COVER STORY

The sweetest thing in the world to me is a cheerful smile on your face to see.

This brief message is found on the inside of the Valentine featured on the February cover. A part of the DAR Museum Collection, the card is a paper cut out in red, blue, and green. The front has the figure of a woman cut out of the paper, surrounded by leaves and figures. Behind her on the surface of the card is a haywagon being pulled by two horses. A man in a blue jacket is driving the team. A garland and wreath decorate the hay. Gift of Mrs. Charles Carroll, New York.

Valentine’s Day was celebrated as early as the 7th century commemorating the Christian festival of Saint Valentine on February 14, 270. By the 14th century, its religious significance was overshadowed by the customs we follow today. Saint Valentine as the patron saint of lovers appears to have arisen from the European belief that birds begin to mate on February 14; therefore, lads and lasses should choose partners and exchange gifts and greetings.

During the fall, the President General, Mrs. Charles K. Kemper, was privileged to welcome the President of the United States, the Honorable William Jefferson Clinton, to Constitution Hall. They are pictured in the President General’s Reception Room.
My dear Daughters,

The cold winter months have provided for time at home by the fire with family and friends. It is a time for all of us to value the friendships DAR brings to our doorstep. Please let me express appreciation for all the cards, calls, notes, flowers and memorials given in memory of my Mother, Jessie Lee Eaton, who passed away in December. A golden life has ended and she is at rest. Your caring and sharing has reminded me that friendship is truly a blessing. Thank you, each and every one.

Exciting things are happening in Constitution Hall. The second phase of acoustic treatment for sound improvement is in progress. All wall coverings will be removed in preparation for new finishes and paint. The ceiling lights in the lobby have been upgraded to provide more light and enhance the glow. New sconce lights will be installed in the lobby and new drapery is planned. The floors of the lobby will be repaired, cleaned and buffed. It should have a new elegant look when you arrive in the spring for Congress.

Enjoy the 1997 theme of “Providing Education” for it is without a doubt one of our most important objectives. At this very moment, creation and preparation is in process for a 30 second up to 1 minute Public Service Announcement which will tell how DAR is “Providing Education” to young people now. Look for it on your local area television stations sometime in March.

We have retained a public relations firm to represent DAR in the media environment. Ruder-Finn Washington will guide and direct our outreach to the community and advise us in obtaining increased, accurate and positive stories about our good work. We want to see positive public perception of DAR and its objectives. The volunteer service provided by Daughters is relevant to the problems faced by all Americans today. We need to tell the story!

Our Heritage is the Key to Our Future! That is the story we must tell.

Faithfully,

Darla Eaton Kemper
As far back as anyone can remember, the old "GW" button had bumbled about in a battered shoebox amid the Confederate correspondence of my father's side of the family in the hills of middle Tennessee. In 1974 as patriotic fervor for the approaching Bicentennial celebration of our nationhood gathered momentum, I decided to identify the family memento about which there seemed to be no accurate information.

As the Chinese found out centuries ago, the longest journey begins with a single step. It only took one phone call to a dealer in military artifacts in Marietta, Georgia, to have him on my doorstep with the very book needed to identify the GW button: Record of American Uniform and Historical Buttons with Supplement by Alphæus H. Albert, published in the preceding year 1973. Mr. Albert's book is still the definitive work on historical uniform, political campaign and commemorative buttons of our nation.

Mr. Albert, collector, research specialist and respected military historian, dedicated his book to the memory of the Men and Women who served their Country for the preservation of LIBERTY and FREEDOM, including his great-great-grandfather, Nicholas Albert (Hal), private in the 6th and 9th Battalion, Lancaster County (Pennsylvania) Militia, Continental Army.
The Record, as Mr. Albert's book is referred to, contains thirty-five pages of Washington Inaugural Buttons; therefore, on that memorable evening in the fall of 1974, I had "the old GW button" in one hand and was leafing slowly through the pages of Mr. Albert's book comparing my button to those depicted there—with the dealer looking over my shoulder. After ten pages without success, I spotted a button like mine with this description:

THE SCRIPT "GW"; a script GW monogram in the center, with each word in the encircling legend LONG LIVE THE PRESIDENT separated by a 4-dot ornament; 1 piece. A. The device is in raised letters on a depressed field. 35mm. R7.

I turned to the dealer, "What does 'R 7' mean?"
He had an unusual look on his face. "Means 'unique.' One, possibly two, in the world. May I see the button?"

With a smile, remembering that possession is nine-tenths of the law, I closed my fingers tightly over the button and said sweetly, "Let's just see if we can reach Mr. Albert by phone."

Once I had reached the foremost authority on American uniform and historical buttons at his home in Hightstown, New Jersey, our conversation was an almost comical North-South, June-December, male-female stichomythia. During the verbal exchanges, I was awash with the enthusiasm of my discovery and Mr. Albert was, at first, curiously unaffected.

"I have a George Washington button," I announced, opening my fingers a little to peek at it.
"That's nice," he replied. I had to remind myself that he had seen all those on the pages of his book. Then he added, "But you know there are dozens of types of GW buttons, some of them spurious, produced about the time of the Washington Inaugural Centennial in 1889."

I persisted. "But my button is just like one you have pictured on page 381 in your book. It says 'LONG LIVE THE PRESIDENT' around the edge."

"There are at least three pages of buttons with that legend."

"But Mr. Albert," I insisted, "There is only one button on which each word of the legend is separated by a 4-dot ornament.

"Are you going to be at home this weekend?" asked Mr. Albert.

In spite of his being past eighty years old, Mr. Albert drove himself down from Hightstown, New Jersey, to see and authenticate my "old GW button." And to present me with an autographed copy of his book the Record.

His assessment of the button is contained in the letter I received from him upon his return to Hightstown and his duties as town historian:

I can understand your ecstacy and I can join you in your joy on finding the button and learning the identity. You are indeed fortunate in finding this button among your possessions. I remember with pleasure my experience several years ago when I first learned of the existence of the button I now own and being able to add it to the list of Washington Inaugural buttons as a new variety. My button came from Arkansas. Since then yours is the third specimen to be reported, changing the rarity to R6—still a very scarce button. . . . congratulations on having found so fine a button."

And in a letter penned the day after Washington's birthday in the Bicentennial year of 1976, Mr. Albert reiterates: "Even with three [of this variety of George Washington button] known, it is a very rare button—in fact one of the rarest of the series."

Monetary values have not been assigned to the Washington Inaugural buttons. The buttons are so scarce and the desire of ownership so great that any estimated value, even if assigned by an established auction house such as Sotheby's, would be greatly exceeded at the actual time of sale. The assignment of a rarity scale is a better guide for the collector contemplating a purchase. In the twenty years since the Bicentennial Celebration, interest in Washingtoniana in all its forms has increased to such an extent that collectors have had to revise the values of some of the scarcer specimens by a generous percentage. To illustrate, a copy of Washington's Farewell Address, with Andrew Jackson's autograph and an estimated value of Historical Washington Inaugural buttons have been among the mementos most treasured and handed down through successive generations. As Edward H. Davis, well-known archivist of the Scovill Manufacturing Company, Waterbury, Connecticut, says in his foreword to Mr. Albert's first book Washington Historical Buttons: "to study the buttons associated with Washington's post-military career is, in fact, to revive the spirit and temper of the infant days of our Republic."

Political conditions in the United States, England and France during the years 1789-90 gave rise to similar celebrations and public reactions. Many types of novelties such as ribbons, sashes, bandeaux, fillets, fans, snuff boxes, penny broadsides and other ephemeral memorabilia of a similar nature were produced, including buttons.

The subjects of all these various commemorative items were the Heads of State of the three countries. Our fledgling nation was the forerunner of such national and nationalistic, that is patriotic, celebrations, and the George Washington Inaugural buttons undoubtedly predate buttons struck in England to celebrate the recovery of George III whose life had been despaired of several months and those worn in France in honor of Louis XVI before radicals seized control of the direction of the French Revolution.

Slogans were popular for the earliest "metallic disks of history" as Mr. Albert calls political buttons in the Record. The three most popular slogans for Washington Inaugural buttons were REMEMBER MARCH 4, 1789, MEMORABLE ERA THE FOURTH OF MARCH, 1789, the day appointed for the organization of the new government, and LONG LIVE THE PRESIDENT. The words shouted by Robert R. Livingston, Chancellor of the State of New York, when he had concluded administering the oath of office to George Washington struck a responsive chord in the hearts of his countrymen and from the balcony of Federal Hall overlooking Wall Street his words were carried throughout the land. Livingston had actually cried out, "Long live George Washington, the President of the United States!" Although shortened to "Long live the President!" this legend became a prominent part of the ornamentation on numerous articles of clothing and accessories and other decorative items appearing during this period.

On April 30, 1789, inside the remodeled Federal Hall and the newly redecorated Senate Chamber, Washington gave his inaugural address and at the same time gave a boost to the young nation's manufacturing industry. He wrote in his journal, "On this occasion I was dressed in a suit of clothes made at the woolen manufacturers at Hartford, as the buttons were also." From other contemporary accounts we know that the "specially made brown suit" as Douglas Southall Freeman calls it was a deep shade of fine broadcloth spun and worn "to advertise American industry; it was also in a homely way to proclaim American liberty since the device on the buttons was that of a wing-spread eagle." William Rollinson, later to become a famous copper engraver, had been employed to chase the coat of Arms of the United States upon a set of gilt buttons presented to Washington as a gift on that memorable day. Frugality and patriotism urged abstinence from foreign manufacturers and the use of things made at home.

During the presidency of Washington large brass and copper buttons, 35mm or roughly the size of a silver dollar were worn on men's greatcoats. Many of these buttons in the center have a facsimile of the president's written initials, the monogram bearing a close resemblance to the watch seal worn by the Father of Our Country. It is possible that some of these "LONG LIVE THE PRESIDENT" buttons were not worn at the first inauguration but were manufactured subsequently and sold for various celebrations occasioned by the good will tours made by George Washington to various parts of the country during his first administration. According to contemporary records, local enthusiasms ran high and a great variety of items appeared to be worn on these occasions.

"Battered and bent with the changes of a century, an old copper button . . ." so begins a description of a 'GW button' in an article from THE PROVIDENCE (Rhode Island) JOURNAL in 1889. That is not the case, however, with the button that has descended in my family. Its condition is much more to be compared with that of the Grecian urn in Keats' ode: "Thou still unravished bride of quietness/Thou foster-child of silence and slow time...” What is remarkable is that the shank, the part of the button that allows it to be sewn to the coat, is not only intact, it is sturdy and tight as a recently manufactured one. Details like this, as well as its fine workmanship determine a button of museum quality, representing the best that collecting Washingtoniana has to offer.

Washington Inaugural buttons have survived more than two centuries because some individual was careful to preserve them. The button in my family represents what Judge Chester Pendleton in the Quarterly Bulletin of the National Button Society has called “the fortunate accident of generations of successive owners, each of whom recognized the historical character of the inheritance, and has preserved the button for us.”

The most compelling information about this particular button—its provenance—is, of course, that which cannot now be known, it seems. Who wore the button on his greatcoat? Did he attend Washington’s inauguration? The first? The second?
If so, he would have traveled even farther enduring the miserable conditions on the new nation’s roads than did the great man himself. Or did he greet the President along his triumphal tour through the South during his first administration?

President George Washington gave no little thought to the buttons he wore on the first inauguration in this nation’s history. This considera-

As Washington journeyed from Mount Vernon to New York City to become the first President, elaborate celebrations were pre-fed for him along the way. This silk watercolor with sequins and mica embroidery entitled "Liberty in the Form of the Goddess of Youth, Giving Support to the Bald Eagle in Front of the Trenton Arches," depicts the welcome prepared by Trenton, New Jersey. A part of the DAR Museum Collection, it was executed by an unknown artist from New Jersey or New York.
During any election year, millions of people sit before their television sets, remote controls in hand, and watch what has become a staple of the American political process—the debate. But how many people would watch if they had to travel by horse and wagon and stand for four hours in the heat, cold, dust or mud and hear the candidates speak without the aid of microphones of any sort?

Thousands did just that to hear the historic Lincoln-Douglas debates during a contest for a United States Senate seat in 1858, and the statistics are stunning. Consider this: with up to 20,000 people in the audience, debaters had no microphones, no idiot cards, and no teleprompters. It all happened outdoors with candidates on temporary platforms and with the audience standing for 3–5 hours on sometimes dusty, sometimes muddy ground. Many had spent six hours in travel time before the debates and would spend six more returning home. That such immense crowds could mass for political debates “borders on the fantastic,” wrote historian Harold Holzer.

For many years now, as I have reread parts of Carl Sandburg's Abraham Lincoln, I have been struck anew by the statistics of that unique series of debates. I am dealing here with statistics, not with the substance of the debates, perhaps the most important in our 220-year history. Historian S. E. Morison wrote: “No recorded debate in the English language has surpassed those between Lincoln and Douglas for . . . clear exposition of vital issues.” The issues were indeed vital: What was the status of the Negro slave? Was he a person or was he “special property” without rights? And could this problem divide the Union?

The immediate purpose of the debaters was to win the Senatorial race of 1858. Judge Stephen A. Douglas—he was always called Judge even though he was Senator at the time—was running for reelection. Lincoln was challenging him. Both men had already made many campaign speeches around the state before Lincoln issued a challenge for a series of formal debates. Reluctantly Douglas agreed to seven debates, one in each of the remaining Congressional districts. They had already debated in two of the nine districts.

The consequences of the debates far exceeded the initial purpose. The immediate outcome was that Douglas kept his Senate seat. Lincoln won the popular vote, receiving 4,085 more votes than Douglas. But election was not by popular vote, but by legislative apportionment, and Douglas won in the gerrymandered legislature 54 to 46.

However, there were national repercussions far beyond the initial purpose. Important newspapers from around the country sent their shorthand reporters, called “phonographic reporters,” and as a result, the speeches were printed verbatim in every widely-read journal in the Eastern states, especially those in New York and Boston. At the end, the debates were collected, printed in book form, and widely distributed. The book was a best seller going into several printings.

Prior to the debates, Douglas was already nationally famous as a powerful and fiery orator, while Lincoln was a country lawyer, unknown outside Illinois. Thus, Douglas, inadvertently, contributed to Lincoln’s increasing fame, so much that he was invited to speak in more than a dozen cities in the East. “Send Abraham Lincoln to Albany,” said one telegram.

So much for the background. Now for the statistics. First, the minor ones: Lincoln was a gaunt, ungainly rustic, measuring 6’4”, while the suave, stocky Douglas was one foot shorter at 5’4”. As to financial resources, Douglas was wealthy compared to Lincoln. He traveled in style to the debates usually in a private railroad car, with a retinue of supporters, flags, bunting, and a cannon to announce his arrival. Lincoln rode the cars as an ordinary passenger. Lincoln spent a total of $1,000 during the eight weeks of the debates, while Douglas spent $50,000, fifty times as much. Thirty-two states made up the Union, with a population of 30 million—which is less than the current population of California.

However, the statistics which are most stunning are those dealing with the attendance at the debates—the masses of humanity which poured into the towns which were the sites of the celebrations. And they were celebrations, with parades, brass bands, banners (one was 80 feet long) and considerable hubbub. The overall speaking time for the debates was three hours, with one and one half hours for each speaker. However, delays were inevitable. Once, the phonographic reporters were late. At one debate, spectators climbed upon the awning over the speakers’ platform and fell through onto the dignitaries below. Several times the crowds were so dense that speakers took 30 minutes or more to work their way through to the stand. Minor scuffles broke out. Liquid refreshment was plentiful.

By any standard, our forebears were a sturdy lot: able to stand for up to five hours in a massed throng, without accommodations, and endure sometimes dismal weather conditions: heat and clouds of dust on sunny days, and mud and standing water after a rain. Many had spent six hours or more on the journey to the site. And yet, for five of the debates, crowds of from 12,000 to 20,000 withstood these hardships willingly. Truly, the prairies were on fire, as one New York newspaper wrote.

Listed below are some facts about the debates.

1ST DEBATE: 21 AUGUST, OTTAWA, pop. 7,000. Audience: 10,000 – 20,000. On a blistering summer day, the canal town of Ottawa was overwhelmed with the crush of humanity that streamed into its public square. Douglas led a mile-long procession into town. The crowds came afoot, on horseback, in ox-drawn wagons, fancy carriages, drays and huge canal boats. A 14-car special train brought in over 1,000 from Chicago. An 11-car special brought in hundreds more from Peru and La Salle.

Few shade trees offered relief from the heat. No seats or benches were provided except those on the platform for dignitaries and a row of seats for a few ladies. Crowds of people, horses and vehicles stirred up so much dust that the area looked like “a vast smokehouse,” wrote a witness. The town was “shrouded in dust,” wrote another.

The marvel is that up to 20,000 people not only endured the hardships of travel, starting in many cases the day before, but were willing to stand for hours during the debate. Of course, at that time entertainments were rare, and the political issues were approaching the boiling point. Still, we must admire the fortitude and values of our ancestors, especially when we reflect that the only hardship we must endure to listen to a campaign speech is to decide which TV station to choose and press the clicker. As to values, the public events that draw the most enthusiastic crowds now are rock concerts.

2ND DEBATE: 27 AUGUST, FREEPORT, pop. 7,000. ATTENDANCE: 15,000. Six days after the debate at Ottawa, the crowds converged on Freeport, in the northwest corner of Illinois, six hours by train from Chicago. The site was a vacant lot near the Illinois Central railroad tracks. Again, no seats were provided for spectators. A 16-car special train brought in over 1,000 from Chicago. Instead of the blistering heat of the first debate, the day was chilly with a drizzle of rain.

Douglas was “richly dressed,” plantation style. Lincoln wore his usual seedy black suit with sleeves and pants legs too short.

A black mark goes to Douglas who recalled with scorn that when he had last visited Freeport, he had seen black leader Frederick Douglass “daring to ride alongside white women in a carriage driven by a white man.” A voice from the crowd shouted, “What of it?” Another said, “Down with the Negro.”

It is near impossible for people nowadays to believe that an outdoor crowd of 15,000 listened for three hours to speakers without microphones. However, witnesses reported that the speakers could be heard even on the outskirts of the crowd.

Newspaper reports were highly partisan. The Philadelphia Press wrote of Lincoln: “Poor fellow! He was writhing in the grasp of an intellectual giant (Douglas).” While the New York Evening Post wrote of Lincoln: “The fire of genius plays on his every feature. He has no superior as a stump speaker.”

3RD DEBATE: 15 SEPT, JONESBORO, pop. 800. AUDIENCE: 1,400. Nineteen days after the Freeport debate, the scene shifted to Jonesboro at the extreme southern tip of Illinois. It was located at the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. The area was called Egypt because it resembled the Nile delta, and the Indian mounds looked somewhat like the pyramids. Cairo was just east of Jonesboro.

Close to the slave states of Kentucky and Missouri, Jonesboro was strongly pro-slavery. It was Douglas country and he expected a great triumph here. However, both the place and time were ill-chosen. The village was too small and remote to attract or hold a large crowd; it was a mile from the nearest railroad station. The smallest assemblage of the debate series turned out, with estimates from 1,200 to 1,500. The date was also unfortunate because it conflicted with the county fair where thousands of farm families had gone. Dog-day heat prevailed.

Audience response was cool, lacking the enthusiasm of earlier crowds, even though Douglas made a dramatic entry with his trainload of supporters, an out-size American flag, and a brass cannon to announce his arrival. He repeated his race-baiting Frederick Douglass remark.

The Chicago Times wrote that Lincoln was "greatly embarrassed. ... We fancy that he has had enough of Egypt and certainly Egypt has had enough of him." However, the Louisville Journal wrote of Lincoln's remarks: "Let no one omit to read them. They are searching, scathing, stunning."

4TH DEBATE: 18 SEPT, CHARLESTON, AUDIENCE: 12,000–15,000. Three days after the Jonesboro debate, the principals moved to Charleston, close to the Indiana line. This was Lincoln country, his old home. In 1838, as a 19-year-old, he had entered Charleston driving a huge oxcart with a double yoke of oxen, laden with all the family belongings. The town commemorated this event with an 80-foot banner stretched above the street from the courthouse to the capitol building. On one side, the banner depicted the young Lincoln and his oxcart with the label: "ABE'S ENTRANCE INTO CHARLES TON THIRTY YEARS AGO." And on the reverse, huge letters proclaimed: "COLES COUNTY: FOUR HUNDRED MAJORITY FOR LINCOLN."

Both candidates entered town heading long processions, among the longest and most elaborate of the seven debate parades. A "mammoth car festooned in white silk and muslin" and decorated with wildflowers and "emblazoned with Lincoln inscriptions" carried 32 young women, one for each state.

With their brass bands, their trains of wagons, carriages, oxcarts, horseback riders, the parades marched a mile or more on dirt roads "like conquering armies" extended across the prairie "as far as the eye could reach." All were covered with a cloud of dust, a witness reported.

Does marching for several miles through a dust cloud and then standing for a three-hour debate qualify as a celebration? Apparently so, for enthusiasm was unabated.

5TH DEBATE: 7 OCT, GALESBURG, pop. 5,500. AUDIENCE: 20,000 plus. Nearly three weeks later, an enormous crowd gathered in Galesburg on the campus of Knox College. Galesburg and Knox College were both strongly pro-Lincoln, understandable because Galesburg was a stop on the Underground Railroad. By some accounts, the crowd here was the largest of the series.

Douglas rode in on an 11-car special train. Lincoln had a 5-mile buggy ride to get to Galesburg; his procession was a mile long. Farmers who had come the night before had set up tents. Throngs came from every direction in the usual conveyances, including shanks' mare. Several excursion trains made it in time, but one 22-car special from Peoria had mechanical difficulties, and the 2,000 passengers arrived near the end of the debate. The crowd was massive even without them.

"Arctic frosts" had moved in with winds so strong that they shredded flags and banners and sent placards and signs flying "pellmell all over town." Those without overcoats were chilled in body, but, according to reporters, still full of "political ardor." This was the only debate at which witnesses reported that speakers could not always be heard because of the buffeting of the wind.

Republican newspapers wrote that Lincoln achieved "an incontrovertible victory." But Democrats did not concede defeat for Douglas. Rather they claimed "great success."

6TH DEBATE: 13 OCT, QUINCY, AUDIENCE: 12,000. The debate at Quincy, on the Mississippi River, drew listeners from Iowa and Missouri as well as from Illinois. Boatloads came from Keokuk, Iowa, and Hannibal, Missouri, swelling the crowd to between 10,000 and 15,000. The day was pleasant but muggy underfoot after several days of rain. The sentiment here was divided with enthusiastic support for each candidate. Here Lincoln declared that slavery was "a moral and political wrong."

This debate was fortunate in having reports of it given by Carl Schurz, statesman and reformer. Of the boisterous parades, he wrote that "the Democratic displays were much more elaborate and gorgeous than those of the Republicans. Douglas has plenty of money to spend on such things."

Schurz noted that although Lincoln's voice was sometimes shrill at the beginning, "it was not positively disagreeable." He was convinced "from the looks of the audience ... that every word he spoke was understood at the remotest edge of the vast assemblage."

Schurz marveled at how Lincoln changed the tenor of the debate, as others also noted. Douglas's style was powerful, eloquentory and bombastic, without humor. Whereas Lincoln was relaxed and conversational with frequent homely comparisons. In rebuttal he could be forceful "with rapid thrusts so deft and piercing and with humorous retorts so quaint" that he was considered "dangerous" because sometimes even opponents could be persuaded to accept his arguments.

7TH DEBATE: 15 OCT, ALTON. AUDIENCE: 5,000–6,000. The town of Alton had a blasting on its history. In 1837, 21 years earlier, a pro-slavery mob had murdered abolitionist editor, Elijah Lovejoy, who was trying to protect his printing press from the rioters intent on destroying it. Because of this violent incident and also because this was the last debate, a large crowd was expected. However, in spite of the beautiful October day, the crowd was the second smallest of the series. But even 6,000 extra people can make a small town seem "alive and stirring with large masses of human beings," as one witness reported.

The platform, constructed in front of the new city hall, faced the throngs who packed many city blocks down several streets.
For the first time, the two candidates arrived together. They came by steamboat from Quincy where both had remained after their debate there two days earlier. Even though the steamboat docked at five o'clock in the morning, Douglas received a riotous welcome with martial music and artillery fire, whereas Lincoln's welcome was quiet and without fuss. The subdued reception was frustrating for Lincoln because for the first time, his wife Mary and his son Robert were on hand.

Witnesses reported being startled at Douglas's haggard appearance and his exhausted and strained voice, which several said could be heard only by those near the platform. By contrast, Lincoln looked sunburned “but as fresh as if he had just entered the campaign.”

Republican leader Gustave Koerner recalled that Lincoln's message “stirred my heart as nothing else did and made me a greater foe of the institution of slavery.”

Douglas warned that agitators who now protested slavery could in future wage war on “another domestic institution.” Did he mean that if slavery was abolished, marriage might be the next institution to go? In summarizing the debates, Sandburg wrote: “Two men had spoken in Illinois to audiences surpassing any in past American history in size and eagerness to hear.” The eagerness to hear was unabated. The debates ended on October 15, but throngs of people were still enthusiastic for more.

Two weeks later, on October 30, Lincoln made his last speech of the campaign, and 10,000 people massed in Springfield for the occasion. Again, stores and public buildings were decorated with flags and banners, and brass bands and parades celebrated the event. People swarmed in from all over the state with nine railroad cars from Jacksonville and way stations, and 32 more from McLean and Logan counties. These trains were full to overflowing. The aisles were full, and the tops of the cars and two engine pilots were crowded with passengers. Several thousand farmers drove wagons in from out-lying districts.

Lincoln’s speech was perhaps an hour in length. The time is not certain. But what is certain is that most listeners spent four or five times that hour in reaching the site and returning home. Of the speech, a reporter wrote that “it was received with spontaneous bursts of enthusiasm unequalled by anything ever enacted in this city.”

At last the campaign was over. November 2 was election day. When Lincoln lost, he said he felt like the boy who stubbed his toe. “It hurt too much to laugh and he was too old to cry.”

Thus ended the most celebrated political campaign in our history. That this campaign still holds a fascination for us is attested to by its publishing history. By 1943, 38 separate books had recorded them [the Lincoln-Douglas debates]. In 1958, a centennial edition came out, and in 1993 Harold Holzer reexamined the texts and published a new version with his commentary. There are doubtless others.

In October 1996 we were in the midst of a political campaign—similar in some ways to that long-ago campaign—but vastly different in others. The trouble is: progress has overtaken us. Now, 30 million people can listen to campaign speeches with little more bother than the flick of a switch. But with every advance there is a loss. What has become too easy is frequently valued too little. And the “eagerness to hear” of Lincoln's time well may have become listeners' fatigue in our generation.

from the one “who by sword, counsel and public service did more for America than any other of her great patriots” brought pride and respect to the designers and artisans of his buttons. To quote Edward H. Davis, archivist of the Scovill Manufacturing Company: “How mightily would that pride be increased could they know the thought and study and cherished preservation that George Washington's countrymen are extending to the surviving buttons today.”

The Last Will and Testament of Martha Washington

By George W. Nordham
Waldwick, New Jersey

General George Washington died on December 14, 1799. It ended a marriage of 40 years, 11 months. His 68-year-old-widow, Martha Dandridge Custis Washington, survived for two-and-a-half years. She died on May 22, 1802.

Martha Washington had been provided for financially in her husband’s Last Will. The first “item” in his Will states:

“To my dearly beloved wife Martha Washington I give and bequeath the use, profit and benefit of my whole Estate, real and personal, for the term of her natural life... (and I also) give to her and her heirs forever... my household & kitchen furniture of every sort & kind, with the liquors and groceries which may be on hand at the time of my decease; to be used & disposed of as she may think proper.”

And George Washington named Martha as Executrix of his Last Will. The final section of his Will reads:

“Lastly, I constitute and appoint my dearly beloved wife Martha Washington (together with five named nephews and one ward) Executrix & Executors of this Will & Testament...”

After George’s death, Martha became sad and lonely. Mrs. John Adams visited her at Mount Vernon a year after George’s demise and reported that “Mrs. Washington’s spirit in life was gone.” Martha no longer managed the household and plantation with effectiveness. She let the mansion and property fall into a run-down condition.

On September 22, 1800, less than a year after her husband’s death, Martha Washington prepared her Last Will. It was written on both sides of five pages. Martha signed each page at the right-hand bottom corner and her Will was subscribed by witnesses. (George’s Will had not been executed before any witnesses; his was entirely in his own handwriting. Martha’s Will had been written by the hand of Eleanor Parke Custis Lewis.)

Martha’s Will made several specific bequests to named beneficiaries. For example, she gave to her granddaughter, Elizabeth Parke Law, “the dressing table and glass that stands (in a particular specified bedroom) and General Washington’s picture painted by Trumbull.” Another example, Martha gave to her granddaughter, Martha Peter, “my writing table and the seat to it... also the print of General Washington that hangs in the passage." Another example: "I give and bequeath to my grand daughter Eleanor Parke Lewis the large looking glass in the front Parlour . . . also twelve chairs with green bottoms . . . also the marble table in the garrett . . . a print of the Washington family in a box in the Garret . . ."

In her Will, Martha Washington gave several named individuals money "to buy a ring." She also gave a specified neighbor "five guineas to get something in remembrance of me."

After making these kinds of bequests, Martha specified in her Will that "all the rest & residue of my estate of whatever kind & description . . . shall be sold . . ." The proceeds, together with other cash and money from debts collected on money owed to Martha Washington, "shall be invested by my executors in eight percent stock of the funds of the United States." The interest on the investment was to be applied to the education of three named youngsters so that, said Martha's Will, they may be "accomplished in some useful trade."

Forty-three years after she had come to Mount Vernon as a new bride, Martha Washington died there. The cause of her death was bilious fever and complications. Her body was put to eternal rest next to her husband's in the family vault located a few hundred yards from the mansion house. Her Last Will was probated in the court of Fairfax County on June 21, 1802.

George Washington's Will is also set forth in The Writings of George Washington, published by the U.S. Government Printing Office, 1931-1944, volume 37, page 275. Both George's and Martha's Last Wills are also published in Wills of George Washington and His Immediate Ancestors, edited by Worthington Chauncey Ford, 250 copies printed by Historical Printing Club, Brooklyn, New York, 1891. However, The Last Will as published by the Mount Vernon Ladies Association (see footnote 1) contains highly informative notes regarding both Wills. These notes add importantly to a fuller understanding and appreciation of both Wills.

STATE ACTIVITIES

Reports limited to one per year; 500 words, double-spaced on 8-1/2 × 11 paper. Cost: $20.00; accompanying photo: $30.00 for black and white; $40.00 for color.

New York

Honored guests included Dorla Dean Kemper, President General; Merry Ann T. Wright, Recording Secretary General; Betty DeVries, Vice President General; Ruth Clyde, past Organizing Secretary General; Hallie Jane Tapp, past Corresponding Secretary General; and Jan Rohrs, past First Vice President General, past Treasurer General. Guests from other states were: Josephine Schelling, State Regent, Pennsylvania; Elizabeth Viale, State Regent, Massachusetts; Beatrice Dalton, State Regent, New Hampshire and Marcia Manning, State Regent, Vermont.

After the opening ceremonies on Friday morning, Marikay McHoul, State Regent, welcomed guests and members to the 100th State Conference. The President General responded by thanking the New York members for their warm welcome and for all the work of the New York Daughters at the National level. She invited everyone to her forum that afternoon. The Supervisor of Bolton Landing, Deanne Rehm, welcomed the members and announced that flags were flying in the village in recognition of the conference. Robert McIntosh, Managing Director of The Sagamore, also welcomed the Daughters to the resort and to the historic area. The State Regent thanked Suzanne Wiley, District Director, and the hostess chapters of District V as well as Conference Chairman, Frances Pattarini.

Friday afternoon, the Roundtables were conducted by State Officers and Chairmen. The President General also conducted her forum where she reported on the progress of her project, the refurbishing of Constitution Hall. Mrs. Kemper recognized and thanked the representatives of the 36 New York Chapters that had reached the 100% participation goal in contributions to the President General’s Project.

The annual banquet was held in the Ballroom of the Conference Center and featured the Empire State Chorus conducted by Mary Dean Landers. The honored speaker was the President General, who challenged members to maintain excellence in service, goals and character.

At the Saturday morning session, reports of the Chairmen of the National and State Committees were given. The Bylaws Chairman Jan Rohrs presented the proposed bylaws which were adopted with only a few revisions. Polls were opened for the election of three State Directors and a nominating committee. Elected for State Director were: Carilyn Dreher, District VI; Karen Livsey, District VIII; and Margaret Skinner, District I, II & XII.

At the annual Awards Luncheon, Miriam Kastrud, Chairman of the Fifty-Year Club, presented the newest members: Millicent Cole, Regent of Fort Stanwix; Emily Sanderson, Mohawk Chapter; Eleanor Angall, Oneida Chapter and Dorothy Baird McCumpha, Caughnawaga Chapter. Seventy-five year member Lillian Fraser, Captain Christian Brown Chapter, was honored. State Junior Membership Chairman, Beth Keyser, presented the Outstanding Junior Member award for 1996–97 to Marian Edmunds Liggera and the Outstanding Regent award to Diane Peck Galbraith, Regent of New York City Chapter.

At the New York State Society C.A.R. luncheon, the Senior State President Celeste Ann Goethe was the moderator. State President Bonnie Jean Yeager introduced the Officers and the theme of luncheon “Kids Helping Kids.” The speakers were Joseph Mitchell, Executive Director of Crossnore School and Ray Landers, Administrator of Kate Duncan Smith DAR School.

A highlight of the conference was the Adirondack Cookout Centennial Celebration which was held inside the Conference Center because of the cool temperatures. Everyone dressed informally and enjoyed a delicious cookout menu. This was followed by a program which was introduced by a grand procession of flags - USA, NSDAR and the New York State Chapter banners all led by the Fort William Henry Pipe and Drum Corps. The State Chairman of Motion Picture, Radio and TV Committee, Janice Cavalier, made three awards for outstanding achievement. Professor David K. Irving, Tisch School of the Arts, New York University, received the award for Motion Picture. Richard Conaty, Radio Personality on WQEW New York, received the Radio award. The TV award went to Dr. Libby Haight O’Connell, historian and producer on the History and A&E channels, for excellence in producing historic programs and documentaries for television. The recipients presented a video or short cassette of their work. The evening concluded with a sing-a-long led by Betty DeVries and Joe Mitchell.

On Sunday morning a moving Memorial Service was conducted by the State Chaplain Nancy Hanna. She was assisted by the State Regent Marikay McHoul and State Vice Regent Isabel Hobba and the State Directors. The Empire State Chorus also contributed to the service.

The closing session began with the final report of the Resolutions Committee. Helen Taylor, District Director, District VII, issued an invitation to the 101st State Conference which will be held October 3–5, 1997 at The Desmond in Albany, NY. The conference was adjourned with the joining of hands while singing “Blest Be the Tie That Binds.”—Shirley M. Collins

Wyoming

Daughters from around the State of Wyoming met in Gillette, home of the Inyan Kara Chapter, for their 81st Annual Wyoming State Regent Belle Hester set a fast pace of executive board meetings, business sessions, banquets and luncheon programs. The mayor of Gillette welcomed the Wyoming Daughters early Friday morning in short remarks at the Buffalo Room of the Best Western Tower West Lodge. The morning business session included the introduction of honored guests, Honorary State Regents, State Officers and Chapter Regents. After the introduction of State Chairmen of the current 1996–1998 term, reports from all committees were heard.

As it was the State Regent’s 50th birthday, the assembly sang a rousing “Happy Birthday” song and then broke for lunch where they listened to genuine cowboy poetry presented by one of Campbell County’s very own, Jo Fulton.

Following the afternoon business session, which included reports of the standing and special committees, a membership promotion workshop was conducted. Daughters reviewed the application process and learned new ways to facilitate the processing of application papers.

State Officers, Chapter Regents and Honorary State Regents convened in the Grand Teton Room Friday evening for photographs and then adjourned to the banquet. The revelers were treated by a visit from the surprisingly youthful Edward Gillette, founder of the city of Gillette some 100 years prior, with an armload of lithographs depicting the turmoil of period.

The memorial service was conducted on Saturday morning at 8:00 a.m. for the 13 departed members of the Wyoming Daughters. The business session followed in the Devil’s Tower Room. A plea was made to Chapter Regents by Belle Hester for donations to renovate the Wyoming Box at Constitution Hall. Honorary State Regent Adah Cartier pledged $1,000 to the beginning amount for herself and in memory of her sister, Honorary State Regent Frances Cottman Lavery. The Inyan Kara Chapter banner was proudly displayed by the host chapter and short remarks from the honored guests followed.

The 81st Wyoming State Conference was adjourned at 9:45 a.m. on August 3 and the Executive Board meeting concluded at 10:35 a.m. Wyoming Daughters are looking forward to next year already and were invited to convene the 82nd Wyoming State Conference in scenic Sheridan in August, 1997. The invitation was gladly accepted.—Mary Agnes McAleenan

Colorado Daughters celebrated their 93rd annual State Conference, March 16–18, at the Antlers Doubletree Hotel in Colorado Springs, presided over by State Regent Mrs. William A. Dillon (Ann). Honored guests were Mrs. Robert G. Herr, State Regent of California; Mrs. George W. Marshall II, State Regent of Delaware, and Mrs. John Mallison, Jr., DAR Representative Santa Fe National Historic Trail. Jane Mallison gave the Colorado Daughters the first look at the beautiful Santa Fe Trail Marker pin she co-designed with J. E. Caldwell, and regaled our final luncheon with tales of those who made the historic Santa Fe Trail journey.

Lt. Col. (Ret.) Harry R. Borowski, former History Professor at the United States Air Force Academy, gave the National Defense Banquet attendees a rousing lesson in patriotism.

Over 200 attended the Awards and Honors Luncheon where among those honored was the 5th Grade American History Essay Contest Winner, Elizabeth Ann Kolb, sponsored by Namaqua Chapter. She went on to win the Southwestern Division.

Six new members were added to Colorado’s Fifty-Year Club, and two were present to accept congratulations. In a most moving Memorial Service the State Regent honored 47 daughters.

Headed by Colorado’s Outstanding Junior, Mrs. Ronald Kimminau (Marcy) (Mount Lookout Chapter), the Juniors gave outstanding service as Pages, and their cumulative year’s work gave them good reason to celebrate with their own luncheon.

A highlight of the Conference was the presentation of the late Suzanne Golden’s Past State Regent pin to Doda White, Honorary Colorado State Regent. This was a special gift of the Golden family, and was pinned on Mrs. White by Seeley Golden Springman.

The State Chairman’s Club which was established for “fun only” by Suzanne Golden held its 3rd annual breakfast with a “Silly Slippers” contest. Imagine Colorado Daughters strolling the halls of the hotel at 7 a.m. shod with slippers unknown to the DAR world!

With the enthusiastic leadership of Ann Dillon, Colorado Daughters left the Conference with a renewed spirit to keep safe all DAR ideals—Gloria Grotzinger

New Hampshire

The New Hampshire State Organization, Daughters of the American Revolution held its 95th State Conference this year at the Sheraton Tara Hotel in Nashua. Presiding was Bea Dalton, State Regent, who used “Preserving History” as the conference theme. Conference chairman was Roxanna Smith and hostess chapters and regents were Ashuelot (Joy Fernandez), Matthew Thornton (Jackie Klose), Mercy Hathaway White (Roxanna Smith) and Reprisal (Laura Kessler). The luncheon on the first day was highlighted by an address by Mrs. Robert W. Watkins, Registrar General, who spoke on “Communicating the Vision.” In the afternoon a memorial service was conducted by State Chaplain Sarah Voll for recently deceased New Hampshire Daughters.

Reports of State Officers and State Chairman were presented on the first day. The evening festivities included presentations to the DAR Good Citizens for this year. They are Karen Pimpis, state winner of Dover High School, sponsored by the Margery Sullivan Chapter, Stephanie Lynn Johnson, first runner up of the Pembroke Academy, sponsored by the Buntin Chapter, and second runner up Sarah Louise Jackson, of Belmont High School, sponsored by the Mary Butler Chapter. The presentations were made by Judy Botsford, State Good Citizens Chairman.

Also honored on Friday evening were Meredith Ham of Hollis, sponsored by the Anna Keyes Powers Chapter, who received a $500 New Hampshire DAR Scholarship and Peter (continued on page 100)

Special recognition was given to Stephen Maguire of Laco-nia, the National Outstanding Veteran-Patient, sponsored by the Mary Butler Chapter, Darlene Braun of Manchester, the Northeast Division Outstanding Youth Volunteer, sponsored by the Molly Stark Chapter and Bess Morrison of Merrimack, the Northeast Division Outstanding VAVS DAR Volunteer, sponsored by the Matthew Thornton Chapter. The three were presented by Gail Forand, State DAR Service for Veteran Patients Chairman. Maguire, who served in the Army in the Mekong Delta in Vietnam, led units in 180 air mobile assaults before being blinded in combat. He received four Bronze Stars, seven Air Medals, four Purple Hearts and two Army Commendation Medals. He attended the 106th Continental Congress as the National Winner.

The evening session concluded with an address "The Future of the Air National Guard" given by Major John Starke, of the 157th Air Refueling Wing, New Hampshire Air National Guard.

Saturday’s activities included reports by Chapter Regents and the presentation of the State American History Contest winners by Georgia Jeffrey, American History Month Chairman. They were: 5th grade, "The Explorations of Samuel de Champlain" by Caroline Mary Rogers of the Rindge Memorial School, who was sponsored by the Mary Varnum Platts-Peterborough Chapter; 6th grade "Expedition of Lewis and Clark" by Alison M. Brown of St. Catherine School, Manchester, who was sponsored by the Molly Stark Chapter; 7th grade, "Juan Ponce de Leon" by Elizabeth Ann Zelie, a homeschooler, sponsored by the Mary Torr Chapter; and 8th grade, "Exploring the 'Fretful River': John Wesley Powell" by Elizabeth Goodspeed of the Exeter Area Junior High School, sponsored by the Exeter Chapter.

During the conference Harriett Parington, Honorary State Regent, introduced the Outstanding Junior member of the New Hampshire state organization, Laura Kessler of the Reprisal Chapter of Newport. It was announced that she was selected NE Division Outstanding Junior. Laura was also 1996 National Junior Doll Project Chairman.

The State Regent also announced that the New Hampshire Society was declared the first place winner in the Constitution Week activities in the Northeast Division.—Marsha Stewart

HANNAH CALDWELL, (Davenport, IA) celebrated Iowa's Sesquicentennial on April 4, 1996, by placing a marker commemorating the site of the Iowa Annie Wittenmyer Home, formerly Camp Roberts, Civil War headquarters of the Eighth and Ninth Cavalry. Pictured, second from left, is Mrs. Ronald (Nola) Gottschalk, Iowa State Regent, who returned to her home chapter to participate in the dedication as her final official act. With Mrs. Gottschalk, left to right, are Mrs. David (Marjorie) Irwin, Chaplain; Mrs. Christopher (Michelle) Juehring, Southeast District Director; and Mrs. Ronald (Ruth) Johnson, Hannah Caldwell Chapter Regent.

Ruth Reynolds, Davenport Mayor pro-tem, accepted the marker for the City. Also present were: Carol Ehlers, Chairman, Scott County Sesquicentennial Committee; Guy Foster, Chairman, Davenport Historical Preservation Commission; and Charlotte Blevins, of the Iowa State Historical Society Board of Trustees. James F. Holmes, last superintendent of the Home, was the speaker.

At the close of the War, the abandoned barracks became the Iowa Soldiers' Orphans' Home through the efforts of Annie Wittenmyer. Because of the design of the camp, and the determination of Miss Wittenmyer, the Home became the prototype for orphanages throughout the United States, and was later renamed in her honor.

Through the efforts of Hannah Caldwell Chapter, portions of the Complex have been designated a local landmark, thus ensuring their protection for future generations. The Scott County (Iowa) Historical Preservation Society honored the Chapter with a special Award for this project at its Annual Awards Ceremony on May 16, 1996. —Ruth Ashkan Johnson

WASHINGTON-CUSTIS (Baltimore, MD). The most memorable program of this past year was in September when we were honored to have as guest speaker Mr. Melvin Thomas, survivor of the Bataan Death March in the Philippines during WWII. Mr. Thomas gave details of that epic Pacific struggle that will be long remembered.

He was with the Signal Corps at Civate when the islands were initially bombed and during the strafing was injured and subsequently hospitalized. After rejoining his unit, he was on Bataan when it fell. His experiences during the Death March and later as a prisoner in a Japanese prison were chilling.

Mr. Thomas's records were destroyed in a fire at a depository in St. Louis after the conclusion of the war and for fifty years he has lived with the hope that one day his service to his country would be acknowledged by the government. On July 10, 1996, at the Prince Frederick courthouse in southern Maryland, this dream came true. Congressman Steny Hoyer, Maryland, researched all remaining records for six months and was able to clear the way for the presentation of seven medals: The Purple Heart, a Prisoner of War Medal, the Good Conduct Medal, the American Service Medal, a Pacific Campaign Medal and the WWII Victory medal. The ceremony was attended by a large crowd of over one hundred well-wishers who came to congratulate and praise this truly American hero.

MARIA SANFORD (Minneapolis, MN) is once again proud of our Good Citizen Program. Through the efforts of our Good Citizen Chairman, Betty Geiger, eight schools participated in the program.

Outstanding high school seniors who demonstrate unusual qualities of Leadership, Dependability, Service and Patriotism are eligible to become a Good Citizen. Each school may select one Good Citizen. The faculty nominates three students from which the senior class elects one as their DAR Good Citizen. This year we are especially proud of Nathan Ashmead of Richfield High School who wrote the winning essay in our state on “Our American Heritage and Our Responsibility to Preserve It.” He was awarded a scholarship by the Minnesota DAR and also by the National Society.

Nathan plans to enter the United States Air Force Academy and become a doctor. He was in many activities in high school, including the National Honor Society.

Our chapter had seven more Good Citizens from the Twin Cities Metropolitan Area who wrote the essay: Maria Enderton of Minnehaha Academy, Ayodele Famode of Kennedy High School, Jenny Ruiter of Armstrong High School, Jessica Arnold from Cooper High School and Anne Barner of Rockford High School. Our other Good Citizens who did not choose to write the essay are Nicolle Robbins of Roosevelt High School and Megan Borke of the Academy of the Holy Angels.

Our eight Good Citizens were invited for coffee and refreshments at our meeting in April. Each one was presented an American flag pin by Maria Sanford Chapter.

JOHN BELL (Madison, WI). Special to all of us was Millicent Freed's concept of funding and presenting a large American Flag to Ronald McDonald House of Madison. Members gave generously, and the presentation, followed by refreshments and a tour of the facility, was enjoyed by all. Phyllis Baumgartner, Millicent Freed and Ruth Freeman are pictured, after their presentation.

Also, highlighting the past months, have been an unusual number of naturalization ceremonies, with 700 persons passing through our court in one year. A record! And our little flags have been flying at a fast pace!

Service to the William S. Middleton Veterans Hospital has been a popular goal for members via the provision of turkeys and monetary contributions to the families of needy veterans, as well as personal care kits, assembled by members for patients. An ever needed area right here in Madison!

Opening the 1996-97 season was a warm celebration honoring members, who have contributed to the chapter for over 25 years. Past Regent, Maude Shoemaker, received a special recognition for her 75 years of membership. And, special thanks to Betty Amacker for embracing the DAR Encyclopedia over many years. “Just ask Betty,” we all say.

With the announcement of Madison's growing popularity by “Money Magazine” and the completion of the Frank Lloyd Wright Center in sight, we expect to find numerous areas for service, DAR style, under the guidance of Regent Mary Gross and Vice Regent, Ruth Freeman.—Martha Winterble Erickson POINTER OF ROCK (Alliance, NE) recently honored a five generation DAR family. Helen Cady Johnson Spillman (deceased) and as pictured: seated, Mrs. Everett Reno, Mrs. Ervin Kienzle, Miss Teresa Lange and Mrs. Kenneth Lange. A sister, Mrs. Paul Essex, and another granddaughter, Mrs. Bryant Quick, are also members of this chapter.

Mrs. Hobart E. Hutchinson, State Regent, Nebraska DAR, also attended this special event in her home chapter.

CATHERINE SCHUYLER (Alleghany Co., NY). Long-time DAR family. Helen Cady Johnson Spillman (deceased) was a member of Catherine Schuyler Chapter just 70 years ago in June 1926.

Present at the meeting was Mrs. Paul E. Drake (Jeanette) of Wellsville who joined Catherine Schuyler Chapter in 1943. It was noted that these honored members represented a total of 229 years of service to Catherine Schuyler Chapter.

WILLIAM BETHELL (Reidsville, NC) presented retired Brigadier General William Ernest Riggs with the NSDAR Medal of Honor at a May 1996 luncheon. Following a biographical sketch of Riggs by Helen Hooper, co-chair of the awards presentation with Bettie Pearson, Regent Mary Hux presented the Medal of Honor and certificate to Riggs.

Family and members of the community as well as Mrs. Rolf Teague, State Regent; Mrs. Bruce Stroud, District V Director and Mrs. Jean Dagalogs, State Chairman Americanism Committee, were present as Riggs was recognized for his contributions to his community and church as well as for his dual careers in textiles and the military.

In June, 1995 in a burial ground peppered with field stones, William Bethell Chapter recognized Revolutionary War soldier Jeremiah Beaver in a grave marking service.

After retiring, Junius Beaver, Madison, NC, had become interested in lineage research. Through correspondence with a relative in England, a brief mention of Jeremiah directed Junius to the original cemetery of the Pleasant Grove Primitive Baptist Church in Caswell County, NC. wanting to ensure that Jeremiah did not slip back into obscurity, Beaver contacted William Bethell Chapter for help. Caswell County records as well as pension papers verified Jeremiah Beaver's service in the Granville County Militia and as personal guard to the governor.

In March, 1995 the chapter remembered deceased members Sarah Thomas Coates and Jennie Satterfield Fonville with personal tributes and the dedication of NSDAR insignia markers.

NORTH RIDING Chapter was given special recognition at the chapter's June meeting at Moonwinks Restaurant in Cuba, NY.

Present at the meeting were Mrs. Walter Sibley (Louisa) of Cuba who is a 73-year member having joined the chapter in 1923 and Mrs. Harold Sanborn (Vera) and Mrs. Cerell Schram (Erva) both of Friendship, who joined in 1943.

It was noted that these honored members represented a total of 229 years of service to Catherine Schuyler Chapter.

AMELIA ISLAND (Florida). Historic Fernandina Beach on Amelia Island was the site on July 5, 1996, for the dedication of a Revolutionary War marker. This was the second of four markers which will be dedicated in Florida as part of Anne White Stewart's State Regent's Project. Daughters from across the state came to share in this celebration. City and county officials joined the more than 125 people attending the ceremony which was held at the Railroad Depot Plaza.

Mrs. Williams chose as her project during her tenure as State Regent of Florida the marking of Revolutionary War sites in British-held Florida. When deciding upon her project, Mrs. Williams thought back to her childhood in Virginia when she would go with her mother and grandmother to explore commemorated sites and wanted the same kind of memories in Florida. Her project becomes a permanent reminder to Floridians and visitors to the State of the patriots that fought and died to secure our liberty.

The Fernandina Beach marker commemorates the invasion by Georgia Continentals led by Colonel Samuel Eldridge in May 1777 and the skirmish with the British that resulted in the death of Lt. Robert Reed. Marieleen Cary, State Historian, prepared the application and corroborating documentation for the project as well as planning the dedication ceremony.

Following the dedication, the Amelia Island Chapter hosted a reception at the Florida House Inn to honor Mrs. Stewart. Kathryn Mankovich, Regent, was joined by Jean Mann, the Organizing Regent of the chapter, to introduce Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Cory to their guests.

Stumped for a good public relations idea? Having trouble getting articles published in your local press? Did you ever think about our own DAR Magazine? This is a prime area for getting your public relations message to your publics. You are not only reaching our members, one of your very important publics, you are reaching the general public at the same time. The DAR Magazine, through gift subscriptions from chapters reaches many in the general population. The DAR Magazine is found in libraries, historical societies and offices as well as in members’ homes. It can help gain members through interesting and diverse material.

Okay, how do we do this? If you like to research, you could write articles of broad interest in the field of History, Education or Patriotism. These articles should not include special chapter or state projects. These are feature articles, published under your byline. They must be researched carefully and must contain facts, not opinions. They must be accompanied with a typed list of your source material. If you use a quote, it must be footnoted. Please send photographs or other illustrations. Make sure the article contains your name (Mary Jane Doe, not Mrs. John Doe) and your Chapter’s name.

Take some time to go through previous issues of the Magazine to see what types of topics have been published. Then, look around your locality and try to make a fit with a person, site or event. Research isn’t your field? How about a Chapter report for “With the Chapters?” The purpose of these reports is to enable Chapters to share special projects and accomplishments. Remember, there are over 3,000 Chapters. These reports are limited to one per year and should be as current as possible, limited to 250 words, typed, double-spaced on 8-1/2 by 11 paper. If you want to use a photo, they should be sharp black and white glossy prints. There is a $30 charge for black and white photos, $40 for color.

Speeches suitable for consideration as a National Defense feature should be sent to the National Defense Office for review. Make sure that you first obtain the consent of the speaker in writing before submitting the text.

All genealogical material and queries are to be sent to the Genealogical Records Office.

Another way to let the public know about DAR is through subscriptions to the Magazine. $12 a year is very little to pay for the results you could receive. Your local library could welcome and benefit from your gift. Your local historical or genealogical society might be delighted with your generosity. If you present a personal gift subscription, your Chapter could also benefit.

Additional details on submitting articles to the Magazine can be found in the May issue on page 396.

We have an exceptional publication. It belongs to each and every DAR member. Don’t just read it and throw it away; share it! Use it as a vehicle for letting others know who we are, what we believe in, what we have accomplished as an organization on all levels and what we are planning for the future.

Direct any questions regarding articles and subscriptions to The DAR Magazine, 1776 D Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20006-5392. You won’t be sorry. The DAR and the public will reap the benefits.

LIBERTY HALL
Kenansville, NC

MRS. RICHARD K. TEAGUE, candidate for National Vice-President General, stands near the Carriage House on the grounds of Liberty Hall (Circa 1800).

LIBERTY HALL (CIRCA 1800) was built by Thomas Kenan II for his bride, Mary Rand. Restored to its original elegance in the 1960s, the type of furnishings and their placements were found from old documents, letters, and wills from the Kenan family records. Some of the furnishings are original to the home. The restoration creates an inviting atmosphere typical of “Liberty Hall’s” cherished motto: “He who enters these open gates, never comes too early, never leaves too late.”

The “support buildings” and gardens were reconstructed from early pictures except for the Overseers Cottage, which was restored. Other “support buildings” include: the necessary house (bathroom and bathing), the laundry shed, the wood and tool house, the chicken house where Kenans raised Bacon War Horses (fighting game cocks), the smoke house and the carriage house. The garden house or gazebo was the focal point of the flower and vegetable garden.

THE LIBERTY POINT QUILT

This is the Liberty Point Quilt created by the Liberty Point Chapter to Commemorate the signing of the resolutions against the British Government for their cruel treatment of the colonies. The Cumberland Association of 55 men met at a building at the junction of Bow and Person Streets in Fayetteville. The signatures of the 55 signers have been embroidered around the squares. The Liberty Point Building in Fayetteville is appliqued in the center.
District VIII, North Carolina Society, Daughters of the American Revolution celebrates the Edenton Tea Party, held on October 25, 1774. The Tea Party, which consisted of fifty-one women who resolved to not drink tea or buy anything from England until the tax was removed, was the first purely political activity on the part of women in the American colony. The Tea Party is represented by a bronze tea pot mounted on a pre-Revolutionary cannon beside the Courthouse Green near Edenton's waterfront.

The North Carolina Society has chosen the teapot as the symbol for the State Society's Centennial Celebration.

The museum was built around the turn of the century to serve as the doctor's office. It was moved to its present location on Hillside Drive in Mint Hill in July 1987, and completely restored by the Historical Society. The museum has instruments, furniture and equipment telling the story of how these devoted doctors in the 1880 to 1930 period treated fractures, amputated extremities, extracted teeth, delivered babies, and dispensed medication.

The museum is open the second Sunday of each month and at other times by request. Docents in period costumes greet visitors and answer questions about the many artifacts on display.

On October 11, 1940, work began on Camp Forrest, which was to become one of the largest army training bases during World War II. The government acquired 85,000 acres near Tullahoma, Tennessee for this installation. Major George S. Patton trained his Second Armored Division there during the summer of 1941. In May of 1942, 124 prisoners of war were interred at the Camp Forrest Alien Enemy Internment Camp and in January of 1946, the average number of prisoners was 20,479. Tullahoma was a town of 4,500 in 1940. During the war as many as 145,000 troops were stationed in the area.

... Became Arnold Engineering Development Center (1951-present)

President Harry S. Truman and Mrs. Henry Arnold, widow of Air Force five-star General H. H. “Hap” Arnold, dedicated Arnold Engineering Development Center on June 25, 1951. The center was named for General Arnold and dedicated on the 65th anniversary of his birth. Arnold Engineering Development Center (AEDC) is the largest, most advanced complex of flight simulation test facilities in the world; with fifty-three aerodynamic and propulsion wind tunnels, rocket and turbine engine test cells, space environmental chambers and other specialized units (half of which have unsurpassed capabilities). AEDC supports the development of missile and space launch vehicle systems by simulating space launch, separation and re-entry.

The Tennessee Bicentennial Capitol Mall is located north of the State Capitol, in Nashville, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, stretching north over 2,200 feet from James Robertson Parkway to Jefferson Street. The Mall, more accurately an urban park, received its fundamental inspiration from the world-renowned National Mall in Washington, D.C., and yet also contains unique and dramatic features based on the special qualities of the Volunteer State: its people, its history, its landscape and its music. These elements range from literal to symbolic representations, providing an unusual and exciting learning experience for children, state citizens and visitors alike. The Mall is the centerpiece of the ambitious $55-million Capitol Area Master Plan, an extensive project which included the redevelopment of the north slope of Capitol Hill and of underdeveloped flat land on the east and west sides of the new park. This latter area once contained French Lick Creek, a meandering stream instrumental in the early settlement of Nashville. Implementation of the comprehensive master plan and construction of the Mall forever preserve an unobstructed, dramatic view of the State Capitol while establishing a meaningful, educational place in honor of 200 years of Tennessee history.

The Fort Prince George Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution has completed 75 years of significant history and celebrated its anniversary November 18, 1995, at the Hagood-Mauldin House in Pickens.

The chapter was organized November 15, 1920 by Mrs. Walter Duvall, state regent, with 20 charter members. Today there are 38 members. The name Fort Prince George was chosen in honor of the fort that was built by the English settlers in 1735 on the banks of the Keowee River directly opposite the Indian Village of Keowee.

Mrs. Thomas J. Mauldin (Miss Queenie) served as the organizing regent, first chapter regent, later as state vice-regent, state regent and vice-president of the general NSDAR. She also served as chairman of the Tamassee school's governing board for two separate terms and as a board member for 29 years.

The house, her birthplace and where she lived with her husband, is now the Hagood-Mauldin House Museum of Fine Arts. J.E. Hagood, Miss Queenie's father, built the house around 1856 in Old Pickens in what is now Oconee County. It was dismantled, moved by wagons, and reconstructed in present-day Pickens in 1868 at the time Oconee and Pickens became separate counties. This antebellum house features 17th. and 18th. century colony furnishings and paintings from England and Scotland.

Later additions of Greek Revival were made to the house by Mr. Hagood and his daughter Frances, "Miss Queenie", as she was called. She was married to Judge T. J. Mauldin in 1904.

The Ninety-Six National Historic Site is where the mid-1700s European settlement was located. Early confrontations with the Cherokees in 1760 caused the Fort Ninety-Six to be constructed.

By the early 1770s, Ninety-Six Village was growing with about 100 settlers, twelve homes, a courthouse, and a jail.

The first land battle of the American Revolution fought south of New England took place in 1775 at Ninety-Six. In 1780, the British fortified Star Fort in the frontier town. From May 22 through June 18, 1781, General Nathanael Greene with 1,000 patriot troops staged the longest (yet unsuccessful) siege of the Revolutionary War against 550 loyalists who were defending Ninety-Six.

The marker and cannon commemorate this siege. Star Fort Chapter provided this monument after the cannon was found on Roseland Plantation and given by the Brooks family.

Today the site of the Fort has been reconstructed and is maintained as a National Historic Site by the National Park Service. The Battle of Ninety-Six is re-enacted annually by local actors and volunteers.

The Camden, South Carolina Archives and museum was built in 1915 as a Carnegie Library. Until 1973 the Greek Revival Style building served as the city library. Presently, it enjoys an excellent reputation for its collection of local artifacts and extensive holdings for genealogical and historical research. Mrs. Esposito and the South Carolina Daughters value the facility which serves as a repository for the State Society's Library.

Inspired by the pioneer spirit of those who traveled these trails, Mrs. Teague co-authored “Milestones in Missouri’s Past,” a booklet identifying these markers found during her 6,000 miles of research.

LOUISIANA DAUGHTERS AND GUESTS MET
April 14, 1996, in the Louisiana Room of the DAR Museum. The occasion was to commemorate the LSDAR Centennial by re-dedicating its state room, now termed the Louisiana Gallery. The Gallery has been completely renovated and refurbished. New presentation cabinets, floor treatment, lighting, and additional exhibits create an entirely new statement to accommodate the present theme honoring Louisiana Women. We invite you to visit the Louisiana Gallery during Continental Congress 1997.

DISTRICT DAUGHTERS SUPPORT LITERACY CHALLENGE

The D.C. DAR Literacy Challenge Committee held its annual luncheon November 23, 1996 at our Chapter House to benefit the D.C. affiliate of the Literacy Volunteers of America.

Committee Chairman Gayle T. Harris read a letter from First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton commending the District Daughters for recognizing the positive influence their efforts have on the vulnerable of our society.

State Regent Veronica Miller with another D.C. DAR star, Gayle Harris and her student Michelle Dawson, an eighth grader at George Washington Middle School, Alexandria, Virginia.

"I am the light of the world; He that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."

Dear Daughters:

February marks the beginning of a new Chapter Achievement Award year. Are you planning on working towards the highest recognition possible? In order to achieve your chapter’s goals, you MUST contribute $30.00 or more towards an advertisement in the DAR Magazine. What are the options available to you?

• Your chapter can place any size individual ad.
• Your chapter can participate in a co-op ad sponsored by your district, state, or other group.

To help your state receive 100% chapter participation in magazine advertising, submit your ad to be published in the issue designated for your state. Let’s make 1997 the year EVERY chapter advertises in the DAR Magazine!

This issue’s Ad of Excellence award winner is Tennessee State Society.

Sincerely,

Kathy

Accidents can happen at any time. And in today's fast moving world, your risk of having an accident goes up every time you leave your home.

If you should be injured as a result of a travel accident, you could face a lot of unexpected expenses, even if you already have health insurance. It could mean hospitalization far from home, with a lot of personal expenses like: long distance calls, travel back and forth, and hotel costs for other family members, for example.

You can help reduce your financial risk with the NSDAR Travel Accident Plan. This plan will pay you $150 for every day you are hospitalized as the result of a covered accident that occurs while a pedestrian, driving or riding in a motor vehicle, or a passenger in a commercial train, plan or ship. What's more, if death results from such an accident, your beneficiary will receive an accidental death benefit of $20,000.

You're covered 24 hours a day—worldwide—by the NSDAR Travel Accident Plan. And you can apply at any age without the need for a medical exam.

You owe it to yourself and your family to find out more about the NSDAR Travel Accident Plan.
