Historic Christ Church in Philadelphia is an integral part of the establishment of the United States of America. It claims among its members seven Signers of the Declaration of Independence all of whom are buried in its grounds.

The Church has six stained glass windows which were constructed by the firm of Heaton, Butler and Bayne, London.

One of the most famous is the Liberty Window. The upper panel illustrates the granting of Magna Carta by King John at the insistence of Stephen Langton, Archbishop of Canterbury, June 15, 1215.

The lower panel shows the Rev. Jacob Duché, rector of Christ Church, offering the opening prayer during the First Continental Congress.

611 Let’s Talk Heart to Heart...
September 17, 1998, Constitution Day, marks the 211th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States. During that extremely hot summer, delegates from the 13 soon-to-be States met in Independence Hall, Philadelphia. Fifty-five delegates worked in private discussions in special committees and in formal convention meetings for 87 days! At the end of that deliberation, Benjamin Franklin, when asked “What have you given us, Mr. Franklin?”, responded, “a republic, Madame, if you can keep it!”
My dear Daughters,

King Solomon, the wisest man who ever lived, wrote in Ecclesiastes 3:1-2a (ASV) "For every thing there is a season, and a time for every purpose under heaven: a time to be born, and a time to die ..." How grateful I am that you were there for me during the time of Kelly's illness and death, strengthening my belief in God's plan of beginnings and endings.

My deep appreciation is expressed to you for the prayers, beautiful flowers, and heartwarming letters and cards with words of concern and comfort that assured me of your presence as well as God's presence in my life. Thank you for your love and encouragement that continue to see me through this most devastating experience.

I am truly grateful to the Executive Committee, the National Board of Management, Jan Fitzgerald, Executive Assistant, and all the staff at headquarters who have continued to move forward with the work of the Society during this stressful time for me.

My husband's life was devoted to music; therefore, to honor his memory the "Dale Kelly Love Endowment for Continental Congress Musical Entertainment" has been established. This endowment will meet a real need to provide enrichment through music for the many Daughters who attend Continental Congress each year.

As we begin our new DAR program year, I encourage you to study and initiate the areas of endeavor outlined by your Executive Committee and the National Chairmen. Place an increase in membership at the top of your priority list. Through a unity of spirit and unity of purpose we will move into the 21st Century with a dynamic membership force to promote our objectives through "God, Home and Country."

May God bless each of you,

Faithfully,

This was to be a celebration of the United States Constitution, but with your permission I would like to tell you the story of a hero. Heroes today are not hard to come by—there are plenty of them. Unfortunately, the standard for determining hero status has changed. It used to consist of individual sacrifice for the betterment of society; today it consists of whether the individual makes a lot of money, whether the individual stands out in the crowd, not for what the individual has accomplished but for how the individual appears—grungy clothes and spiked hair, and whether the individual conducts himself in a manner which trashes moral values, societal manners, and challenges duly constituted authority. Look at many of the newspaper, magazine, or TV advertisements and you can see them peering back at you, telling everyone how easy it is to improve his pleasure, pastime, or sex life even to the extent of subtly encouraging others in anti-social activities. The kind of hero I want to talk to you about today was not concerned about pleasure or money but about giving of himself, about sacrifice to achieve a greater good. And it would be fair to say that if he were alive today, he would not be sought after to give an endorsement for any product. My hero was a twenty-five year old, six-foot, red haired, sinewy, dynamic colonial who had a flair for the dramatic by believing that “Great things have been affected by a few men well conducted.” He had no direct bearing on the construction of the Constitution but the consequence of his actions had great impact on how that Constitution would be interpreted and what it came to mean.

As a young man he became a surveyor, a path followed by his fellow Virginian before him, George Washington. This career came naturally to many because there seemed to be no limit to the lands lying west of the mountains. But the British government, Crown and Lords of Trade, were trying mightily to deny the colonies those lands west of the mountains—lands which the colonies thought to be theirs by birthright since the colonial charters often put no limit on how far west their lands extended. As a surveyor, this young man saw the Indians as an impediment to colonial growth. When Lord Dunmore’s War broke out in 1774 and Virginia’s military invaded the Ohio County to defeat the Shawnee, this young man was with them. He made several trips down the Ohio River to its falls to survey land before the Revolutionary War erupted. Then in May 1775, Judge Richard Henderson and the Transylvania Company, who had purchased illegally a huge tract of land from the Cherokee, sent Daniel Boone to begin settlements in the Blue Grass region of what is now Kentucky. These settlements, centered around Boonesborough and Harrodsburg, came under increasing attacks from the Indians living in what is now Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois.

These white settlements, in order to maintain their existence, wanted to form a separate government from Virginia, but since it fell to the individual states to protect their people from the British and Indians, this young man persuaded them in June 1776 to remain with the state of Virginia while he went east to try to persuade the new state government to support more actively their defense. Early in 1777, Kentucky became a county of Virginia, but because of the military activity in Virginia in that year the parent state was unable to provide but a token force to protect the frontier. It was the “Year of the three sevens” that Kentucky became that “Dark and bloody ground.” Sir Henry Hamilton, “The Hair-buyer,” had his irregulars and the Indians making constant raids on the Kentucky settlements. The numerous reports of Indian attacks filtering into the Virginia capital at Williamsburg caused Governor Patrick Henry to send this young man on an aggressive military campaign against the Indian towns and to conquer the area for Virginia.

As this young man made his way through what is now Pennsylvania and on down the Ohio River, he recruited volunteers for the expedition. After visiting Harrodsburg he located his band of 172 men on the Corn Island in the Ohio River to organize the force. While there, he sent two spies to visit the French habitants and found them sympathetic to the American cause. While negotiating the rapids of the Ohio River, the sun went into a total eclipse to the terror of the superstitious, but the young Virginian hailed it as a good omen and his flatboats rode the Ohio down to the mouth of the Tennessee River. On the opposite bank stood the abandoned French position of Fort Massac. There he and his band of 172 began their eight day overland march to the French settlement at Kaskaskia, the oldest settlement in the western country. This march of more than ninety miles, made under a flag of thirteen red and green stripes, was but a foretaste of the march to come later. Kaskaskia remained a French town even to its commandant, who, with the habitants, had merely transferred his allegiance to the English. The Americans found the fort indifferently guarded by the local militia and stormed it at midnight on July 4, 1778 in an action so sudden that there were no casualties, and the commandant was captured in bed with his wife. Frightened almost out of their nightshirts by this rowdy, rough looking band of Americans and their fierce looking leader with flame red hair, these French habitants thought they might be massacred right on the spot. As this young man wrote to his superiors in Virginia, “Nothing could excel the confusion these people seemed to be in, being taught to expect nothing but savage treatment from the Americans... they were willing to be slaves to save their families.” He set about quickly to organize his bloodless conquest and began to show a rare tact and understanding in dealing with the largely French habitants. Almost to a man, they cast off allegiance to the Crown of England, won over by a firm guarantee of freedom of religion and by good treatment from the men of the expedition. How relieved they were when he informed them that they came as friends who wanted to help free them from their ancient enemy. To solidify this cause, he revealed the treaty of alliance recently signed between their mother country, France, and the new United States. They were overjoyed with such news and cheerfully agreed to help the Americans oust the British. The young leader, whose name you already may have guessed as George Rogers Clark, at once sent Captain Joseph Bowman with a small detachment north to see what the situation was like at Prairie du Rocher and Cahokia. He presently received news that neither settlement had offered the slightest resistance. Moreover, Pere Pierre Gibault volunteered to make the long trek overland to Vincennes on the Wabash to endeavor to talk his fellow Frenchmen into following the lead of Kaskaskia and Cahokia. The good father was eminently successful, and by August, Clark had sent Captain Leonard Helm with a small force to occupy Fort Sackville that guarded the town.

This hardy band led by a twenty-five year old had conquered a vast land; but could they keep it? In August and September, the Americans met with Chippewas, Ottawas, Miamis, and Foxes in an attempt to keep them at peace. He successfully managed to arrange a truce of several months that was strictly observed by both sides. But he had logistic problems. He needed supplies and men. Oliver Pollock, an American merchant living in New Orleans, was able to send flatboats that were worked up the Mississippi to Cahokia to provide needed supplies. A more serious threat came from Lieutenant Colonel Henry “Hair-buyer” Hamilton based at Detroit. When he received word that the Americans had occupied the area, he immediately bestirred himself to put together a military force to retake Vincennes as it lay on the water route from Detroit. Setting out from Detroit on October 7, 1778 with approximately 250 French militiamen and Indians he arrived in Vincennes on December 17. At the sight of the invading force, the people of Vincennes rushed to proclaim their allegiance to England. The local militia decided that there was no point in fighting, and the American Captain Helm and his few men were made prisoners of war. Because Hamilton needed more supplies from Detroit, he had to delay his reconquest of Kaskaskia and Cahokia until later. And until then rested safe from the Americans, or so he thought, because the winter rains flooded the great flat stretches of land between him and the Mississippi creating an impassable barrier. If that barrier hampered him from attacking the Americans, it surely would stop the Americans from attacking him.
The news of the fall of Vincennes threw the habitants of Kaskaskia and Cahokia into a panic. The prudent thing for Clark to do would have been to slip out to the south and back across the Ohio River into the safer lands of Kentucky content with the damage he had inflicted on British prestige among the Indians. But Clark was made of sterner stuff. He cajoled and pleaded with the habitants, rekindling their confidence until some of them were willing to join him in an attack on Vincennes. Many of us today would pronounce such an undertaking foolhardy at best. In a drizzling rain on February 6, 1779, Clark mustered his men for the 180 mile trek across the flooded lands that lay between Kaskaskia and Vincennes. The first few days of this winter march found the men in high spirits. The flooded land was rarely more than a few inches deep, game was plentiful, and the weather mild. But it was not long before their shoes rotted and their feet became cold from the icy waters, and at night they had to find high ground upon which to sleep or sleep in the shallowest water they could find. Seven day later, however, Vincennes was still twenty miles away, and after spending two days ferrying the men across the widened stream of the Little Wabash they found conditions much worse. Now the waters were much higher. The men sloshed through icy, waist -high floods. And the game had vanished so the men had little or no rations. Sleeping now meant finding a way to be comfortable in a tree without the danger of falling out and waking up in the water. Four days later the marchers spent days trying to find a ford to cross the Embarrass River. The sick and exhausted had to be towed along on rafts made of whatever material was available. And then the Wabash River had to be crossed. On February 20, the group picked up a stray Frenchman from Vincennes who informed Clark that Hamilton had not the least suspicion of an American force being in the vicinity. The next day the march covered a little more than three miles, with men half -wading, half -swimming through shoulder -deep water, rifles and powder held high above their heads. The next day showed hardly any progress as the men grew weaker and weaker from scant rations and their days of exposure to winter weather. On February 23, the men, their voices hoarse from exposure, croaked their inability to go farther. Clark did not reprimand them or lecture them on their duty but showed them the way by taking to the water and shouting "Follow me!" He did take precautions by having Captain Joseph Bowman skirt the rear with 25 riflemen who had orders to shoot any stragglers. This was the worst part of the march, with water still shoulder -high. More and more men were being towed on rafts. Those still on their feet tripped and fell in deep water, clinging to a rotten log until stronger hands rescued them. They had gone two whole days without food. At last dry ground was reached barely two miles from Fort Sackville. The men lit fires to warm themselves, to dry out their clothes, and to cook what little food they could find. But the news was not good for Clark had only seventy men capable for combat. Another Frenchman told them 200 more Indians had joined Hamilton in the fort, and Clark's men were almost without ammunition. Such news may have disheartened some men, others may have been rendered inactive. Clark however, seemed to act as if it were a stimulant. He sent the Frenchman to Hamilton in Fort Sackville informing him that he was going to capture the fort that night; that friends of the United States should stay quietly in their homes; that those still supporting England should join the garrison in the fort. Clark then marched his two small divisions into Vincennes. Going down the streets with drums beating, he divided and subdivided his ranks, marching them through side streets and out again trying to create an impression of a far larger force than he actually had. Some of the habitants guided the Americans to secret caches of ammunition. Such actions succeeded for rumors reached the fort about the large number of Americans in the area. The news caused many of the Indians to desert Hamilton. At first Hamilton tried to stall, but Clark showed Hamilton he was of no mind to dally. Having captured a small party of Indians with white scalps hanging from their belts, he ordered that four be tomahawked in sight of the garrison as a preview of what might happen to them. On February 25, Hamilton pulled down his flag and surrendered.

This opened up trade from Spanish New Orleans and St. Louis, but the British wanted to put a stop to it. And when Spain declared war on the British in July 1779, the British planned an attack on New Orleans from Pensacola and on St. Louis from Makinac. The New Orleans attack never materialized because the Spanish governor of New Orleans, Galvez, captured Pensacola. But the plan to attack St. Louis was pursued more vigorously. The British force in the north included Sioux, Sac and Fox, and Indians from northern Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan. On May 23, the British force attacked St. Louis about 1:00 p.m. but gave up the effort at about 3:00 p.m. In the attack, 14 whites and seven slaves were killed, six whites and one slave wounded, and 12 whites and 13 slaves carried away captive. Across the river at Cahokia, Clark was warned of the approaching enemy. In fact his men could hear the shots fired across the river at St. Louis before his force helped repulse the attackers at Cahokia after a battle of some two hours.

As a result of these British attacks, Eugenio Poure lead a force out of St. Louis, to march up the Illinois River, and eventually to attack the British post at what is not St. Joseph, Michigan. It was upon this the Spanish later claimed all the area from the Gulf coast up to the Ohio River and ushered in the Spanish intrigue which flowered around what is known as the state of Franklin. North of the Ohio River, Clark’s conquest made it easier for the British government to cede all the lands between the mountains and the Mississippi River, known to Americans as the Northwest Territory. This territory under the aegis of Thomas Jefferson became an integral part of the United States under the Constitution through the Northwest Ordinance. It was a concept that all territories and all people in those territories could become a part of the United States equal to the original states and people in those states. What a different people we would be and what a different nation this would be had there been no George Rogers Clark.

And so let me close by remarking that it is high time we present our young people with the opportunity to learn about heroes, American heroes, who act not to gain riches or popularity but who give of themselves to make others the beneficiary of their actions. This organization is to be applauded. I have read some of the writings entered by students in your essay contest and I must say that those students are capable of distinguishing a hero of character from a popular hero of today. And for that, I and all concerned citizens thank you.

DAR 9'S SEPT 569
Dr. Edgar F. Puryear is a practicing attorney, historian and author, his educational background includes earning a BS degree in Economics from the University of Maryland, an MA degree in International Relations from the University of Denver, an MA and Ph.D. in Political Science and History from Princeton University and an LLB in Law from the University of Virginia. He began his career as a Second Lieutenant in the United States Air Force and from 1955, served at the U.S. Air Force Academy.

His most recent book, American Generalship: Character Is Everything, is due from the publisher later this year. Our speaker is currently practicing law in Madison, Virginia and since 1983 has been a consultant for Georgetown University.

You have got to be the most distinguished group in this country with your support of our national heritage and your patriotism. It is very special. I have an unusual background in that I really beat most of you all with my association with the DAR because it goes back 65 years. My mother was editor of the DAR Magazine during the 30s and I remember vividly as a child where I did my initial drawing and scribbling on the galley proofs of the DAR Magazine. I am just so complimented to be here today.

The topic is Foundations of National Power from the book The Foundations of National Power, by a professor at Princeton. In the book, he established a formula of how you make the determination and he talked in terms of gross national product, industrial strength, our technology, our scientists, our executives. But, I thought he really had missed it because there are other countries in this world who are richer in national resources than we are. Certainly the former Soviet Union was. There are other countries obviously with a larger population than we have but I explained to him that it's really not the way you measure the strength of our country. I said the real key to it is the people. So what I want to cover with you with respect to foundations of national power, our great strength is our military, but of course the great strength of our military is based upon our civilian population. We would not really have the strength that we do if it were not for the civilians and frankly, in particular, the mothers and the wives.

Winston Churchill, who was Prime Minister of Great Britain in World War II, was richly rewarded for his leadership by being voted out of office, but he became very, very fond of American generals. He came back to the United States to visit with these generals in the latter part of 1945. There were a group of 30 of the top World War II generals from Europe in World War II. He made the comment to these generals that he was overwhelmingly impressed with the quality of American military leadership. He asked the question, why? Answer: Dedication to God and country but also the education they received during the 20s and 30s. Indeed the motto of our American military is a great deal similar to the motto of the DAR. The remarkable fact that when World War II came around, we had our Ike Eisenhower, Omar Bradley, Mark Clark, Gordon Hodges, George Patton, etc. These men, who were so remarkably patient during the 20s and 30s and staying in our military, so when this conflict came, we were blessed with just the finest leadership in the world.

We had interviewed the German generals, the Japanese generals, the Italian generals, the British generals, but not the American generals. I needed a year sabbatical to research the work on the American Generals and the Dean of the Air Force Academy thought it was a great idea. He told me, “You work for me 40 hours a week and the rest of the time is your own.”

Without a doubt the most exciting interview was with General of the Army, Dwight D. Eisenhower. At that time he had stepped down as President and I interviewed him at Gettysburg. I was told no more than 20 minutes and no taping of the conversation by his son, John Eisenhower, who at that time was helping him with his memoirs. I was an Air Force captain in uniform and I saluted because a General of the Army never retires. I said, “Sir, I would very much like to tape the conversation.” He said, “fine.” He went on another two and a half hours. You can imagine the excitement for me with respect to it but at this point in order to answer the question of how one leads successfully. In this recent book, American Generalship: Character is Everything, I have talked to Colin Powell, General Schwarzkopf, Admiral Kroll, General Shally. They are among the hundred four stars I that I interviewed; 40 of them were Chief of Staff, Chairman, Commandant, or Chief of Naval Operations. I developed a list of 18 questions to ask each one.

Two of the most important questions: What role did your spouse and your mother play in your success? I think we will all agree that without mothers they would not have amounted to anything, wouldn’t even have been in this world.

When you look at some of the former chairmen that we have had - Jack Vesey got a battlefield promotion in North Africa. General Shally didn’t come to this country until he was 16 and is a man of great character. I am convinced that part of his character was developed by the fact that he said he learned English by watching John Wayne westerns and we all know that that is the epitome of American character.

General David Jones, who retired as Chairman of Joint Chiefs of Staff, in his retirement talk told us a story about his wife Lois. She was a schoolteacher in a one-room schoolhouse in North Dakota. She had to get there at six in the morning to stoke the furnace, shoveling the ice, handling the school bus and had eight different classes. Now that is a challenge. David Jones was quoting her and one evening he called her and said, “honey, will you marry me” to which she said, “yes, who is this?”

General of the Army George C. Marshall was a graduate of VMI and as a senior and a first classman he fell very much in love with a young lady in Lexington. He married her and it was one of the most wonderful marriages that could possibly exist. She became an invalid and he got an assignment to China and was going to leave the service because he didn’t want to leave his wife behind. She said, “no you are going to stay.” So he went to China and served there but unfortunately she died and it was just devastating to him. Then he was stationed at Ft. Benning Georgia as Commandant of the Infantry School and there in 1930 he met a widow by the name of Katherine Tucker Brown at a social function. Her escort was due to take her back home but Marshall volunteered to take her home. Now Columbus is a rather small place and after driving around for an hour she asked how long he had been at Ft. Benning. He answered two years. Well, after two years haven’t you learned your way around Columbus? He said, extremely well, how else could I have spent an hour getting two blocks from where you live. They married and it was a very special relationship. What I really am amazed about is that when Marshall became Chief of Staff of the Army, we were the 17th smallest army in the world; we only had 175,000 men and women and it grew to over nine million men and women during his time. What an overwhelming responsibility.

My question was when I started asking the wives and mothers, how did he do it. The answer was: one of the most difficult things in Washington is a social life. When I worked for the Chairmen of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, they averaged 40 to 50 invitations a day throughout the country and how do you minimize them. In Mrs. Marshall’s book, Together, which started at Christmas 1940, it became apparent to her that her one great objective must be to keep quarters at Ft. Myers a place of peace and quiet. A sanctuary for her husband where he could rest and relax and gather strength from time to time when he entered the home in the evening until he had to face the demands of the next day. There were few callers received and the Marshalls accepted practically no social invitations. Let me stop there because for the wife of a man in Washington where you have kings, queens, prime ministers, and presidents and all these people with all these social functions it is a pretty big deal for the wife to go to these things and meet these people but the Marshalls did not accept these. He had to save his energy for the overwhelming responsibilities that he had.

If there were domestic upheavals, and at times there were, they were unavoidable, her husband knew nothing about them. From the time he got up in the morning until he retired at nine in the evening, as far as the home was concerned there was to be no confusion, no household irritations. This was her objective. Whether she reached it or not is another matter but it is surprising how soon a group of people will fall in line if you hold a certain standard up to them and try to live up to it yourself. They were a team and their watchword was General Marshall. Again, how touching it is but as Chief of Staff from 1939 to 1945 working seven days a week about 12 and 15 hours a day, he had 19 days of leave in six years. There was a time in which Mrs. Marshall became very concerned with his overwhelming responsibility.

He was a real avid alumnus of VMI and in her book she wrote this, "In October, a trip to Charlotte, North Carolina was scheduled to see a VMI football game. The invitation had been accepted, his brother-in-law had made arrangements for George's reception and he was to have that weekend off. Then the Secretary and Mrs. Simpson announced a reception for the general staff that Saturday and of course George felt he must attend. He had just been through the long hot summer with its inspection trips, defense plans, the National Guard induction and the Select Service Act, with no leave even for a day. So Mrs. Marshall was determined that he should go to Charlotte.

She took it upon herself to see Secretary Simpson and explain that George must have a break. Mr. Simpson agreed with her and she asked how they could persuade George to go to a football game. Secretary Simpson, Secretary of War, said, "by direct order - that is the only way."

The Secretary's eyes twinkled and the next morning the following order was handed to George in his office: "The President of the United States directs that General George C. Marshall during the period from Friday October 11th and Monday October 14th shall visit the city of Charlotte for the purpose of making a report upon the comparative skill and the valor of the football teams of Davidson and Virginia Military Institute. During said period he shall be under the exclusive control and direction of Mrs. Marshall and shall be protected against all interruptions, particularly by members of the War Department and of Congress. During said period the War Department shall be relegated to the tender mercy of the Secretary of War, the Assistant Secretary of War and the Deputy Chief of Staff," signed Henry L. Simpson. "I said to General Marshall what role did your wife play in your career and he said "everything."

I interviewed a General Struther who was a West Point graduate and an Air Force general and I was saying to him wasn't the significant contribution of West Point turning out men of character and he said, "young man we had character before we went there."

I want to talk with you about another individual and that is Ike Eisenhower and his mother. He was one of six sons and as President of the United States his mother was asked, "aren't you proud of your son." She said, "Yes, which one?" But here again, I concluded that the primary contribution of the Military Academy was turning out men of character and that this had an influence upon other people within the military.

Let me tell you what Ike wrote about his mother: "Of my mother's family I know less than of my father's and if I may exhibit my son's prejudice, my feeling reflects the affection and respect for all who knew her. Her serenity, her open smile, her gentleness was all and her tolerance of their ways despite an inflexible loyalty to her religious convictions and her own strict pattern of personal conduct, even made a brief visit with Ida Eisenhower memorable even for a stranger and for her sons privilege to spend a boyhood in her company and memories are indelible all her life a woman of peace my mother was born close to war and then he described the facts, she lived outside of Lexington where the Civil War was going on in her younger years. He then states about his mother, "the sight of my mother was one of the rewards of peace."

Of course, she had paid the price of a lifetime of caring and working. "My mother as I have known her was deeply religious. The bible provided her favorite reading but she did not repeat it by rote, she strove always to understand and live by it." After his appointment to West Point, the only person truly disappointed was his mother.

I asked General Eisenhower to comment on the leadership of General Bradley, Patton, etc. One of the things that really surprised me was that General Eisenhower, in discussing leadership and the meaning of leadership, said the essence of leadership is decision-making. I said, Sir is it a God-given talent or is it something that can be developed. He said among other things being around people making decisions, he worked with Douglas MacArthur for six years in the 1930s and two years under Marshall, pretty good tutelage. He also said in addition to being around men making decisions he said "books." Sir would you elaborate. Let me read to you his words in his book entitled, These Stories I Tell To My Friends. He had one chapter entitled "The Keys to the Closet." He should have entitled it The Key to Success. He states in there, "My first reading love was ancient history. At an early age I developed an interest in the human record and I became particularly fond of Greek and Roman accounts. These subjects were so engrossing; I frequently neglected all other things. My mother's annoyance at this indifference to the mundane life of chores and assigned homework grew until despite her reverence for books, she took my volumes of history and locked them in a closet. This had the desired affect for a while. I suppose I gave a little more attention to arithmetic, spelling and geography but one day I found the key to the closet. Whenever mother went to town or was working in her flower garden, I would get the books out." Without a doubt, these great men were very avid readers as young people and their mothers and fathers read to them as children.

Let me again just thank you for the honor and privilege of being with you and the thought most of all I want to leave with you is that these men, their greatness was in great part because of their mothers and their wives. You just could not have that development; you could not have these responsibilities and handle them without a wife by your side who understood the challenges and demands so I want to leave that with you. For you mothers and grandmothers, read to your kids, it will make them great generals. Thank you very much.

The original speech was an excellent one. It is longer than space permitted. If any chapter wants a copy of the entire speech, send requests to the National Defense Office at DAR Headquarters, Washington, DC.

National Board of Management, June 6, 1998

A special meeting of the National Board of Management, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution convened in the Connecticut Board Room, Memorial Continental Hall, Washington, DC, at 12:00 noon on June 6, 1998, Mrs. Robert W. Watkins, First Vice President General, presiding.

The opening prayer was offered by the Chaplain General, Mrs. Joseph F. Ramos.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America was led by the Corresponding Secretary General, Mrs. Douglas A. McHoul.

There being no objection, Mrs. Roger G.E. Franks, Mrs. Stephen R. Hunter, and Mrs. Frank C. Stewart, Jr. were appointed to approve the minutes of this meeting.

The Recording Secretary General, Mrs. Charles R. Haugh, read the call: "A special meeting of the National Board of Management will be held in the Connecticut Board Room, Memorial Continental Hall at 12:00 noon, Saturday, June 6, 1998 for admission and reinstatement of members, authorization and confirmation of chapters and organizing regents, disbandment and change of name and location of chapters, and approval of pins and committees."

The Recording Secretary General called the roll and recorded the following members present: National Officers: Executive Officers: Mrs. Watkins, Mrs. Ramos, Mrs. Haugh, Mrs. McHoul, Mrs. Sterling, Mrs. Harrell, Mrs. Colburn, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Harwood, and Mrs. Sealy and Vice President General: Mrs. Hunter. State Regents: Mrs. Grottzinger, Mrs. Franks, Mrs. Musgrove, Mrs. Cavallaro, Mrs. Nicklas, Mrs. Gonchar, and Miss Elliott and State Vice Regent: Mrs. Clossen.

The Recording Secretary General reported on the approval of the minutes of the April 24, 1998 meeting of the National Board of Management. Mrs. Robert W. Watkins, Mrs. John P. Fixmer, III, and Mrs. Robert D. Zuverink had been appointed to approve the minutes of the April 24, 1998 meeting of the National Board. The minutes were approved.

The First Vice President General gave her report.

Report of the First Vice President General

I would like to share with you some information concerning the President General. Mrs. Love has been in daily contact with her office since her election in April. At her direction, the Executive Committee remained in Washington to consider recommendations for National appointments. The list of recommendations was sent by Federal Express to Mrs. Love and her final decisions were returned by Federal Express. Most of the National Chairmen have been contacted and have sent their directives to be included in the July All Member issue of the DAR Magazine. Acceptances are still pending from many of the National Vice Chairmen; however, we expect this to be completed very soon.

Since Mrs. Love's husband was undergoing medical treatment, she could not attend the DAR School graduations in May. Instead, she asked the First Vice President General to represent the Society. It was a pleasure to join Mrs. Rudolf Seifert, National Chairman of the DAR School Committee, for the commencement events at KDS. This officer addressed the graduates, assisted in the presentation of scholarships, and represented the President General at the meetings of the KDS School Executive Board and Board of Trustees.

On May 17th, this officer drove to Tamassee accompanied by Mrs. Seifert. Again, the First Vice President General represented the President General by attending the meetings of the Tamassee Executive Board, the Board of Trustees, and the Advisory Committee. On Tuesday evening, this officer assisted Mrs. Seifert in the presentation of NSDAR scholarships during the awards program at Tamassee-Salem High School.

Returning home, this officer was in contact with the President General in Mississippi as well as her office in Washington in order to prepare for the June Board. Mrs. Love had planned to attend but had to change her plans when her husband developed a serious infection. However, the Executive Committee met in Washington on May 26th to begin preparations. We have had access to a conference round-table telephone system which has allowed us to have input from the President General during our Executive meetings. In addition to the business for this National Board of Management meeting, plans are in place for an August Executive Committee session and the agenda for the October meeting is in progress.

Your Executive Committee is committed to fulfilling the duties of our offices and are united in our resolve to support our President General through this trying time in her personal life. We ask you to join us in praying for her family and that God will give her strength to meet the demands of a family crisis as well as guiding the work of the National Society.

LINDA T. WATKINS
First Vice President General

The Registrar General, Mrs. John K. Harrell, gave her report.

Report of the Registrar General

The Registrar General moved "that the 627 applicants, whose records have been verified by the Registrar General, be elected to membership in the National Society," Adopted.

The Recording Secretary General moved "that 72 members be reinstated." Adopted.

50-year pin and certificate at State Conference in 1978, presented by her niece, Mrs. Marjorie Hardy. She will receive her 70-year certificate from her current chapter.

Thank you, Marjorie, for being such an active Daughter for so much of your life. We, in Arkansas Valley, salute you.

CAPTAIN CHRISTIAN BROWN (Cobleskill, NY). Lillian Frasier celebrated her 100th birthday on December 9th and on December 21st her 76th anniversary as a DAR member. Miss Frasier attended the New York State 100th Annual Conference at the Sagamore Resort in 1996. She was honored by President General Kemper, New York State Regent, Markyak McHoul and the Captain Christian Brown Chapter. She was presented with a plaque and accepted it all with a short speech.

Lillian is a retired teacher of 49 years. She taught in the Schenectady (New York) City School System most of those years. During the last five of those she commuted the 35 miles each way to Schenectady from Richmondville where she had returned to live. She retired in 1967 because she reached the mandatory retirement age in New York, but she was not ready to stop being involved. After retirement she directed her energy to her local DAR Chapter, serving as Vice Regent, Regent during the Country's bicentennial year, 1976, and Historian until two years ago.

Miss Frasier, graduated from the Richmondville (NY) High School in 1916 and from Oneonta (NY) Normal School in 1918. Richmondville Central and Cobleskill Central merged to form a new district in 1993. Lillian, as the oldest living graduate of the school district, was the speaker for the last Richmondville Central Commencement. She outlined the requirements for graduation, in 1916, with a New York State Regents Diploma, which was the only one a graduate could receive then. The requirements were very rigid and would put most schools to shame today.

When asked what her thoughts were on education, her reply was, "The American education system is the very best that any country could have, because of our freedom." Her love of teaching and the DAR philosophy is evident in that statement.

The most important thing she learned from all of her years in the classroom is that of how children learn. A teacher has a feel for her students and how each learns, each is different and she must capitalize on that uniqueness for every one of them. Her thoughts on DAR include the fact that many, many women in America are eligible to join. It is the responsibility of each and every one of us to help our relatives become aware of their heritage, and according to New York State Regent Markyak McHoul's Theme, "Give a Gift of DAR, Share your Heritage, Insure our Future."—Harriet P. Berard

HOLLAND PATENT (New York) was named for the Village in which the majority of its members resided when the chapter was organized in 1913. Over the years this changed and when the Village of Holland Patent celebrated its bicentennial in 1997, few of its members resided in the Village.

The chapter's annual meeting in May was at the Holland Patent Library and in June we hosted the Central New York Round Table at the Holland Patent American Legion Hall.

September is always special with the chapter having CONSTITUTION WEEK programs at the Holland Patent District Schools. Add to that in 1997 the three days of activities of the Bicentennial Celebration with a float in the parade. On the final day, Regent Emilie Jones Starkejewicz took part in the dedication of the Military Roll of Honor near the boulder with the plaque bearing the inscription: "To the memory of the patriots of the Revolutionary War who are buried in this vicinity. Erected by Holland Patent Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution. May 30, 1915."

The Chapter's history in the Bicentennial book THE HOLLAND PATENT: More than a Village 1797–1997 was written by Chapter DAR Magazine Chairman Mary Elizabeth Vincent. A copy has been donated to the Holland Patent Library which was established in 1916 with chapter members bringing used books in bushel baskets to the Village Hall. Our current Chapter Regent's Project has been a three-year program to donate new books to the Holland Patent Library.—Mary Helen Eppright Jones

MARTHA DEVOTION HUNTINGTON (Cleveland, OH). Retired Chief Judge of the Federal Courts of Cleveland Thomas Lambros was the recipient of one of the highest awards given by the Daughters of the American Revolution on January 23, when he received the DAR Medal of Honor for his many years of presiding at naturalization ceremonies in the Federal Courts of Cleveland.

Now a member of the Bricker and Eckler law firm, Judge Lambros received the medal from Mrs. William S. Schlecken, Ohio State Chairman of the DAR Americanism Committee. DAR representatives from seven northeastern Ohio chapters attend naturalization ceremonies in downtown Cleveland and distribute letters of congratulation and American flags to all new citizens.

"I'll never forget the first time I attended one of the naturalization ceremonies," said Mrs. A. William Cosker, Regent of Martha Devotion Huntington Chapter in Bay Village. "Judge Lambros took great pride in telling the new citizens the story of his parents' immigration and naturalization."

"During his long career he passionately affirmed the principal that this ceremony should be treated with honor and dignity," she continued. —Eloise Neeson

GREATER DALLAS (Texas) held its April 1997 meeting at Old City Park. Twenty-eight members of the JROTC from Woodrow Wilson High School attended. The colors were posted by the color guard in front of the Old Renner schoolhouse. Following the DAR Ritual, a Betsy Ross Flag and a NSDAR Flag Certificate were presented to the Park Director.

At the Old Church, Miss LaToisha Whatley was presented the DAR JROTC Medal, Certificate and scholarship check. After the WWHS JROTC Varsity Drill team and the 7th Battalion performed drills, a grand picnic was held on the park grounds.

A memorial service was then held at the gravesite of the Organizing Regent, Mrs. Margaret Kittrell, honoring all deceased members of the Greater Dallas Chapter. As the roll was called, giving the dates of NSDAR membership, Greater Dallas membership and date of death, a member of the chapter placed a flower in a vase in honor of the deceased. All present then gave a choral recitation of the 23rd Psalm.

Hannah Kittrell McDaniel and Harriet Kittrell Gordon, daughters of Mrs. Kittrell and both Honorary Regents of the Chapter, dedicated the Official DAR Marker at their mother's grave. Family members who were present joined Harriett and Harriet in an aircraft crash while serving in an aircraft crash while serving as Commanding General of the United States Air Force to approximately 1,429 miles in 1936. He is regarded as a major airpower prophet and was the first orientation officer to hold a theater command. The general was killed in an aircraft crash while serving as Commanding General of the European Theater of Operations. Cadet Long was among 787 cadets who received bachelor of science degrees and commissions as Air Force second lieutenants during the Academy's 39th graduation ceremony on the 28th of May, 1997. Along with his classmates, Cadet Long will increase the number of Academy graduates who are serving throughout the Air Force to approximately 30,287.

ZEBULON PIKE (Colorado Springs, CO). Pictured are: Cadet Jesse R. Long, United States Air Force Academy, and Mrs. David C. Huff, First Vice Regent of Zebulon Pike Chapter. On May 27, 1997, at the United States Air Force Academy's Individual Awards Ceremony, Mrs. Huff presented Cadet Long with the Outstanding Cadet in History Award in memory of Lieut. General Frank M. Andrews. General Andrews, a West Point graduate, set the amphibious aircraft distance record of 1,429 miles in 1936. He is regarded as a major airpower prophet and was the first orientation officer to hold a theater command. The general was killed in an aircraft crash while serving as Commanding General of the European Theater of Operations. Cadet Long was among 787 cadets who received bachelor of science degrees and commissions as Air Force second lieutenants during the Academy's 39th graduation ceremony on the 28th of May, 1997. Along with his classmates, Cadet Long will increase the number of Academy graduates who are serving throughout the Air Force to approximately 30,287.

ZEBAZTI (Glendale, AZ) started its year off with a Constitution Week Celebration with speaker, Stacy Sheard, who spoke on the Constitution and Indian Gambling. This celebration is annually held with Maricopa Chapter and we had almost 60 attendees this year. Special guests were Vice President General Carol Rilling, SW Vice Chairman, Mary Martha Jones, SW Vice Chairman Junior Membership, Kimberly Paterson, Arizona State Recording Secretary, Luella Ebinger, who is also the Organizing Regent of Anasazi Chapter, and Tucson Chapter Regent Evelyn Genetzi.

The theme for the year was community service. Included as part of our projects was a canned food drive for the Westside Food Bank. Ninety plus pounds were collected at the October meeting. For Literacy, we collected 3000 plus books for the Annual Book Sale in February of which proceeds go to the Arizona Literacy Program. A wreath was laid by Chaplain Barbara Cook and attended by Registrar Lavinia Griffith, members Janet and Shara Church at the National Memorial Cemetery of Arizona.

Members also donated over $5000 in Fry's grocery store receipts to the SW Indian School for the purchase of computers. Anasazi Chapter increased membership in 1996-97 by 11 members (15%) and as of September 1997, we had nine new members (16%), including two junior members, pending approval.

This is accomplished by our typing members papers, including them on the chapter newsletter mailing list, and contacting them yearly offering a workshop. A membership packet was also developed which includes national materials and a specially designed prospective member newsletter to help prospective members with the application process. Also included is a chapter brochure & national Fact Sheet to help them understand what we do.

The summer's major accomplishment was to get a website completed for our chapter and a proposed website for our state society of Arizona. Both are pending approval of State Regent Mrs. Walter Godber so they can be added to the national web pages. Please visit our sites and give us your input on how we can make the pages better! The addresses for our sites are: http://www.starlink.com/~birddog/anasazi.shtml and http://www.starlink.com/~birddog/ASDAR.shtml.—Betsy Jones

Maria Jefferson Chapter was founded by the great-granddaughter of Thomas Jefferson, third president of the United States. Her untimely death postponed the actual charter date to 26 March 1898. This is the second oldest chapter in Florida and has its chapter room in Lightner Museum, formerly Henry M. Flagler’s magnificent Hotel Alcazar. Members stroll today in its courtyard, popular meeting place 100 years ago.

Membership – the very Heartbeat of NSDAR!

Have you ever considered your role as a member of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution? You may think that you are not so important and that the National Society is hardly influenced by what you do or fail to do - but, you may be surprised to know that you are very important to NSDAR! Why? Let's look at just a few areas!

- You are the most accessible and involved representative of NSDAR in your community.
- You have the greatest power to influence your friends to join NSDAR.
- Your enthusiasm and personal motivation is the mirror in which prospective members see the NSDAR.
- Your personal involvement to inspire and challenge others creates a rippling wave of influence and response.
- You may be only one individual, but together with "Unity of Spirit and Unity of Purpose" the contribution of your time and talent, with that of the thousands of members around the world, makes up the great collective strength of the NSDAR.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

To celebrate our membership strength and to emphasize the importance of the individual and her contribution as a member, the National Membership Committee will initiate "Daughters of Distinction". This new feature will introduce you to some of the interesting and diverse members who find time in their busy lives to include NSDAR. Be sure and look for this feature beginning in October!

- Cooperate with other local groups in activities which support local community projects.

GREAT NEWS!

The NSDAR Office of Member Services reports that hundreds of membership inquiries are being received in response to the NSDAR Web Page. E-mail inquiries are coming from all across the country. The prospects are out there so let's make certain that they find a DAR chapter!

ida. Named for the scenic fifteen mile river that flows peacefully through mangroves and cypress trees on its way to the Atlantic, the Loxahatchee River Chapter was formally organized at the Sugar Cane Island Bistro in Jupiter, Florida.

Attending as the Officiating Officer of the Organizing Meeting was Cathy Green, Florida State Society Treasurer, who presented the new chapter with a gavel. The festivities included a lunch following the Call to Order by the Organizing Regent, Ms. Lynn Lasseter Pickett. The following Officers were inducted: Regent, Lynn Lasseter Pickett; First Vice Regent, Gail Burdick Dahlquist; Second Vice Regent, Julie Anderson Pritula; Chaplain, Donna Wallace Oldham; Recording Secretary, Susan Johnson Todd; Corresponding Secretary, Lisa Malia McDonough; Treasurer, Barbara Barkey Jurka; Assistant Treasurer, Carin White Johnson; Registrar, Dorothy Junger Cato Nittolo; Assistant Registrar, Janet Little Thompson; Historian, Harriette Sarvis Estes; Librarian, Nancy Lynne Callahan; Parliamentarian, Mary Ruth Mullins; and Flag Custodian, Florence O'Connor McDonough.

The Loxahatchee River Chapter has 32 organizing members, including three Junior members. This new chapter will be actively engaged in the objectives of the National Society—preservation, research, history, and education.

WESTERN RESERVE (Ohio). Katherine (Kay) Barber celebrated her 100th birthday on April 25, 1997. She has compiled a service record which is a virtual guide to DAR endeavors.

Mrs. Barber was one of those selected to receive the Sons of the American Revolution esteemed Martha Washington medal. The Medal was presented at the combined George Washington birthday celebration on February 22, 1997.

A 76-year member of DAR, Mrs. Barber is a past Regent of the chapter along with serving on various committees and as a Page at Continental Congress.

HUNT'S SPRING (Huntsville, AL) members enjoyed a bus trip to Maury County, Tennessee to tour the remaining places that were build and used by President Polk and his family. Donna Parker, Regent, and fourteen Daughters first stopped at the home built for James K. Polk's parents in 1816. President Polk lived in this Federal-style home for six years while beginning his legal and political career. Next door to Polk's home is the home of his sister and her husband. Most furnishings in both homes belonged to the Polk family.

The next stop was St. John's Episcopal Church in Mt. Pleasant. Built by four Polk brothers, who were cousins of the 11th President, the church is the oldest brick "plantation" church in the nation. Recently restored, the church still holds services.

Down the road from the church is the Battle & Snap mansion, built in 1842 by George Washington Polk, one of the four cousins. This mansion is reputed to be the finest example of Greek Revival Architecture in the South today. The furnishings are all of the mid-nineteenth century, many of which came from the area Polk homes. This home was spared during the civil war on four occasions because of a portrait of George Polk hanging in the grand foyer wearing a Masonic coat. On each occasion, the North's commanding officer was a Mason.

Last year, Hunt's Spring visited the plantation home of President Andrew Jackson and other historical buildings in Nashville, Tennessee. Next year who knows where we will go!

ALLAPATTA (Sarasota, Florida) members who have made special scholarship donations were honored at the annual Chapter Recognition Tea held on February 13, 1998. Regent Mrs. Cora Abbott announced that Mrs. Carl Bauer has given a most generous $5,000.00 donation to the Tamassee School which has been forwarded to the School. Mrs. Bauer gave an additional $5,000.00 to needy students at the Sarasota County Technical Institute in memory of the late Carl S. Bauer. Mrs. Bauer's gift was presented to Institute Director William A. Storms by her daughter, Mrs. Joanne Bauer Belfield. Chapter Scholarship Chairman Mrs. Katherine Howell gave a $1,000.00 donation to the Sarasota County Technical Institute's Health Occupations program. Linda W. Swisher, RN, Ed.D, Department Chairman for Health Occupations at the Institute accepted Mrs. Howell's gift, which was presented by Regent Abbott.

The American History program began with Mrs. Jean Batten giving a presentation on the history and goals of the schools supported by the DAR and information on DAR scholarships available both locally and nationally. Winners of the "Forts in America" American History Contest were special guests at the Tea along with their teachers and family members. Chapter Chairman Mrs. Suzanne Larsen introduced the students who read their winning essays and were presented with their framed certificates, pins and flags. Winning for the 5th grade was Andrew Rawley, "Ben's Fort"; for the 7th grade, Clio Mason, "West Point"; and for the 8th grade, Christian Jacobs, "The Alamo". Following the program, tea was served by Chapter members.

SWATARA PINE FORD (MIDDLETOWN, PA). Chapter Meetings were interesting and covered Honor Roll requirements. The first meeting was in one of Middletown's oldest restaurants, the site of the first Middletown Borough Election on the second Tuesday of April 1829. Before dinner the Regent gave a brief history of the restaurant and the surrounding area.

The second meeting concerned the ghosts of Middletown, including the photograph of an actual ghost, a Civil War Officer who was killed in battle. The chapter received the Level 3 Chapter Achievement Award.

Members celebrated the chapter's 77th Birthday by attending a Dessert-Theater, a fund-raising project of the Chancel Choir of Middletown's Wesley United Methodist Church.

The chapter and Junior DAR members as dedicated and determined women who actively fulfill their responsibilities and show respect for others.

Mrs. Niedling was commended for her quarter of a century of service to the chapter and for bringing honor to the chapter by serving the Wisconsin Society as State Regent and for serving the National Society as Vice President General and Lineage Research Committee Chairman. A crystal bowl was presented to Mrs. Niedling by Mrs. Hacker as a gift from the chapter.

NAY-OSSH-ING (Plover, WI) celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary at a luncheon at the Plover Sky Club, February 1, 1998. In April 1972, Hope Hotchkiss Niedling (Mrs. Ivan) was appointed organizing regent for a new chapter in Plover, Wisconsin. She had the chapter ready for formal organization February 1, 1973.

Susan Hopfenisperger (Mrs. Ralph) Historian, researched and presented the chapter history.

The name Nay-osh-ing was chosen for its historical significance. It is a Chippewa Indian word meaning "the point" which referred to a point in the area along the Wisconsin River that could be crossed on foot or horseback by the Indians because the underground rock formation provided a surface to cross on.

Using the letters DAR, she described Nay-osh-ing Chapter members as dedicated and determined women who actively fulfill their responsibilities and show respect for others.

Mrs. Niedling was commended for her quarter of a century of service to the chapter and for bringing honor to the chapter by serving the Wisconsin Society as State Regent and for serving the National Society as Vice President General and Lineage Research Committee Chairman. A crystal bowl was presented to Mrs. Niedling by Mrs. Hacker as a gift from the chapter.

Every Daughter knows how inflation can reduce the purchasing power of a life insurance policy bought in the past. Upgrading your life insurance protection with group term life insurance arranged by your NSDAR can be a smart decision.

Consider these advantages for NSDAR members under this group term life insurance program:

♦ UP TO $20,000 in coverage is available to members under age 60.
♦ UP TO $10,000 in coverage is offered to members between ages 60 and 64.
♦ UP TO $5,000 in coverage is available to members age 65 and over.
♦ You can apply for coverage through age 99 and continue in the plan for the rest of your life.
♦ And best of all, your acceptance is guaranteed if you can satisfactorily answer a brief question about your current state of health.

NOTE: This Plan may not be available in all states at this time.

☐ Yes, I'm interested in receiving information on the Group Term Life Insurance Program for NSDAR members.
