J.E. CALDWELL & CO. OFFICIAL JEWELER TO THE NATIONAL SOCIETY OF THE DAR SINCE 1892
A song for the Old, while its knell is tolled.
And its parting moments fly!
But a song and a cheer for the glad New Year,
While we watch the Old Year die!
Oh! its grief and pain ne'er can come again,
And its care lies buried deep;
But what joy untold doth the New Year hold,
And what hopes within it sleeps!"—George Cooper,
The New Year

Happy New Year from the National Chairmen of DAR Magazine and its Staff!

On October 6, 1995, following the adjournment of the National Board of Management meeting, two busses of Daughters left to visit the Two DAR Schools, Tamasee and Kate Duncan Smith, and the other DAR-supported schools in the South. The Tour was under the direction of Mrs. Richard O. Creedon, National Chairman, DAR School Committee.
Happy New Year to you! Life is given to us one day at a time so we must make the most of every day.

Many happy experiences were shared by the Daughters who joined the DAR School Bus Tour for 10 days following the October Board meeting. We visited Hindman Settlement School in Kentucky, Kate Duncan Smith DAR School in Alabama, Berry College in Georgia, Tamassee DAR School in South Carolina and Crossnore School in North Carolina. The Daughters had an opportunity to witness the good work done in the schools they support. There will be fond memories lingering on of the official visit to the schools.

A manual of instructions for the completion of application papers has been compiled and written by Mrs. James J. Hamm, Mrs. Donald S. Zimmerman and Mrs. Robert W. Watkins, Registrar General. It is designed to instruct members and chapters in the preparation of applications and the proper documentation so the papers will be acceptable for verification. Every state, district and chapter is encouraged to schedule workshops for training which in turn will promote membership. This is membership promotion in the finest sense.

At last the Computer Generated Application disk is available in either DOS or Mac format from the office of the Corresponding Secretary General. Instructions for its use will be included in the mailing and the cost is $5.00.

The Executive Committee has approved the installation of an on-line E-Mail service into National Headquarters. Details for its service should be in place by February.

It is very exciting for our National Society to join in the use of a new instantaneous form of communication by computer internet. NSDAR Home Page is a relatively inexpensive way to bring the DAR message to prospective members and the general public.

The Short Form application has been reinstated and will follow the same documentation standards as the Long Form. All Short Forms must reference a Long Form which has been fully documented.

The price of a record copy of an application paper is now $5.00. This increase from $4.00 to $5.00 addresses the increased cost over the last 10 years.

BUY A SEAT PROGRAM: Because we want to move quickly to address the needs of our performing arts community in their use of Constitution Hall, we must go forward with interior design and furnishing. We have initiated a “Buy a Seat” campaign to replace the seats in the hall. They sell for $500 and we are off to a great start! The purchasers will receive engraved recognition for their contribution. Let’s see how long it will take to buy all the seats in Constitution Hall.

Your President General welcomes this opportunity to give you an update on the progress we are making in opening the technology bank for members and at the same time communicating with the world around us.

Faithfully,

Darla Eaton Kemper
All Students of American Revolutionary history, young and old, must know that Nathan Hale's last words were: "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country." These words were supposedly recorded in a military report by British Captain Montressor after he had returned to England. At another time Nathan had said, "It is the duty of every good officer to obey any orders given him by his commander-in-chief."

Nathan Hale had been commissioned a Lieutenant in Webb's Connecticut Regiment and led his division to Cambridge to join the Continental troops under General Washington in 1775. Before his commission as Captain in Colonel Thomas Knowlton's Rangers, he was one of a small and daring band who captured a British provision sloop from under the guns of a man-of-war. On Knowlton's request from Washington for a volunteer to spy behind British lines, Hale was the only member of the 150 Rangers who responded. A fellow officer and classmate at Yale tried to dissuade the eager young patriot from undertaking the dangerous service. "I have been in the army now for over a year and have rendered no material service. You say it is disgraceful, but to me every kind of service necessary to the public good becomes honorable by being necessary," was Hale's reply. A Hale biographer, Thomas Farnham, has written that as a carefree young man Hale had started out in his army career as a man who "yearned to grace the annals of America with some glorious deed."

Without any training in espionage, not cautioned to remain silent if questioned, no warning given to memorize information, Nathan Hale walked to Norwalk from American headquarters in Harlem Heights, boarded the sloop Schuyler, crossed Long Island Sound to Huntington, changed into the drab clothes of a Dutch schoolteacher and on September 12, 1776 began his fateful journey toward General Howe's headquarters in New York. He was captured on September 21st with sketches and notes in Latin concealed in his shoe. He bravely confessed that he was an American Captain. Not being in uniform he was hanged without trial the next day on September 22, 1776.

Hale died with no recognition from Washington, according to Farnham. Thomas Knowlton never knew of Hale’s sacrifice. He had been killed at the Battle of Harlem Heights during Hale’s absence. Nathan’s father heard the tragic news later in Coventry probably when Nathan’s friend Asher Wright returned home with Nathan’s few possessions. In a letter to a brother in New Hampshire Richard Hale hinted that a betrayal was known. “A child I sot much by but he is gone,” he wrote, ever remembering that God sustains.

Nathan Hale was the fifth son born, June 6, 1755, to Deacon Richard and Elizabeth Strong Hale. They were married in 1746 and their nine sons and three daughters were born in Coventry, Connecticut. Richard Hale was a Justice of the Peace, a deacon of the First Church of Christ, several times a member of the Connecticut General Assembly, on a committee to supply food and clothing for soldiers, founded the local library and was a town moderator. The Hales were descended from the knighted Hales of Sussex, England. Robert Hale, a blacksmith in Cambridge, was the first of the family to emigrate to America. Between 1630 and 1640 he was among Governor Winthrop’s followers to settle the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

Elizabeth Strong Hale, 1727/8-1767, Nathan’s mother, was the daughter of Captain Joseph Strong, a leader in Coventry. Hear early ancestor was Puritan Elder John Strong, 1605–1693. The Strong family was strict Puritan. Nathan was named for his mother’s uncle, Reverend Nathan Strong of Hartford. His mother taught her children devout religious faith and morality. She died when Nathan was 12 years old.

Nathan and an older brother Enoch were sent to Reverend Joseph Huntington to prepare in classics and history for Yale College. Nathan entered Yale at age 14 and graduated with honors in 1773 at age 18. He was an average student but excelled in sports and public speaking. He was a scribe of the Linonia Debating Society and at graduation won the affirmative: “Whether the education of daughters be not without any just reason more neglected than that of sons.” While at Yale he had been impressed by Joseph Addison’s play “Cato” in which a father had said after learning of the death of his young son: “What a pity it is that we can die but once to save our country.” Historians connect this thought with Nathan’s last words— “...one life to lose.”
His first “charge” after graduation was to teach at the new Haddam school, built 1774, at Haddam Landing, East Haddam-Moodus, on the Connecticut River, at the crossing of the roads in the center. At $4.00 per month he stayed in East Haddam five months from October 1773 to March 1774. He lived in the Captain Green homestead at East Haddam Landing where some of his scholars lived. Mrs. Hannah Green Pierson, an older daughter Hale’s age said: “Everybody loved him; he was so sprightly, intelligent, and kind and so handsome.”

In the Spring of 1774 he applied and was accepted to teach at the private Union School in New London. He had written to a college friend about East Haddam, alias Moodus: “...a place which I, at first, for a long time concluded inaccessible either by friends, acquaintances or letters, nor was convinced of the contrary until I receive yours, and at the same time two others from Alden and Myllis. It is equally, or more, difficult to convey any thing from Moodus.” As a college educated young man of 19, he elected to return to more intellectual environment.

After the news of the Battle of Lexington reached New London in 1775, Hale spoke at an emergency town meeting. “Dulce et decorum est pro patriae mori,” he quoted in the excitement for freedom from tyranny. He resigned from teaching and was made a Lieutenant in Webb’s 7th Connecticut Regiment. That same year he marched with his men to join Washington’s army in Cambridge.

When the war was over and America was at last a free and independent nation, incidents of the struggle became known. Notorious was the story of the capture and execution of Major John André, the British spy. His body was given a burial in Tarrytown, New York and later moved to London’s Westminster Abbey. Americans learned they had had a martyr-hero who willingly went behind enemy lines when Washington was desperate after the defeat on Long Island. Young Nathan Hale was caught and hanged, but the British never reported where he was buried.

Until 1850 at the 100th anniversary of the Yale Linonian Debating Society, the Nathan Hale story was not generally known. From then on “Nathanmania” mushroomed with plays, poems, books of legend and sentiment intermingled with facts of Nathan Hale’s life. George Dudley Seymour, 1859–1945, a New Haven attorney, researched and collected all known material about Nathan Hale and dedicated his efforts to find truth, not myth about the heroic patriot. In 1914 Seymour bought the Hale Homestead in Coventry, Connecticut for his summer home. It is believed that a back ell is the only part of the homestead that felt Nathan’s footsteps. His father built this larger home in 1776 for his growing family while Nathan was at war. A shadow sketch on an upstairs bedroom door is the only likeness believed to be of the young patriot. Mr. Seymour found the door and installed it in his summer home. In 1941 he privately published the Documentary Life of Nathan Hale, “Comprising all available official and private documents bearing on the life of the patriot, together with an appendix, showing the background of his life; including his family circle; his college friends; his friends made as a school-master and in the army; with illustrations, portraits and buildings that knew his footsteps.”

On September 22, 1926, the 150th anniversary of Nathan Hale’s death, Rev. Felix J. O’Neill of Stafford Springs, Connecticut, published a 35-verse poem, courtesy to George Dudley Seymour, who “kept the memory of our patriot alive.” His word-picture is a heartfelt portrayal of the American patriot’s life from Washington’s command to his fatal sacrifice. President Calvin Coolidge wrote a preface: “There is no finer record of high character and patriotic devotion than that established by the youthful soldier, Nathan Hale, and I strongly recommend that the beautiful story of his youth, his college career, become the favorite study of not only the town, country and state of his nativity, but to the nation at large, especially to the children.”

Throughout time Nathan Hale’s memory has been kept alive in East Haddam. The “little red school house” where he taught was first located at the crossroads in the center near The Landing. In 1799 it was moved from its 1774 site to the south of the cemetery in front of recently built St. Stephens Episcopal church. It was enlarged and became the home of the Attwood family. For the East Haddam Bicentennial in 1900, the historic building was saved and moved up the hill behind the church.
Following the American defeat at Brooklyn Heights, General Washington desperately needed information about British plans. Capt. Nathan Hale was the only officer to volunteer to return to Long Island. He was subsequently captured behind British lines and executed without trial. The photo, reprinted from the August-September 1976 DAR Magazine, depicts the execution at East Broadway, Corner of Market Street, New York.

Restored to its original size, put on a granite block foundation, today it rests in its third location overlooking the Connecticut River surrounded by the 8.1 acre Nathan Hale Park.

The gala Bicentennial celebration took place on June 6th, Nathan Hale’s 145th birthday. A bust of the hero, sculpted by Enoch S. Wood, was dedicated where the old schoolhouse had originally stood, donated by citizens of East Haddam. It now rests on a granite base donated by the Nathan Hale Memorial Chapter DAR in 1904 surmounted by a bronze tablet. The celebration drew distinguished speakers. Most notable was Richard Henry Green, II of the Nathan Hale Memorial Committee, New York Sons of the Revolution. He presented the Schoolhouse and Park to the Connecticut Sons of the American Revolution.

He was quoted in The Connecticut Magazine: “...worthy of note that all the teachers who taught in the hundred of years in service of that school house, only one man is remembered, and he is remembered because there was pulsating in his heart the life blood of patriotism which in turn had pulsed through the nation. The lessons taught by his life and by his death of ignominy were of the highest and greatest purpose and mean to the people of this land today that patriotism following duty lives eternally. Even as the sacrifice of the life of Christ was for a purpose, so was the sacrifice of Hale.”

On the same day the Nathan Hale Memorial Chapter DAR was organized at the schoolhouse, listing 17 charter members, some descended from early townspeople who knew Nathan. The SAR "tendered to the DAR the use of the building and grounds, believing we shall find helpmeets that we shall need in care and development and perpetuation of these memorials." The Nathan Hale Chapter, SAR is the maintenance steward of the property and extend to the DAR the privilege to "oversee and use" the schoolhouse.

No other state has a state hero. Through the efforts of Jonathan Johnson, Nathan Hale Chapter SAR, an official proclamation was issued in 1985 by the Governor William A. O'Neill which declared Nathan Hale, Connecticut State Hero for all time. In 1988 the Governor declared September 22 to be Nathan Hale day. Nathan’s birthday is honored each year by both the DAR and the SAR Nathan Hale chapters at annual meetings and for schoolhouse tours.

Emma Gilman, historian of the Wadsworth Chapter DAR wrote in 1900 words as true now as then: “Can legend or sentiment add to the facts of Nathan Hale’s life when these facts give us a selfless hero; a man who lived and died in the faith that not only life, but private personal honor, dearer than life, must be sacrificed to duty to our country?”

Nathan Hale, martyr of the American Revolution, chose to die rather than give up his faith or principles, believing that the cause of freedom was God’s will for mankind.

By Gonzalo I. Vergara

Air Force Major Gonzalo I. Vergara is assigned to McClellan Air Force Base in California. When the following article was written he was assigned to the U. S. Army Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. He writes often on defense issues.

An analysis of recent U.S. military operations reveals one clear unifying thread: They have incurred fewer casualties, and concluded more quickly and decisively, than previous conflicts. The reasons range from the increasing professionalism of the modern military, to the size and ineptness of the opposition, to, of course, the efficacy of new technologies which make war more a matter of pushing buttons than fixing bayonets.

Certainly the ability to minimize losses and bring conflict to a speedy resolution is a worthwhile pursuit. Unfortunately, the doctrine of “QDVMC”—Quick Decisive Victories with Minimum Casualties—has implications and after-effects that can be problematic for U.S. military policy. As a result of the relatively rosy outcome of America’s recent overseas conflicts, many citizens now consider QDVMC to be the norm.

In short, war now is seen as an almost sanitary pursuit. The American public has been conditioned to believe that in order to be judged a success, a military operation must be quickly accomplished and relatively bloodless.

Given these desires and expectations on the part of large numbers of the American public, two unsettling issues arise:

1. Because casualties are inherent in military operations—not all of which can be accomplished quickly—the military may be setting itself up for future failure.

2. An enemy commander may achieve victory over us (political, if not tactical) just by keeping our forces at bay. To a certain extent, this was the dilemma we faced in Somalia.

A review of American casualties in military operations since World War II (see table) reveals a declining number of troops killed in action, particularly post-Vietnam. Even more significant than the absolute decline in fatalities are the statistical averages obtainable by dividing the total number of deaths by the duration of each conflict. In Korea, for example, we lost approximately 1,500 GIs per month. By the time of Vietnam, that figure had dropped to less than 600 per month.

Notwithstanding all the hype about Saddam Hussein’s Republican Guard and Scud missiles, the Gulf War claimed less than 300 American lives, total. These declining military figures cannot be attributed to a corresponding decline in American commitment to its foreign causes; for example, we sent 520,000 troops to the Persian Gulf in just a few months. It is entirely likely that today’s generation will gauge military casualties resulting from all future conflicts in relation to those few suffered in the Gulf War. (This is in marked contrast to previous generations of Americans, who had as their benchmark World War II and Korea, where the cumulative death toll approached a half-million).

There are also compelling social reasons which make it harder for today's government to sustain a war in the face of mounting casualties. Like it or not, America is not as supportive of the military as it once was. Earlier in our nation's history, the political backbiting would stop as soon as the troops were given their marching orders; Americans uniformly rallied behind the troops in World War II and Korea, believing it was their patriotic duty to do so.

Not so today. Political "hawks" no longer can count on the unqualified support of the American public, because the public no longer accepts the doctrine that it must suspend its opposition to a given combat operation just because American troops are at risk. Indeed, since the days of Vietnam, many citizens have come to feel duty-bound to oppose military action precisely because troops are at risk. They do not see such protest as disloyal or unpatriotic.

Further, the American people are less tolerant of casualties in areas where our national interests are unclear, or where we have few if any emotional ties. It can be hard to work up a lot of sentiment for battles fought in Bosnia, where the people have strange names and incomprehensible customs, or whose populace and leaders historically have denounced us as "the ugly American."

These are key considerations that must be faced by American political leaders contemplating the use of military force. Consider a scenario in which the United States becomes embroiled in an overseas conflict where protracted operations are necessary; casualties become steady, with no clear end in sight. Evidence suggests that the public will turn against that intervention. When the suicide bombing of a U.S. barracks in Lebanon took the lives of 238 of the 350 troops stationed there, large numbers of Americans as well as members of Congress called for an immediate pullout.

The backlash may even be directed against the military itself. We saw the first signs of this in Vietnam. When the war dragged on endlessly, the frustration of armchair observers in the media and elsewhere was expressed in widespread skepticism of U.S. military competency.

Which brings us to the second major issue at hand. Given our growing aversion to casualties and drawnout operations, an enemy commander need not vanquish us on the battlefield. He must succeed only at keeping the U.S. wolf from the door.

As long as he is not losing, he is winning.

Ancient Chinese philosopher of war, Sun Tzu, specifically warned against this when he said, "Victory is the main object of war. If it is long delayed, troops become demoralized and their strength exhausted. When this happens your enemy will take advantage of your state. So, though there may be blundering swiftness in war, there is no clever operation that was protracted.... Because of this, the country squanders its wealth by engaging in ineffective wars."

We learned this lesson firsthand in Vietnam. After the war it became fashionable to propose that we ultimately failed because we did not use all of our available force against them. Regardless of the merit of the argument, that is precisely the point: In situations like Vietnam, Grenada, Panama, the Gulf and Haiti, we did not engage in an all-out effort because the political goals did not call for all-out war. The establishment or preservation of a peaceful and democratic Vietnam clearly did not entail our risking all-out war with the Soviets or Chinese.

Sometimes, observers outraged at high losses may demand all-out war. In a RAND study prepared for the Army, Benjamin Schwarz used poll data to show that the majority of Americans did not support the "premature" withdrawal of forces in Korea, Vietnam and even the Gulf. Indeed, as casualties mounted in Korea and Vietnam, most Americans favored stepping up the tempo of the war.

Escalation may be an appropriate option in large-scale wars where the ultimate aim is full victory. Some experts felt this was the proper way to go in Vietnam and went as far as to urge the use of nuclear weapons. Unfortunately, public pressure for vengeance in the wake of high or sudden U.S. losses can have the effect of leading to military operations well beyond the scope of the political goals involved.

If and when this occurs, we may end up winning the war, but clearly the United States risks losing in the forum of world opinion. This could easily have been the result if we listened to the hawks during Desert Storm and laid waste to Baghdad.

There is no mistaking the implications here: We should be prepared to abandon a military mission as soon as the goal is achieved, or as soon as it becomes clear that the original goal is unachievable. To simply allow the conflict to spread into a prolonged and aimless squandering of lives and resources is ultimately self-defeating and allows America to become an unwitting tool for the foreign-policy objectives of other nations.

A former senior U.N. representative in Sarajevo told an audience at the U.S. Army's Command and General Staff College that Bosnian government officials, as well as Serb officials, wanted U.S. forces on the ground immediately. They wanted this so they could immediately start killing American troops, thereby getting the U.S. public involved in the conflict on their side.

Regardless of the nobility of our motives, or the ghastly pictures shown each night on television, we must be extremely wary of becoming involved militarily in conflicts where the hatreds run deep and the likelihood of political compromise is all but nonexistent.

Clearly a protracted war such as the one being waged in the former Yugoslavia is the last type of conflict America should want to buy into. Similar pitfalls await us in various parts of the Mideast.

This is not to say we should ignore conflict. But, we must be prepared to use other instruments of national power—political, economic and diplomatic—to help terminate it. Our political leaders must consider using force only with clearly defined goals of what is to be achieved, within clearly defined parameters, and with a clear understanding of the potential costs involved. Our military leaders must explain to political leaders the nature of the threat we are facing, the risks involved and possible courses of action.

And, if and when the use of the military becomes necessary, the American people and their leaders must not assume that QDVMC is the norm. We must realize that the nature of war involves the use of force, and the use of force involves the likelihood of casualties.

This does not mean that we are indifferent to the suffering involved. It just means that as a nation, we must have the collective will to do what needs to be done for the greater good of America.

Radio is one part of the electronic media. There are over 7,000 radio stations across the country, providing more frequent news coverage than press or TV. More than 50% are AM stations, the remainder are FM stations. Some of the AM stations are all-news, broadcasting news 24-hours a day. In nearly every locality there are radio talk-shows. This type of broadcast provides a tremendous opportunity for PR - getting your message across.

You know that the contact for individual shows is usually the program’s producer or, in the case of a guest interview, a guest coordinator. Hard news should go to the news director of the station and you have the name of that contact from your initial research. You might leave a message with the phone receptionist that you have mailed in a release. Interview or not to interview is the question. If the thrust of your story is important enough, interviews may be the route to take. Radio personnel will conduct the interview; you cannot dictate the questions to be asked. Remember that a taped interview may last for a long period but only a brief part will be aired. The questions asked will, more than likely, be at the discretion of the interviewer. Be careful with your subject matter. Prepare and prepare and prepare thoroughly in advance so that your member is as ready as possible to handle all types of questions. Here again, make sure that you give the interviewer complete information on the subject to be discussed. Provide background material not only on the DAR but on the member to be interviewed, the subject of the interview and any incidental information relative to your story.

Your chapter has a member who has just been named to the board of an important local historic site. She has also been instrumental in obtaining a rather large grant for much needed restoration of what has been a public eyesore and at the same time preserving history.

Here is your chance to help your chapter gain added PR and to help your member in her endeavor in preserving this local relic. Working with your member, you begin the job of tying the two together. Your job has been made easier because several other members have become involved in this worthwhile local project.

You start small by contacting a small local radio station by letter or phone, using all of your powers of persuasion in selling an interview to the news director. It takes more than one call but finally the station is convinced that your request for an interview is newsworthy.

You establish your goals. You work on your story line, always keeping in mind that a mention of your chapter’s name is pure PR gold.

Working closely with your member, you outline the basic questions you have suggested and carefully orchestrate the answers you would like given. Go over this scenario as many times as necessary until your member is comfortable with how the DAR has played a large role in her commitment to such a project. Show your member how to keep bringing the interview back to DAR and its importance in what she has done and what she hopes to accomplish.

Rehearse, rehearse and rehearse and your interview will be a success.

National Chairman
"Resolved, That Congress create the office of Librarian General." So began the discussion on the establishment of the NSDAR Library on the second day of Continental Congress, 19 February 1896 in Chicago, Illinois. Rose Field McH. Brackett (Mrs. Albert G.) made the motion to consider the resolution. Mrs. Brackett joined the NSDAR in November 1891 and was a member of the Army & Navy Chapter, District of Columbia.

During the discussion, Mrs. Brackett stated:

As the mover of this motion, ladies, and having heard the subject discussed at the Board meetings several times, I think, and you will all think, that we do need a Librarian General. It is not the size of the library, it is the value of it. You need a responsible person to take care of it.

Dr. Anita Newcomb McGee, soon to become the first Librarian General herself, spoke to the question, stating:

I would like to state that we have a small library. By small I mean only a few hundred books, at most, but we are very anxious to have a librarian not only to keep these books in order and see that no chance visitor carries any of them off, but also to increase our library. We are very grateful for any contributions that have been sent to the library and are anxious to receive a great many more.

The motion was approved without further discussion, and the process began for the development of the NSDAR Library. On Thursday, 20 February 1896, Dr. McGee was elected the first Librarian General.

In her previously quoted statement, Dr. McGee pointed out that there was already a "library," although this most likely meant a collection of books in a bookcase. The establishment of the Office of the Librarian General formalized the structure for a special library. In subsequent reports by the Librarian General to the National Board of Management during 1896 and 1897, the future content of the library was of concern. Clearly American history and genealogy were to be the heart of the library's collection, but in the very early years many other subjects were included. It soon became apparent that too broad a scope would be unmanageable. The library's basic collection would therefore encompass "local history in America, embracing state, county, town and church materials -- genealogies, biographies, and vital records. Histories of all kinds relating to the American Revolution which might reveal the men of the Revolutionary period, their family lines, military service and civil records would therefore provide the link in connecting ancestors with today's descendants."

From a small beginning of 125 miscellaneous books on hand in February 1896, the NSDAR Library has grown to a collection of 140,000 volumes and 250,000 files. Throughout 1996 the Library celebrates its centennial with new publications, projects, and events. One wonders what Dr. McGee and Mrs. Brackett would think of the library that their efforts started.

The Junior Membership Committee wishes a Happy and Active Junior Year to all.

FROM THE STATES

During the next three years we hope to highlight the activities of Juniors in each of the states. Sharing information and ideas is the key to an active and interested Junior membership. Be it large or small—let us hear from you!

GEORGIA

Georgia Juniors created a new award to honor the non-Junior who contributes the most to Junior Membership. During the 1995 Georgia State Conference, Mrs. Peter S. Hanf, State Regent, received Georgia’s “Outstanding Junior at Heart” Award. Mrs. Hanf was given this award because of her encouragement and devotion to the Juniors of Georgia.

COLORADO

Colorado Juniors have initiated a state Junior newsletter. The winner of the contest to name the newsletter will receive $35.00 towards the purchase of her next pin. (Stay tuned to future Junior Key Links for the new title.) Over 300 copies were mailed to current Juniors, current page club members, chapter regents, state chairmen, and state officers. The purpose of the newsletter is to bring Juniors together to become more active. It will also give Juniors a chance to express their views and opinions on current issues. The Colorado Juniors wish to thank their State Regent, Ann Dillon, and the Colorado State Society for being so supportive of Juniors.

Seeley Golden, Junior member from Peace Pipe Chapter, is selling t-shirts stating “DAR is RAD spelled backwards” in honor of her mother, Mrs. James T. Golden, Jr. (Suzanne), Past Organizing Secretary General NSDAR. T-shirts are $10.00 and proceeds will be donated to the Suzanne Seeley Golden Memorial Fund. The fund has been established to provide and finance guided-tour brochures for all the stops along the Smoky Hill Trail in Colorado. This is the final step in completing the Smoky Hill Trail panorama project at Cherry Creek National Park, a project started by Suzanne over eight years ago. In early 1995 Suzanne received a National Park Service Award for her work in making possible the installation of four large descriptive panels along the trail. The fund will provide brochures and protective dispensers at four locations in the park. The brochure will be written by Fred Jefferies, who assisted Suzanne with the panel project, with the cooperation of the Cherry Creek Valley Historical Society. Donations to the Fund may be made payable to the “Suzanne Seeley Golden Memorial Fund”, and sent to Carolyn Pontius, 101 University Boulevard, Suite 460, Denver, CO 80206.

LOUISIANA

Louisiana Juniors participated in the LSDAR workshop held in August. Pegi Ivancevich, National Junior Membership Chairman, was a featured speaker and participated in a Page’s forum. Junior members held a plant sale to benefit the Louisiana Junior Membership Fund. Several women attended the workshop for the first time and were presented with a “Page Survival Kit” filled with clever items needed for paging.

State Chairman Kalei Collins has made it her project to inform Louisiana daughters about KDS, Tamassee, and the Helen Pouch Memorial Fund. She obtained 500 packets from both schools to distribute at the State Workshop. She plans to talk about the schools as much as possible in order to increase the level of fundraising for HPMF. Kalei has already been asked to speak at a chapter meeting and hopes to be invited to more.

PAGE COMMITTEE NEWS

Invitations to page at Continental Congress will be extended by the President General in early January. Please be sure to return your acceptance or regrets to her office as soon as possible in order to facilitate planning.

Registration for Pages will be held on Saturday, April 13 from 2:00–5:00 in the Page’s Lounge.
NELLY CUSTIS (Mount Vernon, VA) marked the birthday of our namesake at a wreath laying ceremony on March 31, 1995 at her tomb at Mount Vernon, George Washington’s Estate, where Nelly was reared. (She was Martha Washington’s granddaughter, adopted by George Washington and lived with them from an early age.)

The Nelly Custis Chapter invited Woodlawn Plantation to join us in laying the wreath and members were invited to assemble at Woodlawn Plantation by Director Susan Olsen. Twenty-five Chapter Members, joined by some staff and officers affiliated with Woodlawn, enjoyed a marvelous coffee in the Underwood Room.

Later the entire party drove to Mount Vernon where we were escorted to the Tomb. The Regent, Christine Knudson, spoke of our admiration of Nelly Custis and of our happiness at honoring her on the 216th anniversary of her birth; Susan Olsen read a poem, “Mount Vernon,” written by Nelly Custis many years after she married and left Mount Vernon to live at Woodlawn Plantation. The wreath was placed at the tomb and we remained for a few minutes to talk about Nelly Custis and enjoy the beautiful setting.—Mary T. Leggett

SHENANDOAH VALLEY (Martinsburg, WV) had the honor of presenting a prestigious award to a distinguished citizen of Martinsburg at its regular meeting on March 2, 1995 at the Community Room in the Martinsburg Mall.

This award, the DAR Medal of Honor and certificate, is awarded to a citizen who had exhibited the highest level of leadership, patriotism, and service to the community.

In the long history of the Shenandoah Valley Chapter, this is the first time this award has been made. The certificate is issued by the NSDAR as well as permission granted to present this medal.

The recipient of this outstanding award is well known in the community. Shenandoah Valley Chapter is proud to have the privilege of honoring Dr. Howard Gerald Malin of Martinsburg. Dr. Malin has had a distinguished career as a podiatrist and is now Chief of that service at the local Veterans Affairs Medical Center. In addition, he is a Major of the US Air Force; and is an active member of several service organizations and a leader in Boy Scouts for many years.

Also active, in Tall Cedars, Eastern Star, DeMolay, Elks, Moose, Redmen, Odd Fellows, American Red Cross, Lions Club, Phi Kappa PSI, Beta Chapter, Doric Chapter #38, AF & A.M.; Equality Lodge #44 A.F. & A.M.; Shrine Association; Scottish Rite, York Rite, Martinsburg Lodge of Perfection, and a Lay Rabbi at Beth Jacob Congregation.

His educational credits include degrees from the University of Rhode Island; Our Lady of Fatima Hospital, Institute of Pathology; Université de Poitiers, de Toulouse, France; Université de Tours, Tours, France; an M.A. degree in Classics from Brigham Young University; California College of Podiatric Medicine; Pepperdine University and the American Heart Association. He is currently a candidate for a Ph.D. degree at College of Commissioners, Science, Pittsburgh, Pa.

In addition, he has many publications to his credit - many of which deal with classical figures and their relation to podiatry. Dr. Malin graciously accepted the award on behalf of the veterans living and dead who have made such sacrifices to assure us of the freedom we enjoy today.

Shenandoah Valley Chapter is proud to honor this truly talented man of wide professional experience and achievement who has given of his time and talent so freely to the community and to the veterans.—Dorothy C. Myers

YE TOWNE OF BATH (Berkeley Springs, WV) participated in a ceremony honoring the 175th anniversary of the establishment of Morgan County, in 1820. The historical event took place in Berkeley Springs State Park June 20, 1995, West Virginia Day.

A history of Ye Towne of Bath Chapter, organized July 15, 1932 by Miss Martha Harmonson, written by Mrs. Medford Dawson was presented by Mrs. William Harmonson, Chapter Historian.

A local point of interest was the early Chapter Christmas parties hosted by Mrs. Jennie Harmison, owner of the Park View Inn: “The Inn was lavishly decorated in the best old English tradition.”

A list of charter members included many familiar names to current members, relatives and friends.

It was an honor to be asked to participate in an event preserving the history of our County, State and Nation.—Nancy S. Edwards

MECKLENBURG DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE (Charlotte, NC) organized February 22, 1912 and was originally composed of descendants of the signers of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, which was dated May 20, 1775.

This chapter has emphasized appreciation of local history through numerous projects, e.g., placing markers at various sites in churches and cemeteries in the area to commemorate local revolutionary war patriots. The area is ringed with many historic Presbyterian churches, a heritage of the Presbyterian Scots-Irish. This year’s projects continued this emphasis with programs on early settlers of Mecklenburg County, President James K. Polk’s Bicentennial celebration, architectural history of Mecklenburg County, and the unique characteristics of the settling of North Carolina.

Two of our meetings were held at local historic sites: James K. Polk Memorial and the Charlotte Museum of History and Hezekiah Alexander Homesite.

We have a strong involvement with the youth in the community and schools through our sponsorship of the DAR Good Citizens contest, the American History scholarship, and support of DAR schools, particularly North Carolina’s Crossnore. All memorials for deceased members are sent to Crossnore and we help sponsor an annual educational trip to Washington, D.C. for the students.

The chapter is proud of its patriotic work at Naturalization Court, presenting American flags and patriotic literature to the newly naturalized citizens. We also awarded Good Citizenship and ROTC medals in the local schools and marked the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of World War II in a special chapter program.—Margaret Otterbourg

ANTHONY THOMAS (Warvely, MO) was honored to have as guest speaker Miss Vickie L. Whitsett at the May 15, 1995 meeting at the home of Mrs. Richard Woodson Bricken, John Knox Village East, Higginsville. Mrs. Sidney Muriel Elliott was the assisting hostess. Miss Whitsett, member of Tabau Chapter, Higginsville, spoke on Tamassee School and Groves Cottage. She serves on these committees: National Vice Chairman, South Central Division, Junior American Citizens; State Chairman—DAR School, Groves Cottage; Member Advisory Committee, Tamassee DAR School. She also presented Mrs. Bricken a 119 page copy of Bible records that she had made for the Genealogical Records committee: John Walton (1806-1918), William A. Bricken (1809-1900), Samuel Richard Bricken (1849-1965), Grace Walton Antrim (1815-1988), George Briscoe Warren (1835-1986). Included in these records are the marriage certificates of Thomas Alexander Groves and Mary Curthers Warren, November 15, 1866 and...
George Warren Groves and Minnie Ann Walton, November 9, 1898. Mrs. Bricken is the former Frances Maryan Groves, Organizing Regent of Anthony Thomas Chapter.

At the Waverly United Methodist Church Father's Day service, June 11th, the chapter presented Dr. Hugh Port Callaway the DAR Outstanding Service Medal and Certificate for community service. The presentation was made by his wife, Lucille Luckey Callaway, Chapter Regent. Dr. Callaway, a retired veterinarian, practiced in the Waverly community for 44 years, has been the Methodist Sunday School Bible Class teacher for more than 40 years, organizing commander of the Waverly American Legion Post, No. 560, 1947, are only a few of his community activities. Dr. Callaway is a seventh generation descendant of Anthony Thomas of Maryland, a veteran of the Revolutionary War, who enrolled July 20, 1776 and was passed by Col. Charles Beaty. Anthony Thomas died April 17, 1825 and is buried in the Thomas, Buck, Galbraith Cemetery, two miles east of Waverly. Dr. and Mrs. Callaway live in the brick dwelling built in 1825 by Notley Thomas, son of Anthony Thomas, on the Thomas family farm. The Thomas family came to Waverly in Lafayette County in 1817.

There are four chapter members, Florence Marie Palmer Bubbe, Nancy Kathleen Callaway, Elizabeth Gordon Gibson Trefz, and Dorothy McClain Buckley Fallansbee, descendants of Anthony Thomas.

ACCHOIS COMIHAVIT (N. Hollywood, CA). On behalf of the chapter, Regent Myrtle Thomson presented a large outdo American Flag on Veteran's Day, 1994 to Jon F. Kennedy High School in Granada Hills, where it will be used in JROTC daily exercises.

Members watched enthusiastically on February 25th as Don Mosrask, retired College Counselor at Garfield High School in East Los Angeles, received the Excellence in Community Service Award from District VIII at a luncheon meeting. Called the "quintessential educator," Mr. Mosrask's guidance over the years has led to a substantial increase in the number of Garfield graduates' university attendance.

District Director, Mrs. Pierce Wentworth, and chapter member Mary Grindal presented the award to Mr. Mosrask as honored guest, California State Regent, Mrs. Robert G. Herr, looked smilingly on.

On March 10th, chapter-sponsored Bruce Sievers received the DAR Medal of Honor at the National Defense Luncheon during State Conference. A Green Beret in Vietnam, Mr. Sievers has made his life's work writing and delivering patriotic poetry to a variety of audiences, from U.S. Presidents to schoolchildren. After Mrs. Herr pinned his medal, Mr. Sievers reminded us once again how lucky we are to be Americans, as he recited his signature poem, "An American in Love with His Land." Chaplain Leora Mellon was feted in May as Regent Myrtle Thomson presented Leora with her 25-year membership certificate and pin. Myrtle left a script "This is your Life, Leora Mellon" which described, among other events, Leora's early teaching experiences in a one-room schoolhouse—by Mary Grindal.

COLONEL JOHN WASHINGTON (Washington, DC). A very special historical event took place April 29th at George Washington Birthplace National Park when the Colonel John Washington Chapter united with the U.S. National Park service to celebrate the Dedication and Unveiling of the George Washington Homestead Wayside marker, made possible by the members of Colonel John Washington Chapter after several years of fund raising and negotiations, chaired by Chapter Historian, Rosalind Barton. Over 175 persons were in attendance including local dignitaries and Officers, Chapter Regents and other DAR members from the District of Columbia, Virginia, Maryland and Kansas. We had also invited a touring group of eighty members of The National Society of the Washington Family to participate and their President, John Washington, brought greetings. Our Chapter Regent, Mrs. Patricia Jacob, brought greetings as did our DC State Regent, Mrs. Harrison Brewer. Special Speakers were Mrs. Thomasina Jordan, Chairman, Council on Virginia Indian Affairs and 1990 DAR Medal of Honor Winner, who spoke about the "Bridge made by Native Americans since 1657," and Dr. Dwight C. Starke, Jr., whose address was entitled "The Washington Family" relating John Washington, The Immigrants' life and accomplishments at Pope's Creek. Everyone was spellbound!

The beautiful baritone voice of Fred Brown singing patriotic songs was so beautiful. A tribute was made to the Children of the American Revolution and in honor of their 100th Anniversary they were asked to unveil the marker. Christine Smith, National Historian for C.A.R., brought greetings. A specially guided tour of the Plantation was enjoyed by all especially the children who enjoyed the farm animals, as well as George Washington's birthplace and the Washington Family Burial Grounds. A tour and lunch was held at nearby Ingleside Winery.

The beautiful exhibit marker unveiled depicts an historian's rendition of what John Washington's homestead looked like. It is the work of an artist from the National Geographic Society and is very lovely. This has been a special public relations project for the DAR working with the U.S. National Park Service, The National Society of the Washington Family Descendants and local dignitaries and the public.

The members of Colonel John Washington Chapter are rightly very proud of their work.—Rosalind C. Barton

WASHINGTON-CUSTIS (Baltimore, MD) concentrated its efforts this past year on obtaining exceptional speakers for each meeting. We were privileged in September to have Mr. George Tryfates, then Executive Director of English First, come to us from Washington, D.C. to speak on bilingual education, immigration and literacy.

October's guest was Mr. Walter Drum of Fairfield, Pennsylvania, gentleman farmer, who gave valuable tips on food safety. In these days of food importation from countries around the world where regulations on the use of pesticides, etc., are not in effect, we need to be cognizant of the risks.

November was the occasion for the son of our Regent, Mr. Harold Gracey, Jr., to visit us from Washington, to speak on "Lessons from the Past" as related to national defense. Mr. Gracey is Chief of Staff of Veterans Affairs in Washington and his lecture was most eloquent.

February saw a gathering at the Roland Park Place Retirement Home, residence of our member Mrs. Idelle Riefle, who was hostess. Mrs. Mari Rhinehart, First Vice Regent, spoke at length, combining all of the historical events which the DAR is commemorating this year. Mrs. Rhinehart was an officer in the Women's Marine Corps during WWII and most knowledgeable about military matters. Her name has been registered in the new memorial for women in military service now under construction in Arlington National Cemetery.

An outstanding effort on the part of Mrs. Mary Louise Kerns, Miss Frances Johnson, Regent, was Master of Ceremonies. Mrs. Lori Wykstra, Past Regent, Mrs. Dorothy Thompson, Honorary State Regent and past Vice President General were on the program for the dedication.

There were 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th generation descendants of Baruch Prather among the 65 present for the ceremony which took place in the Prather Cemetery located in the Raven Run Wildlife Sanctuary on Jacks Creek Road, Lexington.

The dedication was reported on all three local TV stations as well as an article and picture in the Lexington Herald-Leader.—Joan Prather
Constitution Week Chairman, netted several awards and was all the more notable because Mrs. Kerns is an invalid and masterminds remarkable displays at the main Enoch Pratt Library in Baltimore and the Freedom Shrine at the Baltimore Polytechnic Institute with the generous assistance of her husband, Mr. Bernard Kerns. The chapter owes them both much.—Nell Cheney

DANIEL COLEMAN (Georgetown, TX). On May 6, 1995 an Official Texas Historical Marker was dedicated for the Founding of the City of Georgetown. Regent Nelma Wilkinson presided at the ceremony. Mrs. William Stegall of San Antonio, TSDAR State Regent, and Mrs. Travis Sheffield of Smithville, TSDAR State Chaplain, were in attendance. Among the other 100 attendees were officials of the City of Georgetown and Williamson County and relatives of the six original commissioners. Relatives of the two gentlemen who gave the land for the city of Georgetown, George W. Glasscock and Thomas B. Huling, also attended the ceremony. Members of the Ensign Thomas Huling Chapter of Kileen, Texas were also in attendance.

Regent Wilkinson was instrumental in leading the chapter with two years of planning for this event. Many fundraisers were conducted by the chapter to defray the expense of the marker. During the dedication ceremony, the chapter presented the DAR Excellence in Community Service Award to Irene Varan, member of Sara Sharpe Berry Chapter and Chairman of the Williamson County Historical Commission, in appreciation for her involvement with the project. An 100-year-old World War I veteran, Emmett Autrey, was honored with a Certificate of Commendation.

Laura Fabian, Chaplain; Una Jones, Historian and Librarian; Nelma Wilkinson, Regent; Darla Teter, Treasurer; Faye Duncan, Corresponding Secretary; and Barbara Barrera, Recording Secretary.—Darla Teter

GENERAL WILLIAM CAMPBELL (Radford, VA) ended the year in fine style with a pot luck supper held on the terrace of the home of Mrs. S.C. Turner. Each member and guest was presented a gaily decorated straw hat and a corsage of silk roses.

The program, "Show and Tell," provided members with a chance to share family antiques and stories. Among the items displayed were photographs of grandparents, a book of the early 1800s, exquisite antique jewelry, pictures, toys, buttons and an old silk fan. One member showed her grandfather's honorable discharge from the Confederate Army, dated April, 1865.

The chapter has gained five new members this year; four by application, who are sisters and one by transfer from member-at-large. Two are junior members and one a former member of C.A.R.—Patricia L. Rutherford

In 1987, the South Pasadena Bicentennial Committee transformed a vacant lot adjacent to the Meridian Iron Works Museum into a landscaped area known as Heritage Garden. Thirteen liquid amber trees were planted in honor of the original Colonies, with Las Flores donating two of the trees and a flag to be flown over the Garden.

Three bronze plaques were placed forming a triangle at base of the flagpole. One is embossed with the entire US Constitution. A second plaque, containing the first Ten Amendments to the Constitution, was dedicated in 1991 on the Bicentennial of the Ratification of the "Bill of Rights" and the third, which was unveiled February 22, 1995, contains the Eleventh Amendment.

Other amendments will be added on the anniversaries of their ratification.

The High School band played patriotic songs, a short speech was given on "The Constitution Lives" and 245 fifth grade students were specially designed t-shirts with the Preamble to the Constitution printed on front in phonetic spelling. American Flags were given to all participants and refreshments were provided by the two South Pasadena DAR Chapters, which co-sponsored the event.

CAPTAIN JOHN OLDHAM (Grass Valley-Nevada City, CA) was honored to have President General "Deanie" Kemper ride on our prize winning float in the Grass Valley 4th of July Day Parade. The crowded streets of this picturesque gold country town rang with cheers as the red, white and blue decorated DAR entry passed in review.

The chapter has been fortunate to have had a number of additionally rewarding activities this past Spring.

Conservation was the topic at one meeting, which featured the outstanding work of the local Youth Conservation Camp projects of fighting forest fires and reforestation. As a reminder of the conservation practiced during WWII, copies of Ration Stamp book pages were used for napkin ring favors. A chapter member is the State Conservation Chairman and as such is spearheading the official State Conversation Project at the Empire Mine in Grass Valley. A bus tour to the Mine was planned as an adjunct to the September Northern Council.

According to the Hospital Administration, she has been a source of comfort and hope to the families of patients, especially children. They go to her to share their concerns about their loved ones, and always receive a listening ear and a caring response.

She supports the Hospital Staff in every way and is an ardent supporter of nursing scholarships. General Henry Dearborn Chapter and the DAR are very proud of Helen Solander!—Evelyn Fogarty

Beale AFB in Marysville accepted our Chapter's DOD posters for their displays and flew our WWII Commemorative Community flag during their V-E Day ceremonies.

Flag Day was celebrated by presenting a flag to the County Historical Society for the Nevada City Firehouse #1. This building, now a museum, was erected in 1861. Chapter Junior member and Girl Scout leader, along with her Troop, joined in the observances.

Sets of DOD WWII campaign books were presented to the Nevada County Librarian for the library's Historical Collection.

GENERAL HENRY DEARBORN (Chicago, IL). Our former Regent, Mrs. Helen Solander, a warm and gentle lady, has just been chosen to receive the Illinois Humanitarian and Volunteer award of the year! When her husband, Carl, a physician at Grant Hospital, died many years ago, she not only provided the Hospital with a lovely chapel, but she has volunteered at the hospital Gift Shop every since that time.

ELIZABETH MAXWELL STEELE (Salisbury, NC) presented their prestigious ROWAN SERVICE AWARD on May 23, 1995 to former member Elizabeth Hanford Dole (Mrs. Robert) in their chapter DAR Room in the Community Building. Standing beneath the portrait of Elizabeth Maxwell Steele, American Revolutionary Patriot and chapter namesake, Regent Jo Walcher (Mrs. Floyd) gave the plaque to Mrs. Dole. She joins a distinguished list of residents of Rowan County who have received this honor for service and leadership to this community since the chapter began presenting this award in 1956.

A native of Salisbury, Mrs. Dole began her leadership qualities early as president of C.A.R. and followed in her mother's footsteps as a NSDAR member. She received a law degree from Harvard and has had an illustrious career in Washington, D.C. serving under six presidents. She was the first woman Secretary of Transportation under President Reagan and was known as the "safety secretary" and continued sponsoring venture become a nationwide assistance to young people.

The chapter held a lovely reception after the speeches and presentation which was attended by NCDAR State Regent Rolfe Towe Teague (Mrs. Richard K.); the mayor of Salisbury; the Chief Administrator of the VA in Salisbury; the Executive Director of the local American Red Cross chapter; several former recipients of this community recognition and members of "Youth in Action," as well as Mrs. Dole's brother, John Hanford.—Dorothy D. Williamson

EXETER (Exeter, NH). Not since 1926 when Dr. Alice M. Chesley served as State Regent, have we had a similar distinctive, but at the 104th Continental Congress, Mrs. Michael F. Dalton (Beatrice Worden), was installed as New Hampshire's State Regent, 1995-1998.

On June 24 we honored Mrs. Dalton at a reception at Christ Church Episcopal, Exeter, with family members and friends attending from Maine, Rhode Island, Florida, Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

In addition to current state officers, past Reporter General, Mrs. Donald J. Morton, Honorary State Regents Mrs. Kenneth G. Maybe and Mrs. Richard J. Partington, and members from 22 state chapters were present.

Unable to attend but sending special greetings were Honorary President General, Mrs. Raymond F. Fleck (Massachusetts), and Honorary State Regents Mrs. John Baum (Washington, D.C.) and Mrs. Arnold D. Cutting (New Hampshire).

With the cooperation of Carol Aten, Director of the American Independence Museum, Exeter, the rare Constitution drafts, complete with annotations by Constitutional delegates Nicholas Gilman of New Hampshire and Rufus King of Massachusetts, were exhibited, affording guests the opportunity to view the fragile documents. The museum does not keep them on regular display.

Arrangements for the reception were made by Regent Mrs. John Higgins, Mrs. Raymond J. Thivierge, Mrs. William B.L. Taylor, Mrs. Ernest C. Townsend, Mrs. Paul LaPerle, Mrs. Lorne M. MacLennan and Mrs. Scott A. Bullard. All chapter members served as hostesses.—Katherine Bullard

SARATOGA (Ballston Spa, NY). In a unique ceremony on Saturday, July 8, 1995, Saratoga Chapter presented a plaque to East Line Union Cemetery of Malta, NY, recognizing the cemetery for being the resting place of twenty-one veterans of the Revolutionary War. While researching her family history, Chapter Registrar Ruth Roerig discovered she is descended from Revolutionary War soldier Joseph Morehouse. Not only is she a descendant of Morehouse, but two other chapter members, Dorothy Mitchell and Vice Regent Judith Curtiss are also descendants of Morehouse.

Remarkably, the cemetery where Morehouse rests has a total of twenty-one veterans of the Revolutionary War buried there. The research project that took several years, was led by ex-Regent Ekdonna Butler and Registrar Roerig and culminated in the presentation by Mrs. Butler of the plaque to cemetery President Joseph Habesch. The plaque reads "In memory of the men buried in this cemetery who served with valor in the Revolutionary War. Placed by Saratoga Chapter DAR May 1995."

Malta Town Supervisor David Meager was the guest speaker at the ceremony which also featured an honor guard of Marine veterans who fired a traditional salute at the close of the dedication.

ADMIRAL DAVID FARRAGUT and MARY BLOUNT (Maryville, TN). Finally, the Revolutionary War Soldier, John Pickens, joins the fifteen other military marked Revolutionary War Soldiers and First Tennessee Families in the Historic Eusebia Cemetery in Blount County, Tennessee in having a military marker dedicated to him for his services in the Revolutionary War. Eusebia Cemetery is something of a Blount County Shrine, says Inez Burns, county historian.

As early as 1784, early settlers coming down the "Great War and Trading Path" camped here and buried their dead here before the church was founded in 1786 by a Virginia preacher, Archibald Scott, who at the same time organized the New Protestant Presbyterian Church in Downtown Maryville, Tennessee. Eusebia, a short name, means "Reverence to the Most High God and His Son, Jesus Christ." It is said that membership has declined just as headstones have increased:

"Hundreds of Gravesites have virtually become the cemetery where many Revolutionary War Soldiers and some Indians are buried." In 1975, Mrs. Eugene Little, a former historian of Mary Blount Chapter and Registrar for many years, an office which she still holds, placed thirteen military markers to Revolutionary War soldiers.

The process began in June 1994 because there were descendents in the Admiral David Farragut and Mary Blount Chapters, who had a strong desire to see the marking of John Pickens' grave, and Mrs. Eugene Little with her knowledge helped to get the dedication accomplished in an impressive service on May 7, 1995 in the historic old cemetery. It seemed appropriate to ask sixth generation descendents, Lara Walters and Robert Redwine, Jr., to unveil the marker.

COLONEL JOHN MITCHELL (Anchorage, AK) received a certificate of appreciation for its years of service at the immigration and Naturalization ceremony. The certificate was presented on Dec. 16, 1994.

Judge James M. Fitzgerald presented the certificate to Faith Ballew, Vice Regent of the chapter. She and Emily represent the NS-DAR each month at the ceremony.—Faith Ballew

Throughout the United States many are celebrating the 400th birthday of the Princess Pocahontas. She is remembered for her assistance to the Jamestown settlement in 1607 by saving Captain John Smith's life and assisting the Virginia Colonists in securing food during that winter. She was abducted by Captain Argall for the ransom of English prisoners, supplies and corn. During this time John Rolfe, who developed tobacco in Virginia, announced his intention to marry her. She converted to Christianity, was baptized on April 11, 1613 and was married in April 1614 in Henricus or Jamestown. Upon her baptism she was given the name Rebecca. Shortly after their marriage she and John Rolfe travelled to England where she was known as Lady Rebecca.

Pocahontas and John Rolfe had one son, Thomas, who was born in 1615 at Heacham Hall, home of the Rolfe family in England. While planning her return to America in 1616, she became ill and died and was buried in the chancel of the Parish Church of St. George, Gravesend, England. Her son, Thomas, remained in England for a number of years, later returning to Virginia to claim the land his father had been granted as well as substantial land left to his mother “Lady Rebecca” by her father Chief Powhatan.

Pocahontas was a peacemaker at 12 and a legend at 20. Princess Pocahontas was the first American Indian to be converted to Christianity. She was the first Indian woman to marry an Englishman, the first to set foot on English soil and the first to be buried in England. She only lived 22 years, twelve of which were spent in Henricus near Richmond. Yet, she is one of the most well known figures in American history. Today there are people in every state and many foreign countries who can claim descent back to this wonderful Indian Princess. She truly was a remarkable woman.

HISTORIC CUSTOMHOUSE IN YORKTOWN, VIRGINIA

The Yorktown Customhouse is thought to be the oldest structure built as an office and storehouse for the collection of customs in English-speaking America. It was built about 1720 by Richard Ambler, the first Collector of Customs for the York River District. The port of Yorktown was the largest and busiest port between Charleston and Philadelphia.

The Comte de Grasse Chapter NSDAR bought the building in 1924 to use as a chapter house and a museum. Much of the beautiful woodwork, many of the great beams, and the flooring are original. Maintenance and improvements to the Customhouse have been accomplished with the help of the Virginia Daughters.

This historic building shelters many artifacts concerning its early beginning and that of the town of York. The Customhouse plays a prominent part in Yorktown Day, October 19 of each year, commemorating the final battle of the American Revolution. It is open for tours on Sunday afternoons between Flag Day (June 14) and Yorktown Day.

The Pulaski County Old Courthouse
Pulaski, Virginia
National Register of Historic Places

Pulaski County, formed from Wythe and Montgomery Counties in 1839, was named for Count Casimir Pulaski, Polish patriot who gave his life in the siege of Savannah in 1779. Pulaski County's first courthouse, located in Newbern, burned in 1893. The second courthouse, located in Pulaski and built of native sandstone, was completed in 1896. The Old Courthouse burned in 1989, was restored, and was rededicated in 1992. Heritage exhibits were completed in 1994, and a War Memorial on the front lawn was dedicated in 1995. The stone arch, built in 1907, was used as an entrance to the Pulaski County exhibit at the 1607-1907 Jamestown Exposition. When returned to Pulaski, it was erected as a permanent entrance to the Old Courthouse.

Hebron Lutheran Church was erected in 1740 and is the oldest Lutheran church in continuous use by Lutherans in the United States. It is also the oldest Lutheran congregation in the South and the tenth oldest in the nation.

The church was founded by German immigrants who were indentured to Governor Alexander Spotswood to work in his iron mines at Germanna (Orange County). They settled in what was to become Madison County between 1724 and 1726, and built a fort and stockade. They built a chapel soon afterward and called their first pastor in 1733.

Hebron is one of four wooden churches surviving from Virginia’s colonial times. It is architecturally notable for its hewn shipwright’s roof truss system, 1802 Tannenberg organ, and frescoed ceiling from the Victorian era.

The cemetery was opened at the turn of the century and the adjacent parish house was erected in 1959.
Thomas Jefferson designed and built Poplar Forest in 1806 and used the octagonal dwelling in Bedford County, Virginia, as his year round personal retreat. It is open from April through November.

During the Virginia State Conference in Richmond, March 17-19, the District V daughters had an exhibit of World War II Memorabilia. Members from most of the 23 chapters of District V loaned over 1000 items for the exhibit. The items ranged from a 48 star United States flag, draft notices, silver flying wings, discharge papers, and an abundance of medals, newspaper articles, ration stamps, posters, scrapbooks, an album of commemorative stamps, and many, many photos. Several uniforms were displayed as well. These included a Red Cross uniform and ladies fatigues with khaki underwear and boots. A captured Japanese flag and a copy of the Terms of Surrender were two outstanding items from the Pacific arena. Bracelets made from Australian coins and shot-down Japanese airplanes were sent home as souvenirs.

Richard Harvey III, a World War II veteran loaned us his summer and winter uniforms as well as his entire history as a Master Sergeant in the Army during the war. His mother had saved everything from his Greetings letter, classification letter, orders through to his discharge papers. We were fortunate to have him appear in person to tell some of the things he remembered. His daughter is Lora Jane Lisle, a District V daughter and member of the Dr. Elisha Dick Chapter. They are pictured above left.
DAUGHTERS of the AMERICAN REVOLUTION

WORLD WAR II

DISTRICT V DIRECTOR

Many items from the Homefront were displayed: ration stamps, steel pennies (minted only during the war years), air warden’s manual and arm band, Mother’s Blue Star flag, and early recycling efforts such as tin cans and bacon fat. Susan Leigh, District V Director furnished a 1940’s reproduction radio and appropriate music was played in the background during the exhibit.

Betty De Groat, a member of the Thomas Lee Chapter and World War II veteran, was on hand during the exhibit to tell her experiences as an interceptor of messages for decoding. Betty is pictured to the right pointing to herself in her unit’s photograph. She plans to donate this picture to the Woman’s War Memorial.

The following District V, Virginia Chapters supported this exhibit by donating their items, time and memories:

The new DAR Insignia sign has been recently purchased by Berryman Green Chapter and placed with the welcome logos at the 501 South entrance to the Town of South Boston. To the left of this is a highway marker the chapter was instrumental in relocating in 1974 near where General Nathaniel Greene's Army crossed the Dan River in February 1781, while being pursued by Cornwallis. The boats for the crossing were furnished by Edward Carrington, the owner of "Berry Hill", a plantation of some renown in the county, and site of the Greek Revival Mansion considered one of three outstanding in America, and a National Landmark.

North Central District Director - Mrs. David A. Nicklas
Located in Robinson Township, Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, founded in 1794, the Union Church consecrated the surrounding land as the resting place for the dead of the congregation and the community. Among the first to be buried there were Soldiers of the American Revolution.

The hill upon which the church and cemetery are located was once used as a beacon by the local Indian Tribes. The number of patriots buried here, the rural setting and proximity to Fort Pitt, and the large industrial population of “New Americans,” was reason enough for the area to be constituted a National Shrine on May 12, 1939.

Considered to be one of the most important in the State Association, the Union National Shrine can document 25 Revolutionary Graves plus many graves from the wars that followed.

The Union Church and Cemetery celebrated their 200th Anniversary on May 30, 1994.

The Isaac Watson House in Trenton, New Jersey, serves as Headquarters for the New Jersey Society, NSDAR.

The Watson House was built in 1708 by the son of an English immigrant. It was in a serious state of disrepair when the New Jersey Society, NSDAR leased it from the city of Trenton in 1964. (The lease is for 99 years at a cost of $1.00 per year.)

The New Jersey Daughters immediately set to work to restore what had once been the finest home in the township. The Watson house was dedicated as the State Society's Headquarters on March 18, 1965. Carefully chosen period pieces continue to be added to the house, as gifts from groups and individuals.

Today, Watson House, beautifully restored and furnished, serves as the home of the New Jersey State Society.

Special thanks to TAMSCO's Graphic Arts & Design Department and the Founders Committee, Mrs. Ernest L. Cunningham, Chairman for their assistance.
Mrs. Richard S. Smith (Marnie), State Regent, seated at the lovely 18th century slant-top desk in the parlor of Watson House.

This lovely English hanging corner cupboard, c.1765 is located in the Watson House parlor. A few special pieces of the china and glassware collection are displayed here.

Marnie takes a rest from her duties as State Regent to review the guest book at the Watson House.

Marnie tries her hand at "carding wool" next to the large spinning wheel in the "master" bedroom of Watson House.

Margaret Lothrop national #1 Old North Bridge Society, Massachusetts
Pride of the Past, Promise of the Future

It all began in 1894, Mrs. Daniel Lothrop, organizing regent of the Old Concord chapter, Massachusetts, DAR, proposed to the Fourth Continental Congress the following resolution: "Resolved that the Society of the Children of the American Revolution shall be organized and adopted by the Daughters of the American Revolution."

"An organization for the training of young people in true patriotism and love of country, in order that they shall be better fitted for American citizenship"

"As the boys and girls of 1776 took an active part in the war for independence, so the boys and girls of today have a definite work to do for their country"

SONS OF UNION VETERANS OF THE CIVIL WAR

Help preserve your American heritage and the memory of our ancestors who preserved the union during the Civil War.

The Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War was created in 1881 by the Grand Army of the Republic. Chartered by Act of Congress in 1894 and recognized by the G.A.R. as its successor order in 1956, the S.U.V.C.W. is composed of male descendants 14 years and older of Union veterans who are dedicated to the principles that the sacrifices and valor of the Union soldier should never be forgotten by the American people.

Help keep your ancestor’s memory alive. Join the S.U.V.C.W. or its auxiliary.

HAPPY NEW YEAR . . . Traditionally, the month of January is viewed as a new beginning . . . a time to plan . . . set goals . . . and many have made new year’s resolutions.

ENLIST one new subscriber to the DAR Magazine! If each person reading this request would sell a subscription, we would reach unprecedented numbers. It isn’t a difficult or an expensive project and if done enthusiastically could mean an historic advancement for our publication.

AN INFORMED MEMBER makes a better member. Think about the rewards for such a small investment. It is up to you.

THE MAGAZINE is a very basic educational tool for the DAR. We wouldn’t think of sending our children to school without books, so we are suggesting that we cannot expect commitment to our work in DAR without our signature educational tool . . . the DAR Magazine.

PLEASE HELP us to help others. May this new and bright year be filled with blessings for you and yours.

Accidents can happen at any time. And in today's fast moving world, your risk of having an accident goes up every time you leave your home.

If you should be injured as a result of a travel accident, you could face a lot of unexpected expenses, even if you already have health insurance. It could mean hospitalization far from home, with a lot of personal expenses like: long distance calls, travel back and forth, and hotel costs for other family members, for example.

You can help reduce your financial risk with the NSDAR Travel Accident Plan. This plan will pay you $150 for every day you are hospitalized as the result of a covered accident that occurs while a pedestrian, driving or riding in a motor vehicle, or a passenger in a commercial train, plan or ship. What's more, if death results from such an accident, your beneficiary will receive an accidental death benefit of $20,000.

You're covered 24 hours a day—worldwide—by the NSDAR Travel Accident Plan. And you can apply at any age without the need for a medical exam.

You owe it to yourself and your family to find out more about the NSDAR Travel Accident Plan.
