COVER STORY

The Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia”—these very words evoke visions of luxurious greens and plush surroundings. Its history goes back almost to the beginnings of our country, when in 1778 a local settler found her way to the spring of sulphur water. Although the curative powers of the spring water remain, the resort has evolved over the years into the place to stay for a memorable pampering experience.

Michael Bowyer, a veteran of the American Revolution, first owned this spot and began its development. The resort grew in popularity as travel became more accessible. The cover photo of The Greenbrier in spring invites you to enjoy the article beginning on page 316.

328 2000–2001 NSDAR Chapter Achievement Award
The Unity Award, established by the Love Administration, rewards employees who exhibit Understanding, Sharing, Integrity, Teamwork and Creativity. Three who have met these standards are Gerald Walker, Supervisor of Support Services, DAR Library (left); LaKeitha Clarke, Record Information Specialist, Registrar General Record Information, with Mr. Richard Rutledge, DAR Administrator (far left); Juana Dickerson, Library Office Manager, with Mrs. Love.
My Dear Daughters,

The 109th Continental Congress with all its pomp and pageantry came to a close with treasured memories and new incentives to be shared with chapters and friends back home. How I wish each of you could have been present to experience the excitement of the events and to hear the outstanding reports of work accomplished by your Society during the past year.

For the first time, the DAR Flag flew in front of the Capital Hilton Hotel announcing the arrival of the Daughters and signaling the opening of the 109th Continental Congress in the Nation's Capital.

The O'Byrne Gallery in Memorial Continental Hall, restored to its original grandeur, was the scene of a gala reception on April 13th following the opening of the new Museum Exhibition, "As Centuries End." During Congress week, all members had the opportunity to enjoy the splendor of the Gallery while registering and voting.

Beautiful new state and foreign flags and poles on the D Street ramp of Constitution Hall, a gift from two generous members, greeted Daughters and guests as they arrived for Opening Night ceremonies. Distinguished Daughter, Elizabeth Hanford Dole, was the dynamic speaker for the evening and the presentation of her DAR pins and the Ellen Hardin Walworth Founders Medal for Patriotism thrilled the audience.

Diane Elias, Metropolitan Opera American Mezzo Soprano and member of the New York City Chapter, provided beautiful musical entertainment. Past Executive Officers and Past National Outstanding Junior Members were given special recognition. A Life Membership was presented to the winner of the Millennium Membership Essay Contest.

Members of the Hermoine-LaFayette Association from Rochefort, France were welcomed on Tuesday evening. The delegation was on a goodwill trip to the United States to prepare for the launching and Maiden Voyage of the Hermoine, a replica of the ship the Marquis de LaFayette and 312 French troops sailed to America in 1790 to give support to the cause for American Independence.

On Wednesday evening, April 19th, the 225th Anniversary of the Battle of Lexington that launched the struggle for American Independence, it was appropriate to honor those who continued to sacrifice to preserve our American freedom. The United States Army "Pershings Own" Ceremonial Band presented a "Musical Salute to World War II" prior to the presentation of four volumes of the World War II Book of Remembrance containing over 27,000 names of the men and women who served in the military and on the homefront during that period in our nation's history. The Dr. Anita Newcomb McGee Award, was presented to the Army Nurse of the Year and the new Margaret Cochran Corbin Award was presented to four women for distinguished military service.

On Memorial Day, May 29, let us again honor those who gave and continue to give their lives that we may enjoy the freedoms we have today.

In unity of spirit, unity of purpose and DAR love,

Over the years The Greenbrier has come to mean many things to many different people. To some, the name stands for lush golf courses. To others, it represents pampering service. To still others, the name brings to mind fine dining in a memorable setting. But if you talk for any length of time to someone who has stayed at the resort in White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, he will get around to the quiet sense of history that gently pervades the property.

That history goes back almost to the beginning of this country. In 1778, a local settler found her way to the spring of sulphur water that remains in the center of the resort and bathed in the water to relieve painful symptoms of rheumatism. The establishment of The Greenbrier is dated from this event, but the resort evolved very slowly because its location up in the Allegheny Mountains was accessible only by very rough roads in the late 18th century.

A Revolutionary War veteran, Michael Bowyer, acquired one thousand acres surrounding the sulphur spring and by 1784 had established a clear claim to the land. But for the next twenty-five years few travelers were able to make their way to his health-restoring mineral spring. It was a daunting task in the early 19th century to build a road up and over such densely forested mountains. As a toll road connecting Tidewater, Virginia and the Ohio River progressed—eventually becoming the James River and Kanawha Turnpike—stagecoaches bounced directly by the fledgling resort. Today the road that stretches by The Greenbrier is Interstate 64 and by modern reckoning it is about midway between Roanoke, Virginia, and Charleston, West Virginia.

The Greenbrier is also about 240 miles from Washington, D.C. From the earliest years visitors traveling from the South and West to the federal city found the resort a favorite watering place. In 1815, Secretary of State, James Monroe, arrived to "take the waters," followed the next year by the celebrated naval hero, Stephen Decatur, followed in 1817 by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, Henry Clay. This last gentleman became a regular guest for the next thirty years and was regarded as the "unofficial host of White Sulphur Springs." Henry Clay made The Greenbrier famous as a place where famous people gather.

By the time of the Civil War, White Sulphur Springs—or "The White" as many called it—was widely recognized as the great social resort of the Southern states. Much of the political sub-plot below the jovial social scene was dictated by the fact that the most powerful, wealthy and influential members of Southern society always went “up to The White” each summer. In the 1850s accommodations at the resort expanded from rows of cottages (many of which are, after numerous modernizations, still in use) to include a large hotel that came to be called The Old White. When the new hotel opened in 1858 a crowd of 1500 people gathered in the last two weeks of August, the peak of the social season. In the 19th century the resort opened only in the summer months, part of the health reasoning was to escape the heat, humidity and diseases of the southern lowlands.
Because it was a summer-only hotel, The Old White was torn down in 1922 after the resort became a year-round operation.
All of this frivolity and social maneuvering came to a sudden halt in the midst of the 1861 season with the arrival of Confederate troops retreating from the west.
Within weeks hundreds of soldiers suffering from measles filled the hotel. The stage-coach road providing a route for troop movements through the mountains determined the area’s strategic importance. In the latter two years of the war, whoever controlled the road controlled the resort.
But the property remained closed as a resort for five years.
After the Civil War, the resort’s reputation as the “Representative Resort of the South” was incalculably enhanced by the annual visits of Robert E. Lee. General Lee came up with his family from Lexington, Virginia, where he served as president of Washington College (now Washington and Lee University). Lee’s last visit occurred in 1869, a pivotal year in the history of the resort because that summer the tracks of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway were completed from Richmond. For the next century virtually all guests traveled by rail to White Sulphur Springs in the new state of West Virginia. The resort became much more accessible as the American railroad system expanded dramatically in the post-war decades.
The merry seasons continued into the 19th century's last years, but behind the scenes the resort's financial foundations weakened as the White Sulphur Springs Company coped with economic panics in the 1870s and 1890s. Other mineral springs resorts in the mountains of the Virginias—places with names like Sweet Springs, Warm Springs, Salt Sulphur Springs, Red Sulphur Springs, Healing Springs—went into a steady decline. The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway rescued "The White" in 1910 when it purchased the property and inaugurated a major upgrading and expansion.

First, the railroad built a new hotel, The Greenbrier. The oldest part of the current building opened October 1, 1913 and with this 250-room structure the resort started operating on a year-round basis. Simultaneously, a new Mineral Bath Building was constructed offering the traditional baths in heated sulphur water supplemented by the latest spa techniques from Europe. The Greenbrier positioned itself as "A European Cure In America," trying to lure travelers away from the luxury ocean liners carrying Americans to places like Wiesbaden and Baden Baden. A third project changed the resort's character dramatically—golf. Although a small nine-hole course existed by 1910, The Greenbrier joined the ranks of forward-looking resorts in 1913 by bringing in the renown golf architect, Charles Blair Macdonald, to design The Old White Course.

Those who argue that "timing is everything" notice that all of this happened immediately before the outbreak of World War I which effectively cut off travel to Europe making The Greenbrier an attractive alternative. In addition, the new resort in a historic location fit comfortably into the travel patterns of fashionable society, because it was situated on a major railroad line halfway between the winter haven of Palm Beach, Florida, and the summer social capital of Newport, Rhode Island. In the "Roaring Twenties" The Greenbrier exhibited an almost Gatsbyesque personality as well-to-do New Yorkers flocked to the luxurious hotel and generated stories for newspaper society columns reporting who played golf with whom.
and who appeared at the reigning socialite's latest dinner party.

Following up on the "timing is everything" theme, The Greenbrier began an extensive rebuilding in late 1929 in order to accommodate the resort's growing popularity. The hotel building doubled in size and was given its distinctive Southern manor house appearance by Cleveland architect Phillip Small. Had this program not begun when it did the hard times of the Great Depression would have made it impossible. Instead, The Greenbrier was able to weather the difficulties of the 1930s and remain one of the few luxury resorts in operation.

In World War II The Greenbrier performed two quite different missions. Within two weeks of the Pearl Harbor attack that brought the United States into the war, the U.S. State Department made arrangements to lease the hotel for use as an "Internment Center For Enemy Alien Diplomats." The resort closed to the public and housed German, Japanese and Italian diplomats and their families who were in Washington, D.C. at the outbreak of the conflict. The Greenbrier was directly accessible by train, it was a first-class hotel and its isolated location made it easy to provide security. For these reasons it was ideal for the State Department's objective of providing temporary housing for the diplomats while negotiations led to their eventual exchange for American diplomats stranded in Berlin, Tokyo and Rome. When the last diplomat left in July 1942, The Greenbrier had hosted 400 Japanese, 250 Italians and over 800 Germans for seven months.

Six weeks later the U.S. Army purchased the entire Greenbrier estate (almost 7000 acres) and immediately began converting the hotel into a 2,000 bed hospital. The first patients arrived at the newly-renamed facility—The Greenbrier was now Ashford General Hospital—in November 1942. The hospital specialized in vascular and neuro-surgery; the sports facilities and bath department served an important role as the basis of an extensive rehabilitation program. The Army's brochure describing the reconditioning program was titled "The Royal Road to Recovery." For four years Ashford General Hospital was a very busy place: 24,148 soldiers were admitted and treated.

General Eisenhower was among the soldiers at Ashford General Hospital spending three weeks recuperating there with his family at the war's end.

Once the war was over the Army decided that it would be too expensive to maintain the hospital in peacetime so in the summer of 1946 the resort-turned-hospital was sold back to its pre-war owners, the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway. Due to the changes made in the hospital conversion, a major redecoration of the hotel began shortly after the Army's departure. One of the legendary stories about The Greenbrier recounts how the famous interior decorator, Dorothy Draper, spent almost a year and a half (and nine million dollars, a notable sum at the time) totally transforming the public rooms and guests rooms with her trademark bright colors. Stripes and flowers—especially the rhododendron, the West Virginia state flower—appeared on wallpapers and fabrics in a dramatic departure from the hotel's earlier look. Guests returning after the reopening in April 1948 experienced what one newspaper called a "Technicolor surprise." What was surprising decor in the late 1940s is now very much an integral part of the resort's personality. The Dorothy Draper Company, now headed by Carleton Varney, continues to decorate the property to this day.

Also after the war Sam Snead returned to the resort where his remarkable gold career started in 1936. He was now at the peak of his powers and each Spring he hosted a gold tournament featuring the best professionals in the game, especially his long time rival, Ben Hogan. Those tournaments served as grand social gatherings too, highlighted in the 1950s by the visits of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. For years the names Dorothy Draper, Sam Snead and the Duke and Duchess of Windsor defined The Greenbrier's unique charm. Sam Snead is still associated with The Greenbrier. Today his title is Greenbrier Golf Pro Emeritus.

Another name regularly connected with The Greenbrier is Dwight D. Eisenhower. As we've seen, he visited the resort in its hospital days and in 1956 he returned to meet with the President of Mexico and the Prime Minister of Canada. This was the last time a sitting president visited the resort, although all of the presidents after Eisenhower stayed at The Greenbrier before their terms... of office. The list includes twenty-five men who were or would become the President of the United States, from James Monroe to Bill Clinton.

President Eisenhower's visit also ushered in a new era in Greenbrier history, its hidden role as an "Emergency Relocation Center" for Congress. Eisenhower had authorized a plan creating a series of underground shelters for use in the event of a war necessitating the evacuation of Washington, D.C. The Greenbrier was selected as the location of such a facility for the legislative branch of the federal government. In 1959, construction began on a huge (112,000 square foot) concrete and steel bunker under a hill behind the hotel. To disguise the true purpose of the construction project—since Congressional leaders insisted that this remain a classified, i.e. top secret, operation—a new hotel wing was added which provided a viable cover story. The underground bunker consisted of dormitories, a sophisticated communications center, a dining room, a medical clinic, office space, a power plant for generating electricity, and movie theater-style auditoriums where the House of Representatives and the Senate might reassemble.

For thirty years the facility's existence remained one of America's most closely guarded secrets. A small cadre of government experts maintained the complex communications equipment under the cover of serving as The Greenbrier's audio-visual consultants. Approximately seventy members of The Greenbrier's Engineering Department worked, keeping the relocation center at a constant state of operational readiness. All were sworn to absolute secrecy. Had the facility been activated, the machinery was ready to go, food was stored in freezers, oil for the generators was available from giant storage tanks, and seventy-five thousand gallons of water were on hand. An article in the May 31, 1992 issue of the Washington Post disclosed the facility and described the relocation program in such detail that the government decided to close it down. After what amounted to a base-closing procedure, tours of the bunker began in December 1995.

While all of this was going on underground, life continued above ground as the resort grew. A new indoor tennis center was added in 1975, and Jack Nicklaus completely redesigned The Greenbrier Course to host the 1979 International Ryder Cup Matches. Renovated cottages created some of the best accommodations at the resort. A new conference wing opened in the mid-1980s. An entirely new mineral bath and spa building replaced the older one in November 1987. Since the 1980s the luxury resort world has become a much more competitive place, and The Greenbrier stays apace of the competition by restoring and maintaining its historic character while offering the up-to-date facilities demanded by increasingly sophisticated customers. For example, a guest driving up to The Greenbrier today encounters a building that looks much the same on the outside today as it has for seventy years, and yet in the last fifteen years virtually every guest room (and there are 672 in the hotel and cottages) has been entirely rebuilt. Of course golf is never neglected—in 1997 the interior of the golf clubhouse was wholly redesigned and in 1999 a new course, The Meadows, was dedicated by Sam Snead.

At the end of 1999, The Greenbrier was designated “Resort of the Century” by the prestigious Andrew Harper’s Hideaway Report, and the largest number of guests ever in the resort’s history greeted the new millennium at The Greenbrier on January 1, 2000. Because it is an enterprise with a well developed sense of where it has been, The Greenbrier is well poised to take on the future.

The main lobby of The Greenbrier has retained the classic Dorothy Draper look for fifty years.

Wisconsin Juniors are a small, but growing group. We help raise money for the Helen Pouch Memorial Fund by selling the Junior Sales Items at our State Conference and our Fall Workshop. A list of Junior Sales Items is also distributed to each Chapter Regent. This year our State Regent’s Project is to sell “Wisconsin Society DAR” zippered totes. All proceeds from the sale of the totes will be used to help send Junior Members to Continental Congress! With only a few months of sales, two lucky Junior Members will be going to Continental Congress.

The State of Illinois

State Chairman

Illinois Juniors are lighting the way. This year’s State Outstanding Junior will be announced at the March State Conference in Oakbrook, with President General Love in attendance. The Junior project, a beautiful stained glass hanging of the Hatteras lighthouse, will go home with the owner of the lucky voice holder. Junior Sales are busy, having traveled with DAR days and Division meetings. The Junior Club is active with 35 members and looking for more! This year the group will pay for the Outstanding Junior’s luncheon, the North Central Division pin (If our candidate wins), and contribute a dollar per member to the Helen Pouch Memorial Fund. Every other year the Junior Club honors the Illinois State Regent with an honorarium to the Helen Pouch Fund.

The Junior Membership of South Dakota DAR is small, but active. The SD Daughters keep young at heart through their support of Junior activities. A bazaar is held annually at the State Conference to raise money for the Helen Pouch Memorial Fund and local DAR youth activities. Members donate new and nearly new items which are sold at the bazaar. Some items not sold are donated to the State Veterans Hospital. Junior Sales Items are sold at State Board of Management meeting and the State Conference. Each chapter is provided with an order form which gives the chapters the opportunity to order items at anytime. Innisbrook Wrapping is sold by several chapters. Each Junior member receives a yearly letter from the State Junior Membership Chairman. Each Junior Member and Chapter is provided with a history of the Helen Pouch Memorial Fund. A State Officer, a State Chairman and a Chapter Chairman are all Junior Members serving WVDAR.

State Chairman

Juniors have been busy in West Virginia. Our State’s Centennial State Conference was held in Martinsburg, WV on October 29, 1999. Juniors were thrilled that our State Regent, Miss Jean Ann Elliot, chose to honor and support Junior Membership by allowing the opening night dinner to be a Junior Membership Dinner. Miss Elizabeth Anne Greenfield, State Chairman, presided. The DAR members, who gave the invocation, Pledge to the Flag of the US, and Benediction were all WV Juniors, Miss Charla Louise Nutter, Mrs. John A. Davis, and Miss Jan Elizabeth Frankenberry. These four WV Juniors are also Honorary State Presidents of W.V.C.A.R., who are active in WVDAR and their chapters. In addition to our beloved Miss Elliot, Juniors were delighted to have Mrs. Dale Kelly Love, President General and Miss Karin J. Lund, National Chairman of Junior Membership, seated at the head table. Miss Lund was the featured speaker who gave a presentation about the Constitution. Juniors carried flags to illustrate various historic periods. Members signed a Constitution and were given materials about the Constitution to sue in patriotic education activities in their communities The theme of the Dinner was “Juniors, You’re the apple of my eye!” To further the theme, Miss Lund was presented with a WV stained glass apple suncatcher. Golden apples and candle light completed the decorations. Mrs. Charles M. Meyers, Jr., and Mrs. Gary W. Greenfield, grandmother and mother of the State Junior Membership Chairman, donated golden apple pins which were sold for the Helen Pouch Fund. The last apple was auctioned of to the highest bidder, Mrs. Robert L. Hilton, State Regent of the District of Columbia. Juniors paged and assisted throughout the conference. Stationary and crafts were sold at a Junior Bazaar. Miss Elliot knitted an afghan which was sold for the Helen Pouch Fund. WV Juniors appreciated all the support of their Junior projects very much.
Address by United States Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, before the United Nations Security Council, January 20, 2000

Mr. President, Distinguished Ambassadors,
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am told that this is the first time that a United States Senator has addressed the UN Security Council. I sincerely hope it will not be the last. It is important that this body have greater contact with the elected representatives of the American people, and that we have greater contact with you.

In this spirit, tomorrow I will be joined here at the UN by several other members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Together, we will meet with UN officials and representatives of some of your governments, and will hold a Committee “Field Hearing” to discuss UN reform and the prospects for improved U.S.-UN relations.

This will mark another first. Never before has the Senate Foreign Relations Committee ventured as a group from Washington to visit an international institution. I hope it will be an enlightening experience for all of us, and that you will accept this visit as a sign of our desire for a new beginning in the U.S.- UN relationship.

I hope - I intend - that my presence here today will presage future annual visits by the Security Council, who will come to Washington as official guests of the United States Senate and the Senate’s Foreign Relations Committee which I chair.

I trust that your representatives will feel free to be as candid in Washington as I will try to be here today so that there will be hands of friendship extended in an atmosphere of understanding.

If we are to have such a new begin-nning, we must endeavor to understand each other better. And that is why I will share with you some of what I am hearing from the American people about the United Nations.

Now I am confident you have seen the public opinion polls, commissioned by UN supporters, suggesting that the UN enjoys the support of the American public. I would caution that you not put too much confidence in those polls. Since I was first elected to the Senate in 1972, I have run for re-election four times. Each time, the pollsters have confidently predicted my defeat. Each time, I am happy to confide, they have been wrong. I am pleased that, thus far, I have never won a poll or lost an election.

So, as those of you who represent democratic nations well know, public opinion polls can be constructed to tell you anything the poll takers want you to hear.

Let me share with you what the American people tell me. Since I became chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, I have received literally thousands of letters from Americans all across the country expressing their deep frustration with this institution.

They know instinctively that the UN lives and breathes on the hard-earned money of the American taxpayers. And yet they have heard comments here in New York constantly calling the United States a “deadbeat.”

They have heard UN officials declaring absurdly that countries like Fiji and Bangladesh are carrying America’s burden in peacekeeping. They see the majority of the UN members routinely voting against America in the General Assembly.

They have read the reports of the raucous cheering of the UN delegates in Rome, when U.S. efforts to amend the International Criminal Court treaty to protect American soldiers were defeated.

They read in the newspapers that, despite all the human rights abuses taking place in dictatorships across the globe, a UN “Special Rapporteur” decided his most pressing task was to investigate human rights violations in the U.S. - and found our human rights record wanting.

The American people hear all this;
they resent it, and they have grown increasingly frustrated with what they feel is a lack of gratitude.

Now I won’t delve into every point of frustration, but let’s touch for just a moturn on one - the “deadbeat” charge.

Before coming here, I asked the United States General Accounting Office to as-

DAR 83MAY
tributed a total of more than $1.4 billion dollars to the UN system in assessments and voluntary contributions. That's pretty generous, but it's only the tip of the iceberg. The American taxpayers also spent an additional $8,779,000,000 from the United States' military budget to support various UN resolutions and peacekeeping operations around the world. Let me repeat that figure: $8,779,000,000.

That means that last year (1999) alone the American people have furnished precisely $10,179,000,000 to support the work of the United Nations. No other nation on earth comes even close to matching that singular investment. So you can see why many Americans reject the suggestion that theirs is a "deadbeat" nation.

Now, I grant you, the money we spend on the UN is not charity. To the contrary, it is an investment - an investment from which the American people rightly expect a return. They expect a reformed UN that works more efficiently, and which respects the sovereignty of the United States.

That is why in the 1980s, Congress began withholding a fraction of our arrears as pressure for reform. And Congressional pressure resulted in some worthwhile reforms, such as the creation of an independent UN Inspector General and the adoption of consensus budgeting practices. But still, the arrears accumulated as the UN resisted more comprehensive reforms.

When the distinguished Secretary General, Kofi Annan, was elected, some of us in the Senate decided to try to establish a working relationship. The result is the Helms-Biden law, which President Clinton finally signed into law this past November. The product of three years of arduous negotiations and hard-fought compromises, it was approved by the U.S. Senate by an overwhelming 98 -1 margin. You should read that vote as a virtually unanimous mandate for a new relationship with a reformed United Nations.

Now I am aware that this law does not sit well with some here at the UN. Some do not like to have reforms dictated by the U.S. Congress. Some have even suggested that the UN should reject these reforms.

But let me suggest a few things to consider: First, as the figures I have cited clearly demonstrate, the United States is the single largest investor in the United Nations. Under the U.S. Constitution, we in Congress are the sole guardians of the American taxpayers' money. (It is our solemn duty to see that it is wisely invested.)

So as the representatives of the UN's largest investors - the American people - we have not only a right, but a responsibility, to insist on specific reforms in exchange for their investment.

Second, I ask you to consider the alternative. The alternative would have been to continue to let the U.S.-UN relationship spiral out of control. You would have taken retaliatory measures, such as revoking America's vote in the General Assembly. Congress would likely have responded with retaliatory measures against the UN. And the end result, I believe, would have been a breach in U.S.-UN relations that would have served the interests of no one.

Now some here may contend that the Clinton Administration should have fought to pay the arrears without conditions. I assure you, had they done so, they would have lost.

Eighty years ago, Woodrow Wilson failed to secure Congressional support for U.S. entry into the League of Nations. This administration obviously learned from President Wilson's mistakes.

Wilson probably could have achieved ratification of the League of Nations if he had worked with Congress. One of my predecessors as Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Henry Cabot Lodge, asked for 14 conditions to the treaty establishing the League of Nations, few of which would have raised an eyebrow today. These included language to insure that the United States remain the sole judge of its own internal affairs; that the League not restrict any individual rights of U.S. citizens; that the Congress retain sole authority for the deployment of U.S. forces through the League, and so on.

But President Wilson indignantly refused to compromise with Senator Lodge. He shouted, "Never, never!" adding, "I'll never consent to adopting any policy with which that impossible man is so prominently identified!" What happended? President Wilson lost. The final vote in the Senate was 38 to 53, and League of Nations withered on the vine. Ambassador Holbrooke and Secretary of State Albright understood from the beginning that the United Nations could not long survive without the support of the American people - and their elected representatives in Congress. Thanks to the efforts of leaders like Ambassador Holbrooke and Secretary Albright, the present Administration in Washington did not repeat President Wilson's fatal mistakes.

In any event, Congress has written a check to the United Nations for $926 million, payable upon the implementation of previously agreed-upon commonsense reforms. Now the choice is up to the UN. I suggest that if the UN were to reject this compromise, it would mark the beginning of the end of U.S. support for the United Nations.

I don't want that to happen. I want the American people to value a United Nations that recognizes and respects their interests, and for the United Nations to value the significant contributions of the American people. Let's be crystal clear and totally honest with each other: all of us want a more effective United Nations. But if the United Nations is to be "effective" it must be an institution that is needed by the great democratic powers of the world.

Most Americans do not regard the United Nations as an end in and of itself - they see it as just one part of America's diplomatic arsenal. To the extent that the UN is effective, the American people will support it. To the extent that it becomes ineffective - or worse, a burden - the American people will cast it aside.

The American people want the UN to serve the purpose for which it was designed: they want it to help sovereign states coordinate collective action by "coalitions of the willing," (where the political will for such action exists); they want it to provide a forum where diplomats can meet and keep open channels of communication in times of crisis; they want it to provide to the peoples of the world important services, such as peacekeeping, weapons inspections and humanitarian relief.

This is important work. It is the core of what the UN can offer to the United States and the world. If, in the coming century, the UN focuses on doing these core tasks well, it can thrive and will earn and deserve the support of the American people. But if the UN seeks to move beyond these core tasks, if it seeks to impose the UN's power and authority over nation-states, I guarantee that the United Nations will meet stiff resistance from the American people.

As matters now stand, many Americans sense that the UN has greater ambitions than simply being an efficient deliverer of humanitarian aid, a more effective peacekeeper, a better weapons inspector, and a more effective tool of great power diplomacy. They see the UN aspiring to establish itself as the central authority of a new international order of global laws and global governance. This is an international order the American people will not countenance.

The UN must respect national sovereignty. The UN serves nation-states, not the other way around. This principle is central to the legitimacy and ultimate survival of the United Nations, and it is a principle that must be protected.

The Secretary General recently delivered an address on sovereignty to the General Assembly, in which he declared that "the last right of states cannot and must not be the right to enslave, persecute or torture their own citizens." The peoples of the world, he said, have "rights beyond borders."

I wholeheartedly agree.

What the Secretary General calls "rights beyond borders," we in America call "inalienable rights." We are endowed with those "inalienable rights," as Thomas Jefferson proclaimed in our Declaration of Independence, not by kings or despots, but by our Creator.

The sovereignty of nations must be respected. But nations derive their sovereignty - their legitimacy - from the consent of the governed. Thus, it follows that nations can lose their legitimacy when they rule without the consent of the governed; they deservedly discard their sovereignty by brutally oppressing their people.

Slobodan Milosevic cannot claim sovereignty over Kosovo when he has murdered Kosovars and piled their bodies into mass graves. Neither can Fidel Castro claim that it is his sovereign right to oppress his people. Nor can Saddam Hussein defend his oppression of the Iraqi people by hiding behind phony claims of sovereignty. And when the oppressed peoples of the world cry out for help, the free peoples of the world have a fundamental right to respond.

As we watch the UN struggle with this question at the turn of the millennium, many Americans are left exceedingly puzzled. Intervening in cases of widespread oppression and massive human rights abuses is not a new concept for the United States. The American people have a long history of coming to the aid of those struggling for freedom. In the United States, during the 1980s, we called this policy the "Reagan Doctrine."

In some cases, America has assisted freedom fighters around the world who were seeking to overthrow corrupt regimes. We have provided weaponry, training, and intelligence. In other cases, the United States has intervened directly. In still other cases, such as in Central and Eastern Europe, we supported peaceful opposition movements with moral, financial and covert forms of support. In each case, however, it was America's clear intention to help bring down Communist regimes that were oppressing their peoples, and thereby replace dictators with democratic governments.

The dramatic expansion of freedom in the last decade of the 20th century is a direct result of these policies.

In none of these cases, however, did the United States ask for, or receive, the approval of the United Nations to "legitimize" its actions.

It is a fanciful notion that free peoples need to seek the approval of an international body (some of whose members are totalitarian dictatorships) to lend support to nations struggling to break the chains of tyranny and claim their inalienable, God-given rights. The United Nations has no power to grant or decline legitimacy to such actions. They are inherently legitimate.

What the United Nations can do is help. The Security Council can, where appropriate, be an instrument to facilitate action by "coalitions of the willing," implement sanctions regimes, and provide logistical support to states undertaking collective action.

But complete candor is imperative: The Security Council has an exceedingly mixed record in being such a facilitator. In the case of Iraq's aggression against Kuwait in the early 1990s, it performed admirably; in the more recent case of Kosovo, it was paralyzed. The UN peacekeeping mission in Bosnia was a disaster, and its failure to protect the Bosnian people from Serbian genocide is well documented in a recent UN report.

And, despite its initial success in repelling Iraqi aggression, in the years since the Gulf War, the Security Council has utterly failed to stop Saddam Hussein's drive to build instruments of mass murder. It has allowed him to play a repeated game of expelling UNSCOM inspection teams which included Americans, and has left Saddam completely free for the past year to fashion nuclear and chemical weapons of mass destruction.

I am here to plead that from now on we all must work together, to learn from past mistakes, and to make the Security Council a more efficient and effective tool for international peace and security. But candor compels me to reiterate this warning: the American people will never accept the claims of the United Nations to be the "sole source of legitimacy on the use of force" in the world.

But, some may respond, the U.S. Senate ratified the UN Charter fifty years ago. Yes, but in doing so we did not cede one syllable of American sovereignty to the United Nations. Under our system, when international treaties are ratified they simply become domestic US law. As such, they carry no greater or lesser weight than any other domestic U.S. law. Treaty obligations can be superseded by a simple act of Congress. This was the intentional design of our founding fathers, who cautioned against entering into "entangling alliances."

Thus, when the United States joins a treaty organization, it holds no legal authority over us. We abide by our treaty obligations because they are the domestic law of our land, and because our elected leaders have judged that the agreement serves our national interest. But no treaty or law can ever supersede the one document that all Americans hold sacred: The U.S. Constitution.

The American people do not want the United Nations to become an "entangling alliance." That is why Americans look with alarm at UN claims to a monopoly on international moral legitimacy. They see this as a threat to the God-given freedoms of the American people, a claim of political authority over America and its elected leaders without their consent.

The effort to establish a United Nations International Criminal Court is a case-in-point. Consider: the Rome Treaty purports to hold American citizens under its jurisdiction - even when the United States has neither signed nor ratified the treaty. In other words, it claims sovereign authority over American citizens without their consent. How can the nations of the world imagine for one instant that Americans will stand by and allow such a power-grab to take place?

The Court's supporters argue that Americans should be willing to sacrifice some of their sovereignty for the noble cause of international justice. International law did not defeat Hitler, nor did it win the Cold War. What stopped the Nazi march across Europe, and the Communist march across the world, was the principled projection of power by the world's great democracies. And that principled projection of force is the only thing that will ensure the peace and security of the world in the future.

More often than not, "international law" has been used as a make-believe justification for hindering the march of freedom. When Ronald Reagan sent American servicemen into harm's way to liberate Grenada from the hands of a communist dictatorship, the UN General Assembly responded by voting to condemn the action of the elected President of the United States as a violation of international law - and, I am obliged to add, they did so by a larger majority than when Soviet invasion of Afghanistan was condemned by the same General Assembly! Similarly, the U.S. effort to overthrow Nicaragua's Communist dictatorship (by supporting Nicaragua's freedom fighters and mining Nicaragua's harbors) was declared by the World Court as a violation of international law.

Most recently, we learn that the chief prosecutor of the Yugoslav War Crimes Tribunal has compiled a report on possible NATO war crimes during the Kosovo campaign. At first, the prosecutor declared that it is fully within the scope of her authority to indict NATO pilots and commanders. When news of her report leaked, she backpedaled.

She realized, I am sure, that any attempt to indict NATO commanders would be the death knell for the International Criminal Court. But the very fact that she explored this possibility at all brings to light all that is wrong with this brave new world of global justice, which proposes a system in which independent prosecutors and judges, answerable to no state or institution, have unfettered power to sit in judgment of foreign policy decisions of Western democracies.

No UN institution - not the Security Council, not the Yugoslav tribunal, not a future ICC - is competent to judge the foreign policy and national security decisions of the United States. American courts routinely refuse cases where they are asked to sit in judgment of our government's national security decisions, stating that they are not competent to judge such decisions. If we do not submit our national security decisions to the judgment of a Court of the United States, why would Americans submit them to the judgment of an International Criminal Court, a continent away, comprised of mostly foreign judges elected by an international body made up of the membership of the UN General Assembly?

Americans distrust concepts like the International Criminal Court, and claims by the UN to be the "sole source of legitimacy" for the use of force, because Americans have a profound distrust of accumulated power. Our founding fathers created a government founded on a system of checks and balances, and dispersal of power.

In his 1962 classic, Capitalism and Freedom, the Nobel-prize winning economist Milton Friedman rightly declared: "Government power must be dispersed. If government is to exercise power, better in the county than in the state, better in the state than in Washington. Because if I do not like what my local community does, I can move to another local community... [and] if I do not like what my state does, I can move to another. [But] if I do not like what Washington imposes, I have few alternatives in this world of jealous nations."

Forty years later, as the UN seeks to impose its utopian vision of "international law" on Americans, we can add this question: Where do we go when we don’t like the "laws" of the world?

Today, while our friends in Europe concede more and more power upwards to supra-national institutions like the European Union, Americans are heading in precisely the opposite direction.

America is in a process of reducing centralized power by taking more and more authority that had been amassed by the Federal government in Washington and referring it to the individual states where it rightly belongs.

This is why Americans reject the idea of a sovereign United Nations that presumes to be the source of legitimacy for the United States Government's policies, foreign or domestic. There is only one source of legitimacy of the American government's policies - and that is the consent of the American people.

If the United Nations is to survive into the 21st century, it must recognize its limitations. The demands of the United States have not changed much since Henry Cabot Lodge laid out his conditions for joining the League of Nations 80 years ago: Americans want to ensure that the United States of America remains the sole judge of its own internal affairs, that the United Nations is not allowed to restrict the individual rights of U.S. citizens, and that the United States retains sole authority over the deployment of United States forces around the world.

This is what Americans ask of the United Nations; it is what Americans expect of the United Nations. A United Nations that focuses on helping sovereign states work together is worth keeping; a United Nations that insists on trying to impose a utopian vision on America and the world will collapse under its own weight.

If the United Nations respects the sovereign rights of the American people, and serves them as an effective tool of diplomacy, it will earn and deserve their respect and support. But a United Nations that seeks to impose its presumed authority on the American people without their consent begs for confrontation and, I want to be candid, eventual U.S. withdrawal.

Thank you very much.

SPECIAL MEMBERSHIPS

"MOTHERS TO DAUGHTERS"

In her June 1924 magazine message, Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, President General 1923-26, made "an especial appeal to our members to have their daughters join our Society during the coming months". She further elaborated, "We want to tell them that of course we are proud of their mothers, who are the very bone and sinew of the greatest organization in America for patriotic endeavor and the conservation of high governmental ideals. By reason of birth alone, they have an inherent right to membership which we earnestly desire to have them exercise. We need the glow and warmth of their personality and the faith of their vision. We want their eagerness and enthusiasm as an incentive to point the way to policies that have been born of innermost convictions for our country's welfare. We want them because they are their mothers' daughters, but more than that, we want them because they themselves are the representatives of the world's tomorrow."

Not only do we STILL want your daughters, we want your granddaughters, your sisters, your nieces and your friends and their daughters, too!!! Mrs. Cook's statement, "In us is vested the privilege of carrying forward America's sacred traditions," rings even truer for our members of today. What an important heritage and privilege we the Daughters of the American Revolution must maintain; and to maintain this heritage we must make a vital effort to have every woman who has any claim to eligibility enroll in our national society. We have been entrusted with this duty. LET US NOT PROCRASTINATE!

We can start with mothers enrolling daughters AND grandmothers enrolling daughters and grand-daughters. If you are a member, your daughters, grand-daughters, sisters and nieces can most likely become members also, and it can be done easily by using your application and documentation papers! Please be generous! Don't hold on to old notions, "She wouldn't be interested in DAR", or "Let them do their own documentation; I did mine". Good for you, if you did, but now is the time in our organization to be generous. It's up to YOU to take the initiative!

MOTHERS TO DAUGHTERS: Give your daughters of eighteen years of age or older, the GIFT of completed application papers for Birthdays, Christmas, High School Graduation, College Graduation, etc. She will treasure the gift one day, even if it doesn't ring true to her lifestyle now. Remember, you might not be able to help her when she becomes interested. How many of us have said, "I wished I had asked...... so many people..... when I could have. DO NOT WAIT TO GIVE YOUR GIFT."

YOUNG MOTHERS: Some young mothers fill out applications, complete with documentation papers, for their infant daughters and then put them in a safe place, waiting for that 18th birthday! This is a real gift of love and legacy for your newborn daughter. ACT NOW. How many chances do you get to be 18 years ahead of the game?

GRANDMOTHERS: You, too, can give your daughters and grand-daughters and nieces the gift of completed application papers. What better gift for a grand-daughter's graduation from high school or college than the gift of HER HERITAGE from her grandmother?

REMEMBER: The short form is an easy way to get your daughters and grand-daughters enrolled, but it must be documented by a long form. All original applications should ALWAYS be on a long form whenever possible.

PINE BLUFF AND JOHN MCALMONT (Pine Bluff, AR) marked the grave sites of Marie G. Vaugine, wife of Revolutionary War soldier Francis Vaugine. Both are buried in the St. Mary’s Catholic Cemetery near Plum Bayou and also marked the grave site of Mary Bogey who is buried in the St. Peter's Catholic Cemetery at New Gascony. Both cemeteries are in Jefferson County, Arkansas.

Their two graves were blessed as was that of Joseph Bogey, Revolutionary patriot and their son, Charles Bogey, veteran of the War of 1812. His grave had been marked by the Simon Bradford Chapter, USD 1812.

The blessings were done on All Souls Day, November 7, 1999 at which time the St. Peter’s Catholic Cemetery was dedicated as being placed on the National Register of Historic Places. The cemetery includes about sixty-two graves, the first one in 1827.

About two hundred people attended the services which included members from the Pine Bluff, John McAlmont, Arkansas and Little Red River Chapters, DAR and members from both Arkansas Society Chapters, USD 1812, Simon Bradford and Baseline-Meridian.—Louise Nix Doak LETITIA COXE SHELBY (La Mesa, CA) celebrated its 50th Birthday with an Anniversary Tea on October 23, 1999. This chapter was named for the first wife of Brig. Gen. Evan Shelby, Revolutionary ancestor of the Organizing Regent, Mrs. Enoch Hamilton Simms (Martha Shelby Yeager). Their son, Isaac Shelby, became the first and fifth Governor of Kentucky.

Approximately 60 Daughters attended including Nancy Wade, California State Treasurer; Tina Schulteis, National Chairman-American History and District XIV Director; Donna Derrick, National Chairman-Constitution Week; Donalda Cameron, San Diego Chapter Regent; Deva Richards, La Jolla Chapter Regent; and Patricia Postma, San Miguel Chapter Regent.—Karen Jarrand

CLEARWATER (Florida) had a busy and productive year and honored two of their daughters at two regular chapter meetings. On May 7, 1999, Helen B. Johnson Raynor graced the head table at the regular luncheon meeting and was honored for having membership of 75 years in the Daughters of the American Revolution National Society, 47 of those years in the Clearwater Chapter. All Daughters, many of who have known her through the years, greeted Helen, a warm and delightful lady. They offered her their very best wishes on this most impressive anniversary. The National Society accepted Helen on June 12, 1923; she was a transfer to Clearwater from the Saguakoos Chapter, NYS. Regent, M. Anne Martin presented Helen with a corsage and a framed 75-year certificate. It was indeed a pleasure to honor this Daughter.

December was the 100th birthday celebration of member Margaret McNair Clarke (Mrs. William W.) who was in attendance at our regular meeting. This lady attends at least one meeting every year and comes with some of her friends from Regency Oaks, where she resides. She was given a corsage and a lovely basket of flowers for her home. Margaret shared many memories of her childhood with the Daughters. She was thrilled when a birthday cake and ice cream was served and a thunderous “Happy Birthday” was sung to this Grande Dame.

This chapter is proud of and salutes its 23 members, 90 years of age, or more.

TRAVELLERS REST (Brentwood, TN). Our chapter has had a very active and exciting year. In the late spring, we presented Community Service certificates and checks to two outstanding youths.

Our programs have most interesting and informative. We have two outstanding young ladies with excellent credentials for Dar Good Citizens, one of which was forwarded to our district for scholarship consideration.

At our December meeting, Mr. William James Vaughn, known as “Billy Jim” was presented the prestigious DAR Medal of Honor, whose requirements are leadership, trustworthiness, service and patriotism. Mr. Vaughn was born in Nashville, TN where he has made his home except for the time he served our country during World War II in the United States Navy. He has been and still is scoutmaster of Boy Scouts of America Troop 1 for 65 years, during which time more than 2,500 boys have passed, and 158 becoming Eagle Scouts. He is the recipient of the Long Rifle, God and Country and Silver Beaver awards (Silver Beaver being the highest award given to BSA leaders). He has taught Sunday School 9th graders at Brentwood Methodist Church for 54 years.

Mr. Vaughn has counseled with and influenced the lives of thousands of young people for many years. With BSA “God and Country” award program, he has displayed and instilled in young men, moral, spiritual, and patriotic values so highly esteemed by the NSDAR. He has helped develop mature, self-reliant, kind and patriotic citizens for their families, communities and country.

Pictured with Mr. Vaughn are Mrs. Carl H. Wood, Regent, and Mrs. William K. Ousley, Americanism and DAR Manual for Citizenship Chairman.
OLD REYNOLDSBURGH (Waverly, TN) dedicated a marker for Mabel L. Knight, Chapter Historian, November 22, 1999, Knight Cemetery.

Mabel was a loyal and dedicated member of the chapter for eleven years. She was responsible for several members having joined the chapter.

Knight taught at four elementary schools in the county for a period of 45 years.

Those participating at the ceremony were: Mrs. Lloyd Doyle, III, Chaplain; Mrs. Patricia Davis, Flag Chairman, led the flag service; Mrs. Bill Webb, Recording Secretary, led the American's Creed; welcome by Mrs. H. E. Cantrell, Regent; tribute was presented by Mrs. Joyce Bullington, Historian, college roommate, and teacher friend; two vocal numbers were given by Mrs. Patricia Davis and son, Nathan Davis; unveiling of the marker by Mrs. Knox Poyner; acceptance of the marker by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Knight and Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Joe Knight (brothers); and there was a benediction by Chaplain Doyle.

Family members hosted a lovely reception at the nearby Hills Creek Cumberland Presbyterian Church where Knight was a thoughtful, devoted, and concerned member for 54 years having served as church treasurer.

Additional membership was held in: National Educational Association; the Tennessee Education Association; Humphreys County Association; Humphreys County Retired Teachers; 911 Board, and the Historical Society.—Joyce Bullington

MISSION HILLS (Shawnee, KS) honored Mary McAuliffe Tucker Oct. 25th on her 100th Birthday at a tea in the home of Mary Frisch.

Mrs. Tucker was an organizing member of the chapter in February 1958. She has always been a gracious hostess in opening her home for meetings and teas. Mary was presented a "brick" with her name and Mission Hills Chapter printed on it. It is to be laid in the sidewalk at the newly renovated Union Station in Kansas City.

She also received greetings from NSDAR, KSDAR and a personal note from the President General, Mrs. Dale Kelly Love.

Our speaker, Bill Kalahurka, host of the channel 41 television show, Kansas City Crossroads, was most appreciative of Mary's quick wit and her reminiscence of past area history.

A most Happy Birthday to you, Mary Tucker, from all your DAR friends.—Tilly Masson

WINYAH (Georgetown, SC) was highlighted by the special attentions afforded several of our daughters. Mrs. Liz Forrester was recognized for her devotion to mental health causes, culminating in her receiving the Order of the Palmetto, South Carolina's highest citizen's award. Mrs. Virginia Skinner was elected to the Board of Limestone College and Mrs. Jessimine Griffin was appointed to the South Carolina State Ethics Committee. We are very proud of their accomplishments.

The chapter lost one of our most faithful and dedicated daughters, Mrs. Betty Cook. As a fitting memorial, a garden has been erected in her honor. Mrs. Cook was responsible for our annual Flag Retirement ceremony and the town will have a permanent place to honor her and provide for a dignified burial of our national symbol.

JOHN WADE KEYES (Athens, AL) honored chapter member Mrs. Irene J. Kennedy on her 99th birthday with a birthday party at Limestone Manor College. She is an active member of First Presbyterian Church in Athens and serves as an ordained deacon in the church. Mrs. Kennedy was instrumental in starting Fellowship Time held between Sunday School and Church, is active in her Sunday School class and church with a perfect attendance to both for several years.

She is an active member in John Wade Keyes Chapter and the Theo Osborne Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, having served as Grand Chaplain for the State of Alabama during the years of 1971 and 1972. Mrs. Kennedy is also an active member of Athens Garden Club and the Three Arts Club.

As Mrs. Kennedy was ready to be whisked onto the floor by her brother for a birthday dance she is asked by the newsmedia what she looks forward to in the coming year, "To be here when I turn 100."—Pat Lewis NEEDHAM BRYAN (Mobile, AL) was privileged to become a George Washington Bicentennial Community in 1999. A letter to the editor was published in the Mobile Register reminding the readers to keep Washington's memory alive and inviting them to a ceremony honoring Washington's life and commemorating his death. At the ceremony the flag was flown at half mast as a wreath was laid at its base in the gardens of the Richards DAR House Museum. Prayers were offered by Mr. Louis Scott, husband of our Regent and by Chapter Chaplain, Louise Smith, Washington's First Thanksgiving Proclamation was read by Program Chairman, Elizabeth Thigpen.

An excerpt from the December issue of "Daughters" was read by Mary McDonald. In the back gallery of the Museum was a display honoring Washington which included a proclamation from the Mayor of Mobile proclaiming the week to be George Washington Week in Mobile.

Preceding the garden ceremony, our chapter meeting was held in the Museum parlor where Mrs. Thigpen gave the program on the "Father of Our Country." All who attended the meeting and ceremony were given a hand-out that included anecdotal information about our first president. Our members are dedicated Daughters and are committed to preserving our heritage and our liberty. Being a part of the George Washington Bicentennial was very meaningful to us all.

AMELIA ISLAND (FL). The October meeting was one both of surprises as well as planned agenda. First on the program for Regent Jeri James was a letter of the honor of presenting the NSDAR Conservation Award to Mary Duffy of Amelia Island. Ms. Duffy, the Assistant Principal at Fernandina Beach High School, has for ten years been president of the Amelia Island Turtle Watch Association whose purpose is to collect data about sea turtles for environmental records, to rescue hatchlings from roads and golf courses, to protect turtle nests from unwary beach users, and to encourage hatchlings to enter the water and continue their life cycle. Mrs. James presented Ms. Duffy the award certificate, and in
It will be hard to top this one.

It was the unexpected treat of the day that was the appearance of Florida State Regent Jeanette Frey, Florida State Corresponding Secretary Betty Fleming, and Louise Hunter, Vice Chairman of Friends of the Library, who “dropped in” on their way home from a tour of the DAR schools. Mrs. Frey graciously favored members and guests with an animated and heart felt picture of the schoolchild she had so recently visited. Her perceptive account of the schools left many planning visits of their own.

Then it was the chapter’s turn to give. Founding Regent Jean Mann, currently Florida State 2nd Vice Regent, presented Mrs. Frey with a check in support of the State Regent’s Project; the restoration of Pearce Homestead and the cataloguing of its priceless contents.

Regent James next turned the program over to member Julia Nowlin who, standing behind a table displaying some favorite memorabilia, brought the “Antiques Roadshow” into reality with an infectious description of her life growing up in the South surrounded by two centuries of treasures and trinkets.

Luncheon was then served by the hostesses of the day who cooked an authentic native island recipe of baked chicken on saffron rice: appropriate for an area once doted with rice plantations.

A comment overheard at departure seemed to sum up the day: “It will be hard to top this one.”

CAPTAIN NATHANIEL MILLS (Hurst, TX) came up with several new projects this year. We made laminated book markers for keepsakes for our newly naturalized citizens with the date they were naturalized on it, and with our chapter and organization name on the back side. We bought baseball tickets for disabled Veterans at the Veterans Hospital in Dallas so they could attend a Rangers Baseball Game, where we also treated them to cookies, candy and brownies. We held a ‘Birthday Party for Jesus’ at Christmas and asked the public to bring items for our homeless veterans. We delivered a truck load of toiletries & clothing to those veterans.

Our American Heritage Chairman planned a program for members to bring ‘Heirlooms’ for show and tell. This was videoed and will be submitted for the programs contest.

We set up a genealogy booth and passed out hundreds of brochures at the annual Celtic Fair. We purchased $200.00 worth of books for the Genealogy Department of the Eulene Library where we hold our chapter meetings. For Veteran’s Day we had a special guest, Fran Clark, who gave a program on his WWII flying experiences including flying with Charles Lindbergh. We also participated in our normal DAR activities such as Constitution Week, Veterans Day Celebrations, and 4th of July Parade (where we won first place in non-commercial floats). We also held an awards ceremony where we awarded two Good Citizens medals and $100.00 scholarships, several DAR Patriotism Awards, a Community Service Award, and six 25-year certificates to members.—Kathy Heston Wells

JARED MANSFIELD (Mansfield, OH) dedicated a new bronze World War I monument on Veteran’s Day November 11, 1999. A previous marble monument had been donated by the chapter in 1922 and has now been moved indoors to the Soldier and Sailor Memorial Building one block west of the current statue in downtown Mansfield, Ohio. The original white marble statue had become weathered and damaged. It was given to honor all sons and daughters of Richland County, Ohio who provided service during the Great World War. The original cost was $600 and paid for by the Jared Mansfield Chapter.

Michael Kraus, Artist, sculpted the new bronze statue. He is a native Ohioan who lives in Pittsburgh, PA. He restored the original fine details lost to weathering and made the new “Doughboy” historically accurate by adding the insignia of the local Company M of the 8th Ohio National Guard, which included those service people from Richland County, Ohio. The total cost of the new monument was $26,000. Funding was provided by donations from local civic and patriotic groups, businesses, individuals, grants, foundations, and the selling of commemorative medallions by chapter members.

Before the new bronze statue was secured in place, a time capsule was placed inside its base. Included were copies of the newspaper articles regarding history of the statue, flyers used to promote the project, programs for the dedication ceremonies, new coins and a dollar bill. The signature on the money is that of Mary Ellen Withrow, US Treasurer and an Ohio DAR member.

How to Fund Your Endowment

"Only rich people can create endowments." Has this thought kept you from considering the creation of your own NSDAR endowment fund? If so, the next few paragraphs may change your mind. You'll discover that nearly anyone, with a little planning, can establish an endowment.

At the outset, it is important to know that NSDAR has three endowments that hold various endowment funds. NSDAR requires a minimum of $50,000 to create a named fund. Amounts less than that are placed within the corpus of the designated endowment fund. This may seem like a lot of money, but consider these options.

Do It Now

Some people prefer to establish their endowments now so that they can enjoy watching them grow and benefit NSDAR.

1. Use Cash. Finding enough cash to launch an endowment is rarely possible. But sometimes we receive an unexpected windfall through an inheritance or the larger-than-expected proceeds from the sale of a valuable asset. It may also be helpful to know that NSDAR may permit a donor to fund an endowment over a five-year period. Spreading cash gifts over several years may also have tax benefits for you.

2. Use Securities. Do you have publicly traded stock that is highly appreciated in value but low in dividend return? Why not use this to start your endowment? Since NSDAR can sell your stock without incurring a capital gains tax, it may be the perfect funding method for you.

3. Use Tangible Property. Almost anything of value — cars, boats, gems, etc. — can be given to NSDAR. We will sell the item(s) and place the proceeds in your endowment. Take a good look in your attic; you may find the makings of an endowment.

Do It Later

While it may not be feasible to start an endowment now, your estate will likely have enough resources at your death. Consider these possibilities:

1. Use the Remainder of a Trust. Donors sometimes establish a trust during life to provide themselves with ongoing income. When they are gone, whatever remains in the trust is disbursed according to instructions in the trust document. This, of course, can include the funding of an endowment with NSDAR. Trusts are very popular as gift and estate planning tools and may provide you with an excellent way to establish your endowment.

2. Use Insurance Proceeds. Do you have a life insurance policy you no longer need for protection? You could sign part or all of the policy over to NSDAR for the purpose of creating an endowment when you are gone.

3. Use a Bequest From Your Will. The most popular way to fund a future endowment is to earmark a portion of one's estate for this purpose. If you do decide to create an endowment through a bequest, be sure to talk with our development director to make sure your attorney uses the proper legal name and address of the national society.

Do It Now AND Later

You may want to start your endowment now, modestly, and then add to it later through your estate plan. This way you could see the fund in operation and enjoy knowing the good it does.

Standing: Mrs. Jeffery Yeley; Mrs. Billy Frank Price; Miss Kathleen Gammill; Mrs. William Gibbons; Ms. Patricia Marburger; Mrs. Fred E. Hughes; Mrs. Robert Langford; Mrs. Margaret Carter Harp; Mrs. John C. Swank; Mrs. Bennett Hudson, Jr.; Mrs. Joseph Arp, Jr.; Mrs. John E. Kipp; Mrs. Ralph J. Lemon, Jr.

Lady Washington Chapter, NSDAR, the first chapter in Houston and the fifth in Texas was formed November 14, 1899 by Mrs. Seabrook W. Sydnor with 17 charter members. At a meeting held at the historic Capitol Hotel (located on the one time capitol of the Republic of Texas and later replaced by the Rice Hotel), Mrs. Sydnor suggested the name “Lady Washington” as a companion to the George Washington Chapter, Galveston, the first chapter in Texas.

Martha Dandridge Custis, widow of Colonel Daniel Parke Custis, became the wife of Colonel George Washington, who was later named the Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Army and the first President of the United States. Her interest in the welfare of the soldiers during the Revolutionary War endeared her to all. Mrs. Washington’s stately manner and gracious demeanor won for her the appreciative title of “Lady” Washington, first used during the campaign at Cambridge, 1775.

Lady Washington Chapter, NSDAR celebrated her 100th anniversary November 14, 1999 with a Centennial Tea at the Junior League of Houston. Today, with over 600 members, Lady Washington Chapter is the largest chapter in the world. We are proud to claim four State Regents of the Texas Society: Mrs. Seabrook W. Sydnor; Mrs. Edward Barrow; Mrs. Georgia Bingle Edman; and, Mrs. F. Hastings Pannill.

We salute those who served as Chapter Regent during the past 100 years!

San Antonio de Bexar Chapter, NSDAR
San Antonio, Texas
proudly presents

Major General Spurgeon Hart Neel
Recipient, NSDAR Medal of Honor

Major General Spurgeon Hart Neel is the new recipient of the NSDAR's Highest award, the Medal of Honor. The honor was presented at the Washington's Birthday Luncheon of the San Antonio Area Regents Council. Gen. Neel has an almost incredible list of important achievements in the military medical field: He is known as the “Father of Army Aviation Medicine,” the system of helicopter rapid evacuation of wounded soldiers, which came into full flower during the conflict in Vietnam as the “DUSTOFF” program. Gen. Neel first promoted the use of the helicopter for this purpose in Korea. In retirement, he also developed the MAST program for San Antonio – MAST is an acronym for Military Assistance to Safety in Traffic. Gen. Neel reached the peak of his military medical career when he was named Commanding General of the U.S. Army Health Services Command with HQ here in San Antonio. This modest gentleman was also instrumental in the founding of the U.S. Army Medical Museum at Ft. Sam Houston. He was born in Memphis, Tennessee, more than 80 years ago, and became an MD in 1942 and Medical Corps officer in October of 1943. He seems to have been slowed down only once in his long career – and that briefly – when he was the recipient of an unwanted distinction, part of a shell fired at the Jeep he was in during the Battle of the Bulge. His three companions were killed, but Gen. (then CPT) Neel survived a head wound and has his Purple Heart to show for it. His medical accomplishments all point to a man dedicated to serving his fellow man and to the preservation of history of the military medical field. A listing of his honors would take a page of this magazine, so we will conclude this too-brief account of our DAR Medal of Honor winner, by showing a few of the initials and designations which can follow his “MD.” DSM (2), Senior Parachutist, Combat Medic Badge, Gliderist, Master Flight Surgeon Badge, Legion of Merit (5), Air Medal (4), Bronze Star and that Purple Heart. This is not even an index of the life of patriotism and service to his fellow man of Gen. Spurgeon Hart Neel. He lives with Alice, his wife of 60 years in San Antonio. The couple has two grown children.

Built in 1895 Roslyn Heights is now “the last of the Main Street mansions” and on the National Register of Historic Places. A Queen Anne style home with Romanesque Revival affinities, Roslyn Heights is one of two such houses in Missouri open to the public with museum quality collections.

Boonville, Missouri

Representatives from Prost Builders, Inc., the general contractor for the restoration project, hold the ribbon as the State Regent cuts, marking the near completion of the project and the beginning of Christmas Open House.
Saluting The Restoration of The Missouri State Society Daughters of the American Revolution State Headquarters

During the administration of State Regent, Anne Keller, new heights were reached as the Missouri Daughters and friends were advocates for the restoration of Roslyn Heights a project of approximately $265,000. The generosity to the project came from many and words cannot express the deep appreciation to see the project completed. Scaffolding went up the first of June and came down in time for Christmas Open House the first of December. A complete exterior facelift, the restoration included a new roof; deteriorated wooden trim replaced/repaired/repainted; an internal gutter system w/downspouts and flashings of copper; copper covering on the turret; cleaning/tuckpointing/repair of brick and stone; and repair/replacement of the front porch and the port cochere. Many repair/replacement items were not stock items and had to be fabricated especially for the project.
Oklahoma State Regent
Mary Jackson Duffe
and a little bit about Oklahoma!

State Tree - The Redbud grows in the valleys and ravines of Oklahoma. In early spring, its reddish-pink blossoms brighten the landscape throughout the state.

State Animal - The American Buffalo, or Bison, is a massive animal that weighs from 800 to 2,000 pounds and stands nearly six feet high at the shoulders. A large head, high hump on the shoulders and a dark brown shaggy hair characterize the buffalo.

State Seal - Centered by a five-pointed star, each ray contains the seals of the Five Civilized Tribes. In the center of the star are an Indian and Pioneer shaking hands under a figure holding balanced scales, representing Justice. The star is surrounded by 45 smaller stars representing the other states admitted to the U.S. before Oklahoma.

State Wildflower - The Indian Blanket is a red flower with yellow tips. It symbolizes Oklahoma's scenic beauty as well as the state's Indian heritage. Indian Blanket flowers bloom in June and July.

State Flag - An Osage warrior's buckskin shield, decorated with pendant eagle feathers is the basic design. In crossed positions over the shield are an Indian peace pipe and an olive branch, the white man's symbol of peace. This is one of the most beautiful state flags.

State Bird - The Scissor-Tailed Flycatcher is a somewhat quiet bird with beautiful plumage and a long sleek tail that is twice as long as its body. The deeply-forked tail resembles a pair of scissors.

State Floral Embly - Mistletoe grows on trees throughout the state and is particularly bountiful in Southern Regions of Oklahoma.

State Salute - "I salute the flag of the State of Oklahoma. Its symbols of peace unite all people."

State Rock - Found only in a streak of rock that runs north and south through the middle of Oklahoma, the Barite Rose Rock is a reddish-brown stone that resembles a rose in full bloom. An old Cherokee legend says the rocks represent the blood of the brave and the tears of the maidens who made the devastating "Trail of Tears" journey in the 1800's to Oklahoma.

State Motto - "Labor Omnia Vincit," meaning "Labor Conquers All Things."
Oklahoma
“Magic” Markers

Oklahoma is putting the “magic” back into our Markers! Chapters were given the mission of locating historical markers placed by the chapter in previous years, or other markers in their area.

Once found they were to ‘police’ the area around the markers, planting perennials or bulbs to beautify the area. The chapter was instructed to take pictures of the ‘before’ and ‘after’ and send these into the State Regent.

District Directors were given a complete listing of all historical markers within their districts, alphabetically by county, then by chapters within the county. Along with the pictures, the chapters were to make a survey of the markers, with exact directions to the marker, then indicating the condition of each marker and whether or not it was even still there. They were also asked to make a note of the wording on the markers. In some cases a ceremony to re-dedicate the marker is being planned.

State Regent, Mary Duffe, plans to make up a booklet with the before and after pictures and the surveys, offering it for sale at State Conference in March 2000.
Frances Reaves Young, a 31 year member of the Oklahoma City Chapter NSDAR, brought the Goodholm Mansion to the Oklahoma State fairgrounds and to the Oklahoma Society DAR. Frances worked for the State Fair of Oklahoma for 34 years when she retired as Assistant General Manager, in January 1990. After her retirement she remained on the Board and continued to work as a "consultant" to the Fair and to work each and every Fair as if she had never retired. She was as dedicated to the State Fair as she was to DAR and to her family.

The Goodholm Mansion is a lovely Victorian home built in 1900 by Andrew Goodholm, a Swedish immigrant and local civic leader. After years of neglect, the house was saved from demolition and donated by its last owners, James and Mickey Fentriss, to the State Fair. The house had to be literally cut into sections in order to be moved to the fairgrounds. Once on the grounds it was reassembled and refurbished. This took several years to complete, and during this time Frances spent many hours talking with two of the Goodholm daughters and a son who were still living. They discussed everything from the wallpaper in each room to the light fixtures, and whether or not the ‘children’ were allowed (and if so, when) into the different areas of the house. It was Frances Young’s dream that the house be ready for presentation to the public in time for the Oklahoma Centennial.

In 1989, ten years after she began, the lower level of this beautiful house was finally ready to be opened to the public and to celebrate the Oklahoma Centennial State Fair. It only seemed fitting that the ladies of the DAR be given the opportunity to host Fair-goers as they toured this beautiful home. The Oklahoma City Area Regent’s Council became involved and enthusiastically accepted the idea, and more than 150 DAR members from seven area chapters volunteered approximately 1,700 hours that year so that 27,000 people might enjoy a historically informative tour of this beautifully restored three-story mansion. Joann Skinner Winters, Malcolm Hunter Chapter, contacted local antique dealers who magically transformed the house into how it might have looked when it was the family residence. The following year the second floor was also open to the public.
Then in 1983, Madelyn Norick, Col. John Starke, Sr. Chapter, was instrumental in placing the house on the National Register of Historic Places.

State Conference delegates voted to designate the Goodholm Mansion as a Special State Project in 1991, and Oklahoma Daughters from chapters across the state began staffing the house each year during the State Fair. Oklahoma Daughters have now volunteered a total of over 19,000 hours meeting and talking to over 149,000 people about the Daughters of the American Revolution, our interest in historic preservation and community service, and telling the DAR story.

Frances Young designed a Goodholm House pin which was approved by the National Board of Management in 1993 to wear on the official ribbon. The pin recognizes the many hours of volunteer work provided by the Oklahoma Daughters, fulfilling our objective of historic preservation. Upon her death, March 16, 1999, the State Fair of Oklahoma placed a memorial plaque in the entry of this magnificent home.

Each year since the house was opened to the public, the State Fair has graciously donated $500 to the State Regent’s Project for the numerous volunteer hours worked by the Oklahoma Daughters.

This ad is dedicated to Frances Reaves Young for her many tireless hours spent decorating and guiding the renovations of the Goodholm Mansion and for bringing the house to the Oklahoma Society DAR; to the State Fair of Oklahoma for their generous donations to the State Regent’s Project; and especially to the many Oklahoma Daughter’s who have volunteered their time to tell the story of DAR each year.
Oklahoma Daughters purchase items donated to ‘Mary’s Market’ (a gift boutique) at our State Workshop in August and then at State Conference in March. Monies made from these sales will be sent to Hillside School and Hindman Settlement Schools to provide ‘milk money’ for the kids.

In addition, each chapter has been asked to find a good, clean paperboard or plastic milk container in their choice of size. This container is to be decorated to represent one of these five categories:

- Patriotic
- Educational
- Fantasy
- From the Movies
- For the Future

There will be no chapter size classifications, and place given to first, second, third and honorable mention winners. The contest is for imagination shown in decorating the milk container rather than the amount of money collected. Chapters are encouraged to send the container around at each of their chapter meetings to collect the ‘milk money’. Money collected will be brought to State Conference and be divided between Hindman Settlement School in Kentucky and the Hillside School in Massachusetts.

La Maison Duchamp was built in Classic Revival Style in 1876 by David Sandoz for his daughter Amelie Sandoz Duchamp and her husband. It remained a residence until 1938 when it was purchased by the Federal Government, renovated and opened as a second-class Post Office. It operated as such until 1975 when a new postal facility was built. In 1976, the Federal Government donated the building to the City of St. Martinville to be used for historic purposes and to be opened to the general public. The building has been furnished with late Victorian Antiques. On the walls are hung heraldry of local families painted in the 1940's by Father Gommer Maurice Veekmans. It is significant as the only private residence ever purchased for use as a United States Post Office.

In 1804, Marius Pons Bringier purchased 1000 arpents of land for his son, Michel Douradou, to develop an indigo plantation. The present house was begun in 1812 and completed in 1814. An admirer of General Andrew Jackson, Michel named his new residence L’Hermitage after Jackson’s home near Nashville, Tennessee. L’Hermitage is the earliest Greek Revival Plantation home remaining in Louisiana and is surrounded by 24 Doric columns. It contains elements of the Federal period. The property was confiscated in 1863 by the Union Army and leased to a Carpetbagger from New England for three years. The family returned on New Years Day 1866 to find “everything in ruin and desolation.” The property was purchased along with 25 acres by Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. Judice in 1959 and restoration was begun at that time. The interior is furnished in the period when the house and plantation were at its prime. Dining facilities and catering are available to group tours by appointment.
In 1818, Henry Schuyler Thibodaux, the founder of Thibodaux and of Lafourche Parish, donated a 140-foot square tract of land (the present courthouse site) to the parish, on which a three-room wooden courthouse was erected. In 1846, the 1818 courthouse was replaced by a two-story frame structure which was replaced by the present building in 1856. The 1856 building was significantly remodeled in 1903, 1951, and 1958. The Lafourche Parish courthouse is the tallest structure in the city and is the second oldest courthouse in Louisiana (one of four antebellum courthouses in the state) still used for parochial purposes. The courthouse echoes the ostentatious neo-Baroque style in nineteenth-century France. Visitors to the courthouse include U. S. Senator Henry Clay, Episcopalian Bishop Leonidas L. Polk (the “Fighting Bishop” of the Confederacy) and Confederate General Braxton Bragg.

Miriam Fatout Miller, a second generation DAR, joined the Caroline Scott Harrison Chapter, Indianapolis, Indiana, when she transferred from the Old Glory Society C.A.R. in 1944. During Miriam’s 55 years of service to our Chapter she was an inspired leader and innovator, a wise mentor and dependable friend.

Miriam is credited with many Chapter committee achievements. Perhaps the Chapter’s most endearing memory was her unrelenting effort to keep the Chapter viable through hard work and determination. This same passionate devotion was showered on the DAR Schools and in particularly on Tamassee where the children affectionately called her “Mother Miller,” a term that pleased her very much.

The loss of Miriam Miller is not only a personal loss for many, but also a great loss to our Chapter. She represented the best that the Caroline Scott Harrison Chapter had to offer. She will always be remembered with pride and affection.

Dear Daughters:

May celebrates Mother's Day and what better way to honor your mother than with a gift subscription to the DAR Magazine. And, mothers, why not surprise your daughters with a subscription to this wonderful periodical. Interesting feature articles, beautiful photography, genealogical information, the latest news about committees and chapter and state activities and much more are available to you for only $12 per year. How can you pass up such a value?

Congratulations to all of the chapters and states that received DAR Magazine Committee Awards at the 109th Continental Congress in April! Your hard work was certainly rewarded, and the Magazine Office greatly appreciates your enthusiastic support.

The "Traveling Trophy", instituted in 1993 for the chapter with the greatest percentage of Magazine subscriptions, was awarded to Ridge Trail Chapter, Tennessee, with 135%, Mrs. John William Green, Regent. The award for the highest total advertising revenue was presented to North Shore Chapter, Illinois, Dr. Clare Neumann, Regent.

States that received 100% participation in Magazine advertising are:

Alaska Illinois New Jersey Virginia
Arkansas Indiana New Mexico Vermont
Arizona Kentucky Nevada Washington
California Massachusetts New York Wyoming
Colorado Maine Maryland Oregon Mexico
District of Columbia Montana North Carolina South Dakota
Delaware North Carolina South Dakota Texas
Florida North Dakota Texas
Hawaii New Hampshire Utah

Congratulations to the Louisiana State Society, recipient of this month's "Ad Excellence Award"!

Sincerely,

Presley M. Waggoner

No matter how good your current hospital insurance plan may be, it undoubtedly leaves behind some of the expenses for you to pay out of your own pocket. And don't forget that many personal expenses, like travel, meals away from home, babysitters or housekeepers, can be associated with a stay in the hospital.

With the FREEDOM-MED HOSPITAL BENEFIT PLAN, you can have needed cash to help pay unexpected bills you may incur when a covered family member is hospitalized. The Plan provides you with benefits of $20, $40, $60 or even $120 for every day you are hospitalized, up to one full year.

Benefits are paid directly to you—use the money any way it's needed—regardless of any other insurance coverage you may have. And these plan benefits start the very first day of hospitalization, so you don't accumulate an unmanageable pile of bills before help begins.

Other important features include Double Benefits for Cancer or Intensive Care, Family Protection, and optional Surgical Benefits... PLUS benefits for Emergency Room Treatment and Skilled Nursing Care, at no additional cost. And best of all, you are GUARANTEED ACCEPTANCE into this Hospital Benefit Plan regardless of your age or health history.

Don't leave yourself vulnerable to financial problems when you need hospital care. Send for information about the valuable benefits and affordable group rates of the FREEDOM-MED HOSPITAL BENEFIT PLAN now available to NSDAR members.

☐ YES, please send me more information about FREEDOM-MED, the Hospital Benefit Plan arranged by National Society Daughters of the American Revolution.
