COVER STORY

In 1997, 25,000 female veterans gathered at Arlington National Cemetery for the dedication of the first monument to American military women. The $21.5 million memorial paid for with private donations stands as a testament to ALL the women who left the security of home and family to support their country in time of crisis.

Approximately 1.8 million women have been a part of America’s defense throughout its history. The memorial is a half-circle white marble building with a glass skylight ceiling at the entrance to Arlington National Cemetery. It includes an education center, theater, hall of honor and computer registry with individual stories of the military efforts of American women, beginning with the American Revolution.

Just before the dedication of the Women in Military Service for America Memorial, the National Society presented flags of the fifty states plus Service Flags and those of the United States Territories to retired Air Force General Wilma Vaught, the guiding force behind the successful completion of this much deserved Memorial. The Flags remain on display.
Dear Daughters,

Fall has brought crisp cool days to the Capital City and the pansies are blooming at National Headquarters. This is a season of activity and advancement for your National Society. It is dues paying time and Daughters who have left our ranks through resignation or were dropped from membership for nonpayment of dues should be encouraged to “come back home.” These members are needed to promote the objectives of our National Society into the next century. The Millennium Membership Initiative Award was established to meet this challenge. Every chapter should participate.

On September 6, 2000, the resignation of the Society Administrator left a void in the day to day operation of National Headquarters. Following successful interviews of candidates by a Special Search Committee, Mr. Gerald L. Miller of Gainesville, Virginia was selected and joined the staff on October 16. Mr. Miller holds B.A. and J.D. Degrees from Marquette University and retired from the United States Marine Corps as a Brigadier General. For six years he was with the Association of Trial Lawyers of America in Washington, D.C. Mr. Miller brings to the National Society staff knowledge and experience in association and nonprofit business, government and law. We are delighted to welcome him.

Following the October meeting of the National Board of Management, excitement prevailed at 1776 D Street as the production crew with “Wheel of Fortune” moved into Constitution Hall. Taping covered three days and the airdates for the shows are November 6-10, 2000—Washington, D.C. week; January 22-26, 2001—NFL Players week; and February 5-9—College week. Mark your TV calendar as a reminder to view these exciting “Wheel of Fortune” shows from your DAR Constitution Hall.

November is a time of Thanksgiving. As we celebrate Veterans Day on November 11, we remember it marked the beginning of peace in World War I. On this special day, we also give thought to the early pioneers for liberty, the Pilgrims, who met on November 11, 1620 aboard the Mayflower and signed a Compact for self government. The words of this Compact, written more than 380 years ago, was the spirit which burned brightly through the years of hardships endured by those who established the Colonies and wrote the Declaration of Independence. The Continental Congress recommended days of Thanksgiving during the American Revolution and George Washington issued the first National Thanksgiving Proclamation in 1789. On October 3, 1863, President Abraham Lincoln issued a Thanksgiving Proclamation after which Thanksgiving became a National Holiday.

As we share the joys of this season with family and friends, may we be mindful of the blessings of freedom and the sacrifices of many to preserve it. God bless each of you.

PRESIDENT GENERAL'S MESSAGE
The U.S. Military Women's Quilt Project

The Quilt Project, first conceived in 1989 upon Rosemary Jeck's retirement from the Navy, became a reality in the summer of 1998. Fabric Artist Audrey Nichols was commissioned to create the Quilt and Brigadier General Wilma L. Vaught, President of the Women in Military Service for America Memorial (WIMSA), approved the Quilt Project. Photographs, patches, stories, buttons, and an amazing variety of objects found their way to Audrey's doorstep to become part of "The U.S. Military Women's Quilt".

The sky blocks of the colorful landscape surround a "sampler quilt" with 20 appliqued and pieceworked blocks that tell the history of women in the military. Hundreds of objects, photos, memories and names fill the outer border. These come from all branches and time periods of the service, showing the personal side of military women's service. Audrey says, "It has been a humbling and awe-inspiring experience to learn about the amazing accomplishments and sacrifices our service women have made for our country. I'm grateful for this opportunity to get to know some of these women, and to create an artwork honoring their contributions."
As the nation pauses this month to remember the veterans who have served and sacrificed since the first battles of the Revolution 225 years ago, it is an appropriate time to reflect on the centuries-long history of contributions made by our military's servicewomen. For in addition to enduring the hardships of war, these are women who also often overcame cultural barriers in order to serve — and to ensure that we, as a people, might enjoy the most precious of individual liberties.

At the 109th Continental Congress in April 2000, President General Georigane Ferguson Love honored one of our nation's first female veterans by establishing the NSDAR Margaret Cochran Corbin Award, to be given to those women who provide extraordinary military service.
The award honors the memory of "Captain Molly" Corbin, who — as the 25-year-old wife of cannoneer John Corbin — accompanied her husband as he fought with the First Company of the Pennsylvania Artillery. On November 16, 1776, the artillery unit was attacked at Fort Washington on the island of Manhattan. Molly fought alongside her husband until he fell mortally wounded at her feet — and then stepped up to his place at the cannon. British grapeshot would tear through her shoulder, lacerate her jaw, mangle her chest, and nearly tear her left arm from her body before she would be removed from the battlefield. Incapacitated for life, "Captain Molly" became the first woman pensioner of the United States. Through the efforts of the New York State Society of the NSDAR, her remains were re-interred in the Military Academy Cemetery at West Point in 1926.

The four recipients who received the inaugural awards named in memory of Molly Corbin at Constitution Hall were:
- Major General Jeanne M. Holm, United States Air Force, Retired, who is the first woman in the history of the U.S. armed forces to achieve the rank of major general. Recognized as a driving force in achieving equality for military women, she is the author of Women in the Military: An Unfinished Revolution; she is also a 2000 inductee into the National Women's Hall of Fame.
- Brigadier General Wilma L. Vaught, United States Air Force, Retired, was the driving force behind the construction of the Women in Military Service for America Memorial (WIMSA) to honor the nearly 2 million women who have served in the military since the American Revolution. One of the most decorated military women in U.S. history, she is also a 2000 inductee into the National Women's Hall of Fame.
- Colonel Jeanne M. Picariello, United States Army, who has served as an outstanding officer in the U.S. Army for more than 25 years. She is currently Director of the Army's Soldier and Family Support Directorate in Alexandria, Virginia; as such, she oversees all Army-wide family support and soldier programs.
- Chief Master Sergeant Daisy Jackson, who serves as the Chief of Marketing and Media Relations, as well as Guest Artist Coordinator, for the United States Air Force Band. Sergeant Jackson is the most requested vocal soloist in the entire Air Force Band career field, performing throughout the United States and abroad.

While these modern-day women exemplify the very best and brightest of our nation's servicewomen, they carry forward a proud tradition that dates to "Captain Molly" and her Revolutionary-war counterparts. Patriotic women such as Anne Bailey, Lydia Darragh, Deborah Sampson, Sybil Ludington, Molly Pitcher (Mary Ludwig Hays), Mercy Warren and Faith Trumbell are among those brave women who made documented contributions to the colonists' cause during the Revolution.¹

In fact, it is estimated that hundreds of women joined the Continental Army with their husbands, working as nurses, washerwomen and cooks. Though he cautioned that no more women than were absolutely necessary should be allowed to follow the camps, General Washington himself tacitly admitted the women's usefulness to the American cause by permitting them to draw the same rations as soldiers.²

Women's service in the military continued in future conflicts. Historians believe, for example, that as many as 400 women served as soldiers (many albeit disguised as males) during the War Between the States. Among them was Dr. Mary Walker, a Civil War Surgeon, who became the first and only woman to earn the Medal of Honor. Thousands of other women served both sides of the conflict as nurses, and many more as spies, such as Confederate sisters Ginnie and Lottie Moon.³

It was not until World War I, however, that women would be admitted to the same military rank and status as their male counterparts — at least in two branches of the service. That is when 13,000 women enlisted in the Navy and Marine Corps. In all, an estimated 33,000 women would serve during World War I. Yet, it would take another world war and an Act of Congress before women would receive equal status within the United States Army.

On May 14, 1942, Congress approved a bill to "Establish a Women's Army Auxiliary Corps," and appointed Oveta Culp Hobby as its director. (The WAAC became the WAC in a second bill in July, 1943, when it was no longer considered an "auxiliary" unit.) Colonel Hobby would by 1945 become the first woman to receive the U.S. Army's 1945 Distinguished Service Medal.

She would also lead the way to increased opportunities for women in the military, along with her counterparts from other branches of the service; for example, Lt. Commander Mildred McAfee, first director of the WAVES, Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Services; Lt. Commander Dorothy C. Stratton, first commander of the SPARS, a name taken from the Coast Guard Motto of Semper Paratus, "Always Ready"; and Major Ruth Cheyney Streeter, who led the Marine Corps Women's Reserves. For the first time, hundreds of thousands of women — half a million in all — were serving in the various branches of the U.S. military.

Captain Barbara A. Wilson, who maintains a website devoted to the history of women in the military, relates that "Women continued to serve overseas through 1945 and at one point there were over 2,000 WACS serving in North Africa alone. From there women were sent to Italy to serve with the 5th Army and these women moved all over Italy during the Italian Campaign handling the communications; they earned commendations, bronze stars and the respect of their fellow officers as they sloughed through mud, lived in tents, (and) dived in foxholes and dugouts during the Anzio air raids. During the battle on Anzio, six Army Nurses were killed by the German bombing and strafing of the tented hospital area. Four Army Nurses among the survivors were awarded Silver Stars for extraordinary courage under fire. In all more than 200 Army Nurses lost their lives during World War II."[4]

The contributions which women in uniform made to the Allied Victory during World War II were recognized. The first woman to win a Purple Heart was Annie G. Fox, who served during the attack on Pearl Harbor. In all, 16 Purple Hearts (for injuries due to enemy action) and 565 Bronze Stars (for meritorious service) were awarded to women during World War II.[5]

Yet it lies within the individual stories of sacrifice and service that so much is learned about these women and their extraordinary contributions. There are certainly hundreds of Daughters whose exemplary service within the various branches of the United States military so richly deserve commendation.

One, for example, was Colonel Westray Battle Boyce, who had beneath her command 2,000 WACs in the North African and European theaters when she served on the staff of General Dwight D. Eisenhower. She would be awarded the European-African Ribbon with Battle Star, the Pacific Theater Ribbon, and the Legion of Merit Medal, the first woman ever to receive the latter. Appointed to succeed Col.
Hobby as Director of the WAC in 1945, she made an around-the-world flight to arrange for the orderly return to the United States of all WACs. She was the first woman ever to be awarded the Oak Leaf Cluster, given for her work with problems of psychoneurosis in the army and her service as WAC Director and Commander. Boyce, who died in 1972, was an organizing member of the Cornelius Harnett Chapter in Dunn, North Carolina, and her grave was recently marked through the efforts of the Micajah Pettaway Chapter in Rocky Mount.

Though World War II military service did not afford many women the chance for such distinguished advancement, it did offer the females of what has been called "The Greatest Generation" experiences which would have very nearly been unthinkable to their mothers. For the first time, women military professionals in large numbers were being deployed in foreign destinations to complete demanding work which was considered critical to the war effort.

Take, for example the story of another Daughter who served during World War II: Captain Margaret Chickering, current Historian of the Ashuelot Chapter in Keene, New Hampshire. Her experience is more representative of the thousands of American women who joined the Armed Forces. Enlisting in the WAAC in December 1942, she was sent to Fort Des Moines, Iowa (the first WAAC training center), for basic training and then Officer Candidate School. "My experience in Officer Candidate School," she told a newspaper reporter in her hometown recently, "was the hardest I ever had in my life. The necessary drills, classes, and physical exercise were not difficult but the constant harassment was. They wanted to see if you could take it."

Apparently, she could, for Chickering ultimately rose to command her detachment. Her military service would eventually include experiences as diverse as interacting with General George S. Patton and supervising a mess hall that was staffed by both enlisted men and German POWs.

Women such as Colonel Westray Battle Boyce, Captain Margaret Chickering, and thousands of devoted female American patriots paved the way for the women who were to follow. And follow they did. During the Korean Conflict, an estimated 120,000 American women served in the branches of the U.S. Military; another 7,000 served during Vietnam; and an estimated 40,000 women donned military uniforms to serve during Desert Storm — representing an estimated 7 percent of the military forces. Today, women comprise an estimated 15 percent of our nation's Armed Services.

The experience of generations of America's female veterans has recently been illustrated through the "Military Women's Quilt" project, which was created by Maine Fabric Artist Audrey Nichols, in an effort spearheaded by Rosemary Jeck, who retired from the U.S. Navy after 28 years of service. The quilt, which measures 5 feet high by 6.5 feet wide, is a collection of memorabilia, stories, uniforms, patches, and photographs of women in the military, dating to the American Revolution. It was donated to the Women in Military Service for America Memorial in ceremonies held on June 6, 2000.

Also displayed at WIMSA, in its Memorial Hall of Honor to recognize the women who died in service or who were recipients of our country's highest awards for service and bravery, is an American Flag and flags of all 50 states, the District of Columbia and the U.S. territories. The flags were donated by our National Society for the 1997 dedication of the 4.2-acre monument at Arlington National Cemetery, and serve as a focal point of the Hall (which contains a theater and computer database of photos, military histories and information regarding the 150,000 women who have registered to date).

The monument is a powerful testament to the enduring legacy of our female veterans, and a fitting reminder of the fact that women, too, have bravely defended this nation and its ideals. This Veteran's Day, there is a renewed appreciation for the contributions of women who for generations have stood ready to defend our life, liberty and pursuit of happiness.

How to Leverage Your Gift

Astute donors often seek ways to use their giving as a means to unlock more gifts from others. It's a way to leverage their gifts in order to make an even greater impact on the National Society. Here are three leveraging "secrets" you may want to consider as you plan your giving.

Create a Matching Fund

A typical strategy is to make an outright gift of a certain amount to go toward a specific project or campaign goal. The donor offers an additional amount to match funds toward the same goal, up to a given level.

For example, Mrs. X gives $50,000 to renovate one of our buildings and pledges an additional $50,000 as matching funds to be given if and when additional funds are raised. This appeals to other donors because it allows them to effectively "double" the value of their own gifts.

Establish an Endowment Fund

NSDAR endowments are protected funds set aside to provide a perpetual flow of income for specific purposes. Once created, they remain in perpetuity. Only the net earnings, or a portion thereof, are used to meet the purposes of the fund, whether operations, property maintenance, special projects, program enhancements and scholarships, or whatever.

By establishing such a fund, the donor creates a special place where donors with similar interests can deposit their gifts.

For example, Mr. and Mrs. Y have a special interest in preservation and they establish an endowment to provide resources for various museum, archive, or genealogical preservation. As word travels about this new fund, others who are also interested in preservation are inclined to Support the endowment.

Naming it after a person of wide influence or someone related to the donor can further enhance the appeal of the endowment. Uninvolved family members will now have a reason to contribute to NSDAR through this endowment. In short, a well-constructed endowment can significantly leverage one's initial gift.

Make a Tax-wise Gift

The easiest way to leverage your gift to NSDAR is to maximize the tax benefits. This will allow you to give more than you would be able to give otherwise. Consider, for example, Miss Z. Instead of selling shares of appreciated stock, paying capital gains tax on the appreciation, and making a gift of the remainder, she gives the shares directly to NSDAR.

Since NSDAR is a qualified 501 c 3 charitable organization, it can sell the shares and keep the full amount — no tax due. Miss Z receives credit for the full amount of the gift and can apply it as an income tax charitable deduction on her annual itemized tax return.

There are other ways to leverage your giving to NSDAR. Our director of development, Merry Ann T. Wright, will be happy to explore these with you. You can call her directly at 202-879-3343 or reach her by sending in the response form below. We appreciate your interest in NSDAR and invite you to find the most satisfying way to support our objectives of historic preservation, education, and promotion of patriotism.

I met Capt. Samuel R. Bird on a dusty road near An Khe, South Vietnam, one hot July day in 1966. I was an artillery forward observer with Bravo Company, 2nd/12th Cavalry, 1st Cavalry Division, and I looked it. I was filthy, sweaty, and jaded by war, and I thought, “Oh, brother, get a load of this”. Dressed in crisply starched fatigues, Captain Bird was what we called “squared away”—ramrod straight, eyes on the horizon. Hell, you could still see the shine on his boot tips beneath the road dust. After graduation from Officer Candidate School, I had sought adventure by volunteering for Vietnam. But by that hot and dangerous July, I was overdosed on “adventure,” keenly interested in survival and very fond of large rocks and deep holes. Bird was my fourth company commander, and my expectations were somewhat cynical when he called all his officers and sergeants together.

“I understand this company has been in Vietnam almost a year and has never had a party,” he said. Now we officers and sergeants had our little clubs to which we repaired. So we stole bewildered looks at one another, cleared our throats and wondered what this wiry newcomer was talking about.

“The men are going to have a party,” he announced, “and they’re not going to pay for it. Do I make myself clear?”

A party for the “grunts” was the first order of business! Sam Bird had indeed made himself clear. We all chipped in to get food and beer for about 160 men. The troops were surprised almost to the point of suspicion—who, after all, had ever done anything for them? But that little beer and bull session was exactly what those war-weary men needed. Its effect on morale was profound. I began to watch our new captain more closely.

Bird and I were the same age, 26, but eons apart in everything else. He was from the sunny heartland of Kansas, I from the suburbs of New York City. He prayed every day and was close to his God. My faith had evaporated somewhere this side of altar boy. I was a college dropout who had wandered into the Army with the words “discipline problem” close on my heels. He had graduated from The Citadel, South Carolina’s proud old military school.

If ever a man looked like a leader, it was Sam Bird. He was tall and lean, with penetrating blue eyes. But the tedium and terror of a combat zone take far sterner qualities than mere appearance.

During the monsoon season we had to occupy a landing zone. The torrential, wind-driven rains had been falling for weeks. Like everyone else I sat under my poncho in a stupor, wondering how much of the wetness was rainwater and how much was sweat. Nobody cared that the position was becoming flooded. We had all just crawled inside ourselves. Suddenly I saw Sam, Mr. Spit and Polish, with nothing on but his olive-drab undershorts and his boots. He was digging a drainage ditch down the center of the camp. He didn’t say anything, just dug away, mud spattering his chest, steam rising from his back and shoulders. Slowly and sheepishly we emerged from under our ponchos, and shovels in hand, we began helping “the old man” get the ditch dug. We got the camp tolerably dried out and with that one simple act transformed our morale.
Sam deeply loved the U.S. Army and traditions. Few of the men knew it, but he had been in charge of a special honors unit of the Old Guard, which serves at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery and participates in the Army's most solemn ceremonies. He was the kind of guy whose eyes would mist during the singing of the National Anthem.

Sam figured patriotism was just a natural part of being an American. But he knew that morale was a function not so much of inspiration as of good boots, dry socks, extra ammo and hot meals.

Sam's philosophy was to put his troops first. On that foundation he built respect brick by brick. His men ate first; he ate last. Instead of merely learning their names, he made it a point to know the men. A lot of the soldiers were high-school dropouts and would-be tough guys just a few years younger than himself. Some were scared, and a few were still in partial shock at being in a shooting war. Sam patiently worked on their pride and self-confidence. Yet there was never any doubt who was in charge.

I had been around enough to know what a delicate accomplishment that was. Half in wonder, an officer once told me, "Sam can dress a man down till his ears burn, and the next minute that same guy is eager to follow him into hell." But he never chewed out a man in front of his subordinates.

Sam wouldn't ask his men to do anything he wasn't willing to do himself. He dug his own foxholes. He never gave lectures on appearance, but even at God-forsaken outposts in the Central Highlands, he would set aside a few ounces of water from his canteen to shave. His uniform, even if it was jungle fatigues, would be as clean and neat as he could make it. Soon all of Bravo Company had a reputation for looking sharp.

One sultry and miserable day on a dirt road at the base camp, Sam gathered the men together and began talking about how tough the infantryman's job is, how proud he was of them, how they should always look out for each other. He took out a bunch of Combat Infantryman's Badges, signifying that a soldier has paid his dues under fire, and he presented one to each of the men. There wasn't a soldier there who would have traded that moment on the road for some parade-ground ceremony.

That was the way Sam Bird taught me leadership. He packed a lot of lessons into the six months we were together. Put the troops first. Know that morale often depends on small things. Respect every person's dignity. Always be ready to fight for your people. Lead by example. Reward performance. But Sam had another lesson to teach, one that would take long and painful years, a lesson in courage.

I left Bravo Company in December 1966 to return to the States for a month before joining a Special Forces unit. Being a big, tough paratrooper, I didn't tell Sam what his example had meant to me. But I made a point of visiting his parents and sister in Wichita, Kansas, just before Christmas to tell them how much he'd affected my life, and how his troops would walk off a cliff for him. His family was relieved when I told them that his tour of combat was almost over and he'd be moving to a safe job in the rear.

Two months later, in a thatched hut in the Mekong Delta, I got a letter from Sam's sister, saying that he had conned his commanding officer into letting him stay an extra month with his beloved Bravo Company. On his last day, January 27, 1967—his 27th birthday—the men had secretly planned a party, even arranging to have a cake flown in. They were going to "pay back the old man." But orders came down for Bravo to lead an airborne assault on a North Vietnamese regimental headquarters.

Sam's helicopter was about to touch down at the attack point when it was ripped by enemy fire. Slugs shattered his left ankle and right leg. Another struck the left side of his head, carrying off almost a quarter of his skull. His executive officer, Lt. Dean Parker, scooped Sam's brains back into the gaping wound. Reading the letter, I felt as if I'd been kicked in the stomach. I began querying every hospital in Vietnam to find out if Sam was still alive. But in June, before I could discover his fate, I was in a fire fight in an enemy-controlled zone. I had thrown four grenades. The fifth one exploded in my hand. I lost an arm and a leg.

Nearly a year later, in March 1968, I finally caught up with Sam. I was just getting the hang of walking with an artificial leg when I visited him at the VA Medical Center in Memphis, Tenn. Seeing him, I had to fight back the tears. The wiry, smiling soldier’s soldier was blind in the left eye and partially so in the right. Surgeons had removed metal shards and damaged tissue from deep within his brain, and he had been left with a marked depression on the left side of his head. The circles under his eyes told of sleepless hours and great pain.

The old clear voice of command was slower now, labored and with an odd, high pitch. I saw his brow knit as he looked through his one good eye, trying to remember. He recognized me, but believed I had served with him in Korea, his first tour of duty.

Slowly, Sam rebuilt his ability to converse. But while he could recall things from long ago, he couldn’t remember what he had eaten for breakfast. Headaches came on him like terrible firestorms. There was pain, too, in his legs. He had only partial use of one arm, with which he’d raise himself in front of the mirror to brush his teeth and shave.

He had the support of a wonderful family, and once he was home in Wichita, his sister brought his old high school sweetheart, Annette Blazier, to see him. A courtship began, and in 1972 they were married. They built a house like a flag-pole out front. He had developed the habit of addressing God as “Sir” and spoke to him often. He never asked to be healed. At every table grace, he thanked God for sending him Annette and for “making it possible for me to live at home in a free country.”

In 1976, Sam and Annette traveled to The Citadel for his 15th class reunion. World War II hero Gen. Mark Clark, the school’s president emeritus, asked about his wounds and said, “On behalf of your country, I want to thank you for all you did.”

With pride, Sam answered “Sir, it was the least I could do.”

Later Annette chided him gently for understating the case. After all, he had sacrificed his health and career in Vietnam. Sam gave her an incredulous look. “I had friends who didn’t come back,” he said. “I’m enjoying the freedoms they died for.” I visited Sam in Wichita and phoned him regularly. You would not have guessed that he lived with pain every day. Once, speaking of me to his sister, he said, “I should never complain about the pain in my leg, because B.T. doesn’t have a leg.” I’d seen a lot of men with lesser wounds reduced to anger and self-pity. Never a hint of that passed Sam’s lips, though I knew that, every waking moment, he was fighting to live.

On October 18, 1984, after 17 years, Sam’s body couldn’t take any more. When we received the news of his death, a number of us from Bravo Company flew to Wichita, where Sam was to be buried with his forebears.

The day before the burial, his old exec, Dean Parker, and I went to the funeral home to make sure everything was in order. As Dean straightened the brass on Sam’s uniform, I held my captain’s hand and looked into his face, a face no longer filled with pain. I thought about how unashamed Sam always was to express his love for his country, how sunny and unaffected he was in his devotion to his men. I ached that I had never told him what a fine soldier and man he was. But in my deep sadness I felt a glow of pride for having served with him, and for having learned the lessons of leadership that would serve me all my life. That is why I am telling you about Samuel R. Bird and these things that happened so long ago.

Chances are, you have seen Sam Bird. He was the tall officer in charge of the casket detail at the funeral of President John F. Kennedy. Historian William Manchester described him as “a lean, sinewy Kansan, the kind of American youth whom Congressmen dutifully praise each Fourth of July and whose existence many, grown jaded by years on the Hill, secretly doubt.”

There can be no doubt about Sam, about who he was, how he lived and how he led. We buried him that fall afternoon, as they say, “with honors.” But as I walked from that grave, I knew I was the honored one, for having known him.

Note: At the time that this article was written, Mr. B.T. Collins had recovered from severe war wounds to become the highly acclaimed director of the California Conservation Corps and later chief of staff to the governor of California. He later became California’s deputy state treasurer.

He is now deceased.

ASIDE FROM THE CHAIRMAN: This month we celebrate Veteran’s Day on November 11th. I felt it appropriate to print this story for this time. I would hope many of you would use it for your meetings.

We learned a lot about sending good food to troops during Viet Nam. I remember talking to an officer when they were deciding how long it would take a freight car full of a certain vegetable to arrive and be ripe when it got there. We have no conception of the kind of planning it takes to run a military.

When someone told me one time that we had 25,000 troops in Central America, I asked them how many ships were there? The answer was one. I informed them there could not be 25,000 troops from one ship. The supply of food, equipment, and necessary items such as toilet paper would be impossible to do from one ship.

As I shook hands with a young sailor at church a Sunday or so ago, I thanked him for the things he was doing for our country. He appreciated my remark and said he was on his way to another deployment and would I pray for them.

This is what we all should be doing.

NOTE FROM THE CHAIRMAN: Please note that the National Chairman has moved. Her new address is 7294 Lantana Terrace, Carlsbad, CA 92009-4711. Her new telephone number is (760) 603-8958 and fax is (760) 603-8934. Her e-mail remains the same at Ize1002@juno.com.

NSDAR TRI-CENTENARIANS

At the 109th Continental Congress a Tribute was made to the women of the society who were born in the 1800s, lived through the 1900s into the year 2000. Chapters were contacted throughout our society and invited to submit names of those in this Tri-Centenarian category. Certificates of recognition will be mailed to them. From the information sent to us by the chapters our oldest Tri-Centenarian is from North Carolina's Caswell-Nash Chapter, Mildred Goodwin Dent, who presently lives in New York. She was born in 1891 and is 108 years old. The state submitting the largest number of names is Ohio with 16 Tri-Centenarians. The Tri-Centenarians have spanned such a wonderful period in our nation’s history. To have experienced 100 years of advancements of society and participated in it has been a most opportune blessing for them. These women and their chapters have wonderful stories to tell of their lifetime. These women have shared their gifts, given of their time, and lived in a way to help insure America’s greatness. They exemplify the qualities of our great Daughters of the American Revolution Society—God, Home and Country. All one hundred year old Daughters, even if their chapters were unable to submit their names, are a unique and outstanding example for us. We are delighted to recognize the following daughters who received the Tri-Centenarian tribute.

Lucy Giger—BORN: July 22, 1898; NATIONAL #: 517070; CHAPTER: Conestoga; STATE: Iowa

Lucy Giger, born July 22, 1898 has dedicated her life to education, that of herself and her students. She has incorporated travel into her career and likely a trip to the Holy Land rates the highest. Another goal, that of reaching the year 2000 and attending the 100th Annual Giger Family Reunion has been top priority lately. She feels privileged to have seen it all, but strangely enough not cars, airplanes, communications, computers, man on the moon or space travel, but the advancement of medicine, she considers to be the outstanding achievement in her lifetime.

Violet Teagarden Gilbert—BORN: September 7, 1898; NATIONAL #: 172514; CHAPTER: Jane Douglas; STATE: Texas

We are honored to have Mrs. Gilbert as a member. She was born in Greenville, Texas, educated in Dallas, and wed Frank Gilbert, Jr. in 1919. She joined DAR in 1920 through her ancestor William Teagarden of Pennsylvania. She is descended from the 1620 Mayflower Pilgrims. It is our privilege to have this family of three generations—Violet, her daughter, and grandniece in our chapter. Congratulations Violet Teagarden Gilbert an 80 year member as of the year 2000 and a Tri-Centenarian, from the members of Jane Douglas Chapter NSDAR.

Corrine Alton Gillick—BORN: April 12, 1897; NATIONAL #: 602991; CHAPTER: Le Ray de Chaumont; STATE: New York

Le Ray de Chaumont Chapter is proud to present Corrine Alton Gillick as a Tri-Centenarian. Born in 1897 in Antwerp, NY to Charles O. Alton and Jennie Ahles; married Francis M. Gillick, D.D.S., in 1923. Mrs. Gillick graduated as a Nurse from the House of the Good Samaritan Hospital, Watertown, NY, in 1917 and became an Army RN in World War I stationed in New York City. She remembers being in the crowd at Times Square in 1918 when the Armistice was signed. She joined the DAR in 1975. Her patriot ancestor is Daniel Coolidge. Corrine continues to actively serve her community.

Mildred Smith Glenn—BORN: November 18, 1899; NATIONAL #: 576452; CHAPTER: Captain William Edmiston; STATE: Tennessee

Mrs. Glenn's daughter, Evelyn Glenn Hunter, tells the following about her mother: “When my mother's little brother, Sory, whom she loved very much, graduated from West Point after four years of tutors and struggle, she, a cousin, and aunt Janie Dibble drove up for the graduation. I was three years old and was loaned out to mother's dear old friend, Elizabeth Lyle Starr. On the way to the graduation they stopped in the Shenandoah Valley, around Strasburg, for mother to look up her Bowman kin. Mother relived all these events of this trip for years and years—undoubtedly this was the most memorable time of her life.”

Mary Wood Goble—BORN: January 25, 1898; NATIONAL #: 353548; CHAPTER: Walter Burdick; STATE: Illinois

In 1898 William McKinley was president, Casey, Illinois was busy installing their first telephone exchange, and Mary Linder Wood Goble was born. Mary has always been a civic minded member of the community. She belonged to a literary group, sewing club, Walter Burdick Chapter NSDAR, and a member of United Methodist Church. During WW II she saw all three sons in the service at one time. She donated her time to the local Red Cross where women met at the library to knit and crochet socks, scarves, helmet liners, sweaters, and roll bandages for the U.S. Troops. Mary states she always votes, and attributes her longevity to her independence, busy lifestyle and good health which she attributes to never smoking, or drinking coffee and soft drinks.

Helen Gray—BORN: January 0, 1898; NATIONAL #: 180523; CHAPTER: Caroline Scott Harrison; STATE: Indiana

Charlotte M. Guldí—BORN: May 8, 1899; NATIONAL #: 246447; CHAPTER: Fort Industry; STATE: Oregon
The State of New Hampshire
Laura McCrillis Kessler
State Chairman

New Hampshire Junior Members are active in their state society and local chapters, with two serving as State Chairmen, seven serving as Chapter Officers and six serving as Chapter Chairmen. Juniors also continue to support the state society by acting as Pages at Continental Congress, state conferences, workshops and at the Cathedral of the Pines Memorial Service.

1999 – 2000 Junior Sales Table purchases ($682.00) and Chapter Achievement contributions ($100.00), enabled us to send $782.60 to the Helen Pouch Memorial Fund. This is a 117% increase over what was sent in last year! Twenty of the state’s twenty-one chapters, purchased National Junior Sales products from the Junior Sales Table this past year. New Hampshire Daughters support the Juniors!

Six chapters participated in the Innisbrook Giftwrap fundraiser. Reprisal Chapter’s proceeds were the highest, with sales totaling $889.00 of Innisbrook products.

This State Chairman appreciates the support this committee receives from all Daughters within New Hampshire.

The State of New York
Sarah Bachman
State Chairman

New York State continues to proudly claim a large and highly active Junior Membership. The contributions of the many New York Junior Members serving the Continental Congress and State Conference as Pages are remarkable. New York Junior Members are also visibly serving the State as Officers, Chairmen, Vice Chairmen, Chapter Regents and Chairmen. New York’s contributions to the Helen Pouch Memorial Fund continue to increase through sales of Junior Membership merchandise and donations.

Paging in New York is fun. It draws members from across the State, learning more about the organization in an atmosphere of camaraderie. A special trip for Juniors is regularly arranged for State Conference. This year we will tour the Susan B. Anthony house (and see her DAR Membership certificate on display!). The State Outstanding Junior Contest is a popular annual event. For the second consecutive year, the NY OJ is also the Divisional winner. Through enthusiastic purchasing of Junior Membership Sales items, generous chapter and individual donations, and other special programs, large contributions to the Helen Pouch Memorial Fund are raised. Of course, this is all accomplished through tremendous, constant dedication and support from our blessed State, Chapters, and families.

The State of Massachusetts
Anne Urbaczewski & Elizabeth Heronemus
State Co-Chairman

The Massachusetts Juniors would like to take this opportunity to thank Carol Boulris, State Regent, for her complete support of this committee. The Massachusetts State Society presented this year’s Outstanding Junior member with her pin at our March State Conference. Diane Hutchins-Fridman, Amos Mills Chapter Regent, she held the flag for our State Regent at Continental Congress. Thank you to all the Massachusetts daughters who have always come by the “Junior Table” at state functions and “buy”. Massachusetts is proud to have two of its members serving as Vice Chairman on the National level for this committee. They are Jean E. Silva, Contest, and Elisabeth A. Urbaczewski, Magazine Junior Editor. Junior members continue to be active by being Chapter Chairmen and Officers and State Chairmen. Massachusetts had 100% reporting from the chapters. plus two chapters have Juniors serving as both Chapter Regent and Chapter Vice Regent. The Amos Mills Chapter in Wellsley with Diane Hutchins-Fridman, Regent, Megan Shea, Vice Regent, and the Joseph Coolidge Chapter in Watertown with Elisabeth Urbaczewski, Regent, Tara Oteri, Vice Regent.

Special guest speaker was President General Mrs. Love. A special presentation was made to Mr. Charles Chibitty, the last surviving Comanche Code Talker, who saw action in the European Theatre of World War II.

Tuesday, March 14th saw a full day of business and a Luncheon devoted to the Youth. Mr. Brian Pare, Assistant Headmaster at Hillside School gave an interesting talk on the activities and needs of the school. On the tables for the meal were creatively decorated milk cartons for the State Regent's project, Milk Money for the Schools. Nearly two thousand dollars were gathered in nine months of collecting coins at chapter meetings to benefit Hillside School and Hindman Settlement School.

Tuesday evening, March 14th was the Many Voices Banquet. Oklahoma Daughters heard a pep-talk on membership from National Membership Chairman Mrs. John M. Ivancevich, heard the reports of the Chapter Regents and were entertained by the Sooner Crooners, the state chorus.

Business concluded on Wednesday, March 15th with the election of Mrs. Clark W. Duffe to Honorary State Regent, the Conference endorsement for Mrs. Duffe's candidacy for Vice President General, and the election and installation of new officers. --- Saundra Pate Griffith

About Membership

Mrs. John M. Ivancevich NATIONAL CHAIRMAN, MEMBERSHIP
NATIONAL VICE CHAIRMAN, MEMBERSHIP PUBLICITY Mrs. Albert R. Trevarthen

HAPPY THANKSGIVING!!!

(Inspired by the 27th Continental Congress Address, April 1918, by President General Anne Rogers Minor: THE DEEPER MEANING OF OUR DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION ORGANIZATION. (Phrases in quotation marks are Ms. Minor’s.)

Do you, as a member of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, ever stop to consider the benefits that are yours as a result of your membership? Members have joined for a variety of reasons - some because they have the required ancestry; some because they need a social outlet; some because they feel that it will give them local recognition. Hopefully, most of us joined for the deeper meanings of the organization as implied by our motto, “God, Home, and Country”.

What do you tell prospective members about why you joined? What is your answer to “What do the dues cover”? You surely know the projects that your chapter and state dues support each year; each chapter and each state have different priorities such as preservation of records and monuments, patriotic events, naturalizations, etc. Every member is presently assessed twenty-five dollars per year in national dues, and many members, including prospects, are curious about what these annual dues support.

Some membership benefits derived from your annual national dues:

♥ “The spirit of the DAR is fraternal in its nature”: Your membership gives you the privilege of belonging and sharing the common heritage of descent from the men and women who achieved American Independence. The personal relationships and bonds of friendship formed between members on the local, district, state and national levels transcend the barriers of the usual confines of friendship that pertain to religion, politics, standards of living, etc. Members come from all walks of life and blend together in pursuit of common patriotic purposes. Our combined volunteer endeavors give national unity of spirit to the entire country.

♥ “Had the Daughters of the American Revolution done nothing but turn the thoughts of a careless public toward the preservation of public and private records they would have justified their existence.”: The Dar Library is a national treasure; researchers, far and wide, are aware that the DAR has created and nurtured one of the country’s premier genealogical research centers. Along with books and manuscripts, there are the compilation files of ancestors taken from the verified application papers of thousands of members, which present available facts that might not otherwise be obtainable.

♥ Your national dues are helping make possible the maintenance of our National Headquarters, including the DAR MUSEUM, the DAR LIBRARY, and MEMORIAL CONTINENTAL HALL ...”the most beautiful building in Washington”. “This building is in itself not only a splendid memorial to the men and women patriots of the Revolution: it is also an enduring monument to the patriotic efficiency and enterprise of the women of today in general and of the women of the Society in particular, who alone financed and built it without outside aid”. Think of it - a full city block in Washington, D.C. - “inspired, financed and maintained by women”. Have you visited our headquarters, our library, our museum, our Continental Memorial Hall? If not, make it one of your future goals.

Think about what your annual dues support nationally. Consult the annual 2000 Fact Sheet for some of the many accomplishments that we made collectively this past year and ...Yes, ♥

You can relate your membership benefits to any prospective member with pride !!!

Marilyn Earnest currently serves as Illinois State Chairman of DAR Service for Veterans. Since 1993, she has been Deputy Rep to the West Side VA in Chicago by appointment of Presidents General Blair, Kemper, and Love.

A 30-year member, Organizing Regent of the Swallow Cliff Chapter (1981), and past Illinois Division IV Director (1997 - 1999), Marilyn Earnest began volunteering in the Public Affairs office at the West Side VA in Chicago, Illinois in 1993. Since then, Marilyn’s incalculable hours of volunteering have involved her in developing special events for the veterans, encouraging community support and gift donations, and active participation in numerous veteran-related anniversaries, ceremonies, and commemorations.

Marilyn Earnest was nominated by the Anan Harmon Chapter of Division IV for the Outstanding DAR VAVS Volunteer Award. The Award (gold medal shown above) was presented to her during the National Defense evening at the April 2000 Continental Congress.

The gold medal Award depicts a DAR member pushing a veteran patient in a wheelchair. The title of the Award is engraved on the front of the medal, as shown. On the back, the recipient’s name (Marilyn Earnest) is inscribed along with the month and year (April 2000) when it was presented.

Illinois Division IV Honors:

Sisco Harley
Nominee for National Outstanding Veteran Patient Volunteer Award

Virginia Kilcran
National Vice-Chairman North Central Division DAR Service for Veterans Committee

Mr. Sisco Harley receives the National North Central Division Winner’s Certificate from Mrs. Virginia Kilcran at the Illinois State Conference, March 17, 2000.

Sisco Harley was nominated for the National Outstanding Veteran Patient Volunteer Award by the Swallow Cliff Chapter of Illinois Division IV
- Winner - Illinois State Level
- Winner - National North Central Division Level
- 1st Runner-Up for the National Award

Sisco has been volunteering at VA Chicago West Side since 1987, accumulating 11,505 hours of service. Legally blind, he reaches out to other veterans who have lost their sight. Mr. Harley serves as Deputy Rep for the Blinded Veterans Assoc. and plays a vital role in the Visual Impairment Services Team. He served in Europe in World War II (April 21, 1943 to July 28, 1946) in the U. S. Army, and received an honorable discharge for blindness. He has been awarded the WW II Victory Medal, the American Campaign Medal, the European-African-Middle Eastern Campaign Award, and the Theater Operator Award.

Virginia Lee Helderman Kilcran is the National Vice-Chairman North Central Division for the DAR Service for Veterans Committee, plus National Deputy Rep VISN, #12, 13, & 14.

Virginia joined the Illinois DAR in 1992. At that time, she was asked to be chapter chairman of the DAR Service for Veterans Committee. Soon, she became so involved in veterans work that by 1995 she had received numerous awards both within the DAR and from several veterans organizations. In addition to her National Vice-Chairmanship, Virginia has served since 1993 as the NSDAR Rep to the West Side VA, by appointment of Presidents General Blair, Kemper, and Love.

On June 3, 2000, ground was broken in Tuscola, Illinois for a Korean Veterans National Museum and Library. Tuscola was chosen for its central location, particularly for its proximity to Chicago, St. Louis and Indianapolis. Hundreds of thousands of tourists visit Tuscola's neighboring Illinois Amish communities annually. By collecting and caring for artifacts, memorabilia, documents, etc., the Korean War Veterans National Museum and Library not only will educate future generations about the Korean War and its aftermath, but it also will show the sacrifices millions of people made for freedom. Proposed galleries for the museum include: a Korea 1950–1953 Gallery, a Korea Today Gallery, a Veterans' Gallery, a Gold Star Gallery, a Machines of War Gallery and a Discover Korea Room for children. Most funds will be derived from individual and corporate sponsorship. The Museum is not financially supported by federal legislation.

CAMP LINCOLN
ILLINOIS NATIONAL GUARD

The 1903 stone commissary building, referred to as the "Castle", was originally used for storing military equipment for the Illinois National Guard. It was placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1984 and it is the oldest structure currently owned by the Illinois National Guard. It is currently under renovation and will be used as the permanent home of the Illinois State Military Museum.

SPRINGFIELD SERVICE TO THE STATE AND THE NATION

Springfield has long been the home of typical militia and National Guard units. Captain Thomas Neale organized a company of militia in 1827 for the Winnebago War. One company served in the Black Hawk War in 1832 and was commanded by Captain Abraham Lincoln. In 1846 Company G 4th ILL served with General Zachary Taylor's Army in Monterey, Mexico and General Winfield Scott in the Battle of Vera Cruz. In the 1860s (Civil War), several companies served from the Springfield area participating in the Forts Henry and Donelson Campaign and the Battles of Shiloh, Corinth, Vicksburg, Missionary Ridge, Chatanooga, and Mobile. In 1874, the Governor's Guards was formed and in 1897 this unit infantry and two new cavalry units were activated to serve in the Spanish-American War. The same units were activated for the Mexican Border Crisis and then to World War I. After the Armistice, two cavalry units and one infantry unit were stationed in Springfield. These were called upon for flood and strike duties during the 1920-1930s. These three units were again activated and served in Europe and in the Philippines in World War II, and in the Korean War. After the Korean War, there have been a number of new units stationed at Camp Lincoln. One unit served during the Berlin Crisis in 1961 and one unit served in Saudi Arabia during the Persian Gulf War. These units have also been used in flood and civil emergencies during the 1960s to date. The units participate in many community service projects as well as furnish color and honor guards for parades and funerals. They have also furnished supplies, tents, vehicles and other equipment for local celebrations and organizations. Camp Lincoln is located at 1301 North McArther Boulevard in Springfield.

A VETERAN OF WW II IS A HERO TO A YOUNG GENERAL HENRY DEARBORN CHAPTER MEMBER

Alisha Balogi always knew her uncle was a hero for he had received a Purple Heart and Presidential citation. Gilbert Wojciechowski was in the Army at 19, patrolling the beaches of Florida being shelled by German submarines. He trained for aircraft service and took a dangerous mission to fly a B-26 to Ireland. He flew missions to Europe and was hit by shrapnel and was awarded a Purple Heart.

In the Battle of the Bulge his unit of 30 Allied planes was attacked by 60 German aircraft, but the Allies drove them back. For this brave deed his group was awarded a Presidential Citation. Alisha and her Aunt, Doris Balogi, Regent of General Henry Dearborn Chapter, can indeed be proud!

The Marion VA Medical Center, built in 1942, operates 39 hospital beds and a separate 60-bed Skilled Nursing and Rehabilitation Facility (SNRF). This hospital is unique in the VA system because of its Egyptian architecture, chosen to reflect the history of Southern Illinois, known as "Little Egypt." Marion VA provides primary and specialty medical, surgical, extended care, and psychiatric care to more than 134,000 veterans living in 25 counties in Southern Illinois, 8 counties in Southwestern Indiana, and 17 counties in Northwestern Kentucky. Affiliated with Southern Illinois University and St. Louis University School of Medicine, the facility offers residency training in family practice, internal medicine, and "Prime" program training for Rural Nurse Practitioner (RNP) and Physician Assistants. Three Community Based Outpatient Clinics (CBOCs) are active: one in Mt. Vernon and Effingham, Illinois; and in Paducah, Kentucky. The Outpatient Clinical Addition houses specialty clinics, pharmacy, laboratory, nuclear medicine, radiology, and administrative services.

TAPS

The passing of every veteran reminds us of:

- the challenges they faced in their youth;
- the obstacles they overcame;
- the contributions they made to the strength and prosperity of the United States of America.

TAPS

Each year more than 500,000 veterans are buried in local and military cemeteries. Often an honor guard will fold the flag and “Taps” will be played. Even though the notes fade away, we must keep fresh our memories of those brave men and what they did.

TAPS

The Chapters of Division I honor and remember all veterans.

Journey
I'm going on a journey
Don't need to pack a thing,
Don't coordinate the colors,
Or tie up anything.

Don't have to buy a ticket,
Or pick a certain date.
I know that I'll be ready,
On time — and not be late.

I hear the whistle blowing,
Or I may not hear a thing.
It's a truly mystic journey
When my soul takes wing.

It's a solitary journey,
Can't take a friend along.
The time has passed to swiftly,
This life is just a song.

The “Old Capitol” Building is designated a National Historic Landmark. It has been completely restored to the era when it served as Iowa’s first permanent capital and is an excellent example of Greek Revival architecture. The cornerstone was laid July 4, 1840.

Sitting atop a bluff overlooking the Iowa River, the Old Capitol served as the last capital of the Iowa Territory from 1842 to 1846 and as the first capital of the State of Iowa from 1846 to 1857. During Iowa’s early territorial history, the legislature met in the city of Burlington, located on the Mississippi River, from 1838 to 1840. Legislators felt the need for a more western location for the seat of government, so the capital city was moved to Iowa City. Furrows were plowed across the prairie to help the legislators from Dubuque navigate to the new capital.

An Act of Congress signed by President James Polk on December 28, 1846, made Iowa the 29th state. By the 1850s, Iowa’s population was moving westward, so a more centrally located seat of government was needed. On a cold, blustery day in 1858, oxen-drawn wagons and bobsleds set out across the prairie carrying documents and furnishings from the Iowa City to the new capital in Des Moines.
Iowa State Capitol Building is an excellent example of 19th-century architecture. A dominant feature is the massive 80-foot-in-diameter central dome, which is covered in 23-carat gold leaf.

Iowa's Fifth General Assembly decided that the permanent site for the more centrally located state capital should be within two miles of the junction of the Des Moines and Raccoon Rivers. The capital was moved to its present location in 1857 by proclamation of Governor James Grimes. Construction began in 1871 and was completed in 1886 at the cost of $2,873,294.59. The building's exterior is stone with many ornate columns and cornices. The substructure is dark Iowa stone, topped with granite cut from boulders created by glaciers on Iowa's prairie. The Rotunda holds a display of Civil War Regimental flags, as well as flags from the Spanish-American War and World War I. A mural, "Westward," located over the staircase, represents the arrival of settlers to Iowa.

There are many statues throughout the buildings and on the grounds of the 165-acre complex. These include the Soldiers and Sailors Monument, the Christopher Columbus Memorial, a replica of the Liberty Bell, a Statue of Liberty miniature, a statue of Abraham Lincoln with his son Tad, plus numerous cannons and mortars. The Capitol is a popular historic site for Iowa citizens and visitors.
Sergeant Floyd Monument

Sioux City, Iowa

The Sergeant Floyd Monument has the distinction of being the first National Historic Landmark in the United States of America. A 100-foot stone obelisk, the monument is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. It marks the grave of Sergeant Charles Floyd, a member of the Lewis and Clark Expedition of 1804 to 1806. President Thomas Jefferson commissioned the expedition following the Louisiana Purchase of 1803. Sergeant Floyd died of an illness on August 21, 1804, while the group was traveling the Missouri River along Iowa’s western border. He was the only member of Lewis and Clark’s party to lose his life during the expedition.

Julien Dubuque Monument

Dubuque, Iowa

The monument was erected in 1897 to honor Julien Dubuque, Iowa’s first permanent white settler. Dubuque was a French Canadian fur trader who came to the area in the 1780s to trade with the Meskwaki. After learning of the numerous lead mines on the tribe’s property, he peacefully negotiated for permission to work the mines in 1788. Meskwakis were hired to work the mines. The lead was sold to suppliers in St. Louis. He called the area the “Mines of Spain.” Dubuque died in 1810 following a short illness. The Native Americans honored him with the burial of a “Chief.” The grave site is located on the Mississippi south of the city of Dubuque, which was named in his honor.

Birthplace of Flag Day

BERNARD J. CIGRAND
"The Father of National Flag Day"

Bernard J. Cigrand, the nationally recognized father of Flag Day, was born in the village of Waubeka, township of Fredonia, Ozaukee County in the State of Wisconsin, on October 1, 1866.

Young Cigrand displayed an early interest in American history, a devout patriotism for the land of America and a great love for the flag of the nation.

It was after he became a schoolteacher at the age of nineteen and conducted classes at the little country school at nearby Stony Hill that Cigrand conceived the idea of observing June 14 with fitting ceremony as the "birthday of the Flag," bearing in mind that Congress had officially adopted the Stars and Stripes as the Flag of the United States on June 14, 1777.

In the role of a $40 per month schoolteacher, he held the first observance of Flag Day in 1885, where observers recall the small American Flag that stood in a bottle on his schoolroom desk.

On that day, the graduating students turned in themes he had assigned them on the subject of the American Flag. That was the beginning of long years of fervent and devoted effort to bring about national recognition and observance of Flag Day.

Never once through these years did Cigrand falter in his crusade to have June 14 recognized as a national holiday when Americans might pay homage to the national emblem. He made his first public proposal of the idea in June 1886 and campaigned tirelessly thereafter in newspaper and magazine articles, in books and on the lecture platform.

The crowning achievement of his life came at the age of fifty when President Wilson, on June 14, 1916, issued a proclamation calling for a nationwide observance of Flag Day.

Help Preserve the History of South Texas!
Become a pre-print subscriber to the reprint of Sixty Years in the Nueces Valley by Mrs. S. G. Miller
Includes “An Autobiography of a Revolutionary Soldier” by James Potter Collins

This 374-page book documents the period from 1870–1930 in and around the Nueces River Valley in south Texas. Lloyce Ann West (born and raised in Sandia, TX) is raising money to have this book, long out of print, reprinted by Gateway Press in Baltimore, MD. To do this, she needs everyone interested to send her $25.00 per copy along with his or her name and address to receive personal copies of the reprinted Sixty Years in the Nueces Valley. Publication is anticipated by July 2001. All money will be returned if there are not enough subscribers. Lloyce Ann West can be contacted at her home at 1301 Delaware Ave. SW N314, Washington D.C. 20024-3929. Phone and FAX # is (202) 479-0673. E-mail is LloyceWest@aol.com. Please send a check for $25.00 per copy. Please detach, fill in, and send order blank below.

Yes, I’m proud of south Texas, and I want to purchase ____ copies of the reprinted edition of Sixty Years in the Nueces Valley by Mrs. S. G. Miller. Here is my check ($25.00 per copy including postage). Please send my copies to:

This awe-inspiring site has been beautifully captured in a limited-edition ceramic collectible. Hand poured, kiln fired, each collectible is individually hand painted to provide a wealth of detail of Memorial Continental Hall. A true piece of history that will be passed down for generations to come.

A portion of every purchase goes directly to the President General’s Project.

In this bicentennial year, when we celebrate the relocation of the Federal Government to the district of Columbia, we are certainly mindful of the remarkable influence that Dolley Madison had on the success of our city.

Our nineteenth-century portrait by an unknown artist was donated in 1940 by Mrs. Joseph C. Thoma, Regent, Independence Bell Chapter. After the restoration and re-framing in 1975 it remains a prized possession, which we enjoy sharing with you.

No matter how good your current hospital insurance plan may be, it undoubtedly leaves behind some of the expenses for you to pay out of your own pocket. And don't forget that many personal expenses, like travel, meals away from home, babysitters or housekeepers, can be associated with a stay in the hospital.

With the FREEDOM-MED HOSPITAL BENEFIT PLAN, you can have needed cash to help pay unexpected bills you may incur when a covered family member is hospitalized. The Plan provides you with benefits of $20, $40, $60 or even $120 for every day you are hospitalized, up to one full year.

Benefits are paid directly to you—use the money any way it's needed—regardless of any other insurance coverage you may have. And these plan benefits start the very first day of hospitalization, so you don't accumulate an unmanageable pile of bills before help begins.

Other important features include Double Benefits for Cancer or Intensive Care, Family Protection, and optional Surgical Benefits... PLUS benefits for Emergency Room Treatment and Skilled Nursing Care, at no additional cost. And best of all, you are GUARANTEED ACCEPTANCE into this Hospital Benefit Plan regardless of your age or health history.

Don't leave yourself vulnerable to financial problems when you need hospital care. Send for information about the valuable benefits and affordable group rates of the FREEDOM-MED HOSPITAL BENEFIT PLAN now available to NSDAR members.

☐ YES, please send me more information about FREEDOM-MED, the Hospital Benefit Plan arranged by National Society Daughters of the American Revolution.
