the death of Colonel Henry in 1773, the Mount Brilliant house and land were sold. Sarah, widowed a second time in her 63 years, went to live in Amherst County with her oldest daughter, Jane. Jane was married to Samuel Meredith, Patrick’s childhood friend, who was an ardent patriot. Mother Henry continued to be a calm and courageous influence in the lives of her children for 11 more years, remaining the charming person who had so enchanted Colonel Byrd as a young widow.

Sarah Winston Henry died in November or December of 1784 having seen successful the War of Independence in which her son had played so prominent a part.12 Informing Patrick, who recently had been elected governor of Virginia and was in the capital city of Richmond, of his mother’s demise, Samuel Meredith wrote:

Her illness was constant for the last six or seven months of her life, her greatest complaint was a most invertebrate cough, which occasioned her great uneasiness in her breast. She sought and wished for ease, but it never appeared to me that she was desirous that a single moment might be added to the time appointed for her. But none who was acquainted with her life and conversation need wonder at her great resignation to whatever might be Divine will. She has been in my family upwards of eleven years, and from the beginning to the end of that time, it most evidently appeared to me that it was continued scene of piety and devotion, guided by such a great share of good sense as rendered her amiable and agreeable to all who were so happy as to be acquainted with her. Never did I know a Christian character equal to hers. Oh, that her example may ever be imitated by me and my family, to whom she was always a monitor and true guide, both as to spiritual and temporal happiness. Her removal to the world of spirits ought by no means to occasion grief to her near and dear connections, as they certainly must rest assured, that she is not only received into the Heavenly mansions, but very highly exalted there. . . . What an honor it is to all those that claim their descent from such a person. May they all be enabled to follow her blessed example.13

Upon learning of her death, the

WITH THE CHAPTERS

BATTLE CREEK (Michigan) joined with many organizations from Michigan and surrounding states in providing an "Avenue of Flags," expanding the beauty of Fort Custer National Cemetery beyond that which Federal funding is permitted. The Chapter's 25-foot bronze flag pole stood with the 199 others, proudly flying the Stars and Stripes at their dedication on Memorial Day. The flags and poles stand as a perpetual memorial to all the patriotic men and women who answered their Country's call to service.

A National Cemetery at Fort Custer, Battle Creek, Michigan became a reality September 23, 1984 following 30 years of tireless effort on the part of Michigan Veterans organizations. The cemetery is dedicated "to the memory of all veterans, so that their inspiring contribution will help preserve in the hearts and lives of all Americans, the spirit of patriotism, the love of Country, and the willingness to serve and sacrifice for the common good."

American flags are presented to the National Cemetery to honor individual veterans and are flown in their memory. At present more than 252 flags have been donated. Plaques in the Administration Building list the flag pole contributors and the names of the veterans in whose name flags have been given. As new flags are given, the honoree's name is added so that all may see the names and remember the sacrifices these veterans have made.

FREDERICK (Frederick, MD), held its annual spring luncheon at the Dan Dee Country Inn. The speaker for the luncheon was Mr. Wade G. Williams, President of Maryland Regents of DAR. There were 18 members present. Mrs. Charles Remsberg held a memorial service for three of the chapter's deceased members. They were Mrs. Jane Brown Levy, Mrs. Dorothy Sharpe Hart and Mrs. Elizabeth Fogle Hill.

We honored the winners of History Essay contests and DAR Good Citizens by giving certificates and pins at programs with their parents as guests.

For our National Defense program, Ret. Col. Guy Winstead, Jr., of the United States Air Force (recent Commander of the Leadership Management Division Center, Maxwell Air Force Base, AL) pointed out the great need for more planes and modern missiles. Liberty Love Day was observed and a contribution made.

RICHARD DOBBS SPAIGHT (New Bern, NC) and the duel that resulted in his death, was the subject of the address given by Miss Gertrude...
CAPTAIN WILLIAM HILTON (Hilton Head Island, SC) marked its first grave—that of Charles Davant, 1750-1781—and it was a very special milestone (Hilton Head Island, SC) cooperation during the past century’s Officers and members, for recognition for 100 percent Participation Roll, Silver Award, and a Certificate for Distinguished Women of North Carolina. At 27 years of age, he was the second youngest signer of the U.S. Constitution. He served three 1-year terms as governor of North Carolina and was governor when the capital was moved from New Bern to Raleigh in 1794.

In 1802, Spaight was challenged to a duel by John Stanly, over political differences and insults. Spaight was mortally wounded, and Stanly left New Bern, but was later pardoned. North Carolina passed a law against dueling after Spaight’s death.

Miss Carraway was presented by Mrs. S. M. George, Chapter Recording Secretary, who told briefly some of Miss Carraway’s many accomplishments and honors: awarded three Honorary Degrees by Universities, and was Craven County’s “Distinguished Woman of the Year” in 1985. Dr. Carraway was recognized by Governor James Martin in March 1986 as one of five “Distinguished Women of North Carolina.”

Attorney Thomas M. Ward, Chairman of the Richard Dobbs Spaight Commemorative Committee, spoke on the Committee’s efforts to get US 70 East By-Pass named for Spaight.

Mrs. Andrew Baars, Chapter Treasurer, attended the 95th Continental Congress, Washington, DC, and reported on the proceedings.

The Regent, Mrs. Allan Seals, announced that at the Congress, the chapter received a Citation for “O” accomplishments in attaining the Honor Roll, Silver Award, and a Certificate for 100 percent Participation in the Independence Jubilee Project.

Mrs. Seals stated that the awards are tributes to the Chapter’s Officers and members, for their support, dedication and cooperation during the past year.—Ruth H. George.

Mrs. Dixon gave the assembled group of both DAR and SAR members and their spouses a statement declaring the purpose of our chapter in marking a Revolutionary War soldier’s grave and Mrs. Walter F. Cornell, Historian, then gave a brief history of Charles Davant.

Charles was born on Hilton Head Island in 1750. He married a young widow, Elizabeth Fendel Bland, and moved into her plantation, “Two Oaks,” near the site of the present grave.

During the Revolution he was a member of the local militia who were active in many skirmishes with the Tories from neighboring Daufuskie Island. It was on a routine patrol near his plantation that Charles was ambushed by Captain Martinangel and a company of Tory soldiers and killed.

Captain John Liecraft then led a group of Hilton Head Island men known as the “Bloody Legion,” to Daufuskie, to avenge Charles Davant’s death by shooting and killing Captain Martinangel.

Charles Devant was recognized by history in this area as a hero who served his country and gave his life for its freedom.

Charles and Elizabeth had three children: Charles, Jr., born in 1777; Margaret, in 1780, and Anne, born four months after her father’s death. The family later moved inland to Gillesville, where prominent members lived and made South Carolina history for years to come. There are two remaining fifth and sixth generation descendants, Dr. Charles Davant, and Dr. Charles Davant, Jr., now living in North Carolina.

Our area of coastal South Carolina is rich in Revolutionary War history and we look forward to marking other graves, but this first one was most significant to us.

RACHEL CALDWELL (Greensboro, NC) recently entertained her husbands and guests at a unique celebration honoring the 261st birthday of David Caldwell, noted Revolutionary War patriot, statesman, doctor, educator, and preacher, at Greensboro Historical Museum. At the same time, they honored their husbands and witnessed the presentation of a prestigious National DAR Medal of Honor to Carl O. Jeffress, Greensboro, shown in the accompanying picture.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Moir Ayers, dressed in colonial costume, and introduced to the receiving line composed of Mrs. Carl O. Jeffress, Chapter Regent, Mrs. Joseph K. Showfety, State Regent, Mrs. Leon Robertson, State Chairman of Americanism and DAR Manual for Citizenship, and Mrs. William Cray, State Corresponding Secretary, Taped fife and drum music of the Revolutionary War period was played as members of these chapters, including Mrs. Donald C. Huber, State Chairman of the Americanism and DAR Manual for Citizenship Committee, greeted new citizens with American Flags and welcome cards. In addition, each new citizen proudly displayed, as a gift from the New Jersey Society, a button stating “I'M AN AMERICAN.”

BELLEVILLE (Belleville, IL). The blue and white colors of the large birthday cake at the beautiful site called “The Whiteside Plantation” celebrated 70 years as a DAR Chapter. The blue and white ribbons and the small red, white and blue flags heralded the beginning of the 71st year. The Whiteside Plantation (so-called) because it is enveloped by large trees that have been there since the first cabin of the Whiteside Family made its appearance. The Whiteside Sisters were charter members of the Belleville Chapter.

The property was acquired by Mr. Paul Reis, Belleville florist, who very graciously allows the DAR Chapters to use this site on special occasions. The Chapter Regent, Mrs. Oscar W...
Loeschner, welcomed guests and members. Special honored guests were Mrs. William Ford, Illinois Division V1 Director, and Past Regents of the Chapter: Mrs. Ollie H. Cross (Regent-1947-1949); Mrs. Edwin R. Ailes (Regent-1963-1965 and 1969-1971); Mrs. William Howard Davis (Regent-1965-1969); Mrs. Norman Rieso (Regent-1971-1973); Mrs. Donald Worley (Regent-1975-1977); Mrs. Warren Burns (Regent-1977-1979); Mrs. Raymond Lachmiller (Regent-1979-1981); and Mrs. John Gideon (Regent-1981-1983). Prospective members and other guests were also welcomed.

A clubhouse and a lake with beautiful flowers and shrubs are contributing factors to the beauty of Whiteside’s. The Whiteside home is maintained in the style of the early years of St. Clair County and is a step backward in time for all who visit it. This day celebrated the Belleville Chapter’s organization on August 1, 1916 with Mrs. Wm. Trautmann as Organizing Regent. Mrs. Ollie Cross, the oldest Past Regent, was presented with the floral centerpiece as a tribute to her long years as a faithful DAR member.

JACKSON-MADISON (Jackson, TN) under the regency of Mrs. John (Nell) Nucholls achieved the Gold Honor Roll for 1984, 1985 and 1986 with a state certificate of Excellence for 1986. She was elected Honorary Regent of the chapter.

A State Award for Treaty of Paris Program and Publicity Award for Constitution Week Publicity and a National Award for the chapter with the largest number of members in the state were also won; also a first place for greatest percentage of net increase by application for 100 plus members. Eight DAR Good Citizen Awards and five DAR American History Certificates were presented to students.

We were awarded first place in the state for the best program on American Indians; first place for having most new members in the state and first place for having the most new Junior members. Four DAR good citizen Awards and three American History certificates were presented to students. Our chapter received the blue ribbon for the 1983-86 Yearbook and the red-white and blue ribbon for the 1985-86 supplement. A donation to Museum was made in honor of the Docent who presented the Museum Room Slides.

In 1986 we sponsored Mr. William Adams, who received the Award for the outstanding History Teacher of the year; he was honored at the State Conference. We received a certificate for one hundred percent participation in the Independence Jubilee Project. At the State Conference we received an Award of Congratulations for Essay Contest participation.

The Chapter honored Miss Golda Allen on her 100th birthday. Her National DAR is Number 0073126 having joined the chapter in 1909.

One member, Mrs. Robert Hall, is State Chairman of the DAR Good Citizen Committee and another member, Mrs. John N. McCutcheon, is a National Vice Chairman of the DAR Good Citizen Committee, and State Librarian.

NORTH RIDING (Port Washington, NY). At a recent reception of the Cow Neck Peninsula Historical Society, celebrating the inclusion of the Sands-Willetts House on the National Register of Historic Homes, Mrs. John Dale, Regent of North Riding Chapter, presented the Statue of Liberty Flag to be flown beneath the Flag of America to the Derby Recreation Commission at the dedication of the new Recreation Center. This flag is flown every day.

Mrs. John R. Lee serves as our representative to the Derby Community Education meetings.

We have presented the DAR Patriot Index to the Derby Public Library for their genealogy department and plan to keep these current. Some of our members helped organize the Mulvane Historical Society and still take an active part in its activities.

We support our local Veterans Administration Hospital with gifts and service. Chapter Regent, Mrs. Richard D. Stanbird, serves as Deputy Representative of the DAR to the VAVS Advisory Committee at the VA Medical Center in Wichita.

This year when our new yearbooks were printed we were able to add 11 new names to our roster.

Our chapter is represented at District Meetings, State Conference and Continental Congress. Little Osage Trail takes pride in promoting DAR in our Community.

NANCY HORTON DAVIS (Dallas, TX) has joined in celebrating the Texas Sesquicentennial during 1986. For the May meeting members came dressed in costumes representing the “Six Flags Over Texas.” These costumes included cow girls, pioneer women and Mexican dresses.

The first meeting of the fall was a program “Salute To Texas” presented by William Miller III and a Texas birthday cake honoring its 175 years was enjoyed. The other programs of particular historic interest presented this year were “Antique Spoons” and “Old Lace.”—Carol Evans.

JAMES MADISON (Hamilton, NY) celebrated its eighty-fifth anniversary with a luncheon held at Nardi’s Restaurant, Hamilton.

Mrs. Ruth Nelson, Regent, presided at the guest meeting and cut the decorated cake following the program.

James Madison Chapter was troic feelings were running strong, as some men had already enlisted for the War between the States, and it was the feeling of the townspeople that a flag should be displayed. Earlier efforts to procure a flag in Chicago failed, as there were none to be found, so women in the community labored through the night of July 3, 1861, to sew their own flag for that village's Fourth of July parade the year the Civil War began.

Natural curiosity and a sense of history led Wandschneider to wonder if the flag was still in existence 125 years after its hurried construction by kerosene lantern.

Recalling a glass showcase of Civil War memorabilia which she had seen in the old Downers Grove Public Library before it was torn down in the early 1970s, Wandschneider began her search. Her trail led to the American Legion Hall in Downers Grove, and there, carefully laid in regulation military folds, was a hand-stitched American flag with 34 stars.

Wandschneider and Al Sheber, past commander of the Downers Grove American Legion, lifted the flag and under it found a typed page identifying the flag as the "Cass" flag. The flag had lain in the barn of Elisha Smart of Cass and after his death it was given to Heartt, a member of Company B, the Thirty-third regiment of the Illinois Volunteer Army, until it was placed in the library's war relics. A moment in history had been found and preserved.—Hel en Davies.

(London, England) having come can women's groups who will be

PERRIN-WHEATON (Wheaton, IL) gathered in the Wheaton Cemetery to honor the memory of Zoe Proemmel by placing a DAR marker on her grave. Zoe was a past Regent of Perrin-Wheaton Chapter and a much loved leader.

Taking part in the ceremony were Regent, Kathy Jones (Mrs. Don) family members Kim Proemmel (grandson) and Eloise O'Rourke (daughter) (Mrs. Gerald) and Historian, Mary Jane Barbas (Mrs. Steven).—Lois Kooser.

COL. GILBERT POTTER
(Amityville, NY) participated in the annual Fourth of July parade held in Amityville. Their float depicting the "Midnight Ride of Paul Revere" won the trophy for most original float. Pictured are: (l-r) Mrs. H. Donald Dewar, Regent; Mrs. Thomas A. Giordano, Vice Regent and creator of the 8' horse; Miss Melanie L. McQueen, charter member and Treasurer of the Zebulon Ketcham Society, C.A.R., who is holding the trophy. Also on the float was a replica of the Old North Church constructed by Mrs. Giordano complete with a bell in the steeple and four stained-glass windows.

Members of the chapter made a pilgrimage to the historic "Flushing's Freedom Mile" which included conducted tours of Bowne House, Kingsland House, and the Quaker Meeting House, all listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

A highlight of our year's activities was the sponsorship of the Zebulon Ketcham Society of the National Society of the Children of the American Revolution which culminated in an organizing ceremony held in August in the chapel of a local church. We were honored to have Mrs. Robert French, New York State Senior President, C.A.R., install the officers of the newly-formed society which consists of 18 members. Mrs. Dewar, Regent, presented a Certificate of Award to Mrs. Eugene Nifenecker in appreciation of her efforts as Organizing President. Following the ceremony, members of the sponsoring chapter hosted a reception honoring the children, their parents, and their friends.—Ruth Wolff.

PITHLOCHASKOTEE (New Port Richey, FL) created an American History exhibit in honor of Constitution Week which was on display in the museum room of the Pasco-Her- nando college from September 9th to September 26th. Mrs. Jean Smith was appointed chairman of Constitution Week by Mrs. Gloria Nixon, Chapter Regent, and she was assisted by Mrs. Lydia Pellegrino, Mrs. Lor ena Abbey, Mrs. Julia Wavrek, Mrs. Margaret Toscano and many officers and members who contributed much time and historical items. The Calusa Society of the Children of the American Revolution, sponsored by the Pithlochaskottee Chapter, and the West Pasco Historical Society also participated in this magnificent exhibit.

The public was invited to visit and to listen to guest speakers, Dr. James Hollingsworth, former dean of Pasco-Hernando college, whose subject was the Constitution, Mrs. Lorena Abbey, DAR State Credential Committee member spoke on "Tracing Your Family Roots," Mrs. Virginia Hopkins, Chaplain, talked about this DAR museum in Washington, Mrs. Louise Meichner, Registrar, and Mrs. Norma Nelson showed films and spoke on the American Indians in Florida.

Among the priceless artifacts on display in the exhibit were Madame Alexander's dolls of the first twelve president's wives, a historical coin collection, historical plates, flags of the thirteen original states, state seals of the thirteen original states, statute of liberty memorabilia, old stamps, etc. Our chapter received Proclamations for Constitution Week from the mayors of New Port Richey, Port Richey, Dade City and the Pasco County Commissioners.—Jane E. Foth.

ADMIRAL DAVID FARRAGUT (Knoxville, TN) began its year in a meaningful manner. Regent, Mrs. Donald Ward, lead us in a Ritual Dedicated to a Mark er Honoring a Patriot. The grave was that of John Doyle, 1748- 1837, Private, Maryland, ancestor of Mrs. Dale Hilton. His grave site is located on the original land grant, a portion of which the Doyle descendants donated to the City for a public park.

This is not the first marker to be dedicated by the Chapter. The grave of Patriot William Hanaord, ancestor of members Gladys and Nattie Ledgerwood and Alice Inklebarger, was marked. The chapter also dediorganized in Hamilton, New York on December 9, 1900 by a group of women from the local area only ten years after the National Society had been founded in 1890.

CHATTANOOGA AREA REGENTS' COUNCIL (TN) recently dedicated two park benches in Old Brainerd Mission Cemetery. One of the benches honors Mrs. Shelley Stack, cemetery treasurer since 1964; and the other bench honors Mrs. Dan Carmack Gary, outgoing State Regent of the Tennessee Society, and now Vice President General. Under Mrs. Gary's administration the cemetery was designated as one of five historic sites of the Tennessee Society.

The DAR and the Sons of the American Revolution (SAR) own and maintain the cemetery property, which is the burial site of Cherokee Indians, as well as missionaries to them. The cemetery is the only remnant of the Brainerd Mission established in 1817 to "educate and Christianize the Cherokees." The mission thrived until the forced removal of the Indians through the infamous "Trail of Tears" in 1838.

At the dedication ceremony Mrs. David Robb, Chaplain of Moccasin Bend Chapter, gave the invocation; Mrs. James O. B. Wright, Chairman of the Regents' Council, gave the welcome; Dr. Spires Whitaker, President of the SAR Chapter, gave a short history of the cemetery; and the ceremony closed with the raising of the American flag.

Shown behind one of the benches (which has inscription sandblasted on the top) are Mrs. Bill Litton, Chief John Ross Chapter Regent; Mrs. Stewart Parker, Nancy Ward Chapter Vice Regent; Mrs. Stack, honor-ee; Mrs. Gary, honoree; Mrs. George R. Hanks, Cherokee District Director; Mrs. James O. B. Wright, Judge David Campbell Chapter Regent; and Mrs. Ernest Berger, Moccasin Bend Chapter Regent. Also participating was Mrs. Robert M. Gregg, Chickamauga Chapter Regent.

This display included a scrapbook compiled by students in the local schools, materials for distribution, and a poem written by Argie Moore.

During Constitution Week two exhibit cases in the lobby of the First Bank Ceredo had materials pertaining to the Constitution. Copies of the Constitution were available for people to take. Also, the marquee of the bank announced that September 17-23 was Constitution Week. These displays were arranged by the Westmoreland Chapter.

In addition to these activities, four Mayors were contacted and asked to issue proclamations designating September 17-23 as Constitution Week. Also, two ministers were asked to remind their congregations about Constitution Week.

GREAT BRIDGE (Norfolk, VA). Freedoms Foundation At Valley Forge, PA recognized Great Bridge Chapter with the Honor Award in Community Programs for its annual Flag Day Observance at MacArthur Square. This national award salutes our eighteenth Flag Day ceremony.

The DAR Medal of Honor was presented to Korean-born Reverend M. J. Kim at a naturalization service for 103 new citizens. The federal judge even allowed us to tape-record and film the ceremony.

At the state conference lunch-on honoring 50-year members, three of our members were warmly greeted by the President General. They received handsome Constitution calendars.

Great Bridge Chapter became a life member of both the DAR Museum and the DAR Library and contributed $352 for the restoration of Norfolk County Marriage Book 1820-1824.

Members enjoyed a ferry ride to Portsmouth, hosted the area regents club, updated its history, and earned a division first place in publicity. One member achieved a national first place award in American Heritage Crafts.

PRUDENCE WRIGHT (Pepperell, MA). For our opening Constitutional observational meeting we invited Henry Frederick, known locally as "the flag man," to speak on his hobby. He has designed individual flags for the marching units of many patriotic units. He copyrights his designs which include one for the Bicentennial of the Constitution. It has an eagle on a shielded holding stalks of wheat and a star for each century against a red ground, besides lettering on white. As a history buff, beginning with his purchase, at an antique shop, of an American Centennial flag—which he showed us—he has collected much Americana. He presented the chapter with a desk set including American, Massachusetts, and a Bicentennial flag. Several of us purchased the replica on an auto license tag for our cars.

We rented the "Shay's Rebellion" film for showing at our regional high school. Massachusetts farmers, having fought the British for oppressive taxation, were distressed that the new government seemed to be demanding the same. Local Revolutionary heroes, especially Job Shattuck, became leaders in this uprising. Their grievances pointed out weaknesses in the embryonic constitution.—Catherine Wilson.

DOWNERS GROVE (Downers Grove, IL). Pauline Wandschneider, a past Regent and now curator of the Downers Grove Museum, received a box of old documents from the estate of Florence and Helen Clifford, two aged sisters who had lived in Downers Grove and were charter members of the chapter in 1910. They had died in a nursing home in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and their niece had given the museum a box of more than 50 items from the early days.

Upon going through this treasure trove, Wandschneider came across a page of text about the "Cass" flag. The papers told how area resident George Heerdt had ridden the long miles to Chicago and back carrying materials for the flag for the community of Cass, which in now Darien, southeast of Downers Grove. Pacated the marker placed by the Tennessee Historical Commission at the birthplace of Admiral David Farragut in 1981.

The chapter looks back at its thirty-seven years by honoring four longtime members. Two charter members are Mrs. Helmar Martinson and Mrs. Harold Amick. Mrs. Martinson joined in 1949 and is the remaining funding charter member, and served as Regent 1965-67. Mrs. Amick was Regent 1952-1956 and 1959-1962. The Chapter mourns Mrs. Robert Campbell, a member since 1931. In October, the Chapter joyfully celebrated the 61st membership anniversary of Mrs. William Garvey. She transferred into the chapter and has served as Vice Regent 1952-1953. All these dedicated ladies have served their Chapter in varied capacities too numerous to mention.

With this wonderful beginning, we look forward to our year serving our society.—Deborah Ward Ackerly.

SANTA CRUZ (California) celebrated its seventieth anniversary at a luncheon. Mrs. Frances E. Blod, Regent, presided over the celebration. Our theme was "Seventy Years of Memories." Greetings from our State Regent, Mrs. Jerry Jon Strayer were read.

We then honored eleven living past Regents, our eight charter members, our seventy-year member, Mrs. Marian Shenk, and all members with twenty-five years of membership or more. The program was introduced by Mrs. Byron Moore, chairperson of the anniversary committee, who in turn introduced our Historian, Mrs. B. J. Larkin. She told of the very early years of our chapter. Mrs. J. E. Peterson and Mrs. Edgar Hanel told of their memories of the fifties and sixties. Greetings were read from Hulda McLean by Mrs. Wm. Carey, who told of Hulda's mother, Mrs. Mildred Hoover, a past California State Regent. A letter was read by Mrs. Leonard Hegland from Mrs. Marian Shenk who told of her many years in our chapter and of her experiences as a State Officer.

Scrapbooks, pressbooks, photographs from as far back as 1919 were displayed with clippings of past and present accomplishments. Articles included past awards to DAR Good Citizen and the one hundred dollar Laura Greenfield Scholarship given to a deserving High School senior. The scholarship was named and begun by our Past Regent, Mrs. George Greenfield.

The tables were decorated with memorabilia from the hostess committee, Mrs. Homer Davis, Mrs. Dorothy Barber, Mrs. Joseph Cagnier and Mrs. Ivan Huggins. An surprise ending to the program was the presentation of the newly framed copy of our original charter to the chapter by Mrs. Larkin. An enthusiastic ovation was given to Mrs. Larkin for her many hours of work on this 70th Anniversary Party.

JEREMIAH PURDY (Sturgeon Bay, WI). The organizational meeting of the newly formed Jeremiah Purdy Chapter of the Wisconsin Society was held at Sturgeon Bay.

Following luncheon, Mrs. Ivan Martin Niedling, State Regent, greeted members and guests and installed the chapter officers.

Mrs. Donald Wiggins, Organizing Regent, gave the history of the chapter name. Jeremiah Purdy enlisted in the Revolutionary War at age 14. Since he was too young to enter the war he served as an orderly to General George Washington and remained with him until he was old enough for regular enlistment. General Washington taught Jeremiah his studies. On August 1, 1777 he enlisted at Newburg, New York. Mrs. Wiggins is a direct descendant of Jeremiah Purdy.

ROBERT MORRIS AND DELAWARE COUNTY (Pennsylvania) have joined in co-sponsoring the John Morton Society, Children of the American Revolution, which during its first year won four state and two national awards: State—most new members, most new members between birth and age 12, treasurer's contest for dues paid, and number of state patriots; National—for annual report, and most financial aid to C.A.R. Museum (through generosity of Marguerite L. Plounders).

In addition to meetings on American Indians when members dressed as Indians, and reading and cooking "What George Washington Ate for Breakfast," the Society helped the DAR chapters decorate the graves of Declaration of Independence signer John Morton in Chester, PA.

Among future meetings are visits to state and national shrines of Revolutionary days, which abound in the Philadelphia-Delaware County area, and participating in the annual Flag Day observance in Yeadon, PA with the son and grandchildren of the late William T. Kerr of that town.

RANGER (Portsmouth, NH) has something unique and news-worthy. Our uniqueness is derived largely from having three State Legislators, three State officers, one State Chairman, an Honorary State Regent, an Honorary Vice President General and an Associate member who is both a past National Officer and a present one.

What is most amazing, all of these women come to our meetings on quite a regular basis, accepting offices, committee chairmanships, and speaking engagements whenever asked. They abide by our rules and offer suggestions only when asked. None of them try to overawe us because they have held more responsible positions than the rest of us and, therefore, have all become just one of the girls.

Of course, we have a nucleus of officers, past officers and other members of whom we are justly proud, as well.

These members are: State Rep. Ednaparel F. Parr—Chair Regent twice, State Regent, Numerous State Committees, Vice President General, Chapter Chairmanships, Honorary Vice President General. State Rep. Roberta Pevear—Chair Vice Regent, Regent, State Chairman of Transportation, Chapter Historian; State Sen. Ruth Griffin—City Police Commission, Chapter Chairman, Centennial Committee State Parliamentarian; Mrs. Shirley Hodgdon—Chair Regent, State Librarian, Chair Chaplain; Miss Phyllis Hodgdon—Chair Regent, Chapter Registrar, Past State Registrar; Assoc. Mem. Mrs. Forrest F. Lange—Curator General, Secretary Protocol Committee of the National Society, and other Chapter and State Offices.

Two chapter projects this year, were ceremonies honoring William Whipple, Portsmouth's signer of the Declaration of Independence and of John Langdon, signer of the Constitution.
SWATARA PINE FORD (Middletown, PA). Five regular meetings, two luncheons and one dinner meeting featured programs excellent in quality, diversified in content and included historical, educational and patriotic themes. The highlight of the year's programs focused on the display of the Dauphin County Bicentennial Quilt. Middletown, which was founded in 1755, is the oldest town in Dauphin County.

Chapter members attended a Constitution Day Luncheon, hosted by Donegal and Witness Tree Chapters at the Hamilton Club, Lancaster, PA. The chapter presented one Good Citizen Award to a 1986 graduate of Middletown Area High School, and five Good Citizenship Awards to local middle school students. Middletown Public Library was given DAR Patriot Index, Volume II and the 1982 Supplement to the same, in memory of the Chapter's deceased members.

For Memorial Day, flags were placed on the graves of Middletown's Revolutionary War Soldiers and flowers and flags were placed at the monument honoring the one hundred and fifty-four Middletown Revolutionary Soldiers.

The Chapter's sixty-sixth birthday was celebrated by chapter members and guests at a Dinner-Theater Program sponsored by the Chapter Choir of Middletown's Wesley United Methodist Church. The Chapter Year ended with a Flag Day Program and covered dish luncheon.

PINE MOUNTAIN (Whitesburg, KY) Clara Shaw was one of ten Letcher County residents installed in the Mountain Heritage Festival Hall of Fame at ceremonies at Jenkins, Kentucky. She had been a teacher at Carlisle, Kentucky before coming to Jenkins as an employee of the Consolidated Coal Company in 1937.

In 1945 she helped organize the Jenkins Public Library. In 1962, while Chairman of the Library Board, she sent a copy of "The Flag Code." For Memorial Day, flags were placed on the graves of Middletown's Revolutionary War Soldiers and flowers and flags were placed at the monument honoring the one hundred and fifty-four Middletown Revolutionary Soldiers.

Eight members of the Book of the Month Club came to Jenkins for the presentation and celebration. These members invited her to speak to the American Library Association in New York.

In 1976 Clara Shaw was the Organizing Regent of the Pine Mountain Chapter in Whitesburg where she served as Regent for four years. She then became the Chapter Registrar. The chapter has grown from the twelve charter members to ninety members under her leadership.

OKLAHOMA CITY (Oklahoma) was proud to participate in the Naturalization Proceedings in the Western District Court of Oklahoma. This was the largest number of persons ever naturalized in Oklahoma at a single hearing. Two hundred and fifty-two persons from fifty countries took the Oath of Allegiance. The Oklahoma City Chapter Chairman of Americanism and DAR Manual for Citizenship, Mrs. Gordon F. Slover (in the center of picture), and the Regent, Mrs. Ernest L. Ansley (on left in picture), presented each new citizen with a flag and a copy of "The Flag Code."

This is the sixty-third consecutive year that this chapter has had the privilege of congratulating each new citizen with a flag of their new country. Several of the participants thanked the Chairman and the Regent for the use of the "DAR Manual for Citizenship."

The next day, the Oklahoma City Chapter joined with the other DAR chapters in the area in the Fourth of July Parade. Those two days will be remembered with special days of new commitment to our country.—Joy Alexander Ansley.

MARINETTE, (Wisconsin). The organization meeting of the Marinette Chapter of the Wisconsin Society was held at the Lauerman Guest House Inn, Marinette. A luncheon preceded the installation of officers.

Mrs. Ivan Martin Niedling, Wisconsin State Regent, installed the newly elected officers and welcomed members and guests.

Mrs. Kenneth W. Tiefert, Organizing Regent, presented a brief history of the Chapter name "Marinette" and stated that both the city and county are named for a legendary woman who came to be called Queen Marinette. She was the granddaughter of a Chippewa Indian chief named Wabashish on her maternal side and the paternal granddaughter of a French fur trader and native of Montreal named Chevalier. In the earliest days the settlement at the mouth of the Menominee River was called the Menominee River Settlement. In an effort to shorten this name it was called Marinette's, then Marinette's and finally Marinette.

Marinette was respected by both the Indians and old settlers for her good works and had always been ready to assist the needy and comfort the distressed. The Honorable E. S. Ingalls, first Judge on the Menominee River, and the Honorable Isaac Stephenson, northeastern Wisconsin-Upper Michigan's most prominent citizen, pioneer entrepreneur and United States Senator, both knew Marinette personally and had great respect for her admirable qualities.

The new chapter has already started to organize a Children of the American Revolution Society. Mrs. Richard W. Jones has been appointed as the Organizing President.

FERRO MONTE (Ledgewood, NJ) was pleased to present the Americanism Medal to Alma Ball of Oak Ridge, New Jersey. The Americanism Medal is awarded by the NSDAR to naturalized citizens who demonstrate qualities of leadership, service and patriotism. Mrs. Joseph Riggs of Oak Ridge initiated Mrs. Ball's application and made the presentation on September 20th during the regular chapter meeting at the Roxbury Twp. Library in Succasunna.

Mrs. Ball, a native of Edgeworth, England, met her American husband during World War II and she returned with him to the United States at the end of the war. In 1957 she became a citizen. Active in community affairs, she was an organizing officer of Milton Recreation in Jefferson Township. This currently active organization provides recreational activities for youth. She is active in local politics as a member of the Jefferson Twp. Republican Club. Mrs. Ball is presently employed as the clerk in the office of Jefferson Township's Building Inspector. Alma and Lloyd Ball are 26-year residents of Jefferson Township and have three children.

The NSDAR awarded this medal to Mrs. Ball because she exemplifies devotion to American democracy. 1986 being the Centennial of the Statute of Liberty, it was appropriate to recognize contributions by immigrants making America their home.

AS-SHA-WAY-GEE-SHEE-GO-QUA (Rice Lake, WI) The new As-Sha-Way-Gee-Shee-Go-Qua Chapter of the Wisconsin Society, was organized at Rice Lake, Wisconsin.

Mrs. Ivan Martin Niedling, State Regent of Wisconsin, installed the officers following a luncheon.

Mrs. John Jaderborg, Chapter Organizing Regent, gave the history of the chapter name. As-Sha-Way-Gee-Shee-Co-Qua was the eldest daughter of Chief Nay-Na-Ong-Gay-Be, a highly respected Chippewa Indian Chief whose headquarters were located on the present site of Birchwood Manufacturing Company in Rice Lake. He was killed by the Sioux in a battle near Prairie Farm, Wisconsin. As-Sha-Way-Gee-Shee-Go-Qua, which means daylight beyond, was the Chief's most charming daughter and had many suitors. She was well known and often accompanied her father on his long journeys.

FORT VELASCO (Lake Jackson, TX) is beginning its seventh year and has grown from 21 to 69 members. We are proud of our growth and our active, enthusiastic membership. Highlights of our activities include:

- The presentation of a Texas County Flag to the Brazoria County Museum in the name of our chapter. The county flags were the Sesquicentennial project of Joydelle G. Wolfram and Falls County; presentation to Retired Judge Thurman M. Gup- ton the Medal of Honor for outstanding work in Brazoria County historical research and publication; Weekly visits to Veteran Patients taking homemade cookies. On special occasions gifts are also taken; A scholarship to the outstanding student of American History from a local high school; Sponsorship of the American History Month Contest. Interest and enthusiasm in this project is growing with the chapter entries being consistent winners; Tree plantings at the Brazoria County Arts and Sciences Center; Making available the DAR Manual for Citizenship to public schools, the local college, public libraries, and interested persons; Supplying sixth graders with their own copies of the U.S. Constitution Mini-pages at 15 schools; The hosting of a state district workshop in 1986; The consistent winning of the Tri-Color Award on our yearbook and the Cost and Theme Awards; Participation in the restoration project for the national library, with one member earning her bookworm pin with bars; The presentation of genealogical records which win state awards each year.

The chapter is proud to count the state registrar, two state vice chairmen, a national Correspondent Museum Docent, and a member of the National Speakers Staff among its membership.

COLONEL SAMUEL ASHY- LEY (Claremont, NH) is entering upon its ninthieth year. It was founded February 15, 1897 with the required fifteen members. Within five years the membership had exceeded forty. In 1928 an all-time high of 103 was achieved. The present figure is sixty-two and the emphasis this year is on MEMBERSHIP.

Over the years more than eighty graves of Revolutionary Soldiers have been located and markers have been placed on the gates of cemeteries listing their names. Our chapter has had five Real Daughters, three State Regents, several National Committee Chairmen and State Officers. At present our membership includes a Vice President General, who is also State Chairman of National Defense, a National Vice Chairman of Good Citizens and an Honorary State Regent.

Our chapter has participated in recent state projects such as restoring the portrait of President Franklin Pierce and the Adams' Apple of New Hampshire's trademark—The Old Man of the Mountains. We look forward to helping celebrate the National Centennial in 1990 and our own in 1997.

SUSANNA RUSSELL (Cled- dsville, OH) dedicated a marker in Perry County, Ohio for Captain Christian Bincley. The marking took place at the Binckley Ridge Cemetery. There was presentation of colors by the Central Ohio Quilters Guild, at the Apollo Career Center. This is a 3-year project. We asked the local resident to bring their old and new quilts to be recorded, inspected and photographed.

Each Quiltmaker or owner was invited to share quilts and quilt stories and to bring any quilt tools or pictures of the quilters.

There were over 190 Quilts brought in during that day with many interesting stories about the quits and quilters. The oldest quilt submitted dated back to 1827. This quilt Discovery Day was a part of the Ohio Quilt Research Project.—Janet Burns.

PIEDMONT PATRIOTS (Charlotte, NC) recently celebrated thirty-one years of service. We recently gained one new member and have three prospective.

DAR Manuals for Citizenship were sent to new citizens this year. Flags were delivered at a local nursing home with a welcome reception from residents. Our Chapter has been equally as active with the Hezekiah Alexander Home. One of our former Chapter Regents, Mrs. Robert Hudgins IV, who is also an Honorary State Regent, was elected President of the Museum Auxiliary.

A hook-rug type U.S. Flag 18 inches by 24 inches and an engraved plaque was presented to a local hospital in honor of three gallant Veterans of the service. Our Chapter gave a donation for Christmas to the Veterans Hospital in Salisbury, North Carolina.

Our programs have been very interesting this year and one outstanding was presented by former House of Representatives, Mrs. Louise Brennan, on the Constitution." We are currently on a waiting list to have a booth at the "Festival In The Park." This will enable us to utilize our scrapbooks and educate the public through a slide presentation. Our Chapter Newsletter brought forth such varieties as Colonial recipes in December to Congressional and Senatorial votes from North and South Carolina in Washington.—Susan Irene McMurray.

MARY MOTT GREEN (Shelbyville, IN) celebrated its 75th anniversary at a luncheon. Mrs. John Stephen, mistress of ceremonies, welcomed Mrs. Marion Miller, State Regent, and two past State Regents, Mrs. Maxwell Chapman and Mrs. Thomas Egan. Several other state officers and members of nearby chapters were guests.

Mrs. Raymond Munger, Chapter Regent, gave a history of the chapter which was organized Jan. 10, 1911 and given a charter Oct. 17, 1911. Activities through the years have followed the DAR motto, "God, Home and Country." Three of the charter members were descendents of General Nathaniel Green. Since there were chapters in both North and South Carolina at that time it was decided to call the chapter for his mother, Mary Mott Green.

The first Regent was Mrs. Roda Offutt; Lottie Tatum, First Vice Regent, Estelle Armstrong O'Byrne, Registrar; Frances Birely, Chaplin and Nellie Schroeder, Historian.

For several years it was necessary for members to open their homes for the celebration of Washington's birthday and guest meetings since this was before the day of the Golden Glow. A tape of DAR buildings in Washington was also shown. Events were under the direction of Mrs. Stephen, Mrs. Robert Thomas, Mrs. John Whitehead, Mrs. William English and Mrs. Kenneth Cortayou.
A Partnership in Patriotism

Mothers and daughters— isn't that a vital part of the continuing success of the Daughters of the American Revolution? How many family ties have been strengthened and friendships formed when women of all ages get together through their involvement in DAR? Helping a young girl to become a member of the Children of the American Revolution establishes an important foundation for her future. When she reaches adulthood, she will be an informed citizen as well as a valuable member of DAR. DAR chapters have learned to tap the resources of youth, enthusiasm, and experience acquired by young women through their membership in the Children of the American Revolution.

C.A.R. is unique in that it can allow entire families to become actively involved in its leadership. Mothers can help their daughters and sons to learn and grow through involvement in the oldest patriotic youth organization in the United States.

The leadership in C.A.R. is made up of outstanding young people from across the country who are guided by dedicated Senior Leaders, many of whom are DAR members. Every member of C.A.R. has the opportunity to hold a leadership position on the local, state or national level.

Becoming a member of the National Society Children of the American Revolution is very similar to the process of entry into DAR. Applications for membership may be obtained by writing to the C.A.R. National Headquarters, 1776 D Street, NW, Washington, DC 20006. National dues are $8.00 annually and there is a one-time $5.00 entrance fee. Membership is open to all boys and girls under the age of twenty-one who meet the requirements of lineage and are acceptable to the Society.

A young lady who has been a member of C.A.R. may become a member of DAR without payment of an application fee; she must, however, present a Certificate of Good Standing from C.A.R. any time between her eighteenth and twenty-second birthdays along with her DAR application papers and DAR annual dues.

C.A.R. has contributed greatly to the growth and maturity of young people across this nation. C.A.R. members have learned the importance of responsibility and the value of working toward the betterment of their country. DAR has the potential to gain from the lessons these young people have learned by encouraging the transfer of all eligible young women:

The members of DAR and C.A.R. have the ability to expand on what is already a close relationship. If the members of the DAR remember to encourage former members of C.A.R. to continue their participation in patriotic service by becoming DAR members, both organizations will prosper. A young woman's involvement in the Children of the American Revolution will reap numerous benefits for her and your pride in her will be all the greater when she transfers to DAR.
NATIONAL DEFENSE
and history are a rich quarry of moral literacy. We should mine that quarry. Children must have at their disposal a stock of examples illustrating what we believe to be right and wrong, and good and bad—examples illustrating that, in many instances, what is morally right and wrong can indeed be known. We offer them the knowledge of these stories as reliable moral reference points.

The third reason we should teach these stories and works is that they can help anchor our children in their culture, its history and its traditions. They give children a mooring. This is necessary, because individual morality, of course, is inextricably bound to the conscience and the memory of society. Our traditions are a source of knowing the ideals by which we wish to live our lives. We should teach these accounts of character to our children so that we may welcome them to a common world, and in that common world to the continuing and common task of preserving the principles, the ideals, and the notions of greatness we hold dear.

Now you will notice that in all my talk of moral literacy, I have not mentioned issues like nuclear war, abortion, creationism, or euthanasia. This may come as a disappointment to some people, but the fact is that the formation of character in young people is educationally a different task from, and a prior task to, the discussion of the great, difficult, controversial disputes of the day.

First things first. We should "teach values" the same way we teach other things: one step at a time. We should not use the fact that there are indeed many difficult and controversial moral questions as an argument against the basic instruction in the enterprise. We do not argue against teaching physics because laser physics is difficult, against teaching biology or chemistry because gene splicing and cloning are complex and controversial, against teaching American history because there are heated disputes about the Founders' intent. Every field has its complexities and controversies. And every field has its basics.

So too with forming character and achieving moral literacy, or teaching values, if you will. You have to walk before you can run, and you ought to be able to run straight before you are asked to run an obstacle course or a mine field. So the moral basics should be taught in school, first. The tough issues can, if teachers and parents wish, be taken up later. And, I would add, a person who is morally literate will be immeasurably better equipped than a morally illiterate person to reach a reasoned and ethically defensible position on these tough issues. But the formation of character and the teaching of moral literacy comes first, the tough issues second, later, in senior year, or after.

Further, the task of teaching moral literacy and forming character is not political in the usual usage of the term. People of good character are not all going to come out on the same side of disputes over difficult political and social issues. Good people—people of character and moral literacy—can be conservative, and good people can be liberal; good people can be religious, and good people can be non-religious. But we must not permit our disputes over political and theological matters to suffocate the obligation we have to offer instruction to our young people in the area in which we have, as a society, reached a consensus: namely, on the importance of good character, and on some of its pervasive particulars on which we agree.

Now I have spent much time as Secretary of Education traveling this country, visiting schools, teaching classes. I have taught American school children in the 7th grade the Declaration of Independence, and 11th graders Federalist 10 and the story of the Constitutional Convention. To 3rd graders, I've taught the story of Cincinnatus returning to his farm when he could have had an empire. And they got it. To the 3rd graders, too, I've taught how nothing but George Washington's exemplary character stood between the Continental Congress in Philadelphia and a mutinous army of unpaid soldiers, and how that shining character itself was enough to make those men turn back.

I have taught these lessons, and others, to American children. I have tried to teach them directly and unapologetically. I have talked to teachers and parents about these matters as well. And when I have very publicly done this in our classrooms, no one, ladies and gentlemen, no one has ever stood up and said, "You shouldn't be teaching these lessons. You are indoctrinating them, corrupting them, you are not respecting parental prerogative. This isn't the right stuff for our children to learn." On the contrary. People have been pleased. Nor is it the case that I have used gimmicks, which enable me to do something other teachers could not do. On the contrary.

It has been my experience, in many trips across this country, that students and parents are pleased by such discussions; they want more, and most teachers and principals are not opposed to giving them more. I submit that there is a very broad, and very deep, consensus out there, and that we are falling in our duty if we ignore it. Objections noted, cautions observed, let us get down to, and back to, the business of the moral education of the young.

grieving Patrick lamented the passing of his noble mother, his staunch supporter, his faithful friend, with these philosophical words:

"My dear and ever beloved mother died six or eight weeks ago... Thus is the last generation clearing the way for us as we must shortly do for the next." 14

NOTES
1 In a recent Gallup poll, 48% of the Americans surveyed could give the quote and identify the source. These words were spoken in an address by Patrick Henry, later Governor of Virginia, who was known as "Son of Thunder" or "Firebrand of the Revolution.
2 As with famous persons, the other children of the family, as well as the parents often are forgotten. Genealogists show that more than 70 substantial Southern families are descendants of John and Sarah Henry. As one historian remarked, "They are spread wide over Dixieland from old Roanoke to the Rockies."

"Dear Madam: Kind Providence preserved me and all with me safe to our Home in Hanover. Here people have been very sickly, but hope the sickly season is nigh over. My dear Annie has been ailing two or three days with fever. The dear children are very well. My son Patrick has gone to Philadelphia near seven weeks. The affairs are kept with great secrecy, nobody being allowed to be present. I assure you we have our lowland fears and troubles with respect to Great Britain. Perhaps our good God may bring us out of these many troubles which threaten us not only from the mountains but the seas... I am, dear madam, your humble servant.

Davies was an eloquent speaker—strong, clear voice; impressive and animated delivery; simple and elegant sermons. Patrick thought him to be the most fluent, stimulating, and thought-evoking preacher he had ever heard and fashioned his later presentation on the Davies model.

The evening started with a concert of patriotic music by the U.S. Army 9th Division Band. The 9th Infantry Color Guard led the Processional. The State Regent formally opened the State Conference. Brief greetings were given by Tacoma Mayor Doug Sutherland. The featured speaker, the President General, gave a stirring address "This Land is Our Land." The outstanding junior member, Mrs. Michael T. Shiflett, a member of Jonas Babcock Chapter, was announced. Members of the C.A.R. were presented to Mrs. King.

Tuesday breakfast, hosted by Tahoma Chapter, had a program "Northwest Frontier," presented by Mrs. Joseph T. Palastra, wife of the Commanding General of I Corps, Fort Lewis.
The all-day business session included reports of State Officers and Chairman. Elections were held and new State Officers headed by State Regent, Mrs. Irving D. Waterbury, were introduced. The state endorsed a candidate for Vice President General in 1987 Mrs. Stanley Bills.

The luncheon with Elizabeth Forey Chapter as hostess featured Mrs. Yochim’s talk on “Our DAR Buildings.” The American History Month Awards were presented.

President General’s forum followed the afternoon session.

The formal banquet, Defenders of Freedom, hosted by Mary Ball Chapter, began after a concert by the Band of the Pacific Northwest, McCord Air Force Base and presentation of Colors by Color Guard. The speaker was Col. (USAF Ret.) Thomas Schaefer whose address, “Coping with Adversity,” retold the events of his 444 days as a hostage in Iran. Jay Thomas Schaefer whose address, “Coping with Adversity,” was introduced and it was announced that he was also the Western Divisional winner, sponsored by Mary Ball Chapter. The DAR Americanism Medal was awarded to Dr. Angelo Pellogrini sponsored by David Douglas Chapter. The DAR Medal of Honor was awarded posthumously to Mr. Earl Phillips sponsored by Rainier Chapter. Mary Ball Chapter sponsored Col. Schaefer and his DAR Medal of Honor was presented by the President General.

Wednesday, breakfast hosted by Elizabeth Forey Chapter, brought the program “Fort Nisqually, A Trading Site Reborn” by Steve Anderson, Curator of the Fort Nisqually Museum in Point Defiance Park Chapter Regents and Council Presidents reported. The newly elected State Officers were duly installed by the President General.

The Conference concluded with the Awards Luncheon, hosted by Mary Ball Chapter. The State Achievement Awards in several categories were given.

After the singing of “God Bless America” the Conference was adjourned.—Barbara R. Carlson

Mrs. G. E. Honts, Jr., State Regent, came as Martha Washington. Mrs. Honts had become very popular through the Ninetieth Birthday and the costumes. After the singing of “God Bless America” the Conference was adjourned.—Barbara R. Carlson

Illinois

The Illinois State Organization dedicated a new 70-foot flag staff and rededicated a plaque at Starved Rock State Park, Utica, “in memory of the patriots who gave their lives for their country, soldiers of the American Revolution and soldiers and sailors of the War of 1812.”

The ceremony, attended by more than 200 persons, duplicated as closely as possible the September 6, 1913 original dedication when Mrs. George A. Lawrence was State Regent. It is to Mrs. Lawrence that Illinois owes its first star flag. In the pursuit of the duties of her office Mrs. Lawrence became acutely conscious that no emblem of Illinois was...

displayed in Memorial Continental Hall. The history of Illinois in the colonial period is one of the state's most interesting chapters and Mrs. Lawrence vowed to campaign for a state flag—a quest that began in 1912 and did not end until July 6, 1915 when the bill providing for a state flag became law—without the Governor's signature!

The present Illinois State Regent, Mrs. Howard F. Lee, presided at the ceremony in Starved Rock State Park. Other state officers participating were Mrs. Stanley Weber, Chaplain; Mrs. Glendon D. Gustafson, Historian; Mrs. Ronald Plos, Recording Secretary and Mrs. Virgil Clary, Vice Regent.

Also on the program were Mrs. Harold C. Wright, State Chairman, Americanism Committee, and eight members of the Illinois State Society C.A.R. who raised the flag: Kathy Clary, Ned Hedley, Lisa Childs, Sarah Pearson, Brenda Wright, Andy Duff, Angelisa Luttrell and Beth Kuch.

Mrs. Lee dedicated the new flag staff and two new flags, the American Flag and the Illinois State Flag and rededicated the bronze plaque which Mrs. Gustafson unveiled. Accepting for the State of Illinois was Richard Miller of the State Department of Veteran Affairs.

State Senator George Ray Hudson was the principal speaker. He praised the Illinois State Organization for its conservation efforts and diligence in replacing the flag staff and the plaque and mentioned that the State Department of Conservation was proud of DAR's work as well.

The State Regent thanked Jon Blume, complex superintendent, Starved Rock State Park and Illini Chapter, Mrs. Woodrow F. McNeese, Regent, for their cooperation in making the dedication a success.

Starved Rock is historic because it was there that Father Marquette established the first mission in the Illinois Country according to an article by the late Eda K. Pegram, former DAR state historian, in an article in a 1913 issue of DAR Magazine.

"It is the site of Fort St. Louis," Mrs. Pegram states, "built by La Salle about 1682, and in 1770 was the scene of the last stand of the Illini Indians from whom the State of Illinois gets its name. The Pottawatomies were at war with the Illini. After a few days of furious fighting, the Illini, once a powerful tribe, were reduced to a few warriors and these with their women and children intrenched themselves on the summit of the Rock where they famished from hunger and thirst, in full view of the fields of ripe corn, with Illinois River washing the base of their prison fortress..." thus the name, "Starved Rock."

—Georganne Marty.
The Smith-McDowell House was built in the 1840's by James McConnell Smith, son of Daniel Smith, Revolutionary War patriot and early settler in Western North Carolina. Later home of Major William Wallace McDowell, noted for his efforts in the War Between the States. It is the oldest brick house in Asheville and has been restored by the Western North Carolina Historical Association as a Museum of Western North Carolina History. Entered on National Register of Historic Places in 1975.

The DAR Dormitory on the Crossnore School Campus, Crossnore, N.C. This impressive rock building and bell tower still dominates the Crossnore School campus in Crossnore, North Carolina. Built by the Daughters of the American Revolution, it served as a dormitory until recently when it was converted into a Skills Center, the setting for multi-faceted school activities. While used as a dormitory, it housed a large number of high school girls and was also used for social gatherings and community festivities.

The Center has been chosen as one of the historic sites of Avery County by the Western North Carolina researchers for the N.C. Department of Archives and History.

HEZEKIAH ALEXANDER HOMESITE

The Hezekiah Alexander House is the oldest dwelling still standing in Mecklenburg County. Completed in 1774, the house was built on 600 acres near the Catawba River. Alexander was a man of influence in the area, serving as a Justice of the Peace, a founding trustee of Queens College, and, according to tradition, as one of the signers of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence.

The “Rock House”, as it was called, was restored by the Hezekiah Alexander Foundation, Inc., which evolved from a committee of the Charlotte Chapters of the DAR. The site also includes the reconstructed Spring House, the History Museum and a log barn and kitchen. Listed in the National Register of Historic Places, the “Rock House” has been designated a Charlotte/Mecklenburg Historic Site.

In Iredell County, about two miles north of Statesville, stands a granite boulder which marks the site of the old Fort Dobbs, that place of refuge to the early settlers in days when the Cherokees and Catawbas roamed through the forests of North Carolina. The only remaining traces of the fort are the marks of an excavation, which shows its location and a depression said to be the site of the old well. Named for Arthur Dobbs of County Antrim, Ireland, who was named governor of North Carolina to succeed Gabriel Johnston, who died in 1752, the fort was built in the early 1750's.

Today, along with the above, is a log cabin visitor's center which was built for a chapter house by the Fort Dobbs Chapter, DAR. It was begun in early 1940 and completed around 1953. There are nature trails leading away from the Chapter house, recreational equipment and a picnic area.

Fort Dobbs officially became a member of North Carolina's system of historic sites in 1973.

The Page-Walker Hotel was built about 1868 by Allison Francis Page, the early founder of Cary and leader in the North Carolina lumber and rail industry. Constructed of handmade brick, with four handsome chimneys, and embellished by Italianate wooden detailing, the building is a fine example of the Second Empire style and rarely seen in a small town. The hotel, adjacent to two railroads, provided accommodations for travelers. In 1884 the Page Family sold the property to J. R. Walker and his wife, Nancy Helen Yates. Mrs. Walker continued to run the hotel until 1916.

In 1979 the Page-Walker Hotel was listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The town of Cary purchased the property in 1985, and concerned citizenry formed a group called Friends of the Page-Walker Hotel. The non-profit, tax-exempt corporation is directing the restoration and preservation of the valuable landmark.

This architecturally prominent building, as shown in the drawing by Cary artist Jerry Miller, is the only tangible reminder of the town’s early development.

Averitt Plantation near Richlands, North Carolina, was the site of a breakfast stop by George Washington on his Southern Tour in April 1791 and the birthplace of the Reverend James Battle Averitt (1837), a Civil War Chaplain. In 1851 this stately plantation house was built to replace one that burned earlier that year. In 1854 Christopher Stephens acquired this property. He was the maternal grandfather of three charter members of the Colonel Thomas Johnston Chapter, NSDAR; namely, Mrs. Julia Venters Barbre, Mrs. Ruth Venters Mills, and Mrs. Lottie Venters Kesler. Mrs. Kesler now maintains this historic landmark.

Amaquonsippi Chapter NSDAR, Canton, Ill. was so named to commemorate nearby Spoon River of literary fame. The Indian word “Amaquonsippi” means “River of Spoons.” The Indians of west-central Illinois used the bi-valve clam shells from the famous river for spoons. Edgar Lee Masters brought fame to the area when he penned “Spoon River Anthology.” Thousands visit Spoon River Country annually during Spoon River Valley Fall Festival.

"LADY LIBERTY" LETTER OPENER
A Limited Edition Created In Fine Pewter By LIBERTY MINT

LIBERTY MINT pays tribute to "Lady Liberty"'s one hundredth birthday by issuing this fine pewter letter opener in honor of this once in a lifetime event. "Miss Liberty" is a solid well detailed pewter sculpture. This letter opener blade is crafted of pewter-toned stainless steel. This allows for the engineering and design of a thin and properly shaped, but strong blade often lacking in many letter openers.

Most "Statue of Liberty" memorabilia is stored away and forgotten, but the "Lady Liberty" letter opener is a truly "day-to-day" usable high quality commemorative of America's cherished symbol of freedom.

Each letter opener comes in an attractive gift box and is accompanied by a certificate of authenticity and a history of the Statue of Liberty.

This is a limited edition and will only be manufactured in 1986. Since this is a dated item, it makes an excellent 1986 Christmas gift. See below for our quantity gift discount.

To order, send $15 plus $2 shipping and handling for one letter opener. Order 2 or more and we pay shipping.

SPECIAL
Order 6 or more and pay only $12.50 each.

Enclosed is $ for letter opener(s).

Dear Daughters,

The Magazine Advertising Office has already received quite a response to the call for advertising for the special August/September issue! If you have not yet submitted your advertising for this issue there are a few extremely important points to remember—Only full and half page ads are being accepted and the March 13 deadline is coming up very fast. You are encouraged to choose a subject in keeping with the theme of the Celebration of the Bicentennial of the Constitution of the United States of America.

There are two important new rulings which were adopted during the Special Board this past December. They read as follows: 1) That "ads in the DAR Magazine not use the word endorse in connection with candidates for other than Vice President General or Honorary Vice President General, and 2) it was voted to "eliminate the words unanimous or unanimously from magazine ads and certification of State Conference endorsements." This second ruling replaces the ruling #11 of October 11, 1985. Please keep these rulings in mind when placing any ads for candidates.

State Regents and State Advertising Chairmen—If you have not yet received your 1986-1987 Honor Roll Report for Magazine Advertising, please watch your mail! It is of the utmost importance that you check the report immediately and notify the Magazine Advertising Office of any corrections. The deadline date will be included with the reports. I extend thanks to each and every chapter participating in the 1986-1987 Honor Roll year, and anticipate even more success in 1987-1988!

Sincerely,

Miss Marjorie Giinther

As a member of NSDAR, you are eligible for an exceptional new life insurance program. It's the NSDAR Group Term Life Insurance Program that provides lifetime coverage to age 100. It is easy to get the life insurance coverage you really want—whether you need to supplement your present life insurance to bring it back to an adequate level—or to get the basic coverage you had neglected to obtain in previous years.

If you are a senior DAR member, your age doesn’t have to keep you from getting the NSDAR life insurance coverage you really need. Now you can apply for coverage at any age up to 98. Once you're covered, you can renew your protection to age 100. So, you won’t have to search for another program of coverage as you get older.

Best of all, you can get the valued Life Insurance you want. It’s easy to enroll...and economical. There are no long applications to fill out. A medical examination is normally not required. Your acceptance is based on the answers to a few simple “yes or no” questions on a short application form. That’s all there is to it!

For further information about the NSDAR Group Term Life Insurance Program, fill in the coupon below and mail it to the NSDAR Insurance Administrator. There’s no time like the present to get valuable financial protection.

The Group Term Life Program is endorsed and sponsored by the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution for the exclusive benefit of our members. The Program has been analyzed and approved by the Executive Committee, which believes it to be an excellent value at a reasonable price, and your participation is encouraged.
